The president's UN speech, Moscow contended, "is directed to this objective. The note said acceptance of the president's plan "would serve to lessen the vigilance of the peoples regarding the problems of atomic weapons and would facilitate the lessening of the real threat of atomic war."

The Russian note also repeatedly noted that Eisenhower's proposal would not "only some small portion" of uranium and fission-able materials for atomic weapons, while the atomic race would continue without pledges against atomic attack.

THE WEATHER

Former Cabinet Minister's Wife Wins By-Election

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)— Mrs. Jean Forbes Robinson, widow of Alberta's former labor minister, succeeded her husband Monday as Social Credit member of the legislature for Medicine Hat less than two months after his death.

Mrs. Robinson, a 53-year-old grandmother, scored a sweeping victory over her lone opponent, CCF candidate Edwin W. Horne, in the by-election to fill the vacancy created by the death Oct. 29 of Dr. Robinson, who had been Medicine Hat's legislative member since 1935.

She piled up a 4-to-1 majority in a light vote which followed an exceptionally quiet and brief campaign. Final totals gave Mrs. Robinson 2,463 votes to Mr. Horne's 644 as only about 25 per cent of the 11,964 eligible electors cast ballots.

Standings in the all-seat legislature now is Social Credit 52; Liberals 4; CCF 2; Progressive Conservatives 2; Independent Social Credit 1.

Mrs. Robinson became the third woman member of the House, joining veteran Social Credit legislators Mrs. Rose Wilkinson of Calgary and Mrs. C. L. R. Wood of Stony Plain. She also is the first woman ever elected for Medicine Hat constituency.

WAS TELEGRAPHER

For 18 years prior to her marriage, she was a commercial telegrapher for the Canadian Pacific Railway, which employs her opposite as a locomotive engineer.

It was the second time the 56-year-old Mrs. Ruth Birne, a former labor alderman in this southeastern industrial constituency, had been defeated in a bid to succeed her late husband in the Robinson family. In 1944, running as a Labor-Progressive party candidate, he was a poor fourth to Dr. Robinson.

In the past, Liberals formed Social Credit's stiffest opposition in Medicine Hat, but this time the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives did not contest the seat out of respect for the memory of Dr. Robinson.

They will be joined the day before Christmas by Cecile and Annette who are studying at Nicolet.

Naughty BBC Leaves Impression

Bridge on Moon Built by Moon-Men

LONDON (Reuters) — Millions of Britons went to bed Monday night thinking there is a 20-mile bridge on the moon that appears to have been built by moon-men.

They learned from their radio in no less an authority than Dr. Percy Wilkins, fellow of the Royal Astronomical Association. Wilkins himself was amazed at what he described in on his recorded broadcast over the BBC.

Today he said: "The BBC has been very naughty—I did not authorize it suggesting that the bridge was artificial.

"Unfortunately they left out the bit where I said the bridge was an absolutely natural thing."

His broadcast confirmed last July's discovery of the moon bridge by the late John O'Neill science editor of the New York Herald-Tribune.

Wilkins said that when O'Neill sent him an airmail letter asking him to confirm existence of the bridge, which looms 5,000 feet above the moon plain, he suspected it was "just another American space story."

"But at the first favorable opportunity I looked for it, and there, sure enough, it was."

Wilkins said the bridge, "a gigantic arch, is absolutely unique and the most extraordinary feature known on the moon today." He said that possibly a meteorite created the huge span by crashing into a molten lava barrier.

SPECIAL ENVOY URGES PATIENCE IN KOREAN ISSUE

Arthur Dean Gives Report to People

By WARREN ROGERS, Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arthur H. Dean, who tried without success to arrange a Korean peace conference with the Reds, has urged the American people to match Communist stalling with patience and hope.

"I do believe the Chinese Communists are determined to keep the special ambassador and economically integrated into their own economy," he told a television and radio audience Monday night.

"The outlook is discouraging but by no means hopeless. There is no easy, pat solution. It will take all the patience and firmness and patience at our command."

Dean's television appearance came in a report to the people on the Panmunjom talks from which he walked out 11 days ago after the Reds accused the United States of bad faith.

He said the Communist negotiators aimed for a long-drawn-out session in the hope Americans would lose patience and, through victory overseas, put pressure on Red terms.

"The fault of the coconuts" holding up the talks, he said, is Communist insistence on repatriating countries, including India and Russia, as neutrals at the proposed Korean peace conference.

NO MORE SHOOTING

He said the Reds sought to drive a wedge between the United States and India by creating an impression that the U.S. "does not like India."

Dean said he is sure that, even if a peace conference is arranged, there will be no shooting again in Korea.

The Reds did not want it because "they tried a terrific beating," and both the United Nations Allies and South Korea, which had threatened to go it alone, were determined to abide by the armistice agreement.

Dean's public report came after he met at the White House with President Eisenhower and after he talked with the ambassadors of the 16 other countries which fought in Korea, including Canada's A.D.P. Heeney.

"We stopped the tide and timetable of Red aggression," was the way he summarized up the results of the UN stand.

False Tips Slowing Search For Two Remaining Fugitives

DETROIT (AP) — A series of false tips slowed cautious police efforts today to track down the two remaining fugitives from Saturday's 13-man southern Michigan prison break.

One of the escapers still at large is Roman Unionick, convicted murderer and criminal psychopath. The other, Robert Dowling, is a convicted burglar.

A telephoned anonymous tip Monday night that Unionick was in a dingy southwest section hotel sent police through a careful but fruitless search.

Another tip Monday night identified the police network in the southwest area where three of the convicts were trapped in a small frame house and captured without a fight Monday.

Late Tip, unlike the earlier one to a Detroit newspaper man that led to the capture of Ono, this was evidently groundless.

The earlier tip came through Ray Girardin, veteran reporter of the Detroit Times, who was approached by an unidentified man with the information that the three escaped convicts were hiding in the home of Joseph Rocco, an ex-convict.

Police found Daniel B. Bouska, 26, Edward J. Emrick, 43, and Virgil Lane, 37, watching television in the home.

The three, part of the gang that crept through a sewer and cut the grates at the open end to escape the gigantic prison, resembled comic opera characters in the dirty, ill-fitting clothes they had stolen.

Police held Rocco and Irvin Sullivan of Detroit for investigation of harboring fugitives. Rocco, parole violator from southern Michigan prison, said that he had met Emrick while at the prison. All three were at his home Sunday night, Rocco said, when he came home from work.

Too Much Arsenic in Icing On Fudge, Murder Plot Fails

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP)—It was arsenic in the pink icing on fudge sent through the mail that poisoned at least one person, the Lake Wales First Baptist church. There were no deaths.

Police chief K. M. Biddle and postal inspector O. C. H. Willard said a laboratory analysis of the candy today indicated the poison was lead arsenate, though it might have been a similar poison, lead arsenite.

Lead arsenate looks something like powdered sugar and can easily be bought for use in killing pests and insects, the chief said.

Mellick said he believes the package caused death in mail when he mailed it. However, so much poison was put in the candy that it caused too violent a reaction.

The worst thing that happened was that a person, receiving several children, reported being badly nauseated by the candy.

Five boxes of candy were mailed to church members.

Postal officials are no suspects. He's puzzled why anyone would single out the First Baptist membership.

Hungry Horror of Red Camp Leads PoW to Choose Ministry

FOSTERS, Mich. (AP) — Eugene L. Inman, who felt the hand of God in the battlefields of Korea and Communist POW camp, hungry horror of a Communist prison camp, has decided to devote his life to the ministry.

The 25-year-old ex-soldier returned to his home here Sept. 21 after three years in the hands of the Red Chinese. He was married and his bride of two weeks, Rosemond, is now in Seoul, Korea. Ill., where he will begin a Nazarene ministerial course.

Inman's decision to devote his life to religion came only recently. It was nurtured by the sight of death and the brain-washing of the Reds.

It began Nov. 30, 1950, in the grim days of the war. Inman and some of his fellow soldiers were ambushed. Of 230 men on that bloody battlefield, Inman was the only survivor.

Surrounded, he got down on his knees and prayed. "I was afraid," he said, "but suddenly I felt something like a hand on my shoulder and I wasn't afraid any more."

THREATENED BY WOLVES

He was soon recognized as a religious "reactionary."

The Communists told him they would threatened to kill me. They said, 'Above us your God — if he really does help him out to us.'

He had a Bible, and the Reds knew it. They tried to get it, by threatening, by torture, by starving. they made him stand in the snow for three hours, but he wouldn't give it up.

Then they broke him.

How could some resist the brainwashing and others fail? Does there some live through the mental and physical privations?

Inman answers Inman, "if you were in a room with a dead friend next to you, and another who was soon to die, could you empty yourself of all feeling for them? If you couldn't, you couldn't have taken it.

"You had to have something besides the ability to purge yourself of all feeling to survive. You had to have courage, some simple battlefield courage, but courage of conviction."

Deferred Decision

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener city council has deferred a request for $5,000 to assist in completing the restoration of "Woodside, the boyhood home here of the late prime minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

The project will be dealt with in the 1954 estimates.

The application was made by the Mackenzie King Woodside trust, which has rebuilt the former King home.

MOSSADEGH FILES APPEAL OF CONVICTION

Given Three Years On Charges of Treason

TEHRAN; Iran (AP)—Ex-dictator Mohammed Mossadegh today appealed his conviction by a military tribunal on charges of treason and sentence to three years in solitary confinement.

Authorities said it would take 20 days to set up an appeal court of seven judges to review the case of the fiery old ex-premier who was tried on charges of defying the orders of the shah, attempting to overthrow the monarchy and dissolving the lower house of Parliament illegally.

In the preliminary stages of Mossadegh's trial—which started—sparked by the veteran politician's tirades, threats and capricious clowning—the defendant threatened to commit suicide if he were released and said he would not appeal if he were convicted.

THREAT FORGOTTEN

But as in the case of every other threat he made during the 10-day trial, Mossadegh reversed himself. He wrote his appeal in longhand on the document containing the court's sentence and signed it as required by law.

During the trial, the wealthy and aristocratic old nationalist at times threatened to go on a hunger strike and refused to eat, claiming the chickens for dinner. Well on his 70s, he challenged the public prosecutor to a duel with pistols, to a wrestling match. He got up to walk out on the court several times, but nearly always collapsed after a few steps and allowed himself to be helped back to his seat in a near-faint. ()

Iranians could expect similar table-pounding and dramatic tactics when Mossadegh's appeal hearing comes up. He had challenged the military court's competence to try him and repeatedly insisted he will was premier, despite his ouster during a bloody royalist coup last August which brought Premier Fazollah Zahedi to power.

GUILTY ON 13 COUNTS

The five-man tribunal found Mossadegh guilty on treason charges on 13 counts of defying Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

Mossadegh's co-defendant and former army chief of staff, Brig. Gen. Hussein Fatemi, was given 14 years and ordered dismissed from the army.

When they went on trial last August, Mossadegh was rife that both would be hanged.

Princess, Squired by Publisher Has Hilarious Time Watching Clowns

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret and one of her best boy friends had a hilarious time Monday night watching the clowns in Princess Margaret's box.

The Queen's 23-year-old sister was escorted to the show by Lord Bonham-Carter, 21, who has been seeing a lot of her lately. This set off a new round of gossip in London's social circles.

Many of the 11,000 persons at the circus who watched the Princess in her usual, cool screaming with laughter in chorus with the young publisher murmured, "Maybe he'll be next."

During the intermission, two flower-decked boys came to the flower-decked royal box with two big dolls—a chimpanzee and a gaudily-dressed queen, for Princess Margaret's nephew, Prince Charles, and her niece, Princess Anne.

Princess Margaret and Miss Townsend asked the princess which doll she would give to Prince Charles and which to Princess Anne.

Princess Margaret replied: "It will be better to let them fight it out between themselves."

Princess Margaret is not a newcomer to the princess' circle of eligible bachelors, but the foremost Grenadier Guards officer appeared to be showing young lady only 10 days ago at a London theatre the third time in succession the couple had gone to the theatre together.

Herriott and Auriol Lead Compromise Candidate Field

VERSAILLES (AP)—The badly-split French Parliament put off until Wednesday its attempts to elect a new president of the republic. Edouard Herriot and Vincent Auriol led the field of compromise candidates.

Political leaders held a series of fruitless conferences this morning in two attempts to break a six-day deadlock. When the congress met this afternoon to take the 11th ballot since last Tuesday, there had been no progress in reaching agreement on a candidate who could get the necessary majority vote.

The party presidents this morning in conversations among themselves sought a private solution which would eliminate further public display of their helplessness.

FIVE FAVORITE SONS

Following Monday night's 10th fruitless ballot, veterans Edouard Herriot, Vincent Auriol and Rene Coty emerged as the only likely figures generally considered above the party squabbles which have blocked the election of a new head of state. Auriol winds up a seven-year term in the job Jan. 17. But Herriot and Coty have both stated that they don't want the position. Speculation mounted that one or the other might be drafted after Andre le Troquer, presiding officer of the national assembly, failed this morning's meeting.

Intervening Monday night when, on the 10th ballot, no candidate could poll a majority, le Troquer declared "prolongation of the present situation would endanger the functioning of the republican institutions."

Premier Joseph Laniel, who led the poll throughout most of the five days of inconclusive voting, first ground Monday night when the small Social and Democratic Resistance party abstained on the 10th ballot to protest continuation of the political crisis.

The wealthy premier, backed by the conservative faction, received 301 votes. He had 329 on the ninth ballot earlier in the day. Because of abstentions and scattered votes for minor candidates, he was 42 votes short of a majority on each ballot.

Socialist Marcel Naegelen, the leftist governor general of Algeria, was supported by the leftists, including the large Communist bloc.

MOTORISTS SHOWING CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Motorists have caught the Christmas spirit, according to Constable William Evans, officer on duty at one of the city's busiest intersections.

Constable Evans patrols the corner at Pinnacle and Bridge streets, where traffic is normally quite heavy, but much increased with the shopping rush. The officer said motorists and pedestrians alike are being far more courteous to each other. Car operators are giving the right-of-way to the other fellow in any traffic tie-up and he said he can't recall hearing a horn blare since last week. "There hasn't been even so much as a cross word between drivers and bent fenders are non-existent," the constable concluded.

Henry Drury, CNR Engineer, Retires from Active Service; Recalls Adventurous Boyhood

Had a squad of heavily-armed British bluejackets been five minutes late in arriving at a house in a blood-stained street in Constantinople in 1896, this story would not have been written.

And the Canadian National Railways would have been without the laughter, service of a valued employee while Canada and Belleville would have lost a highly-esteemed adopted son.

During the bloody massacre of the Christians in the Ottoman capital, now Istanbul, by the Sultan Abdul Hamid in the late nineties, a small British family huddled in their spacious home, awaiting the arrival of the British bluejackets.

Fanatical Turks engaged in a holy war, had slaughtered Christians in a wholesale massacre. Corpses littered the Constantinople streets. Practically the entire Christian population of Smyrna, on the Bosphorus was wiped out, and the blood-crazed Moslems were concentrating on the capital.

TURKEY WARNED

Britain gave the Turks 24 hours to stop hostilities. Two gunboats were dispatched to the scene and sailed up the Bosphorus. Landing parties rushed to the European quarter and rescued families which had escaped the fury of the Turks.

One of these, Arthur Drury, his wife Elizabeth, nine-year-old son Henry, and nineteen-year-old daughter, Rozy, were taken from their home and placed aboard the gunboat "HMS Mortheu."

The family escaped with nothing but its wearing apparel. Mr. Drury's loss in magnesium mines holdings in the Caucasus and he and his family, as junior clerk in the London branch of the Ottoman City and Midland Bank at the magnificent salary of "seven-and-sixpence" a week. There was little left when Henry paid his "keep" and transportation expenses, England was appeared little future in the business.

CAME TO CANADA

Canada lured him and in 1905 he came here. Then a farmer, Drury was employed by a farm for tune.

He tried agriculture near Stouffville, Ont., later going to Oshawa, Engagements at odd finding his niche he went to the United States. Life under "Old Glory" proved not to his liking and he returned to Canada where he secured a job as fireman in 1906 on the former Grand Trunk Railway. He left this service after 18 months and when the war bugles sounded, he joined the colors, serving overseas with the Canadian Army Service Corps in England and France. He carries shrapnel scars as memories of World War I.

Returning to Canada he rejoined the service of the railway as a fireman, maintaining that status until 1943 when he was promoted to engineer.

"I fired everything the railway had," smiled Henry, recalling his early experiences. "I was 'set up running' and since that time have operated practically every type of locomotive in the Canadian railway service."

Mr. Drury married the former Helen Harrison, of Wallace, Nova Scotia, and resided in Toronto until 1930, when the couple moved to Belleville to reside at 30 Lime St. They have no family.

His British roots are still firmly embedded in Mr. Drury. He possessed the Atlantic six times, including war service, on visits to the Old Country, and hopes to see it again before very long.

RETIRES AS ENGINEER

Last Friday, he stepped from a Canadian National Railway locomotive cab for the last time as an engineer. He had completed 37 years of efficient service, without an accident and in the proud knowledge that he had not "lost a day through illness" in over 37 years. He is hale and hearty and looking forward to many years of useful activity.

A reception committee awaited him after completing his run and at the end of the last run. Present to greet Driver Drury on the cab were Road Foreman A. Cooper, representing the company, several of his colleagues and members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and their wives.

The cessation of active operations with the railway will not terminate Mr. Drury's other activities. He has been associated with war veterans organizations for many years and at present is a highly-valued member of the the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, Branch No. 201, here. He is a member of the Belleville Poppy Fund executive. He has taken and is taking an active interest as an in the Canadian National Railway Athletic Association, and is one of the members who helped in the construction of the CNRAA Recreation Park. He is chairman of the playgrounds committee of that organization and expects to carry on the work as long as he is physically able.

Mr. Drury celebrated his 65th birthday on Thursday, December 17th.

IN MEMORIAM

SAGER, — In memory of Roy William Sager, who passed away December 23, 1951.

We often sit and think of him, when we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.
Life's joy on the withered oak, when all other things decay,
Our love for him is as dear as ever, fresh and green and will stay.
—Sadly missed by wife Lois and son Stirling.

Bob Taylor Is Suspended

Bob Taylor, 196-pound defenceman of the Memos Senior "B" Hockey Club, has been given an indefinite suspension by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, club secretary Drury Denyes announced today.

The Memos' club, Denyes said, has made application to file an injunction against the hockey body, which if granted, will hold Taylor to play for the next eight days.

Application for the injunction was filed before County Judge J. C. Anderson at 11 o'clock today. If it is granted Taylor will be in uniform against the Peterborough Petes tonight.

W. B. George, CAHA president, said that Taylor had not conformed with regulations as laid down in the "C" form, and obligations to the Philadelphia hockey club and the Springfield Indians hockey club with which Taylor played the last two seasons.

Accused Pleads Guilty to Eight Charges of Fraud

Omar Grenon, 35, formerly of Montreal, was given three years' suspended sentence and placed on probation by T. Y. Wills in city magistrate's court here today following pleas of guilty to eight charges of false pretences involving the use of gasoline company credit cards.

Police said that gasoline, oil, tires and batteries to the value of $855.35 had been purchased by Grenon on the strength of a gasoline company credit card made out in the name of Mrs. J. Denals. Court costs amounted to $122.50.

The magistrate gave Grenon the three years' suspended sentence on condition that full restitution be paid.

A payment toward restitution has been made at the time of court while the balance is to be paid at the rate of $80 per month.

A further condition imposed by the magistrate is that Grenon is not to go within an area of 20 miles from Belleville without express approval of police until the period of suspended sentence is completed.

Five garages and service stations in the city had been victimized, one in Sidney and two in Trenton.

Magistrate Grants Specific Request Made by Accused

If isn't often that the specific request of an accused is granted in court but just this was the case in city magistrate's court in Belleville today when George Bartman, Picton, up on a charge of vagrancy asked for and received seven days in jail.

Bartman asked police that he be kept "in" over the holiday and the request was granted by Magistrate T. Y. Wills. "Seven days in jail," the magistrate ruled. "You are at least assured of your Christmas dinner."

The exact opposite was requested by James Donahue, also up on a vagrancy count. Donahue had been found loitering in the county buildings and was apprehended by police. Donahue implied that he wanted to be "out" for Christmas and again the magistrate complied, giving him one day in jail.

J. W. Dior, 33, of Montreal, pleaded guilty to a charge of false pretences involving the passing of a bogus cheque for $50 with a local restaurant proprietor. He was given a year's suspended sentence and ordered to pay court costs of $21. Restitution had been made.

Robert McMahon, Belleville, pleaded guilty to false pretences by purchasing a pair of shoes worth $14 with a worthless cheque. He was also given suspended sentence.

Inspector Bidden Goodbye By Staff Members

Members of the staff of the Fruit and Vegetable division of the Federal Department of Agriculture assembled at the New Queen's Hotel last evening to bid goodbye to C. W. Jackson, inspector for the branch office, and Mrs. Jackson, who in early January are moving to Hamilton, where Mr. Jackson has been named supervisor over a larger district.

The staff and growers of Eastern Ontario, presented Mr. Jackson with a travelling bag, suitably engraved, while Mrs. Jackson received a bouquet of roses. Miss D. Waddell, secretary of the branch in this city, was also presented with roses.

Although kept completely by surprise, Mr. Jackson thanked all for the gift and expressed his pleasure of the local association, that had been formed throughout the years. All were invited to visit him and his wife, in their new home at any occasion available.

The party of 15 enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner with all the trimmings.

ANAF Veterans' Christmas Party Breaks Record

"Never saw such a crowd in the history of this organization," smiled Harry Hawkins, head of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada Branch No. 201 executive on Saturday afternoon following the annual Christmas party for members and their families.

The new semi-appointed auditorium of the Front Street club was crowded to capacity with laughing happy children who spilled out into the adjoining corridors.

It was estimated that between 450 and 500 youngsters, children of members and an additional 250 adults thronged the auditorium to give Santa Claus a vociferous welcome.

The arrival of the jolly old elf was postponed for a short time due to the fact that he had trouble negotiating his rotund equatorial region up an allotted stairway. The trouble was overcome when the red-faced bewhiskered old gent—and he was "Red"—was assisted up a back entrance with no damage done except to the Canadian dignity.

A beautiful Illuminated Christmas tree was the centre of a huge pile of presents. Each child was presented with a pretty gift and later colorful motion pictures were shown the young guests.

Vice president Ray Neddo, secretary Ken Edgecombe and other members of the executive with the various arranging committees agreed that the party was the largest since the founding, so they have to hold the party in the armsCHristmas functions.

"Looks like next year we shall simply commercial the scenery. The crowd grows bigger every year."

Three Women Rescue Boy from Well By Amazing Feat of Strength

Accomplishing what was claimed to be an amazing feat of strength three women combined forces this morning to save a three-year-old Sidney township boy from drowning in a 25-foot well into which he had tumbled.

The little lad, Albert Clark, son of Mrs. Muriel Clark, 2nd concession Sidney, tumbled into the well beneath the house as water was being hauled up with a rope.

The Clark's hired girl, Miss Edith Landry and a neighbor woman, Mrs. Langstaff, tied a rope around the mother's body and lowered her into the well. Mrs. Clark grabbed her son and the two women hauled her and the boy back to the surface.

Outside of shock and a few bruises the boy is no worse for his experience.

According to Belleville firemen, who were called to the scene, Miss Landry was engaged in hauling water from the well through an 18-inch opening in the floor when the lad dashed past her and fell through the hole. Mrs. Langstaff, living next door, heard the screams of the mother and ran across to assist in the rescue. The water in the well came about to the boy's chin but he was able to get to a feet and hang onto the stone until he was rescued.

"Those three women performed a remarkable feat," stated Fire Chief Gerald Vance. "Mrs. Clark weighs approximately 160 pounds and Mrs. Langstaff and Miss Landry pulled her back to the top of the well with his help.

The fire chief said the rescue had been effected when firemen arrived. They got dry clothes onto the lad, put him to bed and gave him oxygen.

A TERRIBLE WARNING

The death of three Sidney Township boys at Oak Lake on Sunday evening provides a tragic warning to all, and particularly to children and their parents, against the perils of trusting oneself to the thin ice which forms so readily on many of the district's lakes and streams.

The three boys, through their love of skating, tobogganing or even just to feel their feet moving, succumbed to the deceptive quality of similar acts and seemed to forget the possibilities. This good fortune tends to make us forget the extreme perils of skating, tobogganing or even just walking on the ice-covered surface of any lake. Even the wearing on the ice-covered surface of any lake. Even the wearing of swimmers, unhampered by heavy winter clothing, would help experience difficulty in surviving in nerve-chilling water.

Mrs. Keitha Aide, who lost two sons, Leyton and Keith, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brenton, whose son, Gilbert, of the third, will have the deepest sympathy of all their friends, and of many others who do not know them personally. Nothing that can now be said or done will wipe out the tragedy, or alleviate the grief in their hearts. But we feel certain that they and other relatives of the three victims will join us in hoping that this tragedy will at least serve as a warning to others not to place their lives in jeopardy by venturing forth onto ice-covered waters for any purpose before making certain that the ice is solid enough to hold them.

WRONG CONCLUSION

Owners and employees of small city newspapers like the Ontario Intelligencer—and we hope their readers, too—are not likely to be impressed by a statement by President Syngman Rhee of South Korea.

That country has 45 daily newspapers, a fact which we would regard as providing a very good foundation for a state of rebuilding Free Nations land and eventually protecting a truly democratic nation.

Rhee is dissatisfied with the quality of these papers. His criticism may be justified. But when he says that he does not consider it necessary to remedy present defects he does not reveal much appreciation of the role of a free press in a democratic country. Nor is he impressed by his argument that Japan must have a few big newspapers which could be quoted by foreign newspapers." Recent and previous issues of this publication have investigated which best suits history shows that a country with a number of papers is much more likely to be quoted by the foreign press with this distinction because they are merely mouthpieces of the party or persons in power. Present-day examples — Pravda and Izvestia.

WILLOWS IN WINTER

Wonder walks our land and few of us see it.

Consider the weeping willow. Its summery finery it is an eye-catching tree. With fall, though, it sheds its leaves without that flamboyancy which has made the maple famous. Quietly it strips itself and soon stands naked like other trees, to endure the winter blasts. There is nothing noteworthy about it.

And then a stray wind flicks a whip-lash across a cloud-filled sky. Twigs are cast out to the corner of an eye, the crackling whip jerks our head around to investigate. And there we see, at last, a wonder which we have passed daily for weeks.

There is a tree like no other. Its branches—but can one call these branches, these long, sinewy tendrils which drop from on high to sway within a few feet of the ground? Where other trees poke at the overcoast with gaunt, accusing fingers, the limp strands of the willow dance in the breeze, weaving patterns against the grey sky, revealing to winter the unique structure which the summer's leaves served only to half conceal.

If the willow grew in the tropics, instead of in our own back-yards, we should consider it strange, weird, exotic.

ALERT FOR "DRIVERS WHO WILL NOT BEHAVE"

R. V. McNeil, commissioner of Police for Ontario, has instructed all members of the Ontario Provincial Police to be on the alert for "the drivers who just will not behave."

"The experiences of the past years have proven many times that the people are prone to celebrate the festive season of sale during the Christmas season," states Supreme release from the Commissioner. "The pagan elements of Yuletide create a distraction upon our every day thinking, the effect of which is so apparent when the count of the victims of accidents at Christmas time."

We have become accustomed to regarding many Christmas parties as the result of increased drinking of alcoholic beverages at this season. This is true. But Commissioner McNeil seems to have a better insight than some into the basic cause of this drinking. "A careless drinker can be a thoughtless drinker or reckless driver," he says. Some, of course, would reply that drinking makes for careless thinking. But that statement, though true, is to miss the key point which Commissioner McNeil makes. The man whose thinking is sound will not mix his drinking and his driving. Those who, throughout the year, find the sound rule not to drive after drinking should not look upon the season as giving them any excuse for breaking this rule, "just this once." For this is the time of the year when its observance is most necessary, the time to take-added precautions instead of to relax customary ones.

LETTER TO SANTA CLAUS

To Santa, done in childish scrawl,
The letters go with Christmas slight,
For sure he reads them one and all.
If children send them why not I?
Perhaps he'd like to hear from me
What I would do if I were he.

Well, here it is penned out and signed
With "Dear old Santa Claus" I start.
Give peace to every anxious mind
And comfort every aching heart.
And if you can, to all in pain
For Christmas Day give health
again.

"Give friends to those who need them now.
Give faith to all with grief to bear.
Smooth softly every troubled brow
And every shattered hope repair.
Let every happy dream come true.
This I would do if I were you."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

How is it that so many friends smile. But when they come face to face in a narrow doorway, they say nothing for it they have to stop and speak".

"You're just watching doors," I checked, "for thirty years. Is it your idea, then, that people do not narrowly use a stop and speak to each other?"

"Right," said the hotel doorman. "Ninety-nine people out of a hundred don't want to give or take anything more than hello."

New Muffler For Trucks.

(Palladophia Bulletin)

Those who live along much-used truck highways have a new reason for joy. Two years of research have developed a muffler that silences truck motors.

Eliminating the exhaust noise will be an improvement, especially if the new muffler will make a motor "purr" instead of roar.

But there is room for even more improvement. The muffler, which shakes adjoining houses as nothing in the world can motor noises. Eliminate the rumble and some of the pressure for separate truck routes would be relieved.

Fighting Earthquakes

Written for Unesco by DANIEL BEHRMAN.

Dr. N. Wadia, Indian geologist, could have been apologizing for the bad manners of an adolescent schoolboy:

"The Himalayas are the youngest mountains in the world and these elevated rocks have not yet attained stability. The rise of a 1,000-mile long mountain range, 200 miles broad, is a heavy strain on the rocks below, which occasionally slip off under the strain."

Dr. Wadia was describing the cause of an earthquake in Assam, India, 15 August, 1950, which killed 573 people, destroyed more than 13,000 buildings and caused the loss of more than 100,000 milk cows and draft animals.

Less than three years later an earthquake in the Ionian Islands off the West coast of Greece killed more than 600 people and left more than 12,000 homeless. A mountain peak more than one mile high on the island of Cephalonia was split in half. A great wave reared up from the Ionian Sea and upon Ithaca, homeland of Ulysses — destroying all but 50 of the 2,000 buildings in Ithaca's capital.

The immediate death-toll caused by these seemingly casual twitchings of the thin-skinned earth has been stupendous, dwarfing those of the most terrible wars. Some of the figures:

1923—Kwanto, Japan, 830,000 dead;
1737—Calcutta, India, 300,000 dead;
1755—Lisbon, Portugal, 80,000 dead;
1908—Calabria and Sicily, 77,-000 dead;
1920—Kansi, China, 180,000 dead;
1923—Tokyo, Japan, 143,000 dead.

Earthquakes are misleading because they are only partial indication of the serious threats famines and floods bring more destruction. Yet quantitative knowledge of earthquake and industrial resources are frequently the prelude to additional deaths, additional misery.

The idea of "doing something" about earthquakes is comparatively new. Only a few years since swindlers have sold pills said to alleviate them. Even the Romans people were convinced that the earth itself was supported on the backs of gigantic animals—in Japan it was a spider, in Mongolia a frog, in India a whale, and in the opinion of North American Indians a tortoise — and earthquakes occurred when the animal made any abrupt movement. According to the Japanese proverb, an earth tremor results when "the earth . . . changes his burden to the other shoulder."

An extensive study of the causes of shocks began in the early 1900's and a number of facts are now mentioned: "an earthquake that has the heaviest loss of life ranked by the Richter scale; the prospect of "doing something" about it; the take form with the invention of the seismograph, which records the direction, duration and intensity of disturbances in the earth's crust. Earthquakes in this respect may be compared to writing with a motionless pencil on a moving sheet of paper. The seismograph "pencil" is a heavy pendulum which records the movement of the earth below it.

One important discovery was that of the primary waves of earthquakes. It is estimated that an earthquake, originating in the heart of the earth's surface, occurs somewhere about once every thirty minutes. It was also discovered that major destructive earthquakes originate in the world's two great "seismic belts". One of these circles the Pacific Islands and Asia Minor to Spain and Portugal; the other takes in the western coast of North America, Japan and the Philippines.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SHALL I BE A MINISTER?

Only one man in several hundred should become a full-time minister. Although we need more ministers, and will get more as time goes on, many more will never be need for more than one out of every hundred becoming a minister. But the choice to that one person, to the church, to mankind, to the country, and to the Church, is a matter of vast importance.

If a man is suited to the ministry he will be happy there in the other work so pleasant, helpful, and rewarding both to him and to the people he serves. The minister deals with the most important issues of life. He spends his adult years among the choice people of every community. They come to solve their problems, bear their sorrows, get help in their spiritual difficulty. He helps them to recover from disappointment and overcome their temptations.

To do this he must be a man of faith himself, believing deeply the gospel he preaches. He must be willing to live on a modest and unsufficient salary, but if he is worth his salt he will always have plenty.

There never was a time when there needed to be more ministers than we need them now. But we need only the right men. We need a big enough for this job, but all of us can achieve some measure of it. The love of God if we give our lives unreservedly to his kingdom service.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

DOCTORS AND PUBLICITY

Dr. Brady

It was a kind of unwritten law, 25 or 30 years ago, that when a medical society in the community wished to inform the public a book of the health of medical subject, the speaker or lecturer who addressed the public should be a visitor or guest and not a member of the local profession. Obviously this rule was intended to restrain the local publicity hunters.

But that kind of modesty is almost forgotten now. Today when the doctors put on a radio or television interview, panel discussion or forum or a public conference upon a health or medical question, the local talent gets late on the act.

Long ago when I was an honest doctor the practitioners in town managed to get a little publicity by notifying the local paper when a child was born, thus: Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand D. Bull are rejoicing in the birth of a seven-pound son yesterday. Dr. John Doe was the attending physician.

When this became tiresome I tried to do something about it. When I delivered the mail carrier's seventh I notified the paper that: Mr. and Mrs. Special Delivery became the proud parents of a seven-pound daughter Sunday evening. Dr. Wm. Brady was the accoucheur. A lot of the mailman's customers were alarmed about it—they thought it must be some dreadful complication. After that the doctors filed birth certificates and didn't try to make a production out of each one they recorded. But I didn't care. That was about the time I was turning quack surveys—launching this health column.

After all, the home doctors are only human. Why should they abide by the rules when so many papers made big shots come to town and lure away a lot of well-to-do patients with their wealthy patronize home talent?

Praises Editorial On British Guiana

To the Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Sir: I see that this rather late date, I would like to commend you on "Belleville's Lion With Brittle Tail", which was the subject of an editorial in the Ontario Intelligencer a few weeks ago.

It I may say so, your editorial was enlightened and constructive thinking on a subject that is of vital importance to all the free world. I am so deeply interested in, and concerned with, this subject myself, that I might be accused of not being objective. However, having often been in British Guiana and having come to appreciate the many fine human qualities of the people who live there, I am especially anxious that such one of us who knows the real meaning as well as the end results of Communism do everything he can to protect the nearly half million people living in British Guiana.

Yours very truly,

"OP" OF LAUREL RIDGE

One of the finest regional writers in America is Jesse Stuart author of his latest book, "The Good Spirit of Laurel Ridge," he has rung the bell again with a fine book of outstanding reading. The central character is Theopolis Akers, known to all as Op, the hermit of Laurel Ridge."

This new book matches his most recent one, "Taps for Private Tussie," though I have yet to read a Jesse Stuart book that doesn't put you into a spell of reading and amusement, even in his extraordinary book "The Thread That Runs So True," a book about teaching and teachers that should be in the library of every school in the land. Stuart is a born writer of fiction and poetry, a combination most rare. His home and particular region are located in the hills of Kentucky. Many have aptly called this writer the "American Robert Burns."

Old Op in Stuart's new book, is obsessed with the idea that spirits linger, he calls them "sperits." Laurel Ridge and he is ready at all times to defend his beliefs. As the story unfolds, the author makes you love his characters, regardless of their morality. They live in a world that he loved. "Nature, fishing, gathering herbs" and an interest in all that went on about his squatter cabin, is fascinating reading. Op's wife was another Burns' "Highland Mary." She was a simple home body, "like unto the flowers of the field." His characters stay with you long after you have set aside the book. There is in this book much that is factual and educational in every book that Stuart has written. And nowhere outside America could such a writer be created. He is a child of the soil where he lives and writes. You want to go to sleep on reading "The Good Spirit of Laurel Ridge." I had to cut down my sleep!

Pre-Fab Homes Meeting Need

(Stratford Expositor)

If ever Canada is to have an adequate supply of lower cost homes there will have to be a drastic shake-up in the thinking of a lot of builders. So far the only concrete results of most of them to the cheaper home problem has been to go on building by conventional methods while paring costs by omitting a basement and workmanship. The results, seen everywhere, are shoddy, unattractive little brick or wood boxes that are cold in winter and very poor value for the hard-earned money that buyers must lay on the line.

A far sounder approach to the problem is the buyer a square deal is seen in the U.S. where several experienced and reputable firms are offering pre-fabricated houses in a price range to suit all purposes. Prospective purchasers can look at and good to live in. They are erected and completed in two weeks and they offer a choice of exterior and interior designs ranging from cheap boxes built on the site. Sales of this type of home are snowballing in the United States and tens of thousands of modest-income Canadians look on with envy.

The Greatest Faith Ever Known

Paul Is Given His Freedom

CHAPTER 37.

Winter lodged in the very walls of the house. A brazier of coal glowed orange and gray in the center of the room. Before the window men sledged through muddy streets, cloaks wrapped high against the sepulchral air. That new year in Rome, A.D. 63, brought dark ice to the River Tiber and a chill to the hearts of sober citizens concerned for the Empire.

Nero was on a rampage.

As a boy he had been content for his two guardians, Seneca and Burrus, to tend the affairs of state, while he toyed with his harp and strutted through his days of luxury. But with the beautecous Poppaea reclining at his side, Nero had begun to grow in his own esteem. He had come to believe Poppaea's insinuations that Seneca and Burrus were deliberately keeping power in their own hands because they feared to let the world know the full magnificence of his genius. Nero was certain that no more perfect emperor ever lived.

For a while, with petulant shrugs he had simply ignored his guardians' advice. He made decisions without consulting them, guilt, men of Rome felt safe, knowing that Seneca and Burrus stood by, ready to check any rash erratic whim.

But suddenly — where was Burrus? The burly chief of the Praetorian Guard had vanished without a trace save for the rumors rippling ominously through the city: Burrus was murdered by order of Nero!

Paul's room, crowded always with students and disciples, opened now to men with despair on their faces, who foresaw the destruction of an empire.

"He murdered Burrus — and his own mother. He is insane, possessed of a devil, ridden with every vice. His mistress is now exile. What does it mean to Rome now?"

"What can a man hold on to in a world like this!" they asked Paul. And many of these men found their answer in baptism and Christ.

The daily shift of soldiers in Paul's lodgings muttered and grumbled fearfully about their chief's disappearance. Already word had come that he would be replaced by two men. Nero was splitting the command, withdrawing the power of his subordinates, Tigellinus, brute-jawed court favorite, and Pernius Rufus, a well-meaning weakling, were to run the Praetorian Guard.

"If Tigellinus takes your case, have a care, Paul of Tarsus. He'd have you in the arena of the Mamertine inside an hour, laws or no laws. He kills first, and asks later!"

Paul thanked his guard for the warning, but he betrayed no fear of Tigellinus. His eyes rested on Luke, busy now on the book written from the daily notes he had kept throughout the years. That history of the Church since the Resurrection, is today called The Acts of the Apostles. The Gospel according to Luke was finished. Already the scribes were making copies for church libraries across the Empire.

In the doorway was Timothy, his brown head bent earnestly as he talked to a freedman from the palace who came seeking word of the King of Kings.

At Paul's feet squatted Aristarchus, rubbing his hands above the brazier, talking in a voice of anger.

"You would think there were two kinds of Christians — Jewish ones and Gentile ones. Is it because you have baptized so many in Rome, and really accomplished something, the orthodox leaders are screaming head over heels to make sure Christians keep to their do. You'd think this was an arena contest between Jewish Christians — and you!"

Paul rubbed his own Jewish nose wryly.

"Am I no longer a Jew then? What does it matter so long as souls are brought to Christ? When Peter comes back he will tell them again that we are all one in Christ, for God is no respecter of persons. And Peter will rejoice to see such an army of Christians, both those I have taught and those the others have taught."

The others! Paul looked down into the charcoal flames, and past the flames to a time when he was a Jew among Jews. Nostalgia throbbed through him, a bleak need for old friends and ways, for the simple comfort of speaking his native tongue. Twenty odd years now he had spoken Greek and Latin, but with the Holy Ghost he had on occasion spoken in "the tongues of many men," but seldom in Hebrew. For what Jew would listen to him? Always he had taken his burning message of faith "to the Jews first" — and always as a group they had rejected him. Though he was surrounded by friends — faithful, true, beloved — most of them were Gentiles.

He was a man without a people, refused by the Jews but neither was he a Gentile — an exile, an apostle. For the sake of Christ, he had given up mother tongue and brotherly ties, left his old home, abandoned his old self. All this he had done gladly, proudly. Yet memories plagued him. He hungered for the loving smile on a Jewish face, for the taste of words in familiar surroundings.

Perhaps, if he tried once more, he could break down the barrier between himself and the race he loved?

The news from Jerusalem was disturbing. James and the Church were meeting with little success. There were few Jewish converts. A d those few were under constant pressure and boycott from their fellows. Paul knew that treatment well, and he sorrowed for them.

Travellers stopping to see Paul told of growing currents of revolution in Judea, a mounting wave to challenge the power of Rome. Paul needed no gift of prophecy to foresee the outcome of that revolution. Jerusalem would soon lie desolate, and the Temple in ruins, even as Jesus had said!

Why was Nero having such a hard time persuading the Jews that Jesus was the messiah? James, after all, was a cousin of His, a blood relation. He was a good talker, an able orator, a skilful who adhered to the beloved traditions of his own people, as Jesus had, and an ardent Christian. Surely if anyone could convince the Jews it would be James, unless something or someone, was working against him.

Paul leaped to his feet. Could he himself be the stumbling block for James? Paul's words were so often misquoted, misunderstood, misinterpreted. Some men had heard deliberately garbled stories of what Paul was saying, perhaps they thought he meant there was room for them in a Gentile religion.

Converts in Jerusalem were being called traitors, disloyal to the cause of their own nation. Paul knew all too keenly the sharp stab of that charge, and the difficulty of explaining that loyalty to Christ meant no disloyalty to country, or race or family, or friends. Thunder-cloud gathered over Jerusalem. Could the little flame of concern stand firm?

His body trembled with the earnestness of his prayer. He fell to his knees before the cross. Oh God, help me to help the men in Jerusalem, I plead. Let them hear me when I speak. Your truth, I love them. I want to bring them to You.

The light of the brazier flickered on his head as he knelt, oblivious of the tears standing in the eyes of his friends.

And so, with Timothy taking dictation with quill and papyrus, Paul plunged into his Epistle to the Hebrews — a letter written in the hope of his childhood, and later to be translated into Greek, and a hundred other languages. He spoke as a rabbi, a teacher to love with a familiar topic, straining to make clear each promise and conclusion of the arguments that proved the Man of Nazareth was truly the Messiah.

But, as he talked and built his argument, Paul closed his eyes. Logic never yet saved a soul, and Paul knew it. Logic and reason were bulwarks to faith, but they could not spark the soul to belief. But how does a man tell another man about faith?

How does a man tell of the love that is in his heart, or the faith in his soul, without crushing it in words? Holy Spirit, tell me how to say it!

"Now, faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

With only the sounds of bitter rain and wind as accompaniment, and the far-off voices of men cursing mud and horses, Paul spoke aloud a prose hymn to faith, desperately trying to convey the glory of the love of Jesus Christ. His spirit was in Jerusalem, his heart with James and with the men to whom he felt flesh kinship. He remembered the words of Jesus as he had learned them, the despair, the prophecy of ruin for the holy city. In that silent moment Paul longed to avert the destruction, to clench friends and enemies to his heart, and in love erase all misunderstanding.

"Grace be with you all, Amen." Paul clasped his hands. He was suddenly tired — more bone weary than he had been since the day he stood on the steps of the prison castle in Jerusalem to speak in the Hebrew tongue to the mob the clamored for his death.

The only way Paul's letter could travel was in the fold of a traveller's cloak or in a donkey's saddle bag. The epistle to the Hebrews went off in January, to travel the circuitous overland route to Jerusalem. Months would pass before it could end in the hands of James the Less; more than half a year before an answer might come.

But in the warm, leaping days of May, a friend from the palace brought word of a news bulletin that had travelled in non-stop relays from Jerusalem to Nero.

"James the Less is dead! He was tried by the high priest before the Sanhedrin, found guilty of blasphemy, and stoned to death."

Paul shrank back; his eyes clamped shut in horror. James stoned . . . as Stephen had been stoned, before Paul's never-forgetting eyes. Stoned to death.

Six weeks later Christian Jews from Judaea dined with Paul. They brought a letter to all the churches, written by James a few days before his death.

Paul listened as to a voice from the grave, while Timothy read James's own written testament to the world, the words of a man who had been the Lord's own flesh and blood, building to a crescendo the theme:

"Faith, without works is dead!"

No need to ask whether Paul's letter had reached him. Here was James's answer, not to Paul, but to thousands of men in churches everywhere who would bear the Epistle to the Hebrews read aloud before the altar — and perhaps misunderstand Paul.

Paul had glorified the wonders of faith, yearning, aching to pass it burning brand to cold and empty hearts.

James, a man of supreme faith, had seen that man might someday rationalize Paul's glowing words, might one day claim him as good Greek, and a hundredfold sufficiency of belief.

"As the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also!" wrote James in an argument that proved the Man of Nazareth was truly the Messiah.

Paul watched Timothy reroll the Papyrus and tie it again with cord.

A chapter of his own life was closed within that scroll, the story that began in conflict, when James first challenged him on his extraordinary teaching of the uncircumcised and ended in harmony, in actual co-operation.

James was pre-eminently a man of faith, of monklike austerity, of prayer and contemplation. Paul was a man of action. Yet where was Paul, his wrists chain-marked, who wrote the epic of pure faith, and James, whose knees were camel-calloused from prayer, who penned a hymn of praise to practical Christianity. For both men were whole-souled.

Paul knelt on the bare wooden floor in prayer too deep for words to speak.

Everyone, including the guard, was still on his knees when the news came.

A clanking and stomping on the stairs heralded the arrival of two major officers of the Praetorian Guard. Paul's jailer leaped to his feet and saluted.

The other Christians finished their prayers, unhurried by the audible impatience of the imperial visitors. Paul rose to greet them after the final Amen.

"Are you Paul of Tarsus?"

"I am."

"According to the law of Rome, the accuser has two years to bring his case to trial; if he fails to do so he loses by default. No one has appeared to press a complaint against you. None of the witnesses is here. Therefore by the power vested in him, Tigellinus has declared that you are free of all charges against you, and all restraint on your person."

His boots dug v-shaped scratches into the floor he he strode forward to unlock Paul's chains.

The manacles fell from Paul's wrists, uncovering pale bracelets of flesh, raised and chafed and two years his hands were free. He wrinkled. For the first time in felt out of balance; giddy from the loss of the five-pound weight on his arms.

He saw that the two officials were leaving and forced himself to speak. "Captain, you!" he called, but they were already halfway down the stairs. "Go in peace", he whispered.

"You go in peace, indeed!" cried Timothy. "Paul, you can go wherever you want to. You used to dream of Gaul, and Hispania—"

"And I will go there," Paul laughed. "To the furthermost parts of the Empire. To Hispania, and back—back to my old friends. And Timothy, we must get to Crete, too."

"Not Hispania first!"

And the dauntless little old man, while the whitened streets ran to the wall where hung the cross, clasped his hands together in thanksgiving.

The hired lodgings of Paul near the Praetorian Guard were empty of the cross.

Luke had gone home to Antioch to finish his history of the apostles, and to help in the local church. Paul and Timothy were on a voyaging again. They sailed t Gaul and the port we now call Marseilles, where so men sal. Lazarus and his sisters Mary a Martha were telling of the Chri And on from Gaul to Spain, whe rose the pillars of Hercules a where that self-effacing memb of the original twelve apostl Simon the Zealot, was preachi

Back in Rome two men and women began to shuffle it ruin of a city, and the death of a empire of Christians.

Staff in his still powerful hands Timothy by his side, Peter ente back to Rome. He brought new: of the other apostles, the old friends whom he must see before h by. Three years they had all travelled together with the Master; eleven more they spent together in Jerusalem, since then close to twenty years of apostolic labors had cut them off from each other almost completely.

From turbaned varavans out of the east Peter had heard good news about Bartholomew Nathaniel, working on the Arabian shores of the Red Sea; and of Jude, sorrowing brother of James the Less, still preaching in Asi Minor, his children and their in laws trooping along to help feed the poor and tend the sick.

Dark-skinned men in the slav markets told tales of Matthew the Gospel-writing tax expert, who had gone down to the steaming slopes of Ethiopia, living on fruits and herbs, to preach Christ. Philip was living in the peaceful of Phrygia. Matthias, elected t replace Judas in the original band of twelve, was covering the nor thern boundaries of the Empire. And Thomas, so men said, ha ventured beyond the flags o Rome, to India, and spoken to silks and strange gods of destruc tion. These same reporters sai Thomas had found the three Wis Men there, and baptized them as well.

Peter had been in Ephesus to visit with John the Beloved, and reminisce. But his own brother had not gone. Andrew was somewhere along the banks of the Danube, spreading fresh terri tory for Christ, penetrating as far as Scythia and the Black Sea. Peter did not try to reach him. Apostles had no time for family reunions.

July 19 in the year 64. A day when the sun slanged the eyeballs of slave farmers, and shopkeepers folded their doors closed, and peddlers sat silent by fountains in public squares. Nero and his pouting wife Poppaea had left the city. The imperial pair had gone to enjoy the cool of their summer villa. And Rome sweltered.

Peter had spent the afternoon baptizing new converts, and telling again the story of the God who chose him to fish for men. In the evening Peter went to the roof of his house to be alone, and pray.

Mysteriously, the orange wraiths of fleas sprang up now here, now

The Greatest Faith

there, springing in a devil-worship dance to seize their victims from jungle and cellar. Some perched back-yard gardens and sculptured parties.

Six days and six nights. No man could name the heroes of the dead in that nightmare race for safety. The River Tiber was clogged with corpses, a sinister flag under the steady torrent of wind-loosed rainstorm never to be found. The hill-tops were littered with men felled by new sheets of flame shooting suddenly to life.

In the fields outside the city, in the elegant cemeteries along the Appian Way, survivors searched sleeplessly for each other. Their silence was broken only by a dry sob, an infants wail, an occasional shout of welcome.

Then, as fast as the flames on the hills of Rome, a strange message sped across that crowd in a whisper, in a mutter, a gasp, a roar of indignation.

"Nero stands on the aqueduct. Look! He is singing and playing the lute while Rome burns!"

No one in the flames, no one in the Tiber, none huddled in the shadow of mausoleums and promenades could hear the words Nero sang. They heard instead white-clad pers passed from smoke-blackened lips:

"Nero set the fire."

"I saw his men with torches in the Circus Maximus . . ."

"Nero planned to raze Rome. He ordered it. They say he has worked for months on a song about the burning of Troy, and sings it now in a setting he staged himself. He loathed our city, and he burned it."

"A madman!"

Across the river the devils of fire wearied and sank at dawn. Ruins smoldered in dying gasps of flame. Smoke hung nearly motionless over all save the tops of the seven hills.

The men and women of Rome straggled back across the Tiber. They stood in the statued plaza before Nero's palace and screamed for him to appear.

His purple-and-silver toga was tarnished. His fat knees shook as Poppaea nudged him on the balcony.

"Death to Nero!"

Nero ran back into the palace, slamming the balcony door behind him.

Queen Elizabeth H-S Assoc. Presents Christmas Program

The annual Christmas meeting and party of the Home and School Association was held at Queen Elizabeth School.

It was decided at this meeting to give a donation of $15 to assist in the formation of a hockey team to be sponsored by the various Home and School Associations in the city, in conjunction with the Belleville Minor Hockey Association. The money is to be used to buy sweaters and emblems for the boys, and it was felt that this was a worthwhile project.

Queen Alexandra Home and School Association has invited the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association to be present at their next meeting, which is to be held on January 5th. Their speaker for the evening is Inspector Wills of the Ontario Provincial Police, Toronto. His lecture for the evening is to be on "traffic problems at school," and this promises to be an interesting evening.

Miss Elson's class won the shield for the evening for the highest attendance of parents present.

A delightful program was presented by the pupils of the school. The children of Grades 6 and 7 sang Christmas carols and songs, and two plays were presented. Miss Elson's class play was "The Boy Who Had Everything," and Mr. Carswell's class play "The Shepherd Who Came Too Late." The children gave a splendid performance.

The audience participated in carol singing during the program, under the direction of Miss Young.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THIS WIDOW IS LETTING HER DEAD HUSBAND DOWN

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a married man for nearly four years. He used to tell me he loved me, but I don't really think he does.

One night after he left me I followed him and he didn't go home. Instead, he went to the house of another woman. I went in and got him out of here.

He comes to see me every night, but he will never take me out in company because I haven't any nice clothes. All we ever do is to go out in his car and even then he hardly talks to me.

He used to be so good to me, but now I don't think he cares for me. His only wants to make me think he does, and I know he goes out with other women.

My husband is dead, and I am very lonesome. Also, I have been sick a great deal. Do you suppose that could be the reason this man doesn't care for me any more?

Do you think I should quit seeing him? I love him very much.

Mrs. C.

Dear Mrs. C.:

What did you expect to get out of going with a married man? A husband? Or were you so lonely that you were willing to settle for even phony love-making and just take what you could get for as long as you could get it?

Whatever you may have expected, you have now found out just how phony it all has been, and I shouldn't think you would need to ask anybody's advice about what you should do. Can it be possible that you really want to have anything to do with a man you know is a scoundrel, and what kind of woman are you anyhow? Isn't it bad enough that you took up with a married man in the first place? Have you really sunk so low that you would slink along after him and drag him out of another woman's house? Where do you think all this is going to land you in the end?

Plenty of women have lost their husbands and found it possible to remake their lives along other lines, and it is still perfectly possible for you to do it, too. I agree that it is very hard indeed to adjust oneself to life without the man you loved, but what do you imagine he would think of the way you have been living since he died? Wouldn't you like to be able to think he would be proud of you for having adjusted yourself and gone on to live a decent, acid-respecting and useful life?

It's not too late to do it now, and the only one who can live your life for you is yourself. I urge you to turn back on the past, make up your mind never to see this man again, and start being the kind of woman I'm sure your husband thought you. To do anything else is not only to let him down shamefully, but also to cheat yourself.

DON'T KEEP PUNISHING YOUR SELF FOR A PAST ERROR

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I was 17 years old and going with a boy pretty steadily he once, and once only, started petting me too much. I made him quit after that one time, realizing it could turn into an awful mistake. He apologized and never tried it again.

Gradually we drifted apart, and now I'm a few years older and going with another boy.

What I want to know is, should I tell my new boy friend about this if we should ever become engaged? I want to be fair with him, and that's about the only thing he doesn't know about me. My best girl friend says she doesn't think it's necessary, as it happened many years back and should be forgotten. Is she right.

A.W.

Dear A.W.:

I fully agree with your girl friend. There is no reason what-ever for you to resurrect something that has been long dead and buried. Since you've told him you lowed yourself to be persuaded into any repetition of that kind of thing, that's all that matters.

You are older and wiser now, and there is no need for you to keep punishing yourself for something you did while still young and very foolish. Forget it and be happy.

SHIP LAUNCHED

COLLINGWOOD (CP)—The keel of an oil tanker was laid here in August, 1952, but when the completed vessel, S. S. Georgian Bay, took to the water Friday it was a grain carrier. Just after the keel was laid, a decision was made to extend oil pipeline facilities directly to Sarnia. With a few modifications the ship was changed into a grain and ore carrier. Built for Canada Steamship Lines, the 630 foot vessel has a capacity of 58,000 bushels.

Second Installment From Florence M. T.

As Told to Mary Moore

Florence M.T.'s letter, giving us some ideas on how she manages on $60.00 per month for a family of six, brought in responses from all over.

The letters urged Florence to give more and more details of how she accomplishes this well-nigh impossible feat. I forwarded two of these letters to her and asked her if she would let us impose on her for further details, and her gracious reply follows:

Personally and publicly I want to thank Florence for taking precious time during her Christmas preparations to co-operate.

Dear Mary Moore: I am frankly flattered by the response to my November 18 letter. (Although our acquaintances here still think we must have tasteless meals if we don't spend at least $100 per month on food.)

The best way I know to help is to enclose my food list for this month. (Florence's second letter is dated December 2.)

Cabbage, 3 or 3 large; carrots, 3 or 4 lbs; celery, 3 or 4 large; onions, 2 lbs.; apples, 1 bushel, grade C; oranges, 6 dozen; meat, 25 to 28 lbs, brisket (see method of cooking below), hamburg, shoulder, a few wieners; assorted canned vegetables, 30 cans; assorted soups; 4 or 6 cans; assorted fruit juices, 30 cans; raisins, 2 lbs.; prunes, 2 lbs.; figs, dates, 2 lbs; honey, 4 lbs.; eggs, 6 doz.; egg powder, 1 can; margarine, 14 to 16 lbs; cheese, 10 to 12 lbs; skim milk cheese or cheddar; skim milk powder, 23 lbs.; evaporated milk, 3 or 4 tall cans; canned cream, 4 small cans; potatoes, 15 lbs. (bought in 50-lb. bag); assorted canned fruits, 8 or 10 cans; baby cereal, 2 or 3 large cans; baby fruit and vegetables, 28 cans; white beans, 3 or 2 lbs.; macaroni, 1 or 2 lbs.; coffee, 1 large instant or 2 lbs. bulk oats, 10 lbs.; white sugar, 8 lbs.; (bought in 10-lb. bag); dark brown sugar, 2 lbs.; peanut butter, 1 lb.; salt, 1 box; baking powder, 1 small double acting; yeast, 6 or 10 granulated; prepared cereal—2 large (for Sunday treat); flour, mostly whole wheat 25 to 40 lbs.; marmalade, 2 lbs; custard powder, 1 lb.; brown rice, 1 or 2 lbs.; tea, 1-4 lb.; vinegar, 1 medium bottle; catsup, 1 or 2 bottles; also detergent, kleenex, toilet tissue, soap.

I save all vegetable and meat juices for soups etc. My way of cooking meat is: 5 or 6 lbs. brisket (17 cents lb. at supermarket this week)—sprinkle with meat tenderizer the night before; next day roast in covered pan at 200 degrees for 3 1-2 to 4 hours. This is extremely tender, juicy and sweet.

Canned vegetables are prepared by draining off liquid (to be saved) and quickly heated in 1 tablespoon margarine, and sprinkled with seasoning (tarragon, chervil, anise, etc.). My prized cook book is "Cooked To Your Taste," a vegetable cook book by Ann Williams-Heller. It contains many food and health hints as well.

My cake and cookie mix is: 1 lb. margarine, 9 cups bread flour, 1-3 cup baking powder, 1 cup skim milk powder. For cookies add, to 3 cups of above mix, 1 egg, 1 cup sugar and fruit such as raisins, or nuts or oats, etc. Knead well. For cake: to 2 cups of above mix add 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 to 2-3 cup water, flavoring. Beat well for several minutes.

This mix also makes an acceptable pastry by adding to 2 cups of mix enough water to handle. Dot the rolled dough with margarine.

Bread making method—Prepare sponge the night before: 6 cups lukewarm water, 1 granulated yeast package, 6 tablespoons margarine, 3 tablespoons sugar, 3 or 4 tablespoons salt, 1 cup powdered skim milk, 8 cups bread flour (white or brown). Beat together well, and cover till morning. Next morning add about 12 cups whole wheat flour, and proceed with the usual kneading, rising, punching down and so forth as in most recipes. I do not find a great deal of difference in kneading of white or whole wheat dough. But I do find it much easier to divide the dough in batch into two or three and knead separately. To make a fine-textured loaf, just before putting in the bread pans, roll each loaf with rolling pin, and roll up as you would a jelly roll, and then place in oiled pans. This recipe makes 6 loaves.

The above list looks uninspiring, but when prepared in a variety of ways plain, everyday foods can be a surprise. Of course you must have your family's co-operation. It won't work if one or more individuals refuse to eat this or that.—Sincerely Florence M. T.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

ATTENTION . . . ALL CHILDREN . . . TO YOUR PRE-CHRISTMAS MANNERS!

Aside to Santa: James Whitcomb Riley, the children's poet, said it just right . . . "Dear Santa: Here Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!"

WHEN SHE PRESENTS CHRISTMAS GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm planning to present, in person, a Christmas present to a friend (a man) whom I'm very much interested in, and who, I know, is interested in me. Please suggest some appropriate words I should say.

N.

You might say, "With every good wish, Bob, for your Christmas happiness." Or, "I hope this little gift will tell you how happy I hope your Christmas will be . . ." and your New Year too, Bob." Or, "With a bow to a friend from a friend . . . A Happy Christmas to you and a Happy New Year, Bob."

SHE NEEDN'T SAY ANYTHING, IF NOTHING ABOUT GIVING GIFTS

D. ar Mrs. Beeckman:

Both my friend and I moved here to Southern California three years ago, and at that time stopped Christmas-present-giving. I delest the job of buying presents, and I never know what people like. I can afford to buy presents, but I don't like people to give us gifts when I know they can't afford it. I give my money to charities I'm interested in. I buy Christmas seals, and I send many Christmas cards. Now for my special problem. We are squainted with several couples with whom we play cards. How can I tell these people diplomatically that we don't expect a gift from them? If they give us one, and we have none to give in return then I'll be embarrassed.

A.

My advice is that you say nothing about giving or receiving Christmas presents, and that you do nothing about it. Since you haven't given presents the two or three Christmasses you and your husband have lived there, and if you don't do anything about them this year, next year I'm sure you won't have any problem about it. Your new friends will then realize your preference.

TYPE OF MARRIAGE ON FORMAL ANNOUCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My New Year's eve sister wishes to announce her marriage of several months ago. She went it announced without naming the date. She has been married before, and her husband died in February. She was very good and faithful to him, took care of him most devotedly through his seven years of sickness. For security reasons she married very soon after his death. Should I, her brother, or her mother, who lives in another state, announce the marriage?

H.M.

Do you mean your sister wishes to send formal announcements of her marriage? This would not be wise, for it would call clear attention to her marriage so soon after her husband's death, and of course the date of the marriage could not be omitted. My suggestion is that she send New Year cards to all relatives and friends, and on these informally include the news of her marriage. (she would not then need to give the date). her new husband's name (when necessary), her address, and any other news she wishes.

Dorchester Prison Proving Criminals Can Be Rehabilitated

DORCHESTER, N.B. (CP)—Dorchester penitentiary, a grim hilltop fortress of grey stone, is proving that some convicted criminals can be turned into useful, law-abiding citizens.

The federal prison for the Maritimes illustrates the modern penological emphasis on reform and rehabilitation where possible.

About 500 men are confined. They come from Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick in addition to at least 50 from St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary due to overcrowding in the Quebec institution.

120 GRADUATES

Canadian penitentiaries began to concentrate on reformable criminals about 1945, taking as their guidebook the report of the Archambault royal commission on the country's penal system. In the last five years approximately 120 men have graduated from Dorchester's vocational training centre and returned to society as "plumbers, bricklayers, carpenters, upholsterers and draftsmen.

"We feel our contributions in trade training are a factor in a man's re-establishment," says the chief vocational officer, Robert K. Allaby. "But the major effort must come from within the man himself. His rehabilitation starts there."

Col. G. T. Goad, Dorchester warden, has similar views. He says: "The man who won't be reformed can't be reformed.

"Efforts to equip the convict with a profitable trade, find him a job on the outside and give him a chance to go straight are concentrated on youths and first offenders. The older repeater, however, is not automatically eliminated.

STERN BUT HUMANE

Although life in Dorchester is regimented sternness, without coddling, the inmates are treated like human beings. They have individual cells, radio earphones, a wash basin and toilet.

The solitary confinement section is above ground, well lighted and ventilated. A prisoner here cannot smoke. His reading is restricted to trade journals. He sleeps on a wooden pallet a few inches off the floor. He has two blankets but no sheets or pillow. His toilet is a bucket. For 45 minutes a day, he is exercised in the yard.

The prisoner on "solitary" for misconduct is seen daily by the penitentiary doctor. The diet is bread and water or bread, water, porridge and potatoes.

No guard will touch an inmate unless a tense situation demands force. The only weapons are rifles and revolvers in guard towers. If an enraged convict is armed with a makeshift weapon the guard on the spot must depend on judo training.

ALCOHOL FACTOR

Many prisoners battle alcohol while others try to make it. Warden Goad estimates alcohol was a factor in 90 per cent of the crimes for which the convicts are paying. An Alcoholics Anonymous group, of voluntary membership, was formed nearly five years ago and holds weekly meetings.

Occasionally ingenious prisoners concoct home brew with ingredients pilfered from the kitchen and farm. There has been no evidence of it in the last six months.

There's no lock-stepping file at Dorchester, no head-shaving and striped suit. Neither is there any cursing of inmates—profanity is forbidden.

The penitentiary can hold about 600 men. All the men are there paying five, 10 or 15 cents a day depending on grade, Of this, 25 cents is put aside toward the day of release.

TWEED

Stoco Child Rescued From Moira River

TWEED — Jackie Oliphant, six years old, of Stoco, narrowly escaped drowning in the Moira River, north of Tweed, early Sunday afternoon. The boy was left in charge of a family by the name of Masters, while the father went to the woods to get a Christmas tree.

The young lad was rolling a snowball near the water and in some manner fell in. He was noticed by Norris Embury and Mrs. William LaLonde and Mr. Embury secured a long ladder and shoved it out on the thin ice and the young lad was able to grab it and he was pulled to shore. The little boy was rushed to the LaLonde home, where he was wrapped in warm blankets and although he suffered some from exposure, he was none the worse for his experience.

Boss Visits Hall of Supreme Council Situated in Kremlin

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP) — The guide pulled back a dust cover. For a few minutes I saw the desk of a councillor of the Supreme Soviet. We were in the Kremlin, in the hall of supreme council. My regular guide, provided by the state, had come along as interpreter. At the gate we were met by an army colonel. Inside an army captain took over as escort, with an impersonal blonde guide with a hole in the heel of her left stocking.

For two hours we trudged through endless corridors, bedrooms, apartments, chapels and exhibits of the glories of ancient Russia. Finally, we reached the council hall, as close as Russia comes to matching the parliamentary institutions of the West.

OLD IMPERIAL PALACE

It is an impressive modern chamber seating 1,316 deputies who represent the 16 Soviet republics. The walls and ceilings are grey-white, the furnishings of highly polished walnut. It was formed by knocking out a partition between two great halls of a 18th-century wing of the Imperial palace and redecking the interior.

The only decoration is a life-sized statue of Lenin in the centre of the platform.

It is like an elaborate university lecture hall. The deputies sit like schoolboys in banks of four in the body of the hall. On the rostrum are two or three rows of seats for ministers and officials. In the centre of the stage is the stand from which speeches are made.

The guide said Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov has no special seat on the rostrum, and that individual deputies are not assigned special seats on the floor. Seating is by blocks; each republic is given a section and its members sit where they wish.

Deputies' desks are just large enough for taking notes on foolscap pads. Between each two desks there is a microphone. On a shelf under each desk is an earphone.

BOXES FOR DIPLOMATS

Boxes along the right side of the hall are for diplomats and distinguished visitors. Two others, on either side of the public gallery across the back of the hall, are for the home and foreign press.

Besides being the home of Russia's "parliament," the hall is used for congresses of the Communist party, the trades unions and the Young Communist League.

The Kremlin, or "citadel" is an old fortress, beside the Moskva river, around which Moscow city grew. Within its walls, more than 2,000 yards long in roughly the shape of a triangle, the czars built successive additions to an ancient palace.

They lived there until Peter the Great moved the capital to St. Petersburg, now Leningrad, in 1703; thereafter came to Moscow only for their coronations and on state visits.

The 20 Kremlin buildings are mostly three storeys high, made of brick and stone and painted creamy yellow.

QUIET INNER SANCTUM

Visitors go first to Cathedral Square, from where Malenkov's office block is visible. (The guide said Malenkov only works in the Kremlin, does not live there.)

One is struck by the absence of traffic or people, other than guards in Russia's inner sanctum.

As we neared Cathedral Square I asked how many churches were there.

"Too many," said my guide.

Actually there are eight but they have small interiors. Russian Orthodox architecture runs to roofs and cupolas above relatively little floor space.

The three I saw are covered from floor to ceiling with ikons—religious paintings on wood—and mural frescoes. All are well cared for and have central heating and air conditioning to protect their art treasures.

The guide affected not to know biblical stories and referred to the murals as illustrations of folk legends.

RESTORATION WORK

Much expert restoration has been going on in the cathedrals recently and some ikons have yielded as many as five successive layers of pictures before undreamed of 11th and 12th century paintings were uncovered.

The Kremlin museum is the repository of fabulous wealth in religious and state vestments and jewelry. The spectacle of mitres, jewelled crosses and robes of the patriarchs; the czars' caps of state crowns, sceptres and orbs; the czars' robes and the diamond-encrusted harness of their horses, is staggering. The superturtas of one patriarch is said to weigh 80 pounds, including 22 pounds of pearls for decorations.

The museum also houses huge ugly pieces of gold and silver work brought by the ambassadors of Britain, France, The Netherlands, Denmark, Persia and Turkey as presents to the czars.

There is a better collection of armor here than I saw in the Tower of London.

Check Reveals That Little Eva Is Not Orphan

SUSSEX, N.B. (CP)—Little Eva isn't an orphan.

Her father and mother confirmed this Monday, after a telegraphic jest set off a chain of events which had telephone and telegraph wires humming from here to Philadelphia.

It was the perennial Christmas tree hoax, frowned on by Canadian and United States authorities. It began when Eva Hughes of Sterling, Kings county, handed her father a note to pin on one of the thousands of Christmas trees being shipped to American cities.

Her father, Malcolm, pinned the note on the tree without opening the envelope. He said he didn't know that the child had written she was "a poor little orphan girl."

When the tree arrived in Philadelphia's suburban West Park, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Westhoff found Eva's note. It said:

"Dear Santa—I am a poor little orphan girl, age 5, and I would like to have for Christmas an angora hat and mitts set. Color red, if possible. Thank you, Santa. Love and kisses, Eva Hughes."

The Westhoffs started a gift-raising campaign among neighbors. Mrs. Westhoff bought the red hat and mittens. They were dismayed when the Philadelphia Better Business Bureau cautioned the whole thing might be a hoax.

WIDE INVESTIGATION

Inquiries involved United States and Canadian news services, the Better Business Bureau and the RCMP. Eva was located Monday.

Her father, an unemployed woods worker, said it is common practice to tie Santa Claus notes to Christmas trees being shipped out of the province. He said his other children sent similar notes last year and received dolls and other small gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes have nine children. Four are youngsters who live with their parents in a three-room house. One daughter is married and four older boys work in the woods, when they can find work.

Two of the boys own automobiles. But Mr. Hughes said woods work hasn't been good in his district this year and "unless things brighten up" there won't be an elaborate Christmas celebration in his home.

He said he hoped the Westhoffs might go through with their plan to send the gifts.

"We'll be very thankful if we get something," he said.

SANTA WILL ARRIVE

Eva is going to get her gifts, Mrs. Westhoff said Monday night "We're going to play Santa. We'll collect as many gifts as we can and mail them off within a few days.

("They may not arrive at Eva's home in time for Christmas but Santa will let her know they're coming," she said at Philadelphia.)

Authorities were disturbed by the incident. In many cases, notes pinned to Christmas trees are frauds. The traffic has created what Better Business Bureaus call the trifling term "a racket." Tree exporters and others discourage it.

Little Benny's Note Book

I ran in the house for another glass of water, and I lifted up the cover of the cake tin just for luck, and what was underneath but one bit of ma's special chocklit layer cakes, making me with it was dinner time and dinner was over and dizzert had started, and I thought, Oh boy, am I going to have plenty of room for this tonite.

And I was home rite on time for dinner on account of the special occasion, and what did we have but frankferters and beans, and I thought, Heck why couldn't we of had that some other time?

Frankferters and beans being one of my 2 favorite things, the other one being frankferters and sawerkraut, and I thought, Oh well, it's in a good cause.

Meening the chocklit layer cake, and I said to ma, Dont put mutch on my plate, ma just one frankferter and about 20 beans. I dont feel very hungry just yet, I said, and ma said, Well, I'm sure I dont want you to stuff yourself if you're not hungry, but I must say it's a new attitude for you to take tordys frankferters and beans.

It's a commendable attitude, pop said. There's an old Mother Goose rime. The meat is red, the jam is sweet, when a boy's not hungry he shouldn't eat, he said, and I said, Oh well, I mite get my appetite back when the dizzert comes on.

That reminds me, ma said, I want to send out a general warning that there's no dizzert tonight. I was too busy making a cake for the bridge ladies tomorrow, she said, and I said, Aw heck. Oh well, maybe you better give me my usual number of frankferters and beans, I said.

Which she did, not asking me why but probably guessing.

White Christmas For Midwest In United States

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Snow and frigid temperatures gripped sections of the midwest United States and Rocky mountain area today, slowing traffic, harrassing travelers and giving some school children an early Christmas present.

A storm, arriving with the first official day of winter Monday, dumped more than half a foot of snow on Kansas and up to 17 inches in the Colorado mountains.

Trains and buses were running late in some sections and a few bus schedules were cancelled. Ice by coating on streets and highways caused numerous accidents. Airlines cancelled several flights.

SOME SCHOOLS SHUT

Some schools in Missouri and Kansas were closed, giving pupils an extra holiday just before the regular Christmas vacation begins.

In addition to Missouri and Kansas, the snow also reached into Colorado, Wyoming, Iowa, Nebraska as far south as Oklahoma City, Okla.

Temperatures were expected to drop to near zero or below in most of the states by Tuesday night.

The heaviest fall—17 inches—was reported at Rabbit Ears pass in the Colorado mountains. The pass is 130 miles northwest of Denver. The snow was much lighter, however, in Colorado and Wyoming cities and on the plains.

Teachers Favor Mass Resignation Early in Year

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of Toronto high school teachers Monday voted in favor of a mass resignation by the teachers next May, together with suspension of all the teachers' extra-curricular activities at the schools as soon as the 1954 spring term begins.

The officials of District 7 of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation announced the decision after a closed meeting.

The announcement apparently was the teachers' group's answer to a recent decision by the Toronto board of education to retain the single salary schedule for Toronto teachers.

Under the single salary schedule in effect more than two years primary and secondary school teachers are paid equal amounts for equal qualifications. The federation seeks restoration of the double salary schedule whereby elementary and secondary school teachers had separate salary schedules.

The vote for resignation was made in the form of a recommendation to the entire federation, which holds its annual assembly here next week.

Cessation of extra-curricular activities would halt coaching of school teams and distrupt publication of student magazines.

Woodworkers' Union Is Called Irresponsible

VICTORIA (CP) —Judge A. E. Lord has rejected a request for a union shop and compulsory dues checkoff made by the Prince George local of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

He was appointed by the British Columbia government to inquire into the strike of 5,000 northern interior woodworkers. The strike now is in its 13th week.

In his report, made public Monday, he said:

"To my mind, it is impossible to suggest that the union is a responsible union."

He recommended, however, an immediate 5½ cent an hour wage increase.

The IWA originally had asked for 18 cents an hour, but later agreed to a conciliation board proposal for six cents. The present basic wage is $1.29½.

UNLAWFUL ACTS

Judge Lord referred to a series of allegedly unlawful acts on the part of the union since the start of the strike, and said:

"This union must appreciate that they cannot attain their ends by unlawful acts."

The IWA had charged operators with intimidation and threats of reprisal. but Judge Lord said:

"On the evidence submitted, I can make no finding that such a condition actually exists."

Judge Lord is expected to start a similar inquiry, possibly next week, into the southern interior woodworkers' strike. Three thousand members have been on strike for 10 weeks, seeking wage increases.

PROBE CHURCH FIRE

WALLACEBURG (CP) —Provincial police have started an investigation into the $4,000 fire in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Roman Catholic church here last Thursday. The fire destroyed the communion railing and caused heavy smoke damage to the interior.

RCAF Private Radio Station Now on Air

LANGER, England (CP)—This RCAF supply base's private radio station, Radio Langar, officially took the air Monday night with a program of news, sports, drama, western songs and a recorded message from Defence Minister Claxton.

The station, built at a cost of about £100, is on a closed circuit and can be heard only by the some 300 airmen and their families here. Officials hope in the future to have programs carried by telephone cable to the nearby RCAF station at North Luffenham for rebroadcast there.

Radio Langar's manager, Flt. Lt. Jack Moffet of Regina, who is the base communications officer, planned a varied opening program. It started with Canadian news specially recorded by the CBC and sports news by LAC. Ned Hainboth of Ottawa.

The half-hour opening ceremonies included recorded messages from Claxton, the RCAF's chief of air staff, Air Vice-Marshal C. R. Slemon, and the station commander, Group Capt. G. E. McCormick of Ottawa.

There was also piano music by LAC. Larry Gravelle of Sudbury, and recorded CBC programs.

Radio Langar will broadcast about eight hours each day starting at 7 a. m.

POPE HONORS FRANCO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius Monday conferred the Order of Christ upon Generalissimo Franco of Spain. The order dates back to 1318 and usually is reserved for chiefs of state. The present Pope previously has conferred the order on only three persons—to former King Umberto of Italy, former president Miklas of Austria and Prince Francesco Chigi, commander of the Noble Pontifical Guard.

POLICEMAN FREED

TORONTO (CP) — A manslaughter charge laid against Police Constable Edwin Barkley after the death of a Toronto youth shot in a warehouse break-in was dismissed Monday. Testimony was that Garfield Belfon was one of three youths inside a dental supply warehouse when Constable Barkley investigated. One of the youths tipped a crate over, hitting the officer and discharging his gun. Belfon was killed.

French Presidency In the Balance

Ballot after ballot was cast by French deputies to the Assembly and still no candidate could obtain the clear majority necessary to elect a new president. Premier Joseph Laniel, left, and Marcel Edmond Naegelen, right, were the leading candidates as the deputies wrangled and divided into small groups supporting several candidates, but refusing to recognize the need for narrowing the choice to two. — Central Press Canadian.

Firemen Helped by Expectant Papas

Twenty-one infants and their mothers and 35 other patients were removed from the Victoria Hospital in London, Ont., when a linen closet caught fire, sending clouds of dense smoke billowing through the corridors of the maternity ward. Firemen ran ladders to the windows, but found that a crew of volunteer firemen had already started the job of firefighting and removing the patients. The firefighters were a group of expectant fathers waiting in the hospital. — Central Press Canadian.

RECIPE for a Merry Christmas from your DOMINION STORE

Take the crisp cold of a December night, add two generous parts of snow, stir in air so clear it tinkles.

Into a generous heart, mix the wonder of a little girl, the sparkle of a young boy's glance, the love of parents, and set gently before the chimney side.

Add the lightest touch of a reindeer's hooves, a sprig of holly, a scent of fir. Set the mixture to rise in the warmth of a dream of good will to men. It will be almost ready to serve when it bubbles with warmth and good feeling.

Bedeck with the light of a star set in the East, garnish with shining balls of gold, silver and red. Serve to the tune of an ancient carol in the middle of the family table.

This recipe is sufficient for all the men and women you will ever meet

With best wishes for a Merry Christmas.

Vishinsky Threatens Veto Of UN Plan for Mediation Of Syrian-Israeli Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The threat of Soviet veto hangs over a key part of a Western formula for mediation of the Syrian-Israeli dispute over the waters of the River Jordan.

Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky voiced the threat late Monday after the Reds sat quietly at the United Nations Security Council table during almost two months of debate on the issue. The veto would be Russia's 57th since the council started functioning eight years ago.

In an effort to get the Jordan question settled before Christmas, the council scheduled two meetings today.

Vishinsky objected generally to provisions of the resolution put forward last week by the United States, Britain and France. Until Monday he had been expected to abstain, but he warned that he would vote against the main provision.

TO RECONCILE INTERESTS

This clause would request the UN...imoe chief, Maj.-Gen. Vagn Bennike of Denmark, to try to reconcile the interests involved in the dispute "and to take such steps as he may deem appropriate to effect the reconciliation, having in view the development of the natural resources affected in a just and orderly manner for the general welfare."

Vishinsky contended this was too broad and did not deal specifically with Syria's complaint that an Israeli hydro-electric project would divert Jordan waters needed to irrigate Syrian lands.

He sought to postpone a vote on the Western proposal indefinitely, but the Western sponsors indicated they would press for a decision.

$300,000,000 To Be Spent In Metro Area

TORONTO (CP)—Cost of new construction in metropolitan Toronto this year will amount to a record $300,000,000, it was announced Monday.

The figure, reached from the combined reports of 13 municipalities which make up the metropolitan city, is 50 per cent higher than last year's record.

The reports show that enough new living accommodation is coming in 10,300 homes and 8,800 flats in the apartment buildings, was provided to house 60,000 people.

The greatest construction was in Toronto municipality — $80,000,000 compared to $43,000,000 last year. The increase was due mainly to the erection of several large office buildings.

Quarrel Leaves Couple's Home In Shambles

PORT ERIE (CP) — A husband and wife are in serious condition in hospital after what police described as a domestic quarrel Monday which left the couple's home a shambles.

Robert Lowry, 38, of nearby Ridgeway, and his wife Dorothy, 37, were found unconscious in their home. Police were called by neighbors.

Both Lowry's wrists had been slashed and he suffered loss of blood. His wife's injuries were not immediately determined. Police said their bed had been inflicted with a blunt instrument or chair.

Officers said the couple's home was a shambles, with broken furniture and blood stains in almost every room. The Lowry's have four children who are being cared for by neighbors.

38-Cent Support For Eggs in 1954

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to continue price support for eggs at 38 cents a dozen in 1954, the agriculture department announced Monday.

Under the program, the department buys all surplus eggs in storage at the end of the year, paying 38 cents a dozen, basic Grade A large, delivered at standard points.

This is one of the cheapest programs the government has ever undertaken. The market prices for eggs has been maintained well above the support figure and as a result very few eggs have been sent to government warehouses.

To Drop Grover Whalen As Manhattan's Greeter

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor-elect Robert F. Wagner Jr., has confirmed reports he would drop Grover A. Whalen as one of the city's official city greeter and name Richard C. Patterson Jr., to the job.

Wagner's announcement that Patterson would succeed Whalen as chairman of the mayor's reception committee, contained a tribute to Whalen's long service in the job. The 71-year-old Whalen is a retired.

Whalen headed the reception committee since it was formed in 1938, officially for all city welcomes for important visitors, as well as such events as the World's Fair.

Patterson served as ambassador to Yugoslavia and Guatemala, and was minister to Switzerland until last June.

PACIFIC COLONIES

Organized colonization of New Zealand started in 1840 with a settlement at Wellington.

Wife of Slain Man Testifies As Witness

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Ann Thibideau, wife of co-wrestler Arthur (Terry) Thibideau, 37, who was slain at a drinking party in a Toronto home Dec. 6, broke down in tears as she testified in court Monday.

Thibideau's brother, Roy, 39, is charged with Arthur's murder.

Testifying for the crown, Mrs. Thibideau described the melee she said broke out when her brother-in-law referred insultingly to her two children.

She said she and both men had been drinking. She said her husband struck her brother down in the scuffle and then Roy jumped from the floor and stabbed Arthur with a hunting knife.

Mrs. Thibideau took a look of pain and shock on his (Arthur's) face. I remember it so distinctly."

The widow then told how her husband staggered out the door and fell through the door.

Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow is hearing the case which was adjourned until today.

No Agreement Reached

TIMMINS (CP)—Representatives of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) held a three-hour meeting Monday in an attempt to settle a strike of 1,500 miners.

Mayor J. W. Spooner of Timmins, chairman of the meeting, acted as spokesman after it broke up.

"No agreement was reached," he said. "There are certain points at issue which I wish to explore further before considering the advisability of arranging further meetings."

Hollinger is the largest of eight gold mines hit by strikes in the Timmins area.

Labor Minister Says Benefits Will Be Paid

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg announced Monday that unemployment insurance benefits will be paid to 250 unemployed workers at the Paymaster Consolidated Gold Mine at Timmins.

Mr. Gregg said he had been advised by the unemployment insurance commission that a previous decision of Gregg benefits has been reversed on the basis of new evidence.

The commission previously ruled tentatively that the workers had been "locked out" as a result of a labor dispute and therefore were not eligible for unemployment insurance benefits. However, it launched a new investigation Dec. 17 to learn whether there were any "new facts" which might warrant a reversal of the decision. W. J. Russell, regional claims officer at Toronto, went to Timmins to investigate.

Cats Pass Up Milk to Drown Woes in Liquor

GENEVA (Reuters)—Cats, like people, will pass up milk to drown their woes in liquor, the United Nations Health Organization has reported Monday.

A W.H.O. report described how 10 cats, shocked by the narcotic conditions, took to drink provided by their keepers.

Before their neuroses were off, eight of the 10 felines had learned to distinguish cocktail glasses of milk laced with alcohol from saucers of plain milk almost at once and variably chose the former.

A total of 16 cats were shocked into neuroses by being badly frightened just as they were about to eat.

Six of them stuck to plain milk afterwards to form a minority tippearance group. But the tipsy 10 continued to lay up milk cocktails until they recovered from the psychological effects of their fright.

The lesson for the human species in the experiment, the report says, is that the majority of heavy drinkers are seeking an escape from unpleasant feelings or emotional conflicts.

The organization is laying the groundwork for a seminar of the cure and prevention of alcoholism next month in Noordwijk, The Netherlands.

New Zealanders Tcld To Go Easy on Clasps

WELLINGTON (CP) — Prime Minister Sidney Holland has asked New Zealanders to be "careful with your handshakes" when presented to the Queen during her visit here.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh are due to arrive in New Zealand Wednesday.

Holland said: "I am sure Her Majesty will not gauge the warmth of your welcome by the force of your handshake. Five weeks of handshaking could cause considerable pain and inconvenience which everyone would wish to avoid."

4,000 Salmon Tagged Before Being Released

PORT DANIEL, Que. (CP) — More than 4,000 salmon spawned in Port Daniel river lost a fin last summer before they were allowed out to sea for the first time. It will not keep them from getting around, but they will be known wherever they go.

And that is what Quebec biologists who performed the snipping job on the six-inch-long young salmon want. The tagging operation at a weir five miles upstream from this southeastern Gaspe coast town was the start of a 10-year study of the Atlantic salmon's migratory habits.

The Quebec department of fisheries, working in co-operation with the Atlantic salmon commission and the four Atlantic provinces, is trying to find answers to such questions as: Do Atlantic salmon always return to the river in which they were spawned? Is there a pattern to their migrations? Will, say, Newfoundlanders catch salmon spawned in Quebec rivers? Does angling hurt commercial salmon fishing?

TO WATCH CATCHES

Commercial and sport fishermen have been asked to watch their catches for salmon with a missing adipose fin, a small fatty fin near the tail.

When the marked two- and three-year salmon return, perhaps in three or four years, they will start looking for spawning ground.

A Quebec biologist said there is a theory that salmon have a "home instinct" and return to spawn in the river in which they grew up. If any evidence for the theory is found, biologists will be at the weir to know about it.

Another question is: How many times will they return to spawn? Most Pacific salmon are known to die after spawning once, the biologist said, but it is believed Atlantic salmon spawn two or three times.

Next summer, he said, salmon coming upstream will be tagged—by a metal capsule attached to the dorsal fin—and these, too, will become part of the research program. Gaspe salmon caught in traps by wire are useless on small fry salmon because they do not stay on.

MAY EXTEND STUDY

Young salmon in other rivers in Gaspe peninsula probably will be included in the study later. They will be marked differently, probably by cutting off other small fins (pelvic, anal, dorsal, right), and examined to see how far and where they can be identified.

Besides the fishermen — the ravages of predatory birds which feed on young fish. The salmon population in the Port Daniel salmon river increased "by several thousands" when the kingfisher and fish catchers were eliminated from the area, a fisheries official said.

Gaspe Peninsula Atlantic salmon catches were worth slightly more than $200,000 in 1952, compared with nearly $300,000 in 1952, claim fishing fishermen have since enough to river mouths. If the limits were set closer in shore, 'catches would be higher, they say.

Private fishing clubs, however, claim that, if the salmon are overbrought closer, too many young salmon will be destroyed and population of the species will be threatened.

Western Europe Sees Glimmer Of Hope for Peace in Atomic Age in Russia's Agreement

By REUTERS

Western Europe today saw a glimmer of hope for peace in the atomic age in Russia's agreement to talk over President Eisenhower's plan for international co-operation on atomic energy.

A current of cautious optimism ran through the old world's capitals, whose crowded millions recognize they would make easy targets in an atomic war.

Paris, London and Berlin studied the 4,000-word reply and wondered if Russia meant to enter talks on Eisenhower's "atomic bank" proposals with goodwill—or if it is just another round in the propaganda struggle of the cold war.

Moscow radio, which carried the reply Monday night after it was given to the U.S. ambassador in Moscow, Charles E. Bohlen, had nothing to add today.

Tass, the official Russian news agency, said the text appeared in full in all Russian newspapers today, with special emphasis on the passage which said Russia is ready to join private talks on the U.S. plan.

Official government comment on the reply was withheld in the chief capitals of most Europe pending careful study of the document.

But in London, diplomatic sources indicated that Britain welcomes the move, though some are skeptical over the number of "ifs" and "buts" it contained. The reply's insistence that Russia's version of international atomic control should be discussed before talk about controls—would make agreement in ang talks difficult, they said.

In Paris Daniel Mayer, president of the National Assembly's foreign affairs commission, welcomed at least the resumption of contacts between Washington and the Kremlin on the subject.

At the West German capital of Bonn, where Russian proposals often meet a reader skepticism than elsewhere in Europe, government officials professed to see "a certain readiness" to accept Eisenhower's plan, though they pointed out Russia has yet to back words with action.

Two North Stars Played Santas To Men in Arctic

MONTREAL (CP)—An RCAF North Star, fresh from playing Santa Claus to 200 Eskimos in Northern Ungava, returned to Montreal's Dorval airport Monday after dropping some 8,000 pounds of supplies and Christmas mail to air force, RCMP and Hudson Bay Company personnel.

The North Star, one of two used in the operation, flew during a 2,500 miles to Resolute bay with a cargo that included Christmas puddings and gifts for the Eskimo people in the western and central Arctic islands, and mail for personnel at Resolute.

Earlier Monday, two twin-engine C-119 cargo aircraft landed at Goose Bay, Labrador, after carrying out a similar operation in the eastern Arctic.

Protestant, R.C. Co-operation Urged at Alliance Meeting

TORONTO (CP)—Toleration between Roman Catholics and Protestants was urged Monday night at a joint meeting of the Alliance Canadien, an organization devoted to promoting better understanding between French and English-speaking Canadians.

Abbe Arthur Maheux, history professor at Laval University, Quebec, and one of the guest speakers, stressed the importance of "understanding rather than fearing one another's religion."

"Most religious disputes are caused by fear of being suppressed by another denomination, which is certainly far from the spirit of Roman Catholic church," he said.

Even in a strong Catholic province such as Quebec, you never find a Protestant church burned or being subjected."

Abbe Maheux outlined cultural and ethnic differences which the alliance would have to overcome, including the concept of values.

VALUES DIFFERENT

"Of all the European heritages, both French and English, the English-speaking Canadians value, in order of importance, government, democracy, trade and commerce, education, language and religion. The French Canadians put first the opposite."

Abbe Maheux illustrated the importance of religion in the life of French-speaking Canadians and suggested that the co-operation of both Protestant and Catholic denominations be used in the alliance.

Speaking on behalf of the Protestant point of view, Rev. Frederick Silcox of Toronto, a United Church minister and author, termed the French Canadian as "peasant-like, which will make not only a new Canada, but a new world, if it is able."

Mr. Silcox said that in today's world, where Christendom itself is at stake, it is up to Canada to set an example in international relations by welding a united country out of two distinct cultures.

"United we may stand," he said, "but divided we will inevitably fall."

The alliance, formed in October by a group of "pioneer enteste" between Quebec and the rest of Canada, hopes to establish a branch or chapter to every major city in Canada.

Visitors Surge Into Auckland To Greet Queen

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters)—Visitors surged into New Zealand's "Queen city" as preparations were completed for the welcome to the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, due Wednesday morning aboard the liner Gothic.

Pictures of the royal couple and signs of welcome took precedence over traditional Christmas decorations. Police were revising their plans as visitors crowded into Auckland at a rate far greater than they had expected.

The Gothic is steaming from the Tonga islands on the last leg of its transpacific voyage.

The royal couple will spend 39 days in New Zealand before resuming the ship at the southern fishing port of Bluff for the trip to Australia.

From Auckland on Christmas Day the Queen will make the sovereign's traditional broadcast to the people of the Commonwealth, marking the first time this annual message has been broadcast from outside the British Isles.

A highlight of the tour will come on the 12 when a section of New Zealand Parliament will be opened for the first time by a reigning monarch.

EXCITEMENT HIGH

Newspaper, radio and movie features on the royal visit have pushed popular excitement almost to the bursting point. Price for a "room with a view" in Auckland has mounted to £30, and already the best tent-pitching spots and trailer sites overlooking Bluff harbor have been snapped up for the royal departure Jan. 31.

In Wellington Monday, members of Parliament went through a full-scale rehearsal for the state opening next month, with a young woman army officer standing in for the Queen.

Coming of Christmas coincides here with the beginning of the southern hemisphere summer, and New Zealanders are delighted that the Queen will be touring their country at the best time of year.

The weatherman, however, is predicting that it will be cloudy and rainy when the Queen and duke arrive.

After the program closed a vote of thanks was given to all who helped make the evening such a success.

"December Days" was read by Mrs. Walker for Mrs. Durant, who recently returned from California.

United Church Moderator Gives Christmas Sunday Centennial Message

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

RAWDON — The Rt. Rev. A. A. Scott, M.A., B.D., D.D., Moderator of the United Church of Canada was the Centennial speaker Sunday morning at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling.

He based his theme on "What Does Christmas Day Really Mean?" Dr. Scott pictured the world today which is so much commercialized and the thousands of people who are so busy going places, feasting and enjoying themselves, according to their own desires and plans that they very often forget what Christmas really means and whose birthday we celebrate.

AFT ILLUSTRATIONS

By means of several apt illustrations, the speaker outlined "What Does it Mean to be a Christian? Through these true pictures of life, it was pointed out that servants of Jesus Christ often are required to say "no," when a person becomes a Christian he has accepted a leader who makes unconditional demands on his or her time. Jesus said: "follow me," and He meant immediately, not when you have time, or when you feel like it, but rather he meant that Christians follow Him on Christmas and on every other day of the year.

Dr. Scott voiced tribute to the pioneers of 100 years ago, who were interested in the erection of St. Paul's and he urged that this unique celebration take on a world outlook and that individuals here take an active interest in their fellowman in other lands.

An active church must be missionary minded with a power that will draw all men unto it.

A man starving in India should be of as much concern as if he were starving in Canada, in your own home town. Today the world is a small place with world travel making such record flights. All over Canada the missionary minded churches are thriving and their local problems are being solved. They are busy thinking of their less fortunate brothers and sisters.

The speaker contrasted the lives of two men— one who was of no use to anyone, and the other who gave so much of himself for humanity.

EVERY-DAY CHRISTIANS

In closing, Dr. Scott urged everyday Christian living, a quick response to helping folks, who are burdened with problems and in this way Christ can be put back into the very centre of Christmas.

St. Paul's United Church sparkled with Christmas tree lights and Yuletide decorations despite the dull weather Sunday morning.

Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of St. Paul's, presided over the service and welcomed the moderator and a large number of other guests.

Christmas chimes resounded through the edifice as the guests were arriving and the prelude entitled "The Christmas Tree," by Cornelius was in the form of a violin and organ selection.

The order of choral worship for this Centennial service was used by kind permission of the First Methodist choir on this occasion. This church was first organized in 1786 and John Street Methodist Church, New York City, is still in connection with Sunday services being held at that point. They kindly loaned their special order of service for this special occasion. The choirs and congregation joined in that old favorite hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful."

BAPTISMAL SERVICE

A baptismal service followed with Rev. Baker, and the moderator officiating. The children were: Janet Elizabeth Duffin, born August 29th., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Duffin; Susan Dianne Tucker, born June 6th, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tucker and Robert Bruce Philp, born August 29th, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Philp.

A name plate was dedicated in memory of Annie Nugent Preston, with a gift of $100 to the endowment fund.

Messrs. Cecil Macklin, Claude Tucker, Elmer Post, John Good, and Miss Rose Ann Vandervoort gathered the offering, after which Mr. W. D. Grant, guest violinist; Rev. W. S. Irwin, harpist, and Mrs. A. E. Baker, organ, rendered a delightful number by Isaac Watts, "Joy to the World." The harpist also gave "Gounod's herds' Cradle Song," while the audience sat in hushed silence.

CHORAL SERVICE

The choral service was outstanding with Mrs. A. E. Baker, as organist and director, and the main items were: The cherubs of the Royal Choir in massed formation at the pulpit, sang a Czech carol "Rocking" with motions, the sub junior choir sang a French carol, "O Leave Your Sheep," with Miss Grace Heasman as soloist; the pastor read the Christmas lesson found in St. Luke and over 20 young people sang "The Shepherds' Christmas Song."

Mr. William Aylsworth contributed a baritone solo "The Shepherds at the Inn". Mrs. Wm. Wilkins, a soprano solo, "Tom Bambine." Mr. Harry Brown, a tenor solo, "O Holy Night," and Mrs. W. D. Grant, violinist, rendered "Star Candles."

The junior choir of 35 voices sang three carols, "A Bright Shining Star," "In the Black Midwinter" and "The Snow Lay on the Ground."

A special Christmas oratorio was sung by Mrs. Walter Warren, Messrs. Douglas Fyear and William Aylsworth.

Christmas hymns were used throughout the service and the Centennial Christmas service closed with "His Name Shall be the Prince of Peace."

The moderator and Mrs. Scott spent the day in Stirling at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Elliott, and many folks were privileged to greet them.

Beautiful lithographed folders were provided and each family of St. Paul's received a special service of worship for use on Christmas Day.

Reds Approve U.S. Emphasis On Dangers of Atomic Race

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Russia said today President Eisenhower "quite justifiably" had emphasized the world dangers unless governments adopt measures against the race in atomic armaments.

Moscow radio broadcast an official Soviet government statement on President Eisenhower's recent United Nations speech proposing a world atomic pool for peaceful uses.

TEXT OF STATEMENT

The statement, handed to U.S. ambassador Charles Bohlen in Moscow today by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, said:

"Quite justifiably it is U.S. president emphasized the danger for the peoples of the world of the situation which is being created unless governments adopt measures against the race in atomic armaments.

"There is even more so now, when, together with the atomic weapon, the hydrogen weapon has already been invented — weapon which greatly surpasses in power the atomic weapon.

"It must be remebered also that there exist such modern types of armaments as the rocket weapons which modern technique enables to be used over distances of thousands of kilometres, without aircraft, as well as torpedoes with atomic warheads and others. "The discovery of the practical possibilities of the use of atomic power is in an immense achievement of modern science and technique."

The Soviet reply to President Eisenhower's proposals, which was delivered to the United States embassy in Moscow today, while accepting the president's invitation to talks, declared that the aims set by the president could not be successful without the prohibition of atomic and hydrogen weapons.

The Kremlin note said:

"As to General Eisenhower's statement on the confidential or diplomatic talks concerning his proposal, the Soviet government following consistently its peace-loving policy, expresses its readiness to take part in such negotiations."

Thousands of firefighters are standing by, some of them with rifles to put wallabies and kangaroos out of their misery as they try to flee through the blazing grass.

Many people are preparing to spend tonight lying on the beaches rather than suffer the stifling nights indoors.

Temperatures in many inland towns ranged from 100 to 115 degrees.

"Let's call them NOW— before the Long Distance rush starts!"

LONG DISTANCE is always "rushed" at Christmas. So many people want to greet absent friends and families that delays on many calls are simply unavoidable.

Calls reach their peak Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Then, even though every switchboard is manned to capacity and every operator is working at top speed, delays will occur.

That's why it's a good idea in call before the rush.

Please remember— Long Distance Calls will go through much faster before Christmas Eve and after Christmas Day

If you can give your Long Distance operator the number you're calling, you'll save time. Calls can be put through faster when you "call by number".

lliance Choir resents 'Songs rom The Sky'

The nave of the Christian and ndonary Alliance Church was ed to capacity last Sunday for n impressive presentation of ngs from the Sky," a Christ- cantata by Mary Augsbury, the direction of the Rev- and Eric Strain, pastor and ch musician, who also acted as ganist.

The choir loft, with its Christ- as decorations, which included a blazing star above, and the ntily illuminated tree, with ristmas candles, accenting every indow, formed a most appropri- ate setting for the rendition of e sacred musical drama.

The Cantata opened with, "Songs om the Sky," by male voices in chorus, accompanied by, fol- lowed by the well loved Christ- as carol, led by Mr. Paul De- ney, accompanied by Mrs. Dele- ery, at the piano.

The ladies' trio, which included rs. John Harsen, Miss Eleanor rager, and Mrs. E. Pickard, ave heard by a number of oth- ers, of which "The Lullaby reeneding Mary and the Christ hild, was very pleasing.

Other lovely portions were the ola trio, by Kenneth Dixon, Ro- ert Brown, and the Reverend ric Strain; the duet, "The Holy hild," by Mrs. R. Atyeo and Mrs. Pickard; solo, "Where Is He?" y Mr. Strain; and the anthem C. Minor, "Kings Afar" by male oices in chorus, rendered in the yle of a Hebrew chant.

The closing climax of the can- ata was the exceptionally fine rendition of "Wonderful," by the ll choir.

Mrs. Beverley Foster presided s the organ for the stirring pre- entation of the cantata.

RSM E. Peters, Hamilton, Dies

HAMILTON (CP)—One of Ham- lton's best known soldiers who had ompleted 48 years' service with mperial and Canadian regiments hen he retired in 1947, RSM. Ed- ard Peters, died Monday night. Veteran of three wars and bay- net champion of all colonial reg- iments in the First World War, e had been a familiar and sol- derly figure about the Hamilton emories for more than 40 years s drill instructor, caretaker and lerk of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders.

He joined the imperial army in 899 and was wounded at Kaffon- ontein in 1901. He came to Ca- ada after that war and was on arrade with the 91st Highlanders hen in 1904 when the regiment received s colors. He remained with the egiment when it became affiliated with the Argylls.

RSM. Peters served in the First World War with the 120th Battal- on but after the war he rejoined the Argylls until in the gar- rison. He was RSM. of the 2nd attalion of the Argylls during the Second World War and directed drill for various units.

Sgt. Maj. Peters is survived by his widow, three sons, and one daughter.

Girls' Murderer Hanged Tuesday

LONDON (Reuters) — Alfred Charles Whiteway, 22 - year - old "Tarzan" who raped and stabbed to death two teen-age girls, was hanged early today at Wandsworth prison.

Whiteway was convicted Nov. 2 of murdering Barbara Songhurst, 16, on a lonely Thames riverside path last June.

The prosecution also accused him of having raped and stabbed Christine Reed, 18, who had been riding her bicycle with Barbara. But under the British legal system he was charged with only one murder.

With Whiteway executed, Scotland Yard now can close several police files of attacks on women and five cases of a naked or near-naked man accosting women. Police are sure Whiteway was responsible for many assaults on women.

A Good Racket

MONTREAL (CP) — Waitress Rita Rioux was serving a customer when she spotted a thief helping himself to the money in the till.

"Holdup, holdup," she cried Monday night as the man began running from the restaurant.

"I'll get him," a customer volunteered.

Both men then disappeared down the street.

Police said they are convinced the thief and the customer actually were working as a team. They made off with $125.

IRATE DRIVER

LEEDS, England (CP)—Bus conductor Xavene Arratoon, 20, lost his temper with two passengers and offered them his equipment if they thought they could do the job better. Arratoon then caught another bus back to his depot to resign.

MOSSADEGH GIVEN

The emotional nationalist leader stood gripping the edge of a bench during the 65-minute reading of the verdict and only mocked the court when it finished.

"I thank you very much for sentencing me," he said. "The sentence has increased my historic glory."

Mossadegh was convicted on charges growing out of his defiance of the Shah's decree dismissing him last August. An uprising led by the present premier, Gen. Fazollah Zahedi, toppled the old man from office soon after and put him behind bars.

He could have been sentenced to death on the charges, which included illegally dissolving parliament's lower house, the Majlis, and numerous actions against the Shah and the royal dynasty.

The court said, however, that it had reduced the sentence because of a mercy appeal by the Shah. The ruler asked the court to consider the earlier services to the country of Mossadegh, who led the campaign that ended in nationalization of Iran's British-operated oil industry.

The old politician, believed to be well over 70, had hotly spurned the Shah's aid. "I've not done anything wrong to this country or to the Shah," he declared. "I need no forgiveness."

In his final plea to the court, winding up his 35-day trial, Mossadegh urged Iranians to remain neutral between East and West and to develop an economy independent of the oil resources.

NATIONALIZED OIL

Mossadegh became a world figure when he led the successful parliamentary fight in 1951 to nationalize Iranian properties of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. However, British legal and commercial manoeuvres cut Iran off from oil markets, and the country suffered one economic crisis after another.

The showdown came last August when the Shah attempted to remove him from office and make Zahedi premier. Mossadegh refused to accept the order, and the Shah and Queen Soraya fled the country.

Two days later the tables were turned. Supporters of the ruler won control in pitched battles fought in the streets of Tehran. Mossadegh fled from his home clad in a pair of pink pajamas and was arrested shortly afterward.

The army men and their dependents will consume 5,000 pounds of turkey, 1,900 pounds of assorted nuts, 1,500 pounds of canned fruit, 1,250 pounds each of fruit cake and plum pudding, and 625 pounds of cranberry sauce.

A highlight of the day will be the issue of 500,000 cigarets, gift from the province of Ontario.

Make Medical History

Medical history in Canada was made, it is believed, when these four Winnipeg youngsters, all in one family, had at least 95 per cent of their blood replaced to correct a condition which might have meant death or subnormality. - Kenny, Linda and Frankie Seeplah greet the newest member of the family Therese Ann, 12 days old. The four suffered from a haemolitic disease of the newborn. The disease results from conflicting factors in the blood of the parents which would cause destruction of the blood of the children. Doctors said it is believed the first time four members of one family have undergone the blood change. — (CP Photo.)

FIRE KILLS CHICKS

ANTEN MILLS (CP)—Two thousand baby chicks were destroyed Monday night in a fire which swept through a barn owned by Frank Coughlin. The fire also destroyed a supply of feed and grain and farm equipment. Loss was estimated at $20,000. Cause of the blaze is unknown.

New York Rangers Will Bring Up 'Old Masters' To Show 'Kids' The Game

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A "MUST"

With the rest of the squads starting to cluster like dice cockeyed around the rolling board, the Memos perform most win tonight's tilt if like the shy banana they want "to hang around with the bunch." They play hosts to the Peterborough Petes, who demonstrated on Saturday night that the Kingston Goodyears now top-slot occupants hold no fear for them. The Petes banged out a five-all tie in overtime that boosted their point total to fourteen, four in front of the Memos. A win for the Doran-coached crew will cut the margin to a couple of fly-specks while a loss will widen the gap to a half-dozen. And the way this stealing Senior "B" loop is frolicking along, six points is a man-size barrier to tie, let alone handle.

And the Memos can't afford to have too long a cable between them and the fourth-place squad. After the holiday capers are over, the bills paid, the noggins clear of celebration cobwebs, and all sides train their sights off the playoff horizon (February 27), the pack will settle down to real business. Top spot is any man's meat and the Goodyears will have to be at the peak of their form if they want to retain the "lock-down" position. It can easily be an "on-again-off-again" deal what with the Oshawa Truckmen showing a return to their early pace form and three surging Orillians showing plenty of power.

Regardless of the present standing it is any man's league, one of the "sizzlingest" in the province, and incidentally one of the best Senior "B" groups in the same area.

LOOKIT THIS!!

Since the above was written, it was learned that the Petes defeated the Orillia Packers last night by a 6-4 score. This gives the Lifluck crew 12 points, one behind the first-place pacing Trentons and six in front of the Memos. The victory gave the Lifluck laddies their third win and a tie in their last five starts, and it looks as though the Peterboro crew are out to demonstrate that they, too, are a definite threat to the group top places. Only five points now separate the first four teams. Kingston has 21; Oshawa, 20; Orillia 17 and the Petes 16. All of which means that the Memos will have to hitch their britches and stop the surging Petes tonight in order to qualify as a member of the "bunch."

The Memos will be minus the services of playing coach "Red" Doran for the next two weeks. "Red" pulled a muscle in the Kingston-Belleville game of November 11 and though the member had sufficiently recovered for him to play last Friday night, however, a blood vessel or two was ruptured which will sideline him for some time. "Duke" Doran is expected to be back in the line-up for tonight's fray with the Petes.

BY REMOTE CONTROL!

Michael J. Rodden, referring to the Goodies-Memos' game won by the former, when the home forces (Memos) should have been using all-out attacking methods, they were defensive-conscious. The Goodyears were merely putting their fifth victory in six starts this season against the trailing Memos."

"How "homey" can a guy get?

For Mr. Rodden's benefit, the Memos used all-out offensive methods and only one man stood between them and victory and he is Ken Johnson. An off night on this goalie's part and the Memos would have taken the game by four goals.

As far as the Goodies "merely posting a victory" is concerned, had the Memos played the hockey of which they are capable, the score would have been vastly different. As other words the scores would have taken the erstwhile champions by a generous margin on the night's play. At least we openly admitted the Memos played hockey that was notable for neither about and did not try to excuse their defeat with "faulty refereeing and goals that were scored after glaring offsides."

DOTS 'N FLASHES

Aside to Senior "B" group sports scribes, and radio-casters: The summary of the Petes-Orillia game played last Thursday night was not included in the "Top Twos" scorers released to you on Monday . . . A word to parents of minor hockey players regarding that OMHA insurance: The Blue Cross, we are informed, does not cover dental injuries, and 85 per cent of minor hockey accidents last year were of the dental nature. Premiums are paid direct to players, regardless of whether they are protected by other plans . . . Maurice Dunn, formerly of the sports staff of this newspaper, is now with the Galt Reporter . . . Don't be surprised to hear that Lex Lear will coach the Senior Blue Bombers next year. Lear conducted all the Bombers workouts prior to the 1953 Grey Cup game . . . And Terry Breedan, former Notre Dame backfield star, is being ballyhooed in the 1954 Calgary Stampeders mentor . . . Word from the west has it that Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight champion, has been "ordered" by the N.Y. Managers' "Guff" and the IBC to "Mumph" Calgary managers. The "word" goes on to say Walls is already in Eastern Canada for that purpose. He has recorded 27 knockouts in 34 fights, and has said "uncle" five times . . . He got $10,000 for 34 seconds' work against Bernie Reynolds recently in his home town of Edmonton. What's that—about "making hay?"

TAINT SO!

Last evening via many telephone calls we were informed that we had shuffled off this mortal coil, via a heart seizure on Front Street. We take this opportunity to quote Mark Twain, "The report of my death is grossly exaggerated."

Cobourg Opens New Arena

COBOURG (CP) — This town's new $325,000 arena was opened Monday night when more than 2,000 fans turned out to see Cobourg Comets and Lakefield Indians square off in their Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A game. It was the first hockey game of the season here.

The home schedule of the Comets was held up while the new arena was being completed. The previous rink, three years old, was burned down last August.

Doug. Bentley, Edgar Laprade To Join Blues First of Year; Will Form Line With 'Maxie'

NEW YORK (CP) — New York Rangers, with the largest crop of rookies in the National Hockey League, are taking steps to expand their tutorial staff.

The Ranger line-up is studded with promising youngsters like forwards Ike Hildebrand, Camille Henry and Andy Bathgate, defencemen Jean Irwin, Bob Chrystal and Harry Howell and goalie Johnny Bower.

Now manager-coach Frank Boucher has announced plans to bring up some of the proven masters of the game to show the kids how it should be played.

Already in Ranger livery are Leo Reise, 31-year-old defence veteran of four NHL championship clubs, and Max Bentley, still the scoring sizzler in the game at 37 at 32 and twice the league's scoring leader in the war years.

Additions to the faculty will be Edgar Laprade, one-time Ranger centreiceman specialist who has been in retirement since 1953 except for three games last season, and Doug Bentley, Max's sharpshooting elder brother who left wing with Chicago during the mid-40s.

LAPRADE BACK DEC. 29

Laprade, needed to fill in for Stu Mungall who suffered a broken jaw in a stick-swinging bout with Montreal Bernie Geoffrion Sunday night, will be available Dec. 29. He has been working out regularly at the Port Arthur home since he was denied reinstatement as an amateur at the start of the season.

Bentley, slated to return Feb. 1, will don Boston's Woody Dumart by two months as the league's oldest player when he dons the Blue and White. Phil Odolle, Sask. resident has been an effective performer in the Western League as playing coach of Saskatoon Quakers.

Boucher admitted last night that he has hopes that a Bentley-Laprade-Bentley line can stock the fifth-place Rangers in the stretch drive.

"It will be a treat to watch them," he said. "They are grade skaters and does the backchecking and that will free both Bentleys to go flying down the ice."

Quebec, Ontario Junior Leagues Draw Schedule

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Junior Hockey League and the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A announced Monday an interlocking games schedule calling for teams in the two loops to play a home-and-home series.

Ontario teams will make one trip through Quebec, playing a game against each of the five QJHL squads, and the QJHL members will take on their Ontario opponents in two or three swings through the neighboring province.

The junior loops played interlocking games last season but reverted to separate schedules this year. They decided to re-unite after Quebec Citadelles, an OHA team, were sold to Quebec Frontenacs of the QJHL.

Each loop will declare its own champion at least its own standings. Games played against teams in the other league will count in the standings.

The opening schedule:

Dec. 25, Quebec at Montreal Royals.

Dec. 27, Montreal Canadiens at Montreal Royals; Quebec at Jonquiere.

Dec. 29, Toronto St. Michael's at Montreal Royals; Trois-Rivieres at Quebec.

Dec. 30, Trois-Rivieres at Montreal Canadiens; St. Michael's at Jonquiere.

Jan. 1, Jonquiere at Barrie.

Jan. 2, St. Michael's at Quebec; Jonquiere at Galt; Montreal Royals at Montreal Canadiens.

Durette Loses To Al. Mott

TORONTO (CP) — Al Mosz of Toronto Monday night won a decision over Gerry Durette of Toronto Athletic Club in a five-round main event at an amateur boxing card.

In the semi-final Tommy Hendrix of London, Ont., scored a technical knockout over Pat Campbell of Guelph in the last round of a scheduled five-rounder.

Doug Malloy of Sudbury won a decision over Jack Picket of Hamilton in five rounds and Frank Scott of Toronto knocked out Tony Capoldi of Brantford at 1:30 of the first round of a scheduled three-rounder.

Mike Derber of Toronto decisioned Vinnie Embro of Guelph in three rounds and Omar Sherif of Brantford over Jimmy Cuff of London.

Bernie Flowers Will Bloom With Baltimore Colts

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Colts announced Monday night that Bernie Flowers, all-America end at Purdue in 1953 who jumped to Canadian pro football, has agreed to play for Baltimore in the National Football League next season.

The announcement was made after the 32-year-old Flowers had conferred here with Don Kellett, president of the Colts, on contract terms. Kellett said he expected to sign him next week.

Flowers confirmed the agreement and said he plans to sign his contract "after talking it over with my family and lawyer." He added in a statement to the effect: "I'm looking forward to being in Baltimore with the Colts next season."

Flowers, a top-notch pass receiver who was the Colts' No. 2 draft choice last year, doubled as Baltimore team an offensive spark in a department it was notably weak last season.

ALSO DEFENSIVE BACK

He was an all-league end with Ottawa Rough Riders in the International Rugby Football Union in 1953, catching nine touchdown passes to become the loop's second highest scorer. He also played defensive halfback.

Flowers will be the second all-star Canadian player to return to American pro football. Two weeks ago San Francisco 49ers signed John Henry Johnson, who was named the most valuable player in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, where he played for Calgary Stampeders.

In Ottawa, James P. McCaffrey, president of the Rough Riders, said the ballroom report "comes as quite a surprise to us."

McCaffrey said that when he left Ottawa early in December, he told Otto Graham officials that he was pleased with his treatment here and considered coach Steven Crowe the best he'd ever played under.

"More than that, he asked us to consider him as a returning player when he finished his U.S. Army hitch and service which was scheduled to start this December."

McCaffrey said that under the terms of Flowers' 1953 contract, "the Ottawa club has an option on his services for 1954. If he is not in the U.S. Army, he will exercise that option if he plays football in Canada. Should he play in the United States, however, there does not seem to be much we could do about it."

Phil Watson Named Coach Que. Frontenacs

QUEBEC (CP) — Phil Watson Monday was appointed coach of Quebec Frontenacs after ironing out his differences with the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

The announcement followed a conference with Jim Gerald Mac-Lean, honorary president of the Frontenacs, who purchased Watson's contract when they took over Quebec Citadelles of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A division last week.

The two teams were merged, with former Citadelles players taking 14 of 17 places on the Frontenacs new roster.

Watson at the time of the merger was under a one-game suspension and had been ordered to post a $500 good-conduct bond with the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association as a result of a fracas in the Montreal Forum last spring.

He served his suspension Sunday when Frontenacs lost 2-1 to Jonquiere Marquis.

A club spokesman said Watson now must deposit $500 with the QAHA and appear before president Martin Connolly Friday.

Frontenacs successfully pleaded his case with the QJHL which last summer adopted a resolution banning him from the league.

Now, they say, Watson was in a position to convince us in the course of the last few days of his good faith. . ." a club official said.

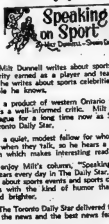
Promotor Offers $10,000 Guarantee For Elimination Bout With Walls

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton boxing promoter Jack Berry said Monday night he has offered a $10,000 guarantee to the managers of five fighters to stage a world championship elimination bout here in January or February with Canadian heavyweight champion Earl Walls. Walls lives in Toronto but boxes out of Edmonton.

Berry said Nino Valdez Ezzard Charles, Roland La Starza, Dan Bocccrosi and Don Cockell, all, with the exception of British Empire champion Cockell, are ranked ahead of Walls.



He said a top-calibre fight would draw up to $100,000 in Edmonton.

Walls has a record of 30 knockouts in 32 fights. In his last fight here Dec. 4 he knocked out Bernie Reynolds of Fairfield, N.J., in 33 seconds of the first round of their scheduled 10-rounder.

"There must be a better way to make a living" complained Sasha Cass as he serviced his jet plane preparatory to his last round-up of clients for the 1953 Christmas season. "Between the high cost of living, shortages and strikes I can't get the boys and girls what they're looking for. Why, last week at the National Hockey League clubs have been writing in, asking me to provide them with a winner. One can't do that," he added regretfully.

"What," we wanted know, "is the most important shortage?"

"I'd say common sense," retorted Sasta, tugging at his lace curtains, rather irritably. "The things they ask for! For instance, I have a star-calibre request from the Leafs for a player to provide that city with another Stanley Cup team. I can't do that. Those Black Hawks will take to long-distance after themselves."

Sasta flahed through the mail, and came up with a letter that seemed to amuse him.

"Here's one from Frank King Clancy, coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs" chuckled Sasta. "He's asking for a spare thread, for he figures the one he has won't last him through the season. A great fellow, that Clancy. What you call a real bolter-guy, to use a sports term. Wish I could help him.

"From a promoter of amateur boxing events, there's a letter asking me to deliver Ezzard Charles in a real amateur. He might as well ask me to deliver Joe Louis or Rocky Marciano. Then there's a letter from Conn Smythe, of the Toronto Maple Leafs" checked

Piratical Clashes Feature Holiday Week Major Hockey

MONTREAL (CP) — Christmas week burst on the National Hockey League with growls, broken heads and blood on the ice.

In a New York clash that had everything but Long John Silver and his cutlass, Montreal Canadiens bowed 3-1 to Rangers Sunday night, thereby losing the league leadership.

Meanwhile, Detroit Red Wings moved into top position with an edge of two points by hammering Boston Bruins 4-2.

The New York game had the earmarks of a skirmish among pirates, and before it ended 21-year-old Ranger left-winger Ron Murphy was in hospital with a broken jaw. His head collided with the stick of Bernie Geoffrion, who himself sported a dented noggin suffered in the stick-swinging melee.

Both players received match misconducts and automatic $100 fines.

Canadiens and Rangers are scheduled to meet again the day after Christmas, at Montreal.

Red Wings, who have 44 points compared to Canadiens' 42, also have two games in hand over Montreal. They have played 32 to Canadiens' 34. Toronto Maple Leafs third with 38 points, are followed by Boston, 31 points, Rangers, 24, and Chicago Black Hawks, 19.

STANDINGS UNCHANGED

League statistics released today show there was no change in the standing of the leading eight point-getters last week.

Gordie Howe, Detroit's flash, Geoffrion and Ted Lindsay, Detroit, still hold down the top positions. Howe has 16 goals and 25 assists for 41 points. Geoffrion has 18 goals, 15 assists, 33 points and Lindsay has 11 and 22.

Howe is the champion assist-getter, but Montreal's Maurice Richard is the foremost goal scorer, with 20, two more than Howe's rival, teammate Geoffrion. Richard is fourth among the body type point-collectors with 30 goals and 11 assists. Red Kelly, Detroit, is next with 29. Ed Sandford, Boston and Zari Reibel, Detroit, are tied with 28 points each, while Sid Smith, Toronto has 26, while Ken Mosdell of Canadiens has 25.

Toronto Maple Leafs' Harry Lumley remains the circuit's top goaltender, in 32 games he allowed 53 goals, for a 1.62 average.

Canadiens boosted their penalty time to 540 minutes this season, the most penalized team, while their star defenceman, Doug Harvey, is the league's bad man with 72 minutes.

Sport in Brief

MOSCOW (CP) — United States sport is criticized in the Soviet press almost as frequently and bitterly as American foreign policy.

Often American sport is denounced as professional, mercenary, brutal, murderous, degrading. And sometimes, like the game of baseball, it is called piracy of a Russian invention.

The latest Soviet criticism in Ukraine Pravda hits the game of auto polo. Many Americans here haven't even heard about it, but Soviet newspaper readers were told about it recently in a news item which proclaimed:

"United States advertizes sensational new sport called auto polo. Drivers of autos fight for the ball on rough and broken field at very high speeds. Often the result of such games is victims among the spectators as well as the players."

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A new interleague rivalry for baseball fans over $100,000 less than 4,000 still are available.

Demand was so great when the 1953 season ended with the Braves in second place that orders for next year flooded the ticket office.

only to find you lost your parimutuel ticket, or possibly, forgot to cash it?

The Illinois racing board's annual report showed that in the last decade a yearly average of nearly $60,000 has been realized in revenue from uncashed parimutuel tickets at the state's six tracks.

From 1944 through 1953, uncashed tickets amounted to $786,127.05. The money was turned over to a war veterans' rehabilitation fund.

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Ernie Farr of Calgary has received permission to promote a return match with Canadian light heavyweight boxing championship, possibly in February.

G. K. Garnett, president of the Canadian Boxing and Wrestling Federation, said Monday he and Gene Letourneau of Quebec City, the national commissioner, were in agreement on the matter.

Farr promoted a recent bout when Doug Harper of Calgary lifted the crown from Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B.

NEW YORK (AP) — Governor Thomas E. Dewey, a Republican, has appointed Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan of New York city, a Democrat, as "czar" of state harness racing, to rule it with an iron hand" and rid it of hoodlums.

Dewey, announcing the appointment at a press conference, said Monaghan would have the interim title of "czar" of the $250,000,000-a-year operation until the post is authorized by legislation. He said he hopes the necessary laws will be passed in February.

Monagha, present at the conference, said he would resign his $15,000-a-year post as police commissioner, effective Dec. 31. His salary as harness racing czar will be fixed by the legislature.

MONTREAL (CP)—Andre Corriveau of Valleyfield Braves is far and away the top point-getter in the seven-team Quebec Hockey League, latest statistics reveal.

Corriveau, with 38 goals and 27 assists for 65 points, is eight ahead of his nearest rival, Bucky Buchanan of Chicoutimi Saguenens, who has 19 goals and 18 assists for 37 points.

Montreal Royals' Skippy Burchell is third with 13 tallies and 24 assists, for a points-total of 37. Fourth-place Leo Gravelle of Ottawa Senators is tops in the goalscoring department with 22. He has also collected 13 assists.

Black sheep of the league is Ottawa's Bep Guidolin who has spent 86 minutes in penalty box and garnered four misconducts. Springfield Indians' playing coach Doug McMurdy is second with 60 minutes, including one misconduct. McMurdy had also been tabbed with two game misconducts which are not counted in the penalty-minutes list.

Red Sullivan Still Tops In American League

NEW YORK (AP) — George (Red) Sullivan, Hershey's flashy play-maker, pulled 10 points ahead of the field in the American Hockey League scoring race in last week's play.

League statistics today showed Sullivan with 51 points on 13 goals and 38 assists. He added seven assists during the week to increase his lead in that department as well as in over-all points.

Harry Pidhirny of Syracuse regained his goal-scoring lead with a total of 23. He's scored consfourth of all Syracuse goals.

Jacques Plante of Buffalo continued his role as the leading goalie with an average of 2.63 on 24 goals allowed in 32 games.

Clarence Henry Batters Baker For Decision

BROOKLYN (AP) — Undefeated Clarence Henry gave away 22 pounds and four inches and hammered Bob Baker around the ring in a savage ninth round to nail down a unanimous 10-round decision at Eastern Parkway. Henry weighed 184½, and Baker 211½.

Outboxing the hulking Pittsburgh Negro, Henry scored consistently with his left hooks and then beat off an attack by Baker in the wild ninth.

Henry, a 3-1 underdog from Los Angeles, met Baker's ninth-round barrage and forced him to give ground with his own solid counterfire.

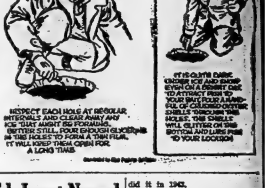
It was the fourth defeat in the 36-bout pro career of Baker who had been knocked out by Henry in 1951. The victory gave Henry a record of 34 wins against four losses.

Campbell Will Ponder Brawl Before Decision

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Monday night it will be four days before he reaches a decision on whether any action should be taken as the result of a stick-swinging duel in New York Sunday night.

Rookie Ron Murphy of New York suffered a broken jaw when Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal hit him on the side of the face with his stick.

Campbell met Monday with referee Red Storey and linesman Doug Davies to get a first-hand report of the fight. He said, however, that he would have to investigate further before a course of action is decided.



Murphy and Geoffrion were both given match misconduct penalties for their bout. They also will pay automatic $100 fines to league headquarters.

It was the second run-in of the year for Geoffrion, high scoring Canadiens right winger. He was fined $250 earlier in the season for pushing referee Frank Udvari.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The course of true bidding does not always run smooth. Opponent's intervening bids may clog your normal channels of information. What do you do then? Simply punt? Oh, no!

Against interfering opponents you simply do the best you can with what information you can get. Decisions without enough advices may be necessary. And such decisions are not always easy.

There was the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ K 7 6
♦ A Q 7 5 3
♣ Q 6 5 4 2

WEST
♠ K Q J
♥ 9 7 5 3
♣ K 9 8

EAST
♠ 10 9 8 5 4 3 2
♦ J 10 9 8 6 2
♣ J 10 7

SOUTH
♠ 8 6 4 2
♥ A Q
♦ K 4 2
♣ A K J 10

With no interference from west and east, south would no doubt become declarer at a small slam of six clubs. But the bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 C	4 S	6 C	Pass
Pass	6 S	7 C	All Pass

In the normal course of bidding north could have told south what he held. But there was no time for any of this when west got in there fast with his smack of four spades.

West hoped he would buy it at game in spades if he shut out an exchange between south and north. When north flung in a bid of six, west was willing to take a sacrifice at six spades.

North knew that his pair could defeat six spades, but was not certain that his own side lacked what it would take for a grand slam. He made his choice and bid seven clubs.

When north bid six clubs over the west four spade bid, he had no assurance it would make. He had tricks enough for it, but he was not sure there were aces and kings enough between them.

Prevented from getting that information, he first took a flier at six. Penalized to extreme advices he would have gotten that far, but not to seven, which was made.

A push by the foe often makes you more dough.

"Bright Road", Tender Heartwarming M.G.M. Drama Has Tears and Laughter

A motion picture off the beaten track is offered today, to Belle theatre patrons in "Bright Road", M.G.M's moving and poignant filmization of the prize-winning story "See How They Run", by Mary Elizabeth Fromat, which won nation-wide attention after its publication in a national magazine.

Unfolded with a disarming simplicity, gentle humor and tenderness beart appeal, "Bright Road" tells the story of Jane Richard, a young Negro teacher who comes to a small southern town to instruct a class of fourth-graders and who finds both joy and sorrow in her task of enlightening the minds of these charges and a great victory in penetrating the shell of a sensitive eleven-year-old boy who has always been left behind in his class.

The boy is C. T. Young, shy, diffident, trying to put his poverty ill at ease behind classroom desk but with a passionate love for nature and nobility of his own. It is the conflict between "C. T." and the young teacher, her efforts to overcome his distrust and the means by which she brings out his submerged talents which gives the story its principal theme and its heartfelt dramatic interest.

"Cry of the Hunted" Suspenseful

The story of two men who start out as hunter and a hunted-penitentiary security officer and escaped convict and end up as friends after a starkly dramatic experience is unfolded on the Belle theatre screen in "Cry of the Hunted", starring Vittorio Gassman, Barry Sullivan and Polly Bergen.

Northern Electric Hockey League

The Ritchie Benders and Buzzers emerged winners in the weekend games of the Northern Electric Interdepartmental Hockey League, defeating the Idiots and Dragnets by the identical score of 5-4.

Semark paced the Benders' attack with three goals and two assists with Murphy good for a pair and Smith scoring one and a helper. Piperni was credited with two assists.

Bryant rammed home two for the Idiots with Whalen and Philp scoring the others. All three drew assists.

Bedard and Rosetti were double scorers for the Buzzers with Dai poking in the odd goal. The latter player and Totten had two helpers.

James with two and Yorke and Woodley were the Dragnet marksmen, while Woodley and Little had two assists each.

Bill Hurst and Fred Jones were the officials.

The league has suspended operations until the week-end of January 9.

British Envoy Meets Egyptian In Suez Talks

CAIRO (Reuters)—British ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson today conferred on the Suez canal dispute with Egypt's chief negotiator, Vice-President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

They met at a private luncheon at the Pakistan embassy given by the Pakistani charge d'affaires, Maj. Tyeb Hussein, who served as host to British and Egyptian negotiators before the talks broke down in the fall.

It was Stevenson's first talk with the Egyptian vice-president since his return Thursday from a six-month sick leave in England. Last Saturday Stevenson saw Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzy in the first exchange of views on the dispute since negotiations became deadlocked Oct. 21.

Also present at today's luncheon was Maj. Salah Salem, Egypt's national guidance minister, Abdel Rahman Hakky, Egypt's ambassador to London, and Ahmed Hussein, ambassador to Washington.

Tyeb Hussein said he brought the two sides together because he is "most anxious" to see a settlement of the dispute.

Unwelcome Visitor Defies Test by Fire

They tried to burn the whale carcass that has cluttered up the shore at Manomet, Mass., for more than a week, but the barbecue backfired and the whale's still there. All that burned was kerosene-sprayed tires that were piled on the body in hopes of getting the blaze off to a good start. When the wind is blowing on shore, all residents relinquish their rights to the beach to the whale's carcass. — Central Press Canadian.

During her visit to Tonga, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip were "introduced" to this tortoise believed to be nearly 200 years old. The tortoise, a hearty oldster who is revered by the natives, is believed to have been presented to the king of Tonga by the famous British explorer, Capt. James Cook. — Central Press Canadian.

FIREMEN SEEK WAGE HIKE

CAN LICENCE REVOKED

Doesn't Look Right — But It's Sensible

Making sure that the children will not knock over their Christmas tree this year, Mrs. Kenneth Richardson of Attleboro, Mass., suspends it top down from the ceiling. This topsy-turvy arrangement is quite all right with the youngsters, Caroline, 17 months; Kenney, 5, and cousin, Jean Herman, 2, who find the trimmings to their taste. — Central Press Canadian.

Private Power Firms Face Expropriation

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—President Getulio Vargas has warned private power firms here — consolled mainly by United States and Canadian interests — they face expropriation if they stand in the way of his governments sweeping new national electrification plans.

Vargas made the statement in a speech Sunday at the close of a conference of governors at Curitiba. The speech was published in the newspaper Ogiobo here.

The president said "up to a certain point" he was being "sabotaged by the contrary interests of private companies which already have profited much in Brazil."

Complaining that the foreign-controlled companies were changing all the Brazilian cruzeiros they earned in Brazil into dollars and taking this wealth out of Brazil Vargas declared:

"We either are going to create the funds necessary to establish a national power industry on a solid basis, or we shall have to expropriate the concerns which are not producing the result that we desire."

TORONTO HEADQUARTERS
Most private power companies in Brazil are subsidiaries controlled by the Brazilian Traction Co., a holding company with headquarters in Toronto, and the American Foreign Power Co., with executive offices in New York.

Vargas said Brazil's industrial development is behind because of the lack of sufficient and cheap electrical power. He added this situation must be overcome within a general federal plan. Such a plan, now being drafted, proposes the formation of a national Brazilian electric company (Eletrobras). Vargas said Congress has been asked to vote funds for this purpose.

Representatives of the two big North American companies here had no comment to make on the Vargas declaration. Some power sources said privately they did not know just what the president had in mind but felt he might have been hinting that private concerns must speed up their own expansion programs in this country if they wished to continue to operate.

U.S. Growers May Add To Wheat Surplus

By OTTO A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—If weather conditions for wheat are normal or better between now and harvest next summer, United States farmers may add to a big wheat surplus rather than reduce it under a rigid production control program.

This possibility was indicated Monday by a U.S. agricultural department report estimating that farmers have cut their winter wheat acreage nearly 20 per cent, but that the crop volume may be down only about 14.7 per cent.

The report showed that it would be possible to produce a billion bushel U.S. wheat crop next year. A harvest of this size would be about 39,000,000 bushels more than officials now expect the market to absorb from the 1954 crop.

Thus, the surplus now forecast as a record of 775,000,000 bushels at the start of the 1954 marketing year, would be boosted to 825,000,000.

Under a marketing quota program approved by growers in a referendum, the department allotted 62,000,000 acres for wheat next year. This compared with plantings of about 78,000,000 for this year's crop.

WHEAT SALES PENALTY

Each farm's sales quota is the volume of wheat grown on the acreage allotted it. Sales from excess would be subject to a penalty tax of about $1.10 a bushel, or slightly more than half the present farm sales price.

By comparison, this year's total U.S. wheat crop was 1,159,000,000 bushels, of which 877,000,000 was winter wheat. No forecast on spring wheat will be made until early next summer, but a crop of 250,000,000 bushels would be about average.

Unless weather conditions turn out unfavorably between now and harvest, growers will face the necessity of having to vote again next year on continuation of the controls in 1955, and possibly for several years thereafter.

INDIA HOLDING REDS

NEW DELHI (AP)—India is holding 177 persons, mostly Communists, without trial, Home Minister K. N. Katju told Parliament Monday. Company Offers 10 Cents-an-Hour To 1,600 Miners

TORONTO (CP) — Noranda Mines Limited today confirmed that the company sent a letter to the miners' 1,600 striking employees offering a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase if they return to work.

The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), representing the strikers said today the letter, under the signature of C. E. Anderson, mine manager, has not yet been received.

Besides the wage proposal the letter contained a proposal for a supervised vote to determine whether striking employees wished to continue the walkout.

CREATING HARDSHIP

It said this request came from local citizens because the strike which began Aug. 21 "has been going on for four months and has created great suffering and hardship on the employees and their families and other residents of the community.

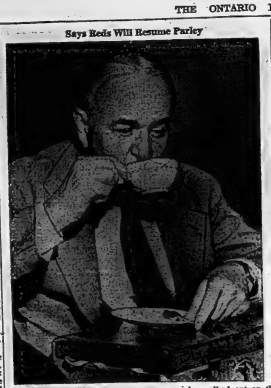
"The situation is becoming steadily worse as the strike is prolonged."

The letter said that although the 10 cents an hour would be granted, hours or other conditions of work would not be changed and the checkoff would not be accepted "directly or indirectly."

(The checkoff was one of the main demands sought by the union in calling the Noranda strike and strikes at about a dozen other mines in northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec which have left some 7,000 men idle.)

MILLARD TO REMOVE

C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the steelworkers, commented on the letter in this statement today: "In view of the discussions which have been going on between top management and top union officials, we are very much surprised at this unilateral approach which is a complete negation of collective bargaining.



"The company is well aware that the strike was called as a result of a properly-conducted secret vote. When the union has a proposal of merit, it will be presented to the membership in a secret ballot."

The Noranda spokesman said text of the letter will appear in paid advertisements in French and English in newspapers in the Noranda area today and Wednesday.

MOTORISTS WARNED

TORONTO (CP)—Commissioner E. V. McNeill of the Ontario Provincial Police has appealed to all motorists to exercise care and caution on streets and highways during the holiday season. "A careless thinker can be a thoughtless drinker or a reckless driver," he said. "It is the drivers who just will not behave who cause so much grief."

Voting Is Heavy As Longshoremen Choose Union

NEW YORK (AP)—Dock workers arrived in droves today to vote on their choice in a struggle between the old International Longshoremen's Association and the new AFL-ILA to represent waterfront workers.

A steady stream of longshoremen arrived as the Manhattan polling place opened early in the morning in the federally-supervised election. By 8:30 it was estimated 3,500 had voted.

Both unions had cars circling the block. One had banners urging "Vote ILA-AFL." The other union had a car carrying a man who shouted "Vote ILA."

NO GUESSING

William V. Bradley, head of the independent ILA, appeared outside the polling place, but declined to make any prediction.

Police reported the voting was proceeding in a brisk and orderly manner. Special details of patrolmen, extra national labor relations board personnel and watchers from both unions were on hand.

Longshoremen were required to show a state waterfront commission registration card and a coast guard pier pass. They then were handed a paper ballot with places for choosing between "ILA-Ind" or "ILA-AFL" or "neither."

The balloting brought to a climax the rivalry between the old ILA and the AFL, which set up the new union a few months ago in an attempt to break the ILA's hold on United States coast longshoremen.

The AFL acted after ousting the ILA for failure to purge itself of racketeering elements.

Blonde 'Lured' Him Into Bed Says Witness

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto business man told a court Monday that a blonde "lured" him into bed and then her accomplice took his picture in a $20,000 "blackmail" attempt.

Charged with attempted extortion of the money from Mr. "X", whose name was withheld at the request of Judge Robert Forsyth, were Edwin Hefner, 27, and Ursula Sheuler, 23.

Mr. "X" said he had "several dates" with Miss Sheuler who was a waitress in a restaurant where he ate lunch.

Oct. 31, she invited him to spend the evening at her apartment, he testified.

"After she had lured me into her bed, Hefner broke into the room with a flash camera. He took pictures which he threatened to show my wife and others if I did not pay him $20,000.

"Hefner said he would kill me if I refused," Mr. "X" testified.

He told the court he arranged to meet the pair at a restaurant two nights later, then notified police.

After the meeting, at which he said the pair offered to settle for $5,000, Hefner and Miss Sheuler were arrested.

The case is continuing.

Pope Expected To Again Plead For World Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius will go on the radio Christmas Eve to give his 15th consecutive Christmas message to the world.

The Vatican press office announced today that the message will be rebroadcast in 24 languages during a three-day period beginning Dec. 24, immediately after the Pope speaks at 11 a.m. (5 a. m. EST).

The annual speech has become an important fixture of the Pope's often-repeated appeals for peace. This year's message, Vatican sources say, is expected once again to touch upon the need for peace, as have each of the 14 Christmas addresses he has given since 1939.

Only Ratification By Union Needed To End Mine Strike

Agreement Provides Wage Increase of 5 Cents an Hour

TORONTO (CP)—Settlement of a 13-week strike involving 1,500 employees of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Limited at Timmins awaits only ratification of a union-company agreement.

Union officials announced in Timmins Tuesday night that the employees, members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), will consider the agreement Thursday night.

But in Toronto C. H. Millard, national director, said the union likely will ask for a meeting with Hollinger officials here either today or Thursday to get the general terms of the agreement into contract language. The local membership in Timmins will then hold a meeting, probably Sunday, to ratify, he said.

The agreement, reached here Tuesday, is subject to minor settlements which would start a back-to-work movement for 4,200 miners in northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec.

REACTION HEARTENING

Reactions to the agreement providing a five-cent-an hour increase and an improved retirement from the day of signing, were mixed. The news was cheered by Timmins residents.

"A Godsend to the community," Mayor Wesley Wright of Timmins said.

Premier Frost said it was "a fine Christmas present for the people of the area and the people of Ontario generally."

The union said it accepted the agreement "reluctantly." John Timmins, Hollinger president, said the terms "in the end may not be in the best interests of all parties concerned."

Other terms of the agreement, reached in the offices of Labor Minister Dunlop, called for all conditions in the mine existing at present to remain in force; there was to be returned to work as quickly as they can be absorbed, without discrimination, in the event of a change in the price of gold or a discontinuance of Emergency Gold Mines Assistance Act subsidies. In the contract period, the union or company may request a review of wages; and the company to "reserve the right to have the extension of its present practice of depositing pay cheques in the bank accounts of certain employees at their request.

WAGE RISES

By accepting the agreement the company approved a wage increase it rejected in October. A government-sponsored plan to end the strike, the union said then, said it was prepared to stay out until next summer if necessary.

The former plan also called for a one-year contract. Mr. Timmins said then it would provide for a two-year agreement. The union also asked the discontinuance of the practice of deposting cheques in banks because of delays arranged for the banks to switch dies from the workers' to the union's account.

ACCEPTED RELUCTANTLY

In a statement issued here and at Timmins Tuesday night it was "unwillingly compelled" to accept the terms or face the alternative of hardship for its members and their families. The union and the premier of Ontario and the government have allowed the mine operators to dictate to them.

The statement said the union will take "full advantage" of the fact-finding committee to "expose the wages and working conditions existing in the mines where the men work longer hours than in any other industry in Canada and where average hourly rates are lower than in any heavy industry in the nation."

Mr. Timmins, in his statement, termed the settlement a "compromise and one that the company had a great deal of hesitancy in accepting, primarily due to economic commitments involved."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cloudy skies and scattered snow flurries seems on the weather pictures over southern Ontario this morning as cold air now covers most of Canada, and the U.S. Temperatures varied from near 70 around the lower Great Lakes to 35 below at Graham. Little change is expected in the weather today and Thursday with the weather maps indicating a moderating temperature trend for Christmas Day.

L. B. Pearson Held 'Newsiest' Canadian

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

For the fourth year in a row L. B. Pearson was the newsiest Canadian on the pages of his country's newspapers.

Bow-tied Mike held first place once again over Igor Gouzenko who finished second in a Canadian Press poll of newspaper telegraph editors. As minister of External Affairs, Mr. Pearson was a central figure in the controversy that blew up over the efforts of U.S. Senate committees to question Mr. Gouzenko.

On the world scene the newsiest figure was again Russia, with Sir Winston Churchill second. Others mentioned were Eisenhower, McCarthy and Malenkov.

Luxembourg's Prime Minister Dies After Fall

LUXEMBOURG (CP) — Pierre Dupong, long-time prime minister of this tiny European state, died today at the age of 68. He was well known in Canada for his wartime work in Montreal as head of Luxembourgs provisional government-in-exile which had its headquarters in that city.

The veteran politician, prime minister since 1937 and a member of Parliament since 1915, was stricken in hospital last Friday after breaking his leg in a fall.

During the Second World War, Dupong travelled widely in North America and organized the government-in-exile in Montreal. He shifted his administration to London after the Grand Duchess Charlotte, ruler of the tiny principality adhered to France, Belgium and Germany, had taken refuge from the Nazi occupation of the land.

Civil government was restored to Luxembourg in 1944.

Open in February

TORONTO (CP) — A cabinet source indicated Tuesday the Ontario Legislature will open its 1954 session either Feb. 11 or 18.

The date is much earlier than the February or March of recent years falls later than usual—April 18.

The source also said recent speculation on proposed cabinet changes was premature. It had been suggested that two ailing ministers, Agriculture Dunlop and Municipal Affairs Minister Gemmell, may be replaced.

Tests Indicate Two-Headed Baby Has 2 Normal Brains, Normal Vision

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Intensive tests indicated Tuesday that Indiana's two-headed baby, now 10 days old, has two normal brains and seems healthy for its age.

The little boy also has three kidneys, possibly four lungs, two normal spinal cords, two hearts, two normal esophagi and stomachs, with outlets joining an intestinal tract.

In a summary of findings Indiana University medical centre specialists said the two heads are coordinated although each has normal arms.

The heads and shoulders are at an oblique angle — not directly facing. The point of junction begins just below the armpits and extends down to the pelvic region. The body below the pelvic region is normal.

Examination showed normal lungs and diaphragm in the torso between the two heads to be taken by the pediatrician apparent in the chest X-ray. Further studies are to be made to determine whether there may be a fourth lung.

The specialists said the right foot and leg transmit nerve impulses to the head on the right side, while those on the left transmit to the head on the left. Both heads and sets of arms function independently.

There apparently is a difference in reflex action, however, since the right side has maintained normal coloring while the left is pale.

The baby boy, born Dec. 13 to Mrs. Virginia Lee Hall Washington, Ind., is on a routine infant-feeding schedule and is successfully being fed. One is satisfied with a lesser quantity.

The baby's development has been comparable to that of a normal new-born, except that oxygen is administered at intervals because of the paler color of the left side.

There has been no indication that the baby might be taken by his parents home in Petersburg, Ind. it was delivered by caesarian section.

LAST 2 CONVICTS ARE RECAPTURED IN INDIANA

Are Cornered in Hotel After Their Car Found

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP)—Richmond police overpowered in a hotel room here early today the last two of 5 long-term convicts who escaped from Southern Michigan prison last Saturday.

Captain John Risio of the Richmond police said the two men admitted they are Roman Uslondek, 27, psychopathic killer, and Robert Dowling, 33, a burglar.

Risio and three other policemen cornered the two men in a hotel room after discovering their escape automobile near a Richmond street Tuesday night.

They were taken to the Richmond police station for questioning.

STOLEN CAR SPOTTED

Capt. Risio said the men arrived in Richmond Tuesday night. Their car, with Michigan licence plates, was noticed on a downtown street at 1:30 a.m. It was littered with empty bottle and beer cans. A check with Michigan police showed it was stolen.

The men registered from a downtown hotel. Capt Risio and three officers knocked on the door of their room. Dowling opened the door, then fled. He burned to get what he said were his identification papers.

Risio said Dowling reached under a bat and pulled out a .32 revolver. The officer grabbed his wrist and overpowered him.

The three other officers grabbed Uslondek.

Inquest Finds Pair Responsible For Bank Slaying

NOTRE DAME DE STANBRIDGE, Que. (CP)—A burly former provincial policeman and his partner in a Stanbridge-distributing business Tuesday night were found criminally responsible for the slaying of a 53-year-old bank manager during an abortive holdup Friday in this eastern townships municipality.

Coroner Jean Paul Bouchard, 28, and Adrien Lebeau, 38, former provincial police constable, were both of Granby, were arrested 48 hours after bank manager Orville Courville was shot to death in the village bank.

Dr. Gerard Archambault of St. Johns, Que., presided at the inquest. Bouchard told the inquest he had shot Orville Courville but said he did not intend to shoot.

FIREMEN GET PAY BOOST

OTTAWA (CP)—An arbitration board Tuesday awarded Ottawa's 400 firemen a salary increase of nearly $600 a year. The increase, retroactive to the first of this year, brings the pay of a first class fireman to $3,550 from $3,160, an increase of $381 a year. Increases for other ranks amounts to 12 per cent.

Stalin's Death Outstanding World Event Newsmen Decide

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stalin's death was the outstanding world event of 1953, in the opinion of Canadian newspaper men.

And the Canadian-United States exchange-of-fire questioning of Igor Gouzenko was the top news story of the year at home.

Other stories headed the list in a Canadian Press poll of daily newspaper telegraph editors. Second among world news events they placed Khrushchev's second in Canadian news, the Rosenbergs-Sobell espionage trial.

Coronation; 3, Gouzenko case; 2, Morrisburg bus crash; 3, Gaspe murders; 4, federal election; 5, Stanley Cup victory; 6, Quebec fliers' rescue.

Stalin's death March 5, with Malenkov's subpoesion and its unknown implications for Soviet policy, barely edged out the pageantry and color of the Coronation for top spot. The drama of Mount Everest was a comfortable third.

The Korean armistice signed July 27, the Greenlease case which began with the kidnapping Sept. 28 and ended with execution of the killers Dec. 18, and the long-drawn-out Rosenberg atom spy case, were well up in the voting.

Other world stories which just missed the top six included Mossadegh's overthrow in Iran, last winter's Soviet floods, and the letter of Lavrenty Beria as head of the Soviet secret police.

CANADIAN SCENES

On the Canadian scene, editors gave Gouzenko the honor because of the effort of U.S. Senate investigators to question him, and the international imbroglio that ensued, as top story. It outdrew the Morrisburg bus crash of seven victims. Grouped in third, fourth and fifth places were the mysterious killing of three hunters in Gaspe in July, the Dominion election in August, and the Barrie hysterectomy case. Five sixth place, the rescue of seven fliers missing 36 days barely edged out Calgary's DuPre hoax case.

Red Songs Drown Last Appeal, Explanation Period Is Ended

BY FORREST EDWARDS

PANMUNJOM (AP)— American war prisoners who embraced communism and a Red song book shouted and linked arms with fellow captives in a wild swirling dance today, drowning out last-minute broadcast appeals to return home.

The United Nations command said the 24-hour explanation period before the midnight (10 a.m. EST) deadline for explanations to baby prisoners ended efforts to woo home 83 diehards from the Britain and 227 South Koreans who stayed with the Reds.

The Communists, who have pressed repeatedly for an extension of the explanation period, claimed 21 Turkish and Chinese prisoners from the anti-Communist camps in Thursday. But the neutral nations repatriation commission said the explanations did not end tonight.

TO MEET CORRESPONDENTS

The commission, however, approved a request from the pro-Communist Americans and the Britons to meet with Chinese newspaper correspondents Thursday in the neutral zone.

Loudspeakers outside the barbed-wire enclosure today broadcast in turn—in English at 10:30 a.m. to the 22 Americans, one Briton and 77 South Koreans who had not interviewed individually. All of the 250 Chinese had been interviewed earlier elected to stay with the Communists.

The broadcasts were greeted by wild demonstrations as the prisoners danced, sang and shouted and cheered in unison.

Correspondents standing outside the compound wire identified from pictures Sgt. Richard Corden of Hull, Engand, who told reporters about the enclosure with a short "Merry Christmas" broadcasters as he led the demonstration.

IDENTIFIED AS LEADERS

Cpl. Claude Batchelor of Prince Andrew Cordron previously had been identified as leaders of the non-Korean prisoners.

Correspondents also identified Richard Fecteau of Nashua, N.H., Tennesson's mother, Mrs. Portia Howe, flew to Tokyo to try to persuade him to come home. Tennesson wrote his mother than he is not going home.

With the end of the explanation period all of America's remaining patriates become absent without leave. In another 30 days they will be listed as deserters.

Under terms of the armistice, all unrepatriated prisoners must be held in the neutral zone until Jan. 23, when they will be released as civilians. During the 30-day period they can still ask for repatriation.

ALLIES REFUSE

The Communists want the prisoners kept in custody until a peace conference decides their fate, but the Allies have refused to agree.

A few miles from the compound where the explanations were being made, Communist explainers won back 21 of 250 Chinese and one North Korean out of 42 interviewed on the final day of explanations.

It was the ninth day that the Communists have tried to change the minds of some 22,500 Chinese and Korean prisoners.

The Chinese, they have talked with 3,173 prisoners and have won back 138, or about 4.3 per cent.

Police Raid Office Party, Lock Up 14

TORONTO (CP) — Police swooped down on an office party in an auto-wrecking firm early today, arresting the owner on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and 13 other persons as founders.

Officers said it was the start of a stiff police crackdown to enforce regulations on the Ontario liquor control board that drinking parties in offices are illegal, even at Christmas.

Arrested for permitting drunkenness was Mitchell Forbes, owner of the Greenwood Auto Parts. In addition 13 members of the party staggering along the street near Greenwood Ave. were taken their way home from the party.

60 ARRESTS OVERNIGHT

In all police said there were 60 arrests on charges of intoxication with liquor offences Tuesday night and early today. A total of 40 were held as common drunks, five for driving while impaired and one for drunk driving. There were three raids on suspected bootleggers' premises Tuesday and five were held as found-ins.

Police said that the Toronto motorists seem to be ignoring the Christmas warning: If you drive, don't drink."

"We're not fooling," said Inspector Robert Kerr. "There have been 31 arrests since Saturday for drunk driving. Impaired driving.

Those convicted of impaired and drunken driving are in for harsh fines. Magistrate J. L. Prentice announced Tuesday that he was immediately convicted drunken and impaired drivers would get a minimum fine of $500 and second offenders will get 14 days in jail with no option.

Business Area Of Pembroke Rocked by Blasts

PEMBROKE (CP) — The business area of this Ottawa valley city was rocked by two heavy explosions in sewer mains.

Fire Chief R. D. Gray said he believes the explosions were caused by gasoline which had been dumped illegally dumped into the sewers. The sewer system was flushed to prevent further explosions.

The explosions were strong enough to rattle stocks in stores crowded with Christmas shoppers, but no major damage was caused.

The last explosion blew a manhole cover a few feet in the air on Main street, and started a small fire. It was extinguished by firemen.

UNABLE TO FIND CRUTCHES, MAN PERISHES IN FIRE

Five Others Injured In Blaze at Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today Vernon Cleogh, a 37-year-old cripple, died in a rooming-house fire Tuesday night because he was unable to find his crutches. Five other persons were injured, one seriously.

Officers identified the body of the man who had one leg in a cast about six hours after the fire. His pocketbook and only two books of matches bearing the words "Good luck."

Police said Cleogh came to Toronto from Nova Scotia.

IN HOSPITAL

In hospital were: Vera Harris, 32, "critical condition;" Lucille Hughes, head injuries, burns on right knee, right wrist and left leg; John Hughes, 32, and Mrs. Murray Jones, all in fair condition with burns and other injuries.

It was the second fire within a month in the old three-storey building at 2 Queen St. E. Tuesday night. Several weeks ago a fire broke out on the ground floor but was quickly put out.

An over-heated furnace is believed responsible for the fire which caused an estimated $8,000 damage to the building, police said which about 12 persons are known to have occupied rooms.

One man was reported to have leaped from a second-storey window and landed on a cramped heap on the sidewalk below suffering head injuries.

An eyewitness, Austin Gadbois, employed at a service station across the street, said:

"I saw a woman run out of the building with her clothes burning off. Another woman was lying on the sidewalk outside the burning building.

"Her leg was doubled beneath her and she was screaming horribly."

The fire was discovered by detective Jack Smith who had gone to make a routine check of the building while in new overcoat. Peter Low and Rene Lassier of Montreal, Smith escorted the cripple down and was met by a sheet of flames

Queen Dislikes State Balls In Hot Weather

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—State officials in charge of elaborate arrangements for the Queen and Duke's visit are in a quandary: To dance or not to dance?

Sumptuous balls have been arranged in their honor as well as visit but word has leaked out that the Queen does not relish the prospect of dancing on hot "down under" summer nights.

A royal tour spokesman said the Queen has not requested cancellation of state balls and the final decision will be left to the states concerned.

News of the Queen's attitude came from G. A. C. Harper, New Zealand royal tour director. Harper reports quote him as saying the Queen had preferred a relaxing private summer heat as unfit for dancing.

Plight of Pup in Well Brings Scores of Rescue Suggestions

CARLSBAD, N. M. (AP)—Bolstered by a multitude of suggestions, Fire Chief Ira Stockwell took the top and 38 feet deep.

Her cousins, Dan Hardin, 15, and Patsy Hardin, 13, rescued one of the pups. They lowered a burlap sack and the pup walked into it. But the other little mongrel shied off.

KEPT ALIVE

The Hardin boys have been keeping the trapped pup alive by lowering bowls of milk and cereal.

Tuesday a couple of Boy Scouts tried unsuccessfully to drop a rope over their necks and haul him to safety.

Newspaper and wire service offices in this area have been besieged with suggestions for rescue. One of the plans came from a woman who said:

"Send the other puppy down in a basket. Then maybe the trapped one will be so glad to see him he'll climb in the basket with him."

A fisherman: "Drop a piece of net the size of the bottom of the hole to the pup and then haul up the four corners. When he reaches the top place a meat in the centre, jerk him out like a flash."

In contrast to the usual softhearted suggestions, one man said: "Let him die fast! Risk the hole is on top of him."

Another offered, "fill the well to a depth of two or three feet with corks. Do it slowly so the pup can crawl on top. Then fill the well with water so he'll float to the top.

"Lower a little boy in a stout pair of overalls and have him suggested a woman, "and let him bring the puppy back."

New Zealand Roars Welcome To Royal Couple

Queen and Duke Arrive On Liner for 38-Day Visit

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Grass-skirted Maori warriors danced a welcome today as the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived in the royal liner Gothic for a 38-day visit to New Zealand.

Despite a drizzling rain, half a million New Zealanders lined the streets and cheered themselves hoarse as the royal couple drove from the docks through the city's main street to the town hall.

The Queen was greeted by Governor-General Sir Willoughby Norrie and other officials as she stepped from the Gothic's gangplank into the drizzling rain wearing a light, chartreuse-colored dress.

After inspecting a guard of honor, the monarch and the duke were rushed to the city hall where the Queen stood on an open-air balcony to receive the acclamation of the crowd.

ACCEPTS RAINCOAT

The Queen refused the loan of a raincoat during the dockside ceremony but gratefully accepted another one offered at city hall by Prime Minister Sidney Holland. The raincoat eases as Holland took the coat from his secretary and adjusted it over the Queen's shoulders.

Lady Norrie hastily put her umbrella over her guest. Meanwhile the duke, wearing the riband and star of the Order of the Garter, sat in the downpour on the left side of the royal car.

The Queen took off her raincoat before she went to the microphone to make a thank-you speech for her warm welcome.

The Maoris, descendants of the original inhabitants of New Zealand, staged their spectacular welcome ceremony in front of the hall. Thirty warriors, clad only in grass skirts, shook and stamped through their dance and treated the royal party to a ferocious "haka," a Maori war chant.

FIRST TO VISIT

The Queen, on a six - month, round - the - world Commonwealth tour, is first reigning monarch ever to visit New Zealand.

Four New Zealand naval ships and 2,000 men and women stood around Auckland's island-studded gulf in welcoming the royal couple to this smallest and most remote of the British dominions.

It was a gray morning with gusty winds and rain, but almost all of Auckland's quarter of a million people lined up to salute the royal liner.

As in Jamaica on Coronation day, tens of thousands of eager citizens elbowed each other for a glimpse of the Queen. Police estimate that as much as $50 for a "room with a view" in the houses overlooking the harbor.

As the Gothic nosed up to the central dock, New Zealanders, many of whom had camped all night for this big moment, waved flags and blew whistles and shouted their welcome as the couple went chose New Zealand for their Christmas celebration.

Missing Briton's Mother Receives Letter from Him

LONDON (AP) — A Christmas letter in the handwriting of Guy Burgess, British diplomat who vanished 2½ years ago, was delivered at his mother's home today. She said it was the first real evidence that her son still is alive.

Burgess and his foreign office colleague, Donald Maclean, an American spy, mysteriously disappeared May 25, 1951. There has been wide speculation that they fled to the East to help the Communist world in its cold war against the West.

Burgess' mother, Mrs. Evelyn Burgess Bassett said she was "absolutely certain" the man wrote the letter signed in his name.

"It was a wonderful Christmas present," she said. "It is the first real sign we have had that he is still alive."

A friend of Mrs. Bassett told reporters it was "quite a happy letter" containing ordinary Christmas greetings.

"There was no indication in it of where Guy may be," the friend added.

Contents of the letter were not published.

The penned date of the message was simply "November." It was postmarked Monday night, however, and in the dockyard area at London.

The lapse of time between the writing and the mailing of the letter suggested the possibility that Burgess was ill or a friend here to be reposed.

Malik Lunches With Churchill

LONDON (CP)—Soviet ambassador Jacob Malik today lunched with Prime Minister Churchill at Chequers, Churchill's country residence.

Malik returned here a week ago from New York where he attended the United Nations General Assembly. Before that he was unable to see Eden because of the foreign secretary's illness.

BELLE THEATRE STAFF GUESTS OF MANAGER AT TURKEY DINNER

Policy members of the staff and their wives and friends of the Belle Theatre were guests of manager George Forhan and Mrs. Forhan at their annual party held at the Golden Arm Inn on Sunday evening.

A full course turkey dinner was enjoyed after which a social hour was spent.

During the evening closed, Mr. Forhan on behalf of the management presented each member of the staff with a suitable gift and thanked them for their co-operation during the past year. A fitting number replied thanking Mr. Forhan for his kindness and goodwill.

Lamp Stolen From Theatre

He "saw the light"—and took it.

Today one of the handsome table lamps that adorned the mezzanine of the Belle Theatre a few days ago, occupies a spot in the home of a member of the "light-fingered" fraternity—or in that of a "friend" or a friend.

The lamp, of the table variety, is of grey color and is topped with two large beads. It is one of a pair that formed part of the theatre's mezzanine furnishings.

The theft occurred during last Saturday's matinee. Mr. George Forhan, manager of the theatre said that he believes the lamp was swiped with the lamp down a stairway, seldom used, that leads to the street.

The lamp is valued at twenty dollars.

Bakelite Firm, Employees Hold Christmas Party

The Bakelite Co. (Canada) Ltd. joined with their Employees' Recreation Association to hold their initial children's Christmas party on Saturday last, at the YMCA.

The president, W. J. Old, acting as master of ceremonies, started proceedings by welcoming everybody and introducing Mr. J. E. Buchan, who extended greetings on behalf of the company.

Approximately 200 children turned out for the party, accompanied by their parents.

The entertainment consisted of movies and magician, Mr. L. Fozard, of Belleville. Two clowns kept things moving and assisted in the sing-song with W. Chandler at the piano. There was ice cream, cookies and soft drinks for everybody.

The highlight of the afternoon was the arrival of Santa Claus with presents for all children, young years and under.

Thanks are due to everyone who supported the party, especially the committee headed by George Mendory.

American Optical Christmas Party Much Enjoyed

With sleigh bells ringing and children singing, all was merry and bright when Santa came to the American Optical party last Friday night.

Some 175 small and big children were present to join in the singing of Christmas songs and carols led by Bill Colebrook, with Dorthy Wilkes at the piano.

Mr. G. R. Scott welcomed everyone to the party and expressed the hope that a good time would be had by all.

Films showing Canada's own Barbara Ann Scott, a day at the zoo, and lastly Santa Claus making his rounds, were enjoyed by everyone.

Refreshments were served under the capable leadership of Marg Carson and her committee and then came the big moment—in with a Ho, Ho, Ho and Ha, Ha, Santa had arrived to dispense with numerous gifts for the huge Christmas tree.

A short time later a group of four very happy children were taken home and another successful Christmas party was brought to a close.

Kiwanians Hold Turkey Dinner, Christmas Party

The meeting of the Kiwanis club held in the Centre on Tuesday was the annual Christmas party and under the direction of the Supported Churches committee. Captain Fred Brightwell of the Salvation Army was master of ceremonies.

Following the turkey dinner, the Salvation Army Band rendered several selections. Carol singing by the members was conducted by the band selections by the band, Lt. Ivan McNeilly, also of the Salvation Army and a "Silent Night" accompanied at the piano by Cliff Hamilton.

Col. Will Ether, Divisional Commander, delivered a brief Christmas message. He read a poem entitled, "Christmas Spirit." In his talk, the Colonel stressed that this will be the first Christmas in 10 years his entire family has been together.

Col. Ether took over his post in the city yesterday after returning from Australia. He had occupied previous commands in India and Burma.

A vote of appreciation to Captain Brightwell for his fine and the band was extended by the club president, Frank Creegan.

Many Ducks Lost During Spring 'Rat' Trapping

TWEED — Facing what may be a serious loss of ducks caught accidentally during spring muskrat trapping, district trappers are co-operating with the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests by reporting the number caught and the number which could be released. Figures for the past two years indicate the loss may be more serious than at first believed, particularly in view of the increasing number of decoys being used by marshes in the area.

In 1952, trappers reported 1,424 ducks caught, 465 of them dead. This year, 1,101 trappers caught 1,034, 332 dead. The figures suggest to conservation officers that about one-third of the ducks caught in this way die before the trapper can release them, while others, when released, may not survive or may not breed for another year.

Christmas Mail Increases But Will Be No Back-Log As More Equipment in Use

The rush of Christmas mail is rapidly reaching its peak and postmaster J. C. Waddell has estimated it was time to be approximately five per cent greater than at Christmas 1952. However, he cautioned it was only an estimate and exact figures could only be obtained by comparison with those of 1952.

"We just do not have time to make any comparison at this time to find out," Mr. Waddell stated. He said a few more persons had been hired as special help this year, making the postal employees greater in number than last year.

Mr. Waddell also explained that a number of extra sorting cases had been acquired and he said that through these extras, the post office has been able to get the mail out as it is sorted. In previous years mail had piled up in a back-log and postal employees were still putting out Christmas mail three days after Christmas was over.

"But this year, there will be no back-log after Christmas," the postmaster concluded.

Three Injured, Auto Wrecked As Case of Dynamite Explodes Blowing Hole in Kellar's Bridge

Kellar's Bridge on Highway No. 62 north of Madoc, was badly damaged, an auto was completely wrecked and three men were injured late Tuesday afternoon when an auto carrying a case of dynamite struck the bridge, overturned and caused the dynamite to explode.

A hole four feet in diameter was blown in the concrete floor of the bridge and windows of both houses nearby were smashed when the dynamite detonated.

Driver of the car, Thomas Eldon, R.C.A.F. Station Trenton, west of Bancroft, suffered lacerations at old cut and bruises, while William Rowley, also of Highland Grove, is in Bancroft Red Cross Hospital with serious injuries. Police said he suffered internal injuries and lacerations when the car rolled off the girder of the bridge.

No one was hurt as result of the dynamite explosion but the men were able to get clear before it detonated.

The case in which five Highland Grove men were riding was returning from the Highland Grove when during a dense fog shortly after 5 p.m. driver Eldon moved into "the right side of the narrow Kellar's Bridge.

RAN UP CULVERT

The car ran up the slanting girder at the end of the bridge, then toppled over onto the bridge floor where it caught fire. Occupants of the car got clear fearing explosion of the gasoline and contents of the case of dynamite and caps in the trunk of the car exploded moments after the planes had partially wrecking the bridge.

Traffic was re-routed around the damaged bridge until temporary repairs could be effected.

Windows of three houses on the north side of the bridge were broken in the blast. The houses belonged to Harold Lloyd, Clifford McGregor and a family named Boyle. No persons were injured as result of the dynamite blast.

Corporal Jack Hatch of the Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc said that the dynamite explosion had blasted a hole four feet in diameter in the concrete floor of the bridge. He said the case is security to re-route traffic over the bridge while repairs are made to River between Eldorado and Bancroft. Provincial Constable Art. Boileau assisted in the investigation.

Program, Kettles Bring $700 To Salvation Army

Senior Captain Fred Brightwell, local Salvation Army officer, said today the army has raised more than $700 to help go toward their Christmas Cheer baskets.

The money was raised through donations realized from the kettles on the street and from the request programs over the radio on Monday evening. The Captain said more than 200 baskets will be made up by city residents and approximately $300 came from the radio program.

However, he pointed out, people are still invited to send in gifts of money and mailing to Salvationists and friends will be abroad in the city on Thursday delivering the Christmas Cheer hampers to the needy of the city. Captain Brightwell said the army crew would work late in the evening on Thursday before the last hamper was disposed of.

Rules, Suggestions for Fire-Safe Christmas Outlined by Fire Chief

Candlelight services where gifts for a needy child are carried by young children are a source of danger, according to the chief. "Wax candles at such services and the use of candles near Christmas trees is a practice that must be discouraged" he said.

In case of fire at a house the first thing to remember is to get everybody out of the house at once and then call the fire department.

Should fire occur at a public gathering the rule to follow is to keep calm, move to the exit, to the nearest exit. Call the fire department immediately.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Most price groups were a little lower in light forenoon stock market trading today.

In slow industrial trading steels, banks and utilities were weaker, while paper and manufactures showed a little strength. Brazilian Traction was steady at the 36.75 it reached following Tuesday's dollar drop.

Base metals were down in light trading, although the biggest price change was a gain—50 cents by International Nickel. Quebec Metallurgical was the lowest junior with a 5-cent loss.

Despite Tuesday's strike settlement progress, golds drew little interest and all price changes, even in minor, were in pennies.

Uraniums were ahead a little with New Delhi up 13 cents.

Western oils made a few gains. Britalta gained 15 cents.

Shipping Increases In Cornwall Canal

CORNWALL (CP)—There were increases in both tonnage and the number of ships through Cornwall this year, it was reported today by A. H. Parker, superintending engineer.

Total freight tonnage was 9,453,-899 tons, an increase of 106,326 over the 1952 total. Ships numbered 6,862 as against 6,738 last year. Biggest increase was in vessels of foreign registry.

It was disclosed that 611 foreign vessels, almost double the 328 figure for 1952, were locked through the system.

Suggestions for Wider Sharing In Coronation Rites Opposed

LONDON (Reuters)—Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, today opposed suggestions for wider Commonwealth participation in the Coronation ceremony.

He said in a letter that an extended ceremony would not only lend to it "a religious significance but also lengthen the proceedings by a couple of hours."

This would be "demanding much more of the sovereign than one has any right to demand," the Church of England Primate told the Commonwealth review, Round Table, which recently published suggestions for a revised Coronation ceremony.

The magazine's main proposal was that the swearing of loyalty to the new monarch by bisops and peers should take place in a secular hall after the crowning with Commonwealth representatives taking part.

WANTS SERVICE KEPT

Fisher said the tendency would be to put religious rites on the half-part of the ceremony and little by little to transfer the interest away from the abbey service.

"I would maintain that it is essential to keep the ceremony in Westminster Abbey alone and there to keep everything subordinated to the religious service," he said.

The archbishop put forward the suggestion that the homage ritual in the abbey might be followed by a simple ceremony in which the peers (chairmen of Commonwealth parliaments swear loyalty to the sovereign.

City shoppers must have thought they had been spirited into a world of three centuries ago when last week groups of carollers dressed in costumes of Dickens' time were seen in downtown Belleville. Shown is a group of costumed singers as they sang Christmas carols on a local street corner. The carollers were part of a Christmas program sponsored by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Foshay Happily Wed for 50 Years

TRENTON (Special) — De-ed cember 23, 1903, was a bright cold day. In the evening brilliant moonlight flooded a beautiful Christmas scene. About three inches of downy snow covered the ground making the sleighing perfect in the Trenton district.

Amid this alc of winter splendor the Foshay residence on Bay Street was the setting for a quiet Yuletide wedding.

The bride was Rebecca Wannamaker, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wannamaker of Frankford. She wore a smartly tailored suit and pepper suit and a corsage of bridal roses. The attire was embellished by a semi-train effect in the back.

The groom was a young barber, Leonard Foshay, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Foshay, of Trenton. The ceremony was performed by Canon Armstrong, rector of St. George's Anglican Church.

A cousin of the bride, Ella Lyons, still living in Saskatchewan, acted as bridesmaid. The groom was supported by Joseph Doige, now a resident of Smithfield. Only members of the couple's immediate families witnessed the marriage.

An elaborate reception followed.

Anglo-American Hotel in 1902 Had Dinner 'Fit for King'

So you think that Christmas dinner, vintage 1953, is tops in gastronomical delight!

"Brother, you ain't seen nothin'."

Had you lived around the turn of the century you would have enjoyed a Yuletide repast that would make your current banquet look like a midnight snack at the corner hamburgery.

If you were a young blood at the time Klondyke was swiping "roolneks" in South Africa and a young cavalry subaltern named Winston Churchill was making military history for himself, you would have trimmed up before, burns, hitched up Dobbin to the rubber-tired buggy, and escorted your bonneted heart-throb to the Anglo American Hotel.

This hostelry, well known for its cuisine, and operated by W. P. Lewis was located in the building now occupied by the Kresge Stores branch.

You entered the well-appointed dining-room, seated the girlfriend, fondled the outermost tip of the then fashionable moustache, and murmured to yourself in the vernacular of the day "Bring on the chow."

And, what "chow" it was!

You whetted the appetite with blue point oysters on the half-shell, garnished with olives, walnuts and almonds.

You loosed off a shrimp or lobster salad before you tackled creamed clam chowder or cat ball soup à la financier, whatever that means.

To keep in the swim you had an order of tasty salmon a la maitre de hotel and if you preferred, you could entree with chicken giblets, curry and rice, or oyster patties.

MANY COLD CUTS

In the cold cuts section you could order roast goose or pickled lamb's tongue.

Then came the feature of the feast, the roast suckling pig, an extra cut prime ribs of beef with horseradish, roast turkey with quince jelly and green peas; baked ham studded with green mint; young chicken with savory dressing; brown gravy, or domestic duck with dark currant jelly.

Arrayed around you were dishes of boiled potatoes, string beans, sweet corn and green peas.

After letting out the belt a notch or two, you took time out to figure what dessert you preferred. And there were lots to choose from.

You could have Christmas plum pudding with brandy sauce, mince, lotte russe, raspberry tarts, special mince pie or apple pie. You could add port wine or lemon jelly.

You topped off the dessert with a choice of rolled jelly cake, Christmas cake, lady fingers, lemon sandwiches or macaroons.

Don't go away yet. There's more to come.

As you relaxed in well-fed comfort you could daily with almonds, walnuts, filberts, apples, oranges, figs, dates, raisins or grapes.

And with your delicious "creamerie coffee," English — made tea, green tea or cafe noir, you could imbibe at Canadian cheese, imperial cheese and soda biscuits.

If you could hoist yourself from your chair at this point you settled the bill.

For two? Two bucks.

NEW ZEALAND

The Queen will deliver the traditional royal broadcast to the Commonwealth here at 9 p.m. (3 a.m. CST) Christmas Day.

MIGHTY ROAR .

Sirens, ships' whistles and bells set up a mighty roar of welcome as the Queen and the duke stepped ashore, and the din was matched by a great chorus of auto horns from New Zealanders sitting in cars parked bumper to bumper for all the roads around the harbor of this city of 30,000 persons.

In her reply at city hall to Hizzoner's address of welcome, the Queen spoke of her parents' visit to the dominion more than 25 years ago, before her father was called to the throne. He had planned to visit Australia and New Zealand in 1942, but the trip was postponed by illness and he died in 1952 before he could make it again.

The Queen said:

"There is a measure of sadness in the circumstances which surround my visit.

"My father would have come here in 1939 had it not been for the outbreak of war, and he was prevented again from coming by his illness in 1948.

"I have inherited the duties and responsibilities which he bore with such courage and I am heartened by the fact that I have also inherited the loyalty of his people all over the world.

"I shall always endeavor to reach and deserve that loyalty."

Standardization Hydrant Fittings Starts in Spring

Standardization of hydrant fittings owned by the Belleville Public Utilities Commission will commence in the spring, it was decided by members of the local utilities at their final meeting of the year Tuesday afternoon.

The work to be undertaken is in connection with standardization of all fire fighting hose in the province as part of the civil defence program. Utilities manager H. Scott said that wherever possible it is being urged that the work be done by utility crews and that materials to be supplied by the government.

The standardization of hose and other fire fighting equipment when completed will make it possible for any fire department in the province to hook up to a hydrant in any other centre in Ontario.

Little other business was conducted at the meeting, the last before the opening of the commission this year. A communication was received from Dr. A. M. Brouls, medical officer of health, noting that a recommendation from the board of health to city council for fluoridation of city water supplies was referred to next year's council for action.

Commission chairman Percy McGuire stated that he had enjoyed his two years as member of the utilities commission.

He paid tribute to Utilities Manager H. Scott for the efficient manner in which the local utilities was operated.

"I can endorse that wholeheartedly," said Mayor A. M. Hulg. "Mr. McGuire has expressed my sentiments entirely."

The mayor added that he also had enjoyed working with other members of the commission during his two years as mayor.

Utilities Manager Scott thanked both Mr. McGuire and Mayor Haig for their kind remarks. He stated that during the past two years there had been many contentious subjects to be considered but that all were settled to the benefit of the consumers.

Marionettes Thrill Children In Story of Rumpelstiltskin; Variety Show Will Be Given

Hundreds of children in the Middleton Park, Trenton and Belleville areas were thrilled this month by the Middleton Park Marionette performance of that delightful old fairy story "Rumpelstiltskin."

The owner and creator of the puppets, Mrs. E. J. McLeod, of 14 Brandner Boulevard, Middleton Park, put on her show three afternoons at the C.C.I.C. Broadcaster School, once in Trenton for the underprivileged children and again at the Ontario School for the Deaf, where the show was as fully appreciated as was the performance at the famous Moulin-Rouge.

Since the show is a musical variety there is scope for all sorts of talent in the way of instrumentalists, vocalists, dancers and soloists. Miss H. F. Murray is the convener for this huge undertaking which is to be produced in the Macdonell Sports Arena on or about April 2.

SOCIAL NOTES

Group Captain and Mrs. J. B. Millward have as their guest over the Christmas holiday Mrs. Millward's mother, Mrs. F. R. Newton from Sherbrooke, Quebec.

Farm Forum News

Only two forums reported meeting on December 14 where the topic was "Telling the Farmer's Story." Brookdale met at the home of Ken Paul and Elver Valley at the home of Mrs. Jack Sager.

Both forums believe there will have to be a good job of public relations between rural and urban peoples.

Some of the facts of farming that town and city people are not well informed on:

(1) Difference in spread of price between producer and consumer.

(2) Weather conditions' influence on production.

(3) They do not realize the long hours farm people must put in to get the job done.

(4) They do not fully appreciate the capital investment involved.

How can understanding be improved?

(1) Invite city people to visit farm forums in force.

(2) Federation of Agriculture fieldmen to bring facts to country and city folk alike.

(3) We might cover more fully the Farm Forum in the forums for the press and radio.

(4) Country people must be well informed on their work, current events, etc., so they can converse intelligently and inform city people as they do not know otherwise.

Recommendations by way of public relations for executives of provincial and national farm organizations.

(1) Make a more careful choice of leaders so they are more appreciated by the public.

(2) Have qualified executives capable of addressing urban organizations such as Rotarians, Kiwanis and women's organizations, Home and School Associations, etc.

River Valley had agricultural films shown during recreational period.

Brookdale objected to the idea of "the good apples on top, and inferior ones underneath." This is not the general practice.

SHIPPING SEASON CLOSES

HAMILTON (CP)—The busiest shipping season in the history of Hamilton harbor ended Tuesday when the oil tanker, Britamolene, arrived. Tonnage is expected to total 7,000,000 tons, an increase of 600,000 tons over last year. New facilities of the Imperial Company of Canada, whose operations account for more than 40 per cent of Hamilton shipping, have been largely responsible for the record season.

KEEP THE SIDEWALKS LEVEL

Last week many of Belleville's sidewalks were in a treacherous state.

The milder weather on Sunday and Monday remedied that condition.

With sidewalks bare once more, it might be appropriate if the board of works would make a New Year's resolution ahead of time. That is to make certain that sidewalk plows get out promptly as soon as the first snowfall again covers the walks.

That first plowing is all-important. If the first couple of inches of snow are left undisturbed, and if a thaw is followed by a freeze-up, rough walking results and there is little that can be done to remedy the situation.

The Weatherman has given the public works department an opportunity to make a clean start. Let's hope that full advantage is taken of this fact.

WRONG ATTITUDE TOWARD PARKING METERS

The city of Gordon in Nebraska has inaugurated a system of parking meter operation which is almost certain to be popular with motorists. We may expect to hear of the adoption of the same idea in other cities.

There may even be pleas that the system be adopted in Belleville. There is only one thing wrong with it. It is based on an erroneous attitude toward the meters, a failure to appreciate the real purpose behind their use.

Gordon, like many other centres using parking meters, has an ordinance providing for a fine of $1 for over-parking. The Chamber of Commerce, however, provided $20 in nickels to be placed in meters by police officers when parking tickets are issued. The money is left on the car for the return of the nickel. Drop boxes are placed in each block so the envelopes can be returned with little inconvenience to the driver. A number of all envelopes is kept by police. After three envelopes have been placed on a car and none of them has been returned, a regular ticket is placed on the car and a fine of $1 follows.

Strangely enough, motorists who over-park like this system. Their appreciation has been shown by the fact that 96 per cent of the coins used by police have been returned.

What is wrong with it?

Well, the object of the parking meter is not to collect a few pennies a week for the use of the streets as a parking lot, but to help to solve motorists' problems in finding a place to park.

When motorists follow over-parking, motorists hurry back to their cars as the end of the period for which they have purchased parking time approaches. More often than not they then drive away, leaving the space vacant for another car. Under the system in operation in Gordon, there is little urge to hurry. If they are late, they pay only a nickel, not a dollar. Therefore the objective of the installation of parking meters is defeated.

What remains is a system whereby the city "rents" part of its streets to motorists for parking purposes, at the extremely reasonable charge of a nickel an hour. It is questionable whether a municipality has a moral right to "rent" its streets in such a manner. Some citizens, including some members of municipal councils, have opposed the installation of parking meters on this ground. The legitimate objective is such objectors state is that the fee for parking is merely incidental to the real aim, to ensure the utilization of parking space in a manner most beneficial to the shopping public as a whole. But this answer can no longer be given in Gordon, or in any other city which copies its "gentle method" of handling overparking.

If the Gordon system is really proving satisfactory to everybody—and not merely to those motorists who exceed their time limit, if it is proving conclusive evidence that Gordon is fortunate enough to have adequate parking facilities and that there was no necessity for installing parking meters in the first place.

MAKING ROYALTY "HUMAN"

Prince Charles is making his own Christmas cards. Paint-by-number kits are being prepared for distribution amongst his friends.

There is nothing unusual about that. Many another child has done the same thing.

What is unusual is that the world should be told about it. His high station gives news value to Prince Charles' actions. As a result, the world learns that he differs little, if at all, from other children of his age.

Far from there being any effort to hide this fact, there are many occasions when it appears as if there existed a policy to emphasize it.

It is true, of course, that in earlier days there did not exist the methods of distributing news which today make us all familiar with much intimate detail in the life of royalty. But one cannot help wondering whether, if these facilities for distributing news had existed a couple of centuries ago, royalty would have welcomed the revealing glimpses now provided. Not the least impressive change in the status of royalty has been the trend to depict kings and queens, princes and princesses, as simply human beings with crowns, titles, duties and responsibilities. This human touch, far from detracting from the dignity of royalty, endears rather to have added to the love their subjects bear them.

SANTA CLAUS REPLIES

"Dear Sir, I've read your letter through
And hasten promptly to reply.
'Tis good to know what you would do
If I were you, and you were I.
But health to all with pain who live,
I'm sorry, is not mine to give.

"For faith and courage grief to bear,
For strength for those who need it so,
All, all should seek the Lord in prayer,
For only God can those bestow.

Such precious blessings to supply
As you are helpless, so am I.

"Do all you can the weak to aid.
Do all you can the sad to cheer.
If you will do as you have prayed,
You will have done God's service here.
And you'll have done for others, too,
What I'd have done if I were you."

Find Seaweed Is Real Treat

(Ottawa Citizen)

Most people enjoy seafood. They are fond of scallops, lobster, oysters, shrimp, and clams, and various other products of the deep. But, if certain Maritimers are to be trusted, they are missing one of the greatest treats of all. Seaweed, that is. The champion, however, prefer to call it dulse (hence "dulse dessert" — it's nice to eat seaweed at dessert).

Dulse happens to be somewhat select fraternity, being naturally more prominent along seacoasts. But now a Prince Edward Islander, with the apparent blessing of Nova Scotia scientists, has set out to bring this delicacy to a much larger number of his countrymen. Dulse, as is fairly well known, is impregnated with iodine. But it also contains calcium, iron, copper, zinc, cobalt, nickel, molybdenum, manganese, strontium, titanium and vanadium. Thus it a man were to go on a steady diet of dulse, he would in time become a valuable property.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Within recent weeks, there has been a great deal of print in the papers and talk on the air about the possibility of lessening political tension in the world.

Perhaps we had better face the fact that tension is a fundamental characteristic of our life as we have chosen it, and of our world as we have made it; and that we simpler have to accept political tension as a natural element of progress.

Because tension of one kind and another has been the source of more than half our progress since the beginning of time. Our discovery of one sort of tension has led to another. The tension of the bowstring enabled us to rise above brute creation with our first projectile weapon. The tension we were able to create in fibres made us free to cast aside the skins we used to cover ourselves and to wear textiles. The tensions we studied out of wood and stone empowered us to create buildings. Age after age, century upon century, our search for exploration with tensions has advanced human progress more than almost any other physical factory. In the past two centuries, the immense advances in the field of physics has been through our discovery of pressure through tension: steam, electricity and now all the realm of electronics and the penetration of the atom are logical steps along the path of tension.

The marvellously mechanized world in which we now live is largely the product of the scientific study of tension in physics, engineering, mechanics. Not a tool is used, not a wheel turned, not a wheel turned, not a horsepower moved in a wire without the employment of tension.

We live the hours of our days in tension. Our bodily muscles, our nerves, our senses are under a constant compensatory strain of tension applied to everything else we have conquered in this wonderful world.

Why should we expect political tension to subside? It is all of a piece.

Los Angeles Spreads Out

(New York Herald Tribune)

The link between Los Angeles and Philadelphia over which is the third largest city in the United States is most obvious when New Yorkers must regard with a certain amount of wistfulness. In the 1950 census Philadelphia was credited with 2,071,605 residents and Los Angeles with 1,970,358. But after several annexations of nearby territory and enormous growth Los Angeles is now numbered at 2,134,687, which would give it first ranking at drop Philadelphia to fourth place, out of the money.

To New Yorkers, for whom the population of 7,891,957, the anxiety of Los Angeles to reach the No. 3 spot is faintly amusing. New Yorkers understandably take the attitude that if you can't be No. 1 you might just as well be nothing, and that No. 3 is after all, isn't very different from No. 300. Still, there is no denying that the

CHAPTER 36.

The men of Rome did not kill Nero. Tigellinus and Poppaea were clever and quick-acting.

The Praetorian Guard, carrying bushel baskets of bread and the keys to imperial storehouses, marched to meet the rioters. Every family should eat its full at Nero's expense, and take enough grain to stave off hunger in the weeks of rebuilding ahead. And while angry months were silenced for the moment by food, Poppaea and Tigellinus conferred with the shivering emperor.

The people wanted blood. Somehow, blame for the fire must be shifted from Nero's flabby shoulders. Let the mob take vengeance on anyone, except Nero. But on whom?

Tigellinus ran a finger over the edge of his short sword.

"The Christians burned Rome," he suggested.

"Hmmm. . . . Who? Christians? Who are they?"

"Superstitious weaklings, Excellency. Traitors who refuse to worship you or bow before your statue. Tigellinus drew a long, twitching face with a hard stare. "The Christians burned Rome."

Before half an hour had passed, those three had concocted complete proof of Christian guilt.

Christians were Seditionists, disloyal to the emperor, Christians were foes of the state with ties, enemies of Jupiter, and therefore servants of the devil. Were yet, Christians were cannibals — men who feasted on the human body and drinking the blood of one named Jesus. Of what crime, asked Tigellinus, could such perverts not be capable?

Besides, Poppaea had heard Christian street preachers foretell that Rome would be erased by heavenly fire.

Nero smiled in relief. "Tigellinus, if I were not married to you, I might believe your brain to be hemp-lined. Go tell the people what the Christians have done. Build a new arena, a big one, across the river. They must die for their crime. And we shall meditate on some new forms of torture of grandeur to match the crime."

Petag sat on a ledge underground, a small balustrade beside smooth stone cells in a city of the dead.

On the steps, in every passageway, in niches built for marble statues, were bags of oil and incense and water, Christians sat and whispered or lay in crumpled sleep. Some had loitered in their own curied valleys or way, smoking in the dank cells of the catacomb.

At Peter's feet sat Sylvanus, that old friend whom the apostle called Silas for short, and Mark, his curly brown hair plastered on his skull with caked sweat and soot. Peter's beard was gray with dust, and his once white cloak was ripped down the armpit. But peace dwelt in his eyes.

Overhead the spurred boots of the Praetorian Guard rang in the city streets. A woman screamed. She sobbed hardly be heard under the roar of a vengeance-crazed crowd.

Peter looked around at his fellow refugees — slaves and freedmen, Roman, Greek and Jew, dark-skinned and light. The shadowed faces around him showed no fear. In a corner a few still sang the refrain of a hymn to the love of God.

"Silas, my son, you must write a letter for me. You know I have no skill with words. I am no writer. Our Lord Jesus Christ chose me. He strengthened me.

"He told me to feed His lambs, and shepherd His flock, I'll tell the Gospel to all men. But never did He say to me: Write!

"Paul — there is the man who knows how to wield a pen. His epistles may be difficult at times, but he writes with fire and love. Still Paul is not here. And sometimes must speak now in this terrible time of persecution. A letter must be written, Silas — may God help me!"

From the shadows men had crept to the statue to catch Peter's marvelling words as he began that letter, slaves, collars around their necks, pressed against men in noble purple-striped tunics, listening.

Peter paused and stared into the eyes of these men hiding from Nero, the tyrant king, that insanely conceited ass with a crown on his head and lust in his heart.

"Be ye subject therefore to every human creature for God's sake; whether it be to the will of God, that by doing well you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men . . .

"For unto this are you called because Christ also suffered for us, Who, when He was reviled, did not revile; when He suffered, He threatened not: but delivered Himself to him that judged Him unjustly . . .

"Dearly beloved, think not strange the burning heat which is to try you, as if some new thing happened to you: but if you partake of the sufferings of Christ, rejoice that when His glory shall be revealed, you may also be glad with exceeding joy. . .

"But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or a thief, or a railer, or a coveter of other men's things. But if as a Christian, let him not be ashamed, but let him glorify God in that name . . .

"Be sober and watch: because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, goeth about seeking whom he may devour . . . But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto His eternal glory by Jesus, after you have suffered a little, will Himself perfect you, and confirm you, and establish you. To Him be glory and empire for ever and ever. Amen."

Peter let his head sink in his hands.

In the silence of the graves that hid the men who might win everlasting life, Peter finished his first epistle.

Overhead the voices grew dimmer: "Death to the Christians!"

In the catacombs the prayer sounded as a antiphon:

"Thy will be done."

The tan of Spain's gentle sun was fading from Paul's brow. His back was yielding a bit to the weight of his years. But he would not rest.

At a late-comer to the feast table of truth, he lashed himself to zeal. Since the day on the road to Damascus when the beauty of Christ first blinded him, Paul had not spent one moment on himself. He had more calluses on his feet than a travelling peddler. He had endured stoning, chains, prison, shipwreck, exile.

For Paul no suffering, no labor was enough to pay his debt to God. The fruitful years of his apostolate dwindled to nothingness in his mind. The early years when he persecuted Christ, the years of his soul's blindness, loomed large.

But Timothy did not board the ship.

He stayed in Ephesus, on Paul's command, to battle the new crop of doctrinal misunderstandings and govern the local church. Paul was giving the Ephesians the one he loved most in the world, Timothy, whom he thought of as his son. In words, Paul promised to come back to Ephesus as soon as he could. In his heart he wondered if he would ever see Timothy again.

When the ship weighed anchor Paul's fading eyes searched the wharf for a last glimpse of that fine-shouldered face.

In Crete Paul found only the flotsam of, if wrecked civilization. What little Christianity had been implanted there had gone to seed, corrupted by pagan practices. Titus had planned to stay one month. He stayed two, and then left his friend Titus in charge of what the congregation there.

Paul himself sailed back to Europe in 66 A.D., to spend the busiest, and loneliest winter of his life. Restlessly he plodded the chain of churches throughout Macedonia, preaching and teaching, encouraging wavering Christians, fighting down the mistakes, clearing away the litter of homemade theology, keeping God's house in order. With every inconvenience in the catacombs, only Paul was left to speak in the name of truth. And he could not rest. Always the thought returned to chill him, that one day men might wander from the pillar and rock of the dawn and build new houses on the sands of error.

In January's sleet in the year 67 Paul slept in the town of Caypus, in the town called Troas.

Paul was no stranger to that three-storied house. In its giant attic hall, Paul had preached — and kept his life a young man named Eutychus, who had gone to sleep during that sermon, and tumbled out of the third window.

On this freezing January night ten years later Eutychus was not so sleepy. With Carpus he kept talking past the first cockcrow. They pulled their cots then close to the fire, and slept, exhausted.

A slashing rain woke Paul and them. The room was filled with soldiers in burnished helmets, and long, gray winter cloaks!

Rough hands dragged Paul from his pallet, and grasped his sinewy shoulders, pushing him toward the open door. In his hurry, without cloak or shoes, they propelled him out into the clouded dawn.

Tychicus scrambled up, matched Paul's shoes, and ran after him.

Trophimus gave a wildly, sickened up a loaf of bread, and dashed down the road, too.

For the final time Paul was arrested.

From Troas Paul was carted to Ephesus, capital of the province of Asia, for trial.

The pillared courtroom was crowded with familiar faces. Luke, who had ridden three days and nights to get there from Philippi, kept his anxious eyes on the brave figure standing before the judge. Aquila and Priscilla, Onesiphorus, who met the prison caravan on the road and bribed guards to give Paul a cup of hot soup, Trophimus and Tychicus, who tagged along at the edges of Carpus' home.

In a corner by a pillar stood Timothy, tears rolling unashamed down his cheeks. He had waited so long for Paul to return to Ephesus to see him brought there as a prisoner!

The haggermugger trial went according to plan, a political-state trial with verdict already written. Paul is a leader of the Christians and Nero wants him killed, so be quick with this mockery, and pack him off to Rome.

One by one the accusing witnesses testified. No one was allowed to speak in Paul's defence. In an hour the trial was ended. Paul was hustled and shoved out to the street and into a cart, heading for the docks and a Rome-bound ship.

Luke stepped up the edges of his cloak in his arms and broke into a dog trot beside the cart. At his heels hand Trophimus, Tychicus and Aquila, Timothy, and a pantsuit servant, Demas, a former priest of Corinth. At the docks all six bought passage to Rome. Luke peered under the arm of a soldier, and Timothy, and shook his head violently.

"Stay in Ephesus. Stay with your friend"

Timothy bowed his head. He climbed down the gangway.

From the land he gazed up for the last look at Paul, and smiled through his tears at the shadow of his own family as president."

Other officers installed were: vice presidents, Les Donaldson, John Vanderwater, secretary, Ed Burrows; treasurer, J. White; chaplain, Rev. A. S. McConnell; sergeant-at-arms, Ken Bonnah; executive, J. Cote, R. Ranson, Bill LaChar.

UNEMPLOYMENT UP.

A spokesman for the Unemployment Commission here today observed that a slightly higher number of people were jobless compared with the records of last year.

The condition has been prompted by the practice of manufacturers in Trenton and the district to close down operations during the holiday season. About 900 are registered to receive insurance assistance.

POLICE RECOVER CAR.

Police have recovered an abandoned high priced car bearing Quebec licence plates. The sedan appears to have been in a smash-up. Authorities however have no information to lead them to believe the car was involved in an accident in the locality.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT . . . TO A CHILD

He who gives a child a treat
Makes joy-bells ring in Heaven's street.

A QUESTION OF NAME FORM

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My maiden name was (let's say) Doris Margaret Norton. My husband's name is (also let's say) Henry Carter. On checks and letters I always sign my name Doris M. (my Margaret) Carter. But now that I should sign Doris M. (my maiden surname Carter). I thought this latter form of signature—Doris M. Carter—was for a divorcee. Please set me straight about this.

D.M.C.

The usual form of signature used by a married woman (on her checks, and for certain types of lottery fee example) consists of (1) her legal name, (2) her maiden surname, Doris Norton Carter. Or Doris M. Carter. This is a practical form to use, for the maiden surname is an added name-identification. Also most women proudly wish to honor their maiden surname by retaining it (spelled full) in their signature.

However, just as correct is the form you have used . . . using the initial of you middle name, and not using your maiden surname Doris M. Carter. Frequently, however this form does not provide the identifying proof of your maiden surname. But which form a married woman chooses to use depends largely on her preference.

(A divorcee's signature is exactly the same as the signature of a married woman . . . either Doris Norton Carter, or Doris Margaret Carter, or Doris M. Carter. It is her formal name that is different . . . the divorcee should use her maiden surname prefixed to her married surname: Mrs. Norton Carter, or if she prefers, Mrs. D. Norton Carter.

SECOND MARRIAGE PLANS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

1. I have been a widow for 18 months, have a very young child, and am to remarry soon. I was married exactly one year before my husband died. My fiancé, who is a bachelor, was a neighbor of ours. Would it be correct for us to have a small wedding and reception with only the members of our immediate families present, or must we also include close friends?

2. Is it proper for us to invite to the reception the Catholic priest who will perform the service?

3. I understand that it is not proper to wear the traditional white gown for a second marriage. If so, would you suggest that I wear a dressy suit dress or afternoon, or a white linen or wool suit, or a suit identical to my fiancé's?

A.

A. It would be in excellent taste for you to have a small church wedding and a reception following, inviting only the members of your family and the bridegroom's family. Of course you may include your most intimate friends, but if you invite any friends there is, of course, always the problem as to where to stop.

2. If you invite only the members of the two families it will not be necessary to invite the priest . . . and he undoubtedly will not expect to be invited, unless he is a particularly close friend of your family.

3. In very good taste would be the neat-looking dress of white wool or afternoon dress with harmonizing hat; or a white suit, Chesterfield-type if you prefer; or your going away costume. But not a veil identical to your fiancé's veil.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A LOVING SISTER WANTS HELP FOR HER "LITTLE BROTHER"

From a girl only 13, comes a touching letter about her "little brother," and two years younger than herself, because, she says, she does not go to school, is because of an unhappy family situation in which the father has no proper paternal relationship with his children. This is show she tells it:

"We are from a family of 11 children, and this brother is 16 and the fourth oldest. Our mother is wonderful, and we are free from want and have a very nice home, but our father is the kind of man you might describe as a tyrant.

"My brother is a good kid, but he quit school and went to California to join the merchant marine. He couldn't get in, though, so at present he is living out there with relatives, but he is coming back to school, but he doesn't like it.

"I have an idea he'll be back home soon, but, in a way, that would be a problem, because the reason he left in the first place was on account of my father.

"My brother and I are I'm away from my father. My older brother is in the army and the other one is also married. He got married at 17, largely because my father was too hard to live with. All the other kids are too young to leave home, except maybe my brother, but what can he do so he won't get into trouble?

"Please give me something to say to him that would help him get a hold on his life."

In this loving letter this sister, so mature beyond her years, does not call the 16-year-old my little brother," but rather tries to picture for herself what this brother is like. Apparently he is all "mixed up." In it, he tells about the trouble to which he is going, and while he says "It's pretty dern," he can't concentrate" on his studies and feels that he's "wasting his time." "Maybe I'm too nervous," he says.

What he thinks he would like to do at this point is to work his way to Africa "and to get a job in the jungle."

So here we have a boy in his early teens, away from home and more or less on his own, dissatisfied, restless, and wanting to get as far away as he can from everything he has ever known. In the belief that then he will be happy. What his sister subconsciously realizes, however, is that, no matter where he goes, he cannot escape from himself, and that what he is able to get some direction in his life. Some objective at which to aim, he will be just as unhappy in the African jungle, or anywhere else, as he is now.

Could she, I wonder take that thought and pass it on to him? From his letter, only a few words of which I have quoted, he seems to be a thoughtful boy who is engaged in a painful struggle to find his footing in his own confused personal world. Perhaps a few simple words from his understanding sister would make him stop and think long enough to realize that, unless he does buckle down to get some preparation for living, he will be "wasting his time" . . . no matter where he goes.

What I think this boy needs most right now is to have a talk with some older man who understands young people, and is interested in helping those who have problems. If I knew just what course to take in giving now, I'm sure I could suggest the right person who would make a friend of him and get him interested in the kind of life normal for a 16-year-old. Perhaps his sister will write and let me know where he is located, in which case I could give her a name and address which she, in turn, could pass on to her brother.

One more thing that occurs to me is this. Is there any possibility that the sister, being married and in a home of her own, might suggest that her brother come and live with her, if she has room, or near her, if she has not, so that, close at hand, she might be able to guide him through the next year or two? In this case, she might also persuade him to finish school, with perhaps a job after school and on Saturdays to help out with his finances, and give him an added interest and a further outlet for his energies.

Certainly this boy can be helped, and perhaps, by the suggestions I have made, there may be found the first step in this direction.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

REDUCING THE HIPS

Unless a woman keeps in perfect physical form, having a certain amount of exercise every day, her muscular system will lose the resilience of youth. Relaxed muscles give fullness to the midsection and invite excess fat cells to form.

Activity of the right kind will help. Here is normal condition. With no work to do they sag and soften, lose tone. Exercise burns up those extra calories which, without activity, will be stored away to expand measurements.

When a woman finds that last year's frock won't zip or her "dearest enemy" asks "Aren't you getting a bit fat, dearie?" she should act quickly. She can't wish off those inches. They have to be worked into a state of dissolution by dietary restriction. Fats, starches and sweets must be be cut down. Here is a simple exercise that will be found effective. The best time for it is before the daily bath, either in the morning or at night, with about no garment or the lightest garment to hinder free muscle action.

Lie on your back on the floor Lift the right leg and as high as high as you can, then roll to the left, stretching arms and legs, touching the floor with fingers and toes. Press hard against the floor with your hips. Six times with the right leg, six with the left and repeat.

Don't overlook the benefits of perfect posture. Unless the body is held erect, there will be slack midsection muscles.

Christmas Eve Oyster Party

By Mary Moore

Never do I want to open a letter from a reader that says my budget does not seem to be costly or fancy for her.

Of course, if they are I want to be the second one to know, but what I mean is that I try to keep everything on an average-level; plenty good enough for our up-to-the-moment friends, but not extravagant at all, so that those who are watching every penny can participate in them too.

But today is different occasion and cash are thrown to the winds.

For on Christmas eve we serve, in our house, oysters—stewed, broiled, raw and any way anybody happens to want them. Furthermore, on New Year's we are going to serve Lobster Bisque as a buffet supper.

So if you have similar fishy yearnings come join the happy chorus.

BROWN'S OYSTER BISQUE

(Makes 6 generous or 8 moderate servings)

Drain the liquor from ½ pint oysters, then to oysters add ½ cup cold water, rinse them in it and drain this water off and add it to the oyster liquor. To this liquid add ¾ cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup finely minced celery, ½ teaspoon grated onion, and 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley. Simmer these together covered for 3 minutes, then add 2 cups whole or rich milk, and heat to scalding (it is safer to do this heating in double boiler). Mix together 3 tablespoons flour and 3 tablespoons melted butter, and stir this into the milk until thick. Keep hot in double boiler. About 3 minutes before serving time add oysters which have been chopped coarsely, and heat. Serve garnished with finely minced parsley.

LOBSTER BISQUE

The foundation sauce for Lobster Bisque is same as for Oyster Bisque but celery is usually omitted. Canned lobster and liquid may be used—1 7-oz. tin. Be sure to remove dark from canned lobster and to cut the meat in chunky bits. A delicious garnish for top of soup is 1 tablespoon unsweetened whipped cream.

OYSTER CASSEROLE FOR CHRISTMAS EVE

This will serve six people generously.

Saute in 4 tablespoons hot melted butter 2 cups finely chopped celery and ¼ cup finely chopped onion until they are wilted and soft but not browned. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour, and when blended stir in ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sage, ⅛ teaspoon thyme and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Have ready to add 3 cups fluffy hot cooked rice—mild rice if you can buy it, or failing that use long-grain rice cooked the fluffy way—1½ cups raw rice makes 3 cups cooked. Add the rice and turn this mixture into a shallow 3-inch deep baking dish. Have ready one pint oysters which have been drained and dipped in 4 tablespoons melted butter, then in ¼ cup fine dry cracker crumbs. Arrange these over the rice, drizzling any remaining crumbs or butter over top too. Place in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes.

Pearson Seconds Comment Made By Foster Dulles

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs, today seconded the comment made by John Foster Dulles, United States state secretary, on the Russian reaction to proposed atomic talks.

Dulles said Monday night the Russian response seemed "hopeful" and Pearson said today he would go along with that.

Asked whether he also would echo Dulles' remark that the Russian reply did not seem to have caught the spirit of President Eisenhower's proposal, Pearson said he did not wish to go beyond the thought that the Soviet reaction seemed hopeful.

WAS DISCUSSED FRANKLY

The Canadian minister, in an informal chat with newspaper men at Canada House, said the question of the European Defence Community, one of the most important now facing the Western world, was fully and frankly discussed at the recent North Atlantic Treaty Organization council meetings in Paris.

He said North Americans sometimes tend to get a little impatient about French indecision on EDC. At the same time, the United States was perfectly right in warning France about the possible consequences of failure to ratify EDC.

"Still there is no use saying the Atlantic community idea will come to an end failing this particular method or solution," he added, "there are other methods of association."

GUESTS AT DINNER

During his London stay, Pearson has talked with senior officials. He and Mrs. Pearson were guests Monday night at a dinner at Canada House given by Foreign Secretary Eden and his wife.

Among the guests were film magnate Sir Alexander Korda and his Canadian wife, Lady Korda comes from Fort William, Ont.

At a Christmas party in Canada House Monday Pearson played Santa Claus for children of Canadian government employees. He had a little trouble with the false beard, which kept slipping off one ear.

"But I fooled the youngest of the children," said the minister. His wife was scheduled to return to Canada by air tonight.

Little Benny's Note Book

I suddinly remembered I left my bag of gum drops on Sam Cross's frunt steps while I was sitting thevetalking to him, and I thought, Heck, that's the werst place I could of left them.

Meening on account of Sam Cross being sutch a famous liar he's libel to say anything about anything as long as it's not the truth, and I hurry up ran back, and Sam was still sitting there, but I didn't see my bag of gum drops, and I said, Hay, where's my gum drops?

What gum drops? Sam said, and I said, You know what ones, I was eating them plain enough.

Is there a reward for them? Sam said, and I said, Heck, why should there be? You only offer a reward what you lose something, and I did not lose them, I just left them here, I said.

Is there a reward anyways? Sam said, and I said, Hay, where's those gum drops?

How do I know? Sam said. I got the honest memory that ever was. I bet it's the werst memory in the world. One nite I even forgot to feed my cat, and my mother and farther came down the next morning, there I was still listening to the radio. Oh boy, I'd even forget to eat my breakfast if my mother didn't always put a nickel under my bowl of cereal to attract my memory. The only way my memory is, I dont seem to remember anything unless I have a special reason, he said.

Probably meaning like a reward, said I said, Sam, I'll give you a reward of 2 gum drops.

I think I'm getting to remember, but you better make it 3, Sam said, and I said, Okay, 3.

The result being Sam went in his house and got my bag of gum drops from the hall behind the frunt door.

Production Capacity of Auto Industry Again Demonstrated

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP)—The tremendous production capacity of the auto industry was demonstrated again in 1953.

Despite labor troubles and other factors that interrupted the flow of steel from its supply sources the industry will show unit output from U.S. plants of approximately 6,200,000 passenger cars and more than 1,200,000 trucks and coaches this year.

That volume tops any previous year's output in the industry's history excepting the record 1950 when slightly more than 8,000,000 vehicles were built.

Outstanding events of the year for the car industry included:

1. Cancellation and stretch-outs of many of its military contracts.

2. Kaiser Motors (Kaiser Frazer) purchase of Willys Motors (Willys-Overland), for $62,000,000.

3. An $80,000,000 fire that destroyed General Motors' hydramatic transmission plant in Livonia, near Detroit.

4. GM's purchase of the Willow Run wartime bomber plant from Kaiser Motors for $26,000,000 to continue hydra-matic transmission production.

5. Removal of government controls that enabled General Motors, Ford and Chrysler to increase their over-all percentage of the industry's output.

6. Protests from retail dealer associations that the industry was over-producing.

DEFENCE JOBS CANCELLED

Military contract cancellations affected virtually every auto maker. Hardest hit were those with tank and Chrysler contracts.

The Kaiser purchase of Willys brought together the youngest and one of the oldest of the auto companies. It also started a series of rumors about other industrial consolidations of so-called "independent" auto makers.

Tacitly confirmed were negotiations for a projected merger between Nash Motors and Hudson Motor Car Co. to bring together two concerns with assets in excess of $230,000,000.

The firm that destroyed General Motors' transmission plant shut off automatic transmissions for GM's Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Pontiac divisions and several non-GM users. GM moved its immediate problem by watching temporarily to another type of transmission for its own three divisions.

More spectacular, however, was the speed with which it got back into production of hydra-matics in space rented from Kaiser Motors at Willow Run. Just 12 weeks after the fire wrecked the Livonia plant and damaged thousands of machine tools, it had transmissions moving out of Willow Run in limited quantities.

OUTPUT CUT 100,000

Authoritative sources estimated the shortage of automatic transmissions resulting from the fire cost the industry about 100,000 production units in September and October.

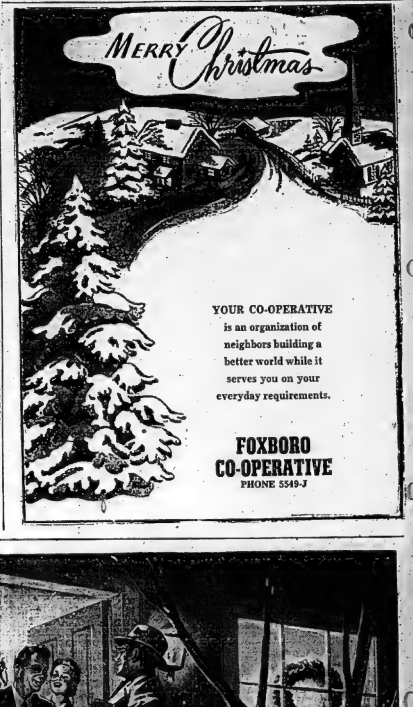
However, growing new car inventories in dealers' hands and the imminence of model changeovers forced the industry to cut back its production schedules in November. Its projections for November were down by considerably more than 100,000 vehicles from October.

Removal of governmental controls on production early in the year was quickly followed by an upsurge in the production volume of the larger of the car makers. Most of the smaller companies cut back their output schedules earlier in the summer because their dealers were overstocked.

The latter weeks of the year brought many protests from dealer organizations that factory output exceeded their retail market. They said sales were being made only through price slashing and overallowances on trade-ins.

Auto industry executives picture the year ahead as the most competitive since before the war but offering a market for from 5,250,000 to 5,500,000 new cars.

"BIG THREE" BATTLE



Most industry analysts are predicting a terrific squeeze on the so-called "independent" companies through 1954. The big competitive battle, of course, will be among the industry's "big three" of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Some of the industry's leading sales authorities have said there is nothing wrong with the retail market that all-out sales efforts will not cure. Others are saying the merchandising division will make money in the first half of the year but will have to fight hard to break even in the latter half.

The industry has attractive models for the 1954 sales campaigns. For the most part relatively few major styling and engineering changes have been made. However of the industry's 49 passenger car models there is more than ordinary emphasis on interior and exterior colors and color combinations.

In the industry's engineering department right now are more V-8 engines of increased horsepower, scheduled for introduction in 1955 models. Also in early stages of construction are several luxury

Mine President

This is one of the rare photographs of Thayer Lindsley, 72-year-old president of a number of Canadian mining companies, who seldom makes public appearances and dislikes having photographers for publication. He attended a meeting of the charter members of the 25-year-club of Falconbridge Nickel Mine in Sudbury, Ont. He heads Falconbridge and a score of other companies, including many mining corporations. He was born in Yokohoma in 1882, son of a Canadian Pacific Railway representative in Japan. WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States probably will send Russia a new note soon welcoming its proposal for resumption of talks and suggesting ways to get them started.

Top officials, who are still going over Moscow's Monday message with a magnifying glass, have yet to decide precisely how the U.S. should proceed. Some authorities believe an exchange through normal diplomatic channels will be undertaken.

However, planning is going forward in the state department and atomic energy commission on the assumption that a secret talks among the world atomic powers will open up under the sponsorship of the United Nations disarmament commission in late January.

CLEAR THE AIR

A preliminary exchange of views which could be carried on by ambassadors, or perhaps by State Secretary Dulles and Foreign Minister Molotov, on the projected British conference, might serve to clear the air of misunderstandings if any such exist.

The Russian note conditionally accepted President Dwight D. Eisenhower's proposal for an international atomic energy pool for peaceful purposes needed clarification—apparently on the point of what ingredients would go into the weapons control.

Prime Minister Churchill said the world might see a "recession of the horror of atomic warfare" in 1954 as a result of the American proposal to revive atomic talks and Russian agreement to participate.

MAJOR MOVES

Authorities said two major moves now are necessary to work out detail:

1. The international atomic agency which Eisenhower proposed in a UN speech Dec. 8 must be blueprinted by the U.S. so that it be able to spell out precisely what kind of operation it proposes. To see, with what kind of management, and with what safeguards against use for war of any atomic materials contributed for peaceful uses.

2. An answer must be worked out to the problem of the unpredicted Soviet proposal which probably represents Kremlin's "new approach" to the problem of atomic control. Moscow's note to Washington that the Soviet government would propose in any disarmament talks an unreserved pledge themselves not to use atomic weapons.

UN experts called this a change from Russia's earlier insistence on the outlawing of manufacture or possession of atomic weapons as a first step in the international control of atomic energy. The U.S. has indicated that a rigid inspection system be set up first.

Firing Driver May Cause Bus Strike

REGINA (CP)—The threat of a transportation strike mars Regina's pre-Christmas season—all because a bus driver was fired for "sassing" a passenger.

Thousands of office and trade workers will have to find alternative methods of getting to work today while the dismissed driver's union holds a general meeting to discuss what action to take. The meeting, called for 5:30 a.m., is expected to last four hours or more.

The 100 drivers and 65 other workers could strike legally immediately after the meeting.

The strike threat was made Monday night at a special meeting of city council by George Morrison of Vancouver, international vice-president of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees (AFL-CIO).

He asked that an arbitration board be set up to settle a dispute between the union and city officials which began when bus driver C. H. Wilson was fired Dec. 29 for telling a passenger on his bus to "shut your mouth."

Union Requests Direct Action By Duplessis

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Federation of Catholic Unions (CCL) Tuesday night asked the provincial government to take direct action to end strikes of miners in northwestern Quebec.

Noranda Mines, where 1,600 of the 3,000 striking miners are employed, is reported to have offered an hourly pay increase of 10 cents. The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) is representing the men, has demanded 22 cents.

Federation secretary Romeo Mathieu, in a telegram to Premier Duplessis and Labor Minister Barrette, said the conflict now is beyond ordinary collective-bargaining and the government should intervene.

He said the four-month conflict is endangering the welfare of the province and of the 3,000 men involved and urged negotiations be started between management and strikers without delay. Mr. Barrette said "if necessary" in the presence of the premier himself."

BUSY COURT

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's night traffic court, instituted to handle offenders without delay and reduce the "mail order" system of paying fines, had 29,000 cases during its first 3 months. On its busiest night recently, Judge Emmett J. McManamy called the experiment "eminently successful."

11th Round of Voting Fails To Elect French President; No End in Sight for Deadlock

By ROBERT C. WILSON

VERSAILLES (AP) — Parliament today went through its 11th round of voting, and again failed to elect a president of the French republic after a week of fruitless voting.

Balloting with tired indifference, the more than 900 deputies and members of the upper house reached for a 78th ballot apparently to either of the two chief candidates—Socialist Marcel - Edmond Naegelen or Overseas Minister Louis Jacquinot of the conservative Independent party.

Naegelen got 372 votes, Jacquinot 338. The required majority was 441.

The rightists put up Jacquinot after Premier Laniel withdrew from the race Tuesday night.

NO SOLUTION

There was no solution in sight to the political deadlock, now in its seventh day. As fog and rain shrouded the ancient palace of Versailles, where the vote is taken, marathon voting might continue through the Christmas holidays.

The warring political parties split on such issues as religion, labor policy and the rearmament of West Germany, have been unable to agree on a candidate strong enough to win election, even after today.

Laniel, who came within 22 votes of victory Sunday night and topped the poll on the last eight of the 10 ballots before today's, dropped out after it became apparent that he could not pick up support from middle-of-the-road factions.

POLITICAL MANEUVERING

Before voting began today, his independent party held a caucus and chose Jacquinot as the new political veteran of many French governments. Interior Min. Charles de Gaulle's wartime government-in-exile.

Just before Laniel's withdrawal the Socialists said they would continue to back Naegelen, whereas other non-Red parties had refused to join them in drafting Premier Auriol for a second term. The 69-year-old premier had publicly mentioned as an above-politics compromise choice, though he had insisted he wanted to leave political life.

Naegelen led the field on the first two ballots and has been the runner-up on all three, partially due to Communist votes.

Newspapers, a red Frenchmen everywhere, continued today to chorus demands for an end to the deadlock. They foresaw the government's performance shameful and humiliating.

MASS MEETING

In Lille, a noisy mass meeting in the huge square demanded that the section's deputies in the assembly initiate constitutional reforms to prevent a recurrence.

Labor troubles highlighted the need for an end to legislative indecision. Post office workers went on strike in Paris and many other cities, and the railroads forbade a new outbreak of the strike which all but paralyzed France last August.

Striking radar and navigation workers at France's airports still were out, halting plane service.

Mother and Two Children Will Enjoy Christmas

KITCHENER (CP)—Mrs. Rose Watson expected a dismal Christmas season. Instead she and her two small children will enjoy a festive celebration, blessed with the best wishes of Kitchener residents.

Two months ago Mr. Watson, a wounded pensioner, was killed in a level-crossing accident. His pension ended and there was no estate.

Blonde Acquitted Of Attempting To Extort $20,000

TORONTO (CP) — A pretty blonde waitress was freed Tuesday on a charge of attempting to extort $20,000 from a Toronto business man, but her alleged accomplice was convicted and sentenced to a six-month jail term.

A county court jury, after deliberating for five hours and once requesting additional explanation, declared Linda Hefner, 22, not guilty.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty in the charge against Edwin Hefner, 27, with a recommendation for clemency "on the grounds of non-premeditation."

The complainant, a 64-year-old real estate man whose identity was not disclosed at the request of Judge Robert Forsyth, charged Hefner broke into Miss Shuler's room and took flash photographs after the complainant had been "lured" into bed by the woman.

He charged that Hefner demanded $20,000 later lowering the demand to $5,000—but the threats to show the pictures to the complainant's wife unless the money was paid.

Miss Shuler testified she had had intimate relations with "Mr. X" on three occasions because he promised her a new coat, dress and shoes. She said all she ever received from him was a box of chocolates.

SERIOUS OFFENCE

Judge Forsyth, handing down sentence, told Hefner:

"This is the type of offense we don't take lightly, and I think the jury has taken a most charitable view of the evidence against you. However, that is their opinion."

Of "Mr. X," he said:

"Of course, I haven't got a great deal of sympathy for (the complainant). He was certainly up to no good purpose in this matter, as far as I know. He was feeling around with this girl, and he wasn't feeling around with her for any good purpose."

Both of the accused, German immigrants, met on a ship carrying them to Canada two years ago, denied any attempt at extortion.

2-Inch Snowfall At Sarnia

SARNIA (CP)—More than two inches of snow fell in Sarnia on Tuesday and department of highways crews were busy with plows, sand and salt to keep highways open.

About three inches fell in some areas near Wingham and highway crews reported heavy drifting.

In and about London, afternoon rain changed to sleet to ice as temperatures dropped, making driving dangerous.

Police reported dozens of accidents in western Ontario, three of which were fatal at Sarnia but injuries suffered in separate motor accidents and three persons suffered minor injuries in a crash at Chatham.

WINTER NIGHTS

QUEBEC (CP) — For the first time in history some of the St. Lawrence river shore lighthouses will be kept illuminated all winter between Sorel and Trois Rivieres. The Canada Steamship Lines operating the channel open between the two ports.

Wheat Loading For West Coast Being Retarded

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian wheat board officials said Tuesday night that loading of wheat into west coast ports is being "retarded" because of congestion. However, they said the situation will be cleared up within a few days.

W. Riddel, wheat board commissioner, said there will be a "suspension of loading for a few days. "It is just that the number of cars in transit got a little heavy."

"We don't regard the situation as serious," said W. C. Mennie, asra, assistant chief commissioner. He said he understood this applied only on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

SHIPMENTS RESTRICTED

The wheat board announced that further shipments of wheat to the Lakehead are prohibited, except from certain stations in Manitoba and Saskatchewan which are required to make immediate delivery quota.

The board said stocks of wheat now in store or in transit are sufficient for needs, and certain other grains, especially oats and barley, are required to meet commitments.

Policy Reversal Being Taken By United States

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States, in a policy reversal, announced Tuesday it would cooperate with 14 other Western countries in keeping a fleet of ships under the flag of North Atlantic. Their job is to help commercial aviation planes in transatlantic flights.

A state department letter to the International Civil Aviation Organization in Montreal gave notice, effective March 22, that Washington wants its ship and financial solution and financial contribution because the "substantial cost can no longer be justified."

Countries which contribute ships to the weather pool are the United States, Britain, Norway, France, The Netherlands, and France. Nine countries help pay the expense of the fleet.

Surplus of Bosses

TORONTO (CP) — Superintendents of Ontario reform institutions are suffering from a surplus of bosses, Hon. Dana Porter (Parry Sound), said Tuesday.

The attorney-general told the legislatures select committee on reform institutions that since he is chairman, that one superintendent would watch public works department activities and report to the cabinet because he had no authority over their construction projects.

He said the situation was "handcuffing the superintendents.

1953 Big Year of Uranium, Next Year May Be Better

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan government lists 1953 as the big year for its uniranium ore deposits. Next year promises to be even bigger.

At least five mines may be producing uranium ore by next summer in the province's northern mineral resources said today.

The optimistic outlook is contained in a year-end review of mining activities in Saskatchewan's uranium district by Lt. Col. E. C. Leslie, mines northwest of here and source of much of the province's uranium, the key mineral in atomic weapons.

The department says 1953 will "long be remembered" as the year of uranium development in the Saskatchewan. The most exciting production event was production of ore by Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., a crown corporation.

Development of underground workings in the Beaverlodge area bloomed in 1953 to 16. Airdevelopers jumped to 150, three times what they were at the end of 1952. Expenditures topped a record-breaking $10,000,000.

Private companies spurred development to unprecedented levels, a total of 1,000 holes, the mine stage late in the season.

Claim staking, perhaps the most spectacular part of the 1953 development, reached about 15,000.

More than 11,000 were staked this year. Staking spread from Beaverlodge as far west as Lake Athabaska in Alberta border, north to the Northwest Territories, and east 20 miles to the Bowerman River.

The review says a few private companies could be producing uranium ore now, Beaverlodge, which has the only concentrator plant in the district, will not be able to mill ore until early next year.

Gunnar Gold Mines Ltd., one of the major companies working Beaverlodge, announced in 1953 a 500,000 expansion program next year. Also slated is the mill and concentrator plant with a milling capacity more than doubled to 300 tons a day, twice that of Eldorado.

The stepped-up search for new uranium deposits has also led to promising new fields: Lalzi lake, 150 miles northeast of Uranium City, and the Beaver River area, 20 miles east of Beaverlodge lake.

Extension of runways at the La Ronge air field has almost been completed. Longer runways will permit the use of larger aircraft in the Saskatchewan government airways' run from Prince Albert to Uranium City.

U.S. Court Ready to Hear Three Hours of Argument On St. Lawrence Power Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Court of Appeals today scheduled three hours of argument on three suits seeking to halt New York state's participation in the $600,000,000 St. Lawrence river power project with Ontario.

Seeking to block New York from joining with Ontario in the project are the American Lake Ontario Beach Owners and Lake Protective Association, the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers Association, and Public Power and Water Corporation, Trenton, N. J.

The Lake Ontario group contends that the development in the International Rapids section of the river might raise the level of Lake Ontario and thereby damage shore property. It seeks assurance that the level of the lake will not rise above 247.38 feet and contended that to guarantee such a level further engineering studies are necessary. This would have the effect of remanding the project to the U. S. Federal Power Commission, which earlier granted New York a license to build the generating facilities.

The suit says, however, that it has not been proven that the project would raise the lake's level. And if it does, New York and the state already has a legal responsibility to pay claims arising from such damages.

The purpose of the coal producers is that the more than 12,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy which would be generated each year at the power plant would cause unemployment among American coal miners.

New York contends that the new power would be largely absorbed to win power commission approval of its application to build the project, contended that the commission be more inclusive than that of New York.

New York, in reply, says Public Power has failed to show financial responsibility and that the Trenton firm's plans contain engineering errors.

The principal argument for New York will be prepared by Robert Stern, acting solicitor-general of the U. S. Stern planned to stress the need for early development of river's power potential in order that the war boom created for construction of the St. Lawrence seaway "will not be Canada alone or jointly" with the U. S.

Others who will argue in behalf of the U. S. government are Paul Gatchell, FPC general counsel, and Orrin G. Judd, special counsel for the power authority of New York state.

There have been indications that the Court of Appeals may have to rule on the legality of the Canadian treaty in connection with the case. Private power interests in the United States contend that the treaty, regardless of how the project may be financed, is unconstitutional.

The suit was brought in the District of Columbia because the Federal Power Commission is also a defendant in the case.

Plenty of Variety For Personnel At Christmas

LONDON (CP) — Some 10,000 Canadian men and women serving personnel in Europe, "preserving the peace for which all people pray," will celebrate Christmas of 1953 as heavily as the heretofore, and probably with far more revelry.

The emphasis, regardless of the festivity, will be on church, children and good cheer.

The occasion was celebrated Tuesday by Brig. W. A. Anderson, commanding officer of the 6,000-man 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade group at Soest, Germany, where he said in a message of this mess message that he shares the hope that "our efforts in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization community will result in preserving the peace for which all people pray."

Plans for the brigade and the RCAF bases in Britain, Germany and France indicate that warm Canadian hospitality will be embellished by local custom and that hundreds of Canadians will celebrate in French, German and British homes, as the gay spirit of Christmas.

More than 2,400 children have been or will be feasted and entertained when Dec. 25 passes, a survey of service organizations, reminders of the Second World War throughout Britain, were sweltering targets for gifts of clothing, parties, visits by Santa Claus and general solid Canadian good-heartedness.

Writ Issued Against Mayor Allan Lamport

TORONTO (CP)—Thomas Rose, Toronto taxi driver, issued a writ against Mayor Allan Lamport Tuesday, claiming unstated damages for slander and libel.

Ross was refused a licence to operate a taxi by the Toronto police commission last spring. Mayor Lamport is commission chairman.

The suit was sworn in connection with statements made by the mayor at a subsequent police commission Oct. 30. Mayor Lamport charged that Ross was "trafficking in cab licences."

The Supreme Court of Ontario ordered the commission to give Ross a licence.

Bridge Reshaping Economy Of Halifax and Its Suburbs

By DAL WARRINGTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—A bridge still unfinished is reshaping the economy of Halifax and its suburbs.

The $10,000,000 Halifax - Dartmouth bridge will be completed until next October but its impact on business and community life has been evident for months.

The mile-long suspension span, talked of for decades, was born by its original promoters as a self-supporting toll bridge between the two cities, on Halifax harbor's west side, but in the town of Dartmouth on the east.

However, its effects are spreading far beyond the planners' dreams.

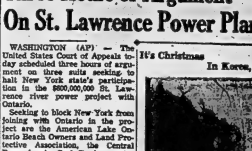
GROWING TOWN

Dartmouth civic leaders predict the bridge will pay for itself in 10 years. The town's 1953 population estimate is 24,000. But in the last 10 years Dartmouth grew by 50 per cent, the city by only 21 per cent.

Halifax, strait - jacketed in a 1918 boundary, Dartmouth has no where to grow. Dartmouth, with plenty of undeveloped land, can expand north, east and south for miles.

The Dartmouth boom already is under way. This year saw the greatest building program in the town's history. Private construction to Nov. 20 was valued at nearly $6,000,000. Total taxable assessment last year was only $2,500,000.

Two apartment projects alone cost more than $4,125,000, in addition, 163 homes were built in the town and almost as many more in nearby suburbs.



The Halifax-Dartmouth bridge commission, representing the provincial government, the city and the county of Halifax and the town of Dartmouth, sold bonds to finance the bridge.

The province guarantees any operating deficit but may recover 25 per cent from the city, 10 per cent from the town and five per cent from the county. But the commission doesn't expect any deficit.

The commission plans a 40-cent toll for cars and drivers. Car passengers would pay five cents; bus passengers 2½ cents. The first year's revenue should reach $900,000, leaving a moderate operating profit.

St. Andrew's Club Holds Candlelight, Carol Service

STIRLING — St. Andrew's Club held its annual Christmas Carol and Candlelight Service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, last Sunday. Members of the junior, senior and Dutch choirs entered to the processional hymn "Angels From the Realms of Glory," with Mrs. R. H. Williams at the console.

Following prayer by Rev. W. H. V. Walker, the senior choir rendered an anthem, "Hail, O Blest Redeemer." The Scripture lesson was read by the first vice-president, Mr. Carl Bateman, after which the junior choir, with Mrs. Clark Rodgers at the piano, sang "Christmas Time Is Here Again." A solo by Mrs. Donald McGinnis, "The Lamb of God Jesus" was followed by four numbers by the Dutch group, which were appreciatively received, also a duet, "Long Ago in Old Judea," by Misses Carol Ray and Heather Rodgers.

At the offertory, Mr. William Reynolds rendered a solo, "The Birthday of a King." After the singing of the Christmas carol, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," the guest speaker was introduced by the president of St. Andrew's club, Mr. A. O. Dalrymple. Mr. Donald Robinson of Madoc, gave a most appropriate address on "Christmas Legends," which proved most interesting to the young and those of riper age.

Following the anthem "Tell Us of Our King" by the senior choir, the hymn, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," was sung as a recessional.

The musical numbers were well rendered and the benediction brought to a close an impressive service.

The church was artistically decorated with two large Christmas trees — one on each side of the pulpit with strings of colored lights, a large star above the organ and rows of candles on the window sills and at the front of the church.

WHITE GIFT SERVICE

A "White Gift Service" was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, last Sunday morning, under the auspices of the church school. A large congregation was in attendance and the singing was led by a full choir. A solo by Sally Fox was followed by a junior choir number, and Mr. William Reynolds rendered a solo. These messages in song were well received and added much to the real spirit of the White Gifts, white symbols of the true spirit of Christmas.

During the singing of the carol "As They Offered Gifts Most Rare," many white gifts were placed on the altar and dedicated by the minister, Rev. W. H. V. Walker.

The church was fittingly decorated with evergreen trees and colored lights.

Britain's Political Deadlock Remained Unbroken in 1953

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain's political deadlock remained unbroken in 1953 despite illness among government leaders and dissension in opposition ranks.

Through the year the same uneasy balance was maintained between the two big parties—Prime Minister Churchill's Conservatives and the Labor opposition led by former premier Clement Attlee. The Conservatives returned to power in 1951, clung grimly to their narrow majority in the House of Commons.

Only once was no sign during the year of any decisive trend in the balance between the two main parties. Then a series of by-elections left neither party completely satisfied, with Conservative gains in one sector offset by an apparent increase in Labor popularity in other districts.

CHURCHILL STILL LEADS

At the annual Conservative gathering in October, Churchill—now in his 80th year—disclaimed any intention of retiring in the near future. He also indicated he was not thinking in terms of an early general election.

Churchill is reported intent on remaining at the helm of British affairs pending some settlement which might reduce the cold-war climate. In a speech May 11 he electrified public opinion at home by calling for early talks with Russia, but he fell ill June 27 on the eve of proposed Big Three talks at Bermuda. He attended the postponed meeting held in December.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was also on the sick list, suffering from kidney trouble. Late in September Churchill and Eden returned to their desks bringing the government's "first team" to full strength for the first time in six months.

LABOR PARTY'S TROUBLES

The Labor opposition also had difficulties. The party was still plagued at intervals by feuding between its right or moderate wing and a rebel group led by former cabinet minister Aneurin Bevan. The moderates plumped for a cautious approach on nationalization and the "Bevanites" called for unbounded socialism. The exchange of discourtesies became so intense that Professor Richard Tawney, one of the Labor pioneers, said the party was making "a noise like the mob of peasants' puppies."

The official trade union leaders stepped down on the side of moderation, making its stand clear at its annual meeting on the Isle of Man in September. The Labor party met later at Margate and adopted a platform which put temporary end to the dispute and presented the elections to claim unity had been achieved.

The new Labor program specifically promised only "essential nationalization of water supplies but is so worded that "more exacting nationalization could be undertaken in the event of Labor getting into power."

Parliament's 1952-53 session ending in October was regarded as one of the dullest since the Second World War. Legislatively the main accomplishment was the reversal of previous Socialist policy by the return of the steel and truck-transport industries to private ownership. The new session was opened by the Queen Nov. 3.

REGENCY ACT CHANGED

Among the main legislative developments in the new session were a revision of rent restrictions, enabling landlords to raise rents in return for certain repairs, and a change in the Regency Act enacted Nov. 18, four days before the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh left Britain on a six-month Commonwealth tour.

Under the change, the Duke of Edinburgh instead of Princess Margaret would be regent if a child of the Queen and the duke succeeded to the throne while under the age of 18. In such an eventuality the duke would have the guardianship of the young sovereign since under existing law the regent is also the guardian.

The change was the regent in the event of the incapacity of the Queen, and if there were neither child nor grandchild qualified to act as regent in such an eventuality.

National Hockey League 'Experts' Say Kids Of Today 'Bunch Of Softies'

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

COULD BE!

If the law of averages can be relied on, it should soon be the turn of the Memos to take off on a winning streak. It seems every team in this Senior "B" group has had some kind of hockey heights at one time or another and once kind of hockey heights at one time or another and once whipped through the opposition regardless, until some upstart squad has halted their climb to the peak of the mighty.

Right now it looks like the crew from Pardeeville are riding high, on the crest of a victory wave. Their defeat of the Memos last night was their fourth win in six starts, with one of the remaining two games being a 5-all tie with the Kingston Goodyears.

They hopped-skipped over our side last night in a heavy checking game and "jumped" the Orillia Panthers by land, sea and into third position for the first time this land assault-dab into third position for the first time this season. And if they continue to come up with the brand of hockey that has characterized their last four or five starts of hockey that has characterized their last four or five starts of hockey, and Kingston had better look to their laurels. The Oshawa and Kingston had better look to their laurels. The rampaging Lakeside crew are but three points behind the Goodyears and a pair in arrears of the Trackmen. Orillia is in fourth slot with 17 points with the Memos following with ten points.

Speaking of winning streaks, Oshawa had first crack at the unbeaten kitty and it looked for a while as if the crew from Campbellville was practically invincible. The Memos slipped back down in the ruck. Then came the Orillia Panthers' turn. After losing four in a row and tying one, the Panthers came to life and ripped off several victories in a row, and the Memos again climbed back for the higher places. Then came the Goodies and they're still at it.

Meanwhile the Petes got tired of being kicked around and started to do something about it. They have whipped Orillia, Oshawa and Belleville and held the Goodyears to a tie. Maybe it is our turn next.

There should be a rip-roaring battle for top-spot this week when the Oshawa Trackmen and the Kingston Goodyears clash in a pair of battles. With only one point separating the two clubs, sparks should produce some neat pockwrawling. The Oshawans cracked their losing streak at six games when they defeated Orillia and it appears the Trackmen have regained all their early-season play.

NOT FUNNY, McGHEE!

Some addle-pated fan heaved a bottle on the ice during the game last night in protest of an official decision. It sconded to smithereens only a short distance from players and referees, and had it struck someone on the head, serious injury might have been incurred. Bottle-heaving miscreants should be given the punishment "worthy" if they are caught for there is nothing smart nor funny about such capers. And the referee is quite within his rights if he forfeits the game to the visiting team, if bottle-throwing diminution in clouting the chairman willy-nilly on the ice. It is quite likely a bottle is thrown without intent to injure, but if the Joe who cracked that bottle last night had bushed his cookies prior to his pitching stunt, his control was in the hands of Lady Luck. Fortunately, it was a "wild pitch" and well off target, if any was intended.

SOFTBALL KING!!!

It's a trifle out of season, but the Belleville District Softball Association could keep it in mind. Which, it was announced the other day that the famous King Feigner and his Court, internationally known four-man softball team, will be available for dates in Ontario next summer. Only two softball associations can sponsor the feature. All bookings should be done through the OASA office, 526 Maple Avenue, Hamilton, and dates will be allotted January 15. It is a tip, anyway.

And we are of the opinion the BDSA should take advantage of the idea. The King would draw big here since it would be his first appearance east of Cobourg.

PLENTY OF 'EM!

When Referee Frank Udvari handed out 36 penalties in Toronto on December 3 in a game between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs a new National Hockey League record was set for most penalties in one game—36; most penalty minutes in one game—304 minutes, and most misconduct penalties in one game—15.

Here's how the penalties were distributed:
Toronto—9 minors; 2 majors, 7 misconducts—98 minutes.
Canadiens—8 minors, 2 majors, 8 misconducts—106 minutes.

Bob Feller was named baseball's "player of the year" by the New York Baseball Writers Association 13 years ago today. Charge Too Much Organization Not Enough Oldtime 'Shinny' Nor Opportunity to Practice

By Walter Gray
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Men who look for tomorrow's hockey stars say the kids of today are a bunch of softies.

You can't find the kind that pull you right out of your seat and make your eyes pop," said Merold (Baldy) Cotton, chief scout for Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, in an interview.

Carson Cooper, chief scout for New York Rangers, said they "don't seem to care any more."

"With so many teams organized these days the kids don't get the opportunity to get on the ice as they used to," commented scout Bob Davidson of Toronto Maple Leafs.

CROWDED RINKS

Cotton and Davidson blame organization of hockey in early age groups. With the rinks jammed in crowded rinks, the youngsters have little chance to develop.

"The small fry used to be the pee wees and bantams," said Cotton. "Now they're even got atoms."

Some 250 teams were registered with the Ontario Minor Hockey Association last season and 737 teams were registered as members of local leagues. Total registration—the largest in the world—was 18,665, made up of 5,060 boys taking part in OMHA groups or leagues and 11,655 as members of affiliated local leagues.

Davidson, a defenceman in the 1930s, said the present crop "all seem to be turned from the same mould."

Davidson, a former Leaf left winger, blamed it on too much coaching.

"What they need is to get out on the ponds and rinks for an old-fashioned game of shinny," he said. "Get 40 or 50 kids and five or six pucks on the ice at the same time. Let them scramble for the puck and practise some checking. Then they would pick up the finer points of the game. Right now they lack finesse."

NEED PRACTISE

Cooper, whose famous shovel shot made him a star with Hamilton Tigers in the 1920s, said the boys practise for an hour or so a week and spend the rest of the time "with their cars and their girls."

Cotton said the market for players has diminished. Most minor teams are sponsored and consequently the players are tied down by one particular organization at an early age. Three years ago the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association raised from 16 to 18 years the age limit that a professional club can sign a player.

Yankee Scribe Predicts USA Davis Cup Winner

WH Grimsley of The Associated Press New York staff has been in Australia for the last month with the Davis and Wightman Cup team. Here he predicts that the United States squad will win back the prized tennis trophy from the Aussies.

By Will Grimsley

MELBOURNE (AP) — Our prediction is that the United States will win back the Davis Cup next week-three straight matches.

Bombardier Tony Trabert should take both his singles assignments and we expect the third point to come from Vic Seixas' victory over Lewis Hoad.

On form, the doubles and one other singles must be conceded to the Australians, although the Americans may pull a surprise in the Seiden match.

These observations are based on a month's activity of the rival teams in practice and in preliminary tournament and intermock competition.

TRABERT SHARP

Trabert has honed himself into razor sharpness that makes him perhaps the best amateur tennis player in the world.

He was fitted out and off shape when he carried Hoad to four sets and almost to defeat in the New South Wales semi-finals at Sydney. He was in poor condition when he bowed to Rex Hartwig in the Victoria state tournament finals.

But now he is lean and hard. He seemingly can't miss a shot.

He hasn't reached his playing peak and under the present time schedule he should hit it about next Monday when the first singles matches will be played.

The key to the American success continues to be Seixas, who has suffered a series of physical and mental anlsering regarding him from attaining the form that won him the 1953 Wimbledon championship.

Yet he has shown to the past he can overcome his handicaps as easily as he can lose it.

We expect him to hit it before next Monday.

HOCKEY OFFICIALS STRIKE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo (AP)—Members of the Rocky Mountain Hockey Officials Association are asking for a $10 raise in the $25 fee paid them for working games at Colorado College and Denver University, athletic director Juan Reid of Colorado College said Tuesday.

He made the statement in announcing the Colorado College will go outside the association to obtain referees for its hockey game with Harvard here next week.

Reid said there are officials in Colorado Springs and Denver who are not association members.

Cataracts Trim Hamilton 2-0; Mercurys Win

By The Canadian Press

Niagara Falls Cataracts, fledgling entry in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, spaced two to have finally got their wings. In defeating Hamilton Tigers 2-0 Tuesday night they scored their third straight win.

In 27 games played Niagara Falls has lost 18, won eight and tied 1, a record that has left them mired in the cellar all season. Their recent upsurge in game winning has moved the Cataracts to within six points of the sixth-place Stratford Indians who were defeated 4-2 by the second-place Owen Sound Mercurys.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group Pembroke Lumbar Kings moved into fourth place by shellacking Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 8-0.

REFEREE INJURED

Cataracts' win came on goals by Nick Dubick and Red Olsen. Don Lockhart turned away 32 shots for his shutout.

Referee Hugh McLean suffered a fractured right wrist in the first period at Owen Sound when he was caught between two players along the boards.

Elwyn Morris, Jerry Reid, Buck Pereland and Art Hayward scored for Owen Sound. Billy Price a Herve Dejordy counted for the Indians.

Lionel Barber paced Pembroke with three goals. Emile Dagenais and Bruce Glesebrecht scored two each and Hal Meyer one. Gordon Hockley stopped 20 shots for the shutout.

Tonight Windsor is at Hamilton, Niagara Falls at Chatham and Owen Sound at Kitchener.

The Indians meet Sudbury Wolves in the NOHA.

Guelph, Tigers Victors Over Hawks, Dutchies

By The Canadian Press

Guelph Biltmores, cellar dwellers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, Tuesday night showed some of the spark that made them 1952 Memorial Cup champions when they turned back the fourth-place Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 5-1.

The win provided the Biltmores with a cellar mate—the idle Barrie Flyers.

In other action Hamilton Tigers defeated Galt Black Hawks 3-1 to consolidate their hold on fifth spot.

Big gun for the Biltmores was Bob Atterslay, who climbed into a tie with Brian Cullen of St. Catharines TeePees for the scoring leadership with his two goals and an assist on a goal by Minnie Menard. Ivr Scott and Wally Park were the other Guelph marksmen. The Greenshirts goal came in the second period on a backhand shot by defenceman Beryl Kinsella.

In Galt the Tigers proved their superiority over the Hawks for the third straight time when Dennis Riggins' goal-tending sparked his team to the win.

Hamilton scorers were Tom Dietrich with two, and Brian Kilrea. Pete Kowalchuk scored for Galt.

St. Catharines is at Guelph and Toronto Marlboros are at Barrie tonight.

Peterborough Petes Take Over Third Place With 6-2 Defeat Of Memos

Grab Lead in First Period And Never Looked Backward In Rugged Senior 'B' Battle

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

The Peterborough Petes, headed for a spot in the Senior "B" group sum vaulted Orillia's Pontiacs and landed in third spot in the standing with a 6-3 defeat of the Belleville Memos here last night.

The Petes, fresh from a 6-4 victory over the Pontiacs Monday night, chalked up their fourth win in six starts with one being a tie. The Memos trail the fourth-place Pontiacs by five points while the Petes are but two behind the second-place Oshawa Truckmen.

RUGGED DISPLAY.

It was a rugged hard-checking display with the visitors firing home two goals in 22 seconds after the Memos had opened the scoring. They gained two more in the second heat with the homesters tallying once, and in a boisterous third period blanked the Memos while adding two insurance markers.

The fans did not look kindly to the seventeen penalties handed out by Referees Bill Reason and Stan Scrutton of Kingston. A fight between Semark and Hill early enlivened the proceedings in the hectic third heat with a fan leaving a bottle on the ice. Vern Goyer drew a misconduct while the erring players carried the fight into the corridor behind the benches. The law intervened and no damage was done.

Referee Reason announced the game would be forfeited to the Petes if the fans continued their battle-throwing activities.

The Petes lead a stubborn hard-hitting defence with Dooley in the nets coming up with an outstanding effort. The Memos have played better hockey and more continually outlicked or outgessed by Dooley's mates who dominated the packed Petes rearguard. The visitors passing plays clicked all night and they outshot the Memos 27-22 on the night's play.

MISSED CHANCES.

The Memos carried the fight to the Petes at the opening whistle and tested Dooley several times before the Petes relieved the pressure. They swarmed around the net and missed not a few close chances. They were rewarded midway through the heat when Duke Doran banged home Erwin Duncan's rebound to open the scoring.

A minute later Keith MacDonald drew a costly penalty. The Petes surged to the attack and whipped home two goals in 22 seconds with Prentice banging home the rubber on a passing play with McMaster and Redmond, and Bellida driving home Redmond's rebound.

Peter Jones, the best player the Memos had out there rolled a puck along the goal line and missed from close-in seconds later. Then Crowley broke into the clear but Sarrault outguessed the Petes forward.

"Toody" Greenlaw put the Petes two up after 22 seconds of the third period and the same player fed Chum Fryia a neat pass two minutes later to give them a three-goal margin.

Semark and Peterson got the gate for roughing and Bellisle followed seconds later giving the Memos a 4-3 advantage. They drove in hard and Doran scored his second goal of the night after a furious onslaught on the Petes' net. Goyer missed when in alone. Peter Jones shot inches wide on an open net and later the Duncan twins and Duke Doran nearly cashed on close-in efforts.

Semark and Hill started a wild brawl and both got the gate, Redmond followed but no damage was done.

TURN IN ACTION.

"Turk" Barclay replaced Sarrault in the Memos' nets in the third period. The penalties started to pile with Doran and Collins getting the gate. The Petes playex was hurt in the clash and went off for repairs.

Chum Fryia put the Petes three goals up after nine minutes then Crowley drew a penalty. The Memos surged in fighting but the hard-checking Petes crew held them off. Ed Duncan got the gate and the Memos were on the defensive. Then the Semark-Crowley-brawl broke out and the game was halted for minutes.

With 27 seconds to go Prentice took Peterson's pass from well out and blazed the puck into the net as time ran out.

Prentice and Fryia with two goals each, Greenlaw and Bellisle were the Petes' snipers, while Duke Doran scored both Memos' goals.

Peterborough: Goal Dooley; defence, Leonard, Munro; centre, Garvey; wings, Fryia, Greenlaw; subs, Prentice, Peterson, Delisle, Hill, Crowley, Collins, Redmond, McMaster, Montgomery.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—You will be on pretty safe ground if you pick the Australians to keep the Davis Cup, probably by three victories to two, over the Italian team in the challenge round beginning next Monday at Melbourne.

The chief advantage possessed by the Aussies is their superiority in doubles play. They have been the world's best at doubles for some 30 years.

Only once since the matches originated in 1900 has the United States won the trophy by the margin of a doubles victory, and that was back in 1914. The Australians have beaten the U.S. in four challenge rounds because they had the doubles combination.

AUSSIES FAVORITES

We estimate that the Australians will be at least 2-1 favorites to win next Tuesdays doubles, whether they pair Lewis Hoad with his regular partner, Ken Rosewall, or with Ian Hartwig against Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas.

Beyond that our prediction is that Hoad will win both his singles matches with Hoad and Rosewall and that Seixas will assuredly lose to both. The hardest fought and closest of the four contests, the one upon which the tie might well swing, should be the one between Seixas and Hoad.

Trabert apparently has regained the tremendous form he displayed at Forest Hills some four months ago when he blasted Rosewall and Seixas in the semi-final and final.

SEIXAS IMPROVED

Seixas shows signs of improvement since his poor showing against Jacques Brichant of Belgium in the first-zone finals at Brisbane, but we cant see the Philadelphian beating Rosewall. The smallest of the Aussies simply has the type of game to beat the net attack upon which Vics success depends.

The last serious duel between Seixas and Hoad was at Wimbledon last summer. Seixas won that one and went on to take the title, but those who saw the match said Hoad was tired from the Australian teams long and exhausting world tour.

Kesselring Starts Treasure Hunt On Golf Trails

KITCHENER, (CP)—Gerry Kesselring, the quiet, confident golfer who was every major Ontario title as an amateur, leaves on golf's money trail Saturday. He feels "pretty good" about it.

Kesselring, 36-year-old native of Kitchener, starts Jan. 8 with the Los Angeles open at the Riviera club and will work eastwards across the middle states to Florida, then back north in the spring, repeating the trip next year.

He will meet some of the "best competitors in the world"—Sam Snead, Doug Ford and Cary Middlecoff.

How does he feel about his chances?

"We'll find that out when I start playing," he said. "It's not going to be easy and I'm not counting any chickens yet. It might take as long as a year to make a creditable showing."

TOP TOURNAMENTS

Tournaments along the route include the Big Three pro-amateur tournament, the Eastern Open at Houston, Tex., and the Mexican Open at Agua Caliente.

His wife, Helga, is travelling with him but their fourteen-year-old son, Freddie, will stay at home in continuity of schooling. He admits she "might become more or less of a golfer's widow" but she's not worried about that.

Kesselring says he now wants to become "the best golfer in the business."

"It's up to me now and I have one goal in mind," he said.

His tour is sponsored by Toronto sportsmen Bud Knight and Don Rose. He is under contract to represent their Devonshire Club as playing professional for two years.

He first attracted attention in 1945 by winning the Ontario junior championship in 1945 and has been some of the world's best amateur golfers, including former British champions Max McCready and Harvie Ward. He won the Ontario open in 1950 and '51, and the Ontario amateur in 1949, '51, '52 and '53.

New York Fan Says He'll Shoot The 'Boom-Boom'

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens Bernie Geoffrion said Tuesday an irate New York Rangers fan has threatened to kill him.

In a National Hockey League game at New York Sunday, Geoffrion tangled with Rangers Ron Murphy in a stick-swinging battle and Murphy went to hospital with a broken jaw.

Geoffrion said the fan threatened him in a long-distance telephone call Monday night.

"He said he was coming to Montreal to shoot me, you know, long-barg, just like that, Geoffrion declared.

"That guy sounded pretty mad.

NAME NEW IL MANAGER

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Luke Appling, former Chicago White Sox shortstop, has agreed to manage Richmond's baseball team, conditionally a member of the International League, Harry C. Sedbold announced Tuesday.

Appling, who spent 20 years in the major leagues, all with the White Sox, comes here from Memphis, Tenn., where he was manager of the Southern Association team for three years.

The Chicks finished in the first division each season under Appling. Last year they won the Southern Association pennant.

Canada Will Be Well Represented At Empire Games

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada will be well represented in track and field events at the British Empire Games next summer, Fred Rowell, chairman of the national track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, said Tuesday night.

He was commenting on a published report here that Canada faces the "humiliating prospect of becoming the laughing stock of the sports world by being ineligible to enter a team in the 1954 games.

The report was based on a clause in the B.E.G. constitution which stipulates that entry forms for all track and field events must be received by the games committee July 9. Canadian trials for the games will not be finished or even set at the University of British Columbia stadium here July 9 and 10.

Rowell said the July 9-10 dates for the trials were early tentatives and that a definite date would not be fixed until the AAU annual general meeting next January. The games are scheduled July 31 to Aug. 7.

Rowell said that if the trials were held July 9 and 10, all Canadian officials would have to do would be to submit entry forms for as many athletes as desired. Substitutionis could be made later by such athletes chosen at the trials for individual events. He said such substitutions could be made up to at least July 17.

Two Prep Races May Be Run Before Plate

TORONTO (CP)—The running of two prep races before the 1954 Queen's Plate trial next June is being considered, E. P. Taylor, director of the Ontario Jockey Club, said.

"It hasn't been definitely voted yet," he said, "but I think that's what we'll have. It will give the horses a much better chance to get ready for the Plate, and it would also serve to clear out a number of horses which haven't an earthly chance."

The trial is held a week before the $20,000-added Queen's Plate, Canada's premier racing event.

Taylor said the preps would consist of a six-furlong trial and a mile and 70-yard test. The plate is nine furlongs.

He also indicated the starting fee would be increased from $100 to $250.

Detroit Wings' Dutch Reibel Said No Hockey Flash-in-Pan; Touted as Rookie of The Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Earl Reibel is no flash in the pan. Bot coach Jack Adams wonfered some times.

Fans around the National Hockey League who may have figured Reibel was just another Johnny-come-lately could look at the league scoring records today for cold facts on how the 23-year-old centre with Detroit Red Wings is stacking up in his first year in the big time.

It's not bad. Reibel, a soft-spoken native of Kitchener, Ont., is tied for sixth place in the individual scoring race with Boston Bruins' Ed Sandford. Each has nine goals and 19 assists for a total of 28 points. Reibel will be after more goals when the league-leading Red Wings meet the fifth-place New York Rangers 16 times only NHL game tonight.

NEARLY WASHED UP

Reibel's performance thus far in the 70-game schedule ranks him with some of the best. He was nearly washed up as a player last year when he suffered an eye injury in a car accident. Now he's being touted as the rookie of the year.

Adams, who has moulded Stanley Cup teams around snarling stars as rightwinger Gordie Howe and leftwinger Ted Lindsay, wouldn't go overboard on Reibel earlier this season but now says he's "terrific."

Reibel, a five-foot-eight forward who has the destructive knack of sending wingmen into the clear, credits his success to Howe and Lindsay, whom he centres.

"I'm working with two of the best linemen in the game," he has said. "Anybody would do it with help like that."

HOWE DISAGREES

Not so, comments Howe, who leads the scoring race with 18 goals and 25 assists.

"Reibel gets what it takes. He puts a pass on your stick nearly every time he gets the puck."

The Red Wings will be counting on tonight's game to extend their lead to four points over the second-place Montreal Canadiens. They have won 19 and tied six in 32 games for a total of 44 points.

The Rangers have won nine and tied games in 32 starts and trail the fourth-place Boston Bruins by seven points.

NEW INDUSTRY

MONTREAL (CP)—A $1,000,000 plant of the RCA Victor Co. Ltd., will be erected in Smiths Falls about Jan. 3, company officials said Tuesday. It will be used for the pressing of records. Some 125 employees are being trained now for the operation.

Moore, Maxim Fight Approved By Boxing Body

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The National Boxing Association Tuesday approved the title fight between Archie Moore, world's light heavyweight boxing champion, and Joey Maxim in Miami Stadium Jan. 27.

The announcement was made by William C. Hartnett, president of the Florida Federation of Boxing.

Col. Harvey L. Miller, executive secretary of the NBA, issued a statement in which he said Charlie Johnston, manager of Moore, had advized the National Boxing Association and the Florida Federation of Boxing boards that Moore stands ready to box Al Johnson of Philadelphia at any time that any promoter offers such a contest and a suitable purse."

Johnston said that, to date, no promoter has offered to stage the match.

Miller said that "in behalf of National Commissioner Abe J. Greene and NBA president Andrew J. Hinkle" he has waived the rules and by-laws of the NBA.

"Publicity released in reference to the possible acquisition of Moore was in error, Manager Johnston's statement that Moore is continued good standing with the NBA.'

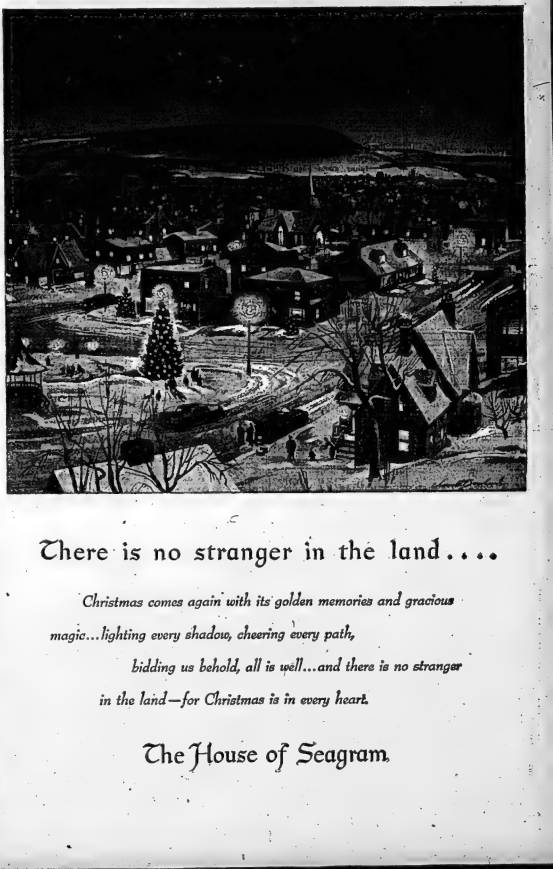
Junior Gilliam National League Rookie of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—James (Junior) Gilliam, who took over second base for Brooklyn Dodgers last spring and handled the job like a veteran, has been named the National League rookie of the year.

The 24-man selection committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America gave the 23-year-old (11) votes, nearly three times that of his closest rival, Harvey Haddix, St. Louis Cardinals southpaw pitcher. Haddix received four votes.

Gilliam, most valuable player in the International League in 1952 while with Montreal, batted .278 in 51 games. He drove in 63 runs and included in his hitting six homers, 17 triples and 3 doubles. His 7 triples led the league.



DODGERS SIGN COACH

BROOKLYN (AP)—Ted Lyons, former pitching great and one-time manager of Chicago White Sox, Tuesday was signed as a pitching coach by Brooklyn Dodgers.

Lyons, 53, was dropped as coach by Detroit Tigers last month after serving in that capacity since 1949. He replaces Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto. Other Dodger coaches are Jake Pitler and Billy Herman, two holdovers from the Chuck Dressen regime.

His bidding none regards as sound as one requires them. But he has no lack of cards. With confidence he inspires them. For he finds opponent cards exactly where he desires them.

Not that he wanted to be there. But the opponents kept pushing and pushing. Rather than permit the opponents to take a sacrifice, south pounded it into seven club bid.

The opening lead from west was a top spade. When dummy's hand went down on the table, south took stock of his resources. What he saw was not very encouraging for the slam of 13 tricks.

It was evident at once that the grand slam was hopeless unless a diamond finesse of the dummy queen stood up. But if it did hold, the 13 tricks would roll. If he engineered another simple play.

With no spades in dummy he ruffed the first trick with the queen of clubs. This was to prevent an overruff in case that hand was also void in the spade department. No one liked chances.

A trump lead from dummy let south exhaust opponent clubs in three rounds. After this the ace and queen of hearts were cashed as an unblock to free the dummy heart king in his plan.

A diamond was led from south toward dummy. When west played one of his small diamonds to this trick, dummy's queen was finessed. Now that this act successful the rest of his plan came into the 'ick.

Dummy cashed the heart king on which south ruffed a diamond. Then the diamond ace won, and south ruffed a third diamond. Dummy got in again by ruffing a south spade and the remaining cards in dummy and declarer were all good.

All of which looks simple the way the cards lay. Like money in the sock with opponent cards in hock.

Canada's World Hockey Entry 'Mistake of Year'

LONDON (CP)—Under the heading "Mistake of the Year" A Canadian columnist today expressed doubts about Canada's entry in the world hockey championships at Oslo in February.

"Is Canada making a big mistake in sending Lynn Patrick hurtin to the world championships?" Bob Giddens, formerly of Ottawa, and his wife Autumn in Ice Hockey World, a London publication.

Giddens, who has been watching British hockey since the 1920s, suggests Canada should send over a good junior team from St. Michael's College in Toronto. He adds: "Wouldn't it be a sad blow to Canada if Rocket Richard first appearance in world championship competition were to ... us? Why ... send a team that doesn't even rate top intermediate."

SIAMESE TWINS BORN

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Siamese twin girls have been born to a 27-year-old peasant woman of Dandagamuwa village, 50 miles from Colombo, it was reported today. The twins are joined at the head. A doctor in charge of the rural hospital where they were delivered said the twins' good chances of being separated, but personnel and facilities for such an operation are lacking in Ceylon.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gene Kelly is finishing up a picture with all dancing and no dialogue, and scoffs at the idea that it's strictly for art-lovers.

Kelly, a whirlwind creator, now is acting and dreaming up the dances for "Brigadoon," which Vincente Minnelli is direct i n g. Gene is also working with the MGM cartoon department to finish up "Sinbad the Sailor," the last sequence in his talkless movie, "Invitation to the Dance."

The gossips have printed that Minnelli was concerned about "invitation," fearing that it might have a limited audience. Gene spiked such reports.

"Some people say the picture will appeal only to ballet lovers," he remarked. "I say that's a lot of nonsense. I think it will have great popular appeal. Anybody who likes to see dancing should go for it.

GOOD CHANCE

"I think it has a better chance of making money than the general run of pictures out of Hollywood. Most of them are pretty darned awful.

"I've always held that you should not under-estimate the intelligence of the movie audience. That's where Hollywood has made a mistake. I remember how everybody thought we were nuts to put that big ballet number in "An American in Paris."

"An American in Paris" was one of the most successful musicals ever made, and the Academy's best picture award for 1951. The achievement whetted Gene's appetite for even more ambitious things. He proposed a full-length dance picture—nothing else, just dancing.

Much to his surprise, the studio said, "sure—go ahead."

"Then I started getting cold feet," he admitted. "I began to think what would happen if it really flopped."

So he settled for a movie of three different sequences. One of them is stark drama and caused a run-in with the censors.

"It's quite a strong bill of goods," he explained. "In one of the scenes I'm walking down the street and a prostitute comes up to me. The censors got hep to it and cut it out. That's something I can't understand."

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars:

FOR THURSDAY, DEC. 24, 1953:

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Let your own schedule most be the deciding factor today—whether you must exert yourself more or go along on a less taxing pace. Be careful; judge others kindly.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This should be a fairly profitable day. They are you who are engaged in essentials. Pitch supply and demand. They govern the balance of power. Get your house in sensible order.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Encouraging rays all day offer assistance for profitable and pleasant activities. Harmonious conditions allow more to be accomplished with less anxiety. A sense of humor helps, too.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Most familiar work, matters for which you are trained have a good chance of progressing and running smoothly. If confronted with new and doubtful proposition, seek advice, analyze well.

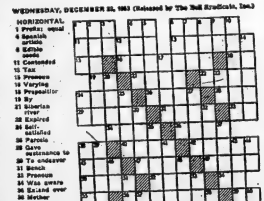
July 23 to August 23 (Leo) — Follow the wise and logical course, assuming control of situations by virtue of faith, honest confidence, science, friendships, romance, marriage are highly favored.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Look backward today. How did you handle the same conditions or situations before. What were your mistakes. Reviewing will help now, could help eliminate future errors.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You may have unexpected gains, encouraging help from new sources. Accept compliments graciously; you undoubtedly deserve them. Most advantages stem from study, practical application.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Make haste slowly, take time if you have it and don't "look down" on those who are not interesting to you. Each one has purposes and high destinies to serve.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Avoid a tendency to irritation. Look the other way, with nothing to say. Tip-toe, do not raise a ruckus or renew old dispensions.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—You may find competitors, associates on edge; be yourself, smile and don't let them get you down. Use your natural practicalmindedness; it will carry you over obstacles.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Don't think you are the only one who has troubles, hard tasks to handle. They should help bring out your better side, the smarter you.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Most favored are personal interests, matters for which you were trained, educated. However, over-ride your obligations, nor neglect your spiritual life. Square your shoulders, achieve.

YOU BORN TODAY are serious thinkers, usually take life, tasks and fun in a realistic way. You will mean things out for the best of all concerned. Wisely economical and prudent, you make excellent executives, managers, builders; are capable of scaling the heights in a profession, religious calling; could also be successful as farmers, stock raisers. Mercury and Saturn in your chart offer advantages in writing, teaching; enhance opportunities in large companies, at real estate. Birthdate of: Matthew Arnold, noted poet, critic.

Lions Club Holds Ladies' Night, Dance

FRANKFORD.—Last Wednesday night the Lions Club held its annual Ladies' Night and dance in the Frankford community hall. The banquet, catered to by the Ladies' Legion, was a scrumptious one and enjoyed immensely by everyone.

President, Marvin Dafoe, presided over the meeting and introduced Adrian Babcock as master of ceremonies for the short program which followed the banquet. Adrian and family will shortly move to Bezanville, Ont.

Lion Claude Moran proposed a toast to the ladies and was replied to by Mrs. Zella Locke. The entertainment was supplied by Danny Boy Smith of Belleville, in the form of piano solos and feats of magic. Tail-twister Lion Roy Osborne and Lion Tamer Art Duncan added a bit to the festivities.

Lion Arnold Stickle thanked the ladies of the Legion and Lion Bert Carter did the honors as the entertainer.

Winners of the draw which was held at midnight were J. Glahman of Peterborough, Chart. of Belleville; Mrs. A. J. Carson of Frankford, and William Bowerman of Stirling.

The winner of the prize for selling most of the tickets went to Mrs. F. Phillips of Batawa. Sellers or winning tickets were Lion Stevens, Lion Layton, George Halsall and Roy Osterhout.

Seaman Donnie Wannamaker of Halifax, N.S., is home for two weeks' holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Madill were Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Madill.

On Wednesday night the combined Y.P. Unions of Frankford, Stockdale and Batawa held a sleigh ride at Stockdale. A good time was enjoyed by all. A weiner supper was held in Rose Lawrey Hall and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Elmer Rogers was a Thursday guest of Mrs. C. Remark and daughter of Belleville.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Johnson on the birth of a baby girl in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Santa Claus paid his official visit to Batawa on Tuesday night. Decorations and all Batawa and district children were invited to attend the reception. There were special movies and Christmas singing.

Mrs. "Ted" Williams of the Air Force, is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. Williams.

Mr. Everett Hall entertained her Sunday School Class at her home, one day last week.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Lockwood on Sunday were Mr. Manley and son, Melvin, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Casement, of Trenton, also Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lockwood and daughter of Frankford.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

The Christmas meeting of the United Church W.M.S. was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. Dafoe. There was a good attendance.

The meeting was opened with quiet music played by Mrs. I. Hall, after which "Silent Night" was sung.

The president, Mrs. W. Morrow, gave a beautiful talk on Christ.

Mrs. Madill, the treasurer, gave the financial report and it was very good, getting to know that the society had been able to meet their allocation for the year.

SLATE OF OFFICERS

Rev. C. Clarke brought in the slate of officers for 1954. Mrs. Morrow is again to be president and all officers were installed in an impressive manner.

Mrs. Powell took charge of the program, "Our Lord's Ambassador's Master's Figures," after which the worship period was conducted by Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Rowe. Several Christmas carols were sung throughout the meeting.

Mrs. Clarke gave a reading "What Do You Want to Know From You?"

Mrs. J. M. Dafoe brought the Christmas message, God's gift is to every one everywhere if only each one will accept it.

TWEED

TWEED — Large bouquets of chrysanthemums decorated the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Arthur H. Jones, McLennan Street, in Tweed, when they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, December 20.

The couple were married at the home of the bride's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William Chambers, north of Ivanhoe, in Huntingdon township.

1963 — A YEAR OF ACHIEVEMENT AND PROGRESS FOR THE CANADIAN ARMY. — Canadians around the world can look back on 1953 and be proud of the many achievements of their Army. New camps and depots, its role in peace and war, aid to the civil power, the high standard of its trained soldiers, along with many other achievements have earned for Canada and Canadians the respect of all nations for her military power. Some of the highlights of the year are pictured above: (1). KOREA — The cease-fire in Korea was welcomed by all Canadians. Many had paid the supreme sacrifice, many had been maimed but the job had been done. Then came the period of watching. The job of constantly watching along the line of demilitarization finds Canada's 25th Infantry Brigade on guard. (2) Shortly after the cease-fire our Canadian soldiers, held captive by the enemy, were released to return to freedom and home. Thousands of United Nations soldiers passed through Freedom Village, 52 of them were Canadians (3). In Canada two major projects have been underway in 1953: The opening of the new $13,000,000 Ordnance Depot at Cobourg, Ont., and the start on the construction of Camp Gagetown in New Brunswick which is to be the home of the 1st Canadian Division, marked great progress in Canada's growing Army. (4). The Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II saw Canadian soldiers standing guard at Buckingham Palace, Canada can well be proud of the Army contingent that represented her on this great occasion. (5). During 1953 many soldiers left Canada for foreign service and many thousand returned after having completed their tour of duty. The movement of these soldiers, to and from Canada, across two oceans was one of the major jobs of the Army in 1953. (6) Canada's 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade has moved into a new home in Germany. The military camp at Soest, Germany, offers luxurious living to the members of the brigade and the opening of the camp marked another step forward for the Canadian Army. (7) Working with the civil authorities the Canadian Army offered great assistance during the dracic floods in Holland in the Spring of 1953. The aid to the Civil Power offered by the 27th Brigade was greatly appreciated by the people of Holland and was reminiscent of 1945 when Canadians marched through Holland as a liberating Army freeing them from the heel of Nazi Germany. — (National Defence Photo).

Third Successive Bumper Wheat Crop Harvested in West

By A. B. GARRETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Years of failure turned to problems of plenty for western wheat farmers in 1953.

The early fears centred on a spring drought which posed threat to the season's growth. But the picture rapidly changed to another extreme with record rains over many areas bringing the third successive bumper grain crop.

The country's storage bins already were bulging with 362,000,000 bushels of wheat carried over from 1952 when new grain began pouring from harvester spouts in August. The new crop was estimated at 394,000,000 bushels and Canada was confronted with twin problems: Where to store the grain and where to sell it.

STORED IN FIELDS

With country elevators congested and farm granaries full, many farmers stored grain in open piles in the fields. One grain company estimated 58,000,000 bushels of wheat were piled in the open at one time.

At the outset, farmers could deliver only three bushels for each cultivated acre. They collected an initial payment—the remainder to be paid in later instalments as the Canadian wheat board which sells all Canada's wheat, oats and barley, completed marketing.

The board said things worked out better than expected.

It gave these figures for the crop movement in bushels from Aug. 1 to Dec. 9, with comparative figures for last year in brackets: Producer marketings — 288,000,000 (358,000,000). Rail shipments out—276,000,000 (294,000,000). Wheat carts, barley exports — 296,000,000 (254,000,000).

In mid-December, the delivery quota was raised to five bushels an acre and farmers rushed to convert stored grain to cash. In a single day they delivered more than 7,000,000 bushels of grain to western elevators.

MARKETINGS NEAR NORMAL

Chief Commissioner George McIvor of the wheat board said that possibly 325,000,000 bushels of grain could be delivered by the year end. He said this was close to the normal August/December marketings for an average wheat crop.

In the grey year ended July 31, Canada retained her position as the world's leading grain and wheat exporter with total exports of a record 362,000,000 bushels. Officials were cautious in forecasting the current crop year's trend.

Up to Dec. 9, exports were running 48,000,000 bushels behind last year's figure. Mr. McIvor said 15,000,000 of the decline resulted from reduced shipments of low-grade wheat to the United States. Low-grade supplies were not available.

Other new factors included: Huge world wheat supplies which Stanley Jones, president of the Winnipeg grain exchange, said could mean a carryover of 1,400,000,000 bushels for the four principal exporters next July; an increase of more than 40,000,000 bushels in continental Europe's wheat production, increased mechanization in European agriculture; the decision of the United States to sell subsidized wheat on the world market.

In the face of this, Canada still producing the world's best milling wheat—sought new markets. Mr. McIvor said Asia, Central and South America and Africa have become important outlets.

Shoot Rare Canada Lynx Near North Bay

NORTH BAY — Rarely seen in this area, a Canada lynx was shot recently only a few miles north of this city. The lynx is included in the list of fur bearers that can be taken legally by licensed registered trappers on a quota basis only. Once a valuable pelt that commanded as much as $70, it is valued now at only about $3. Northern Indians relish a roast of lynx.

Ontario Department of Lands and Forests district officers point out that the lynx is found all across Canada and up into Alaska. Its northern range ranking fairly well at the timbreline. About 36 inches long its distinguishing characteristics are its elongated ear tufts, black markings on a brownish-grey background, and a four-inch tail with a black tip all the way round.

Its smaller cousin the bobcat or wildcat, about 30 inches long, has been reported in some parts of the Province. Its ear tufts are smaller, its body a greyish brown with round black spots and it has a five-inch tail with the tip black only on top.

Both are protected species and the bobcat population is so limited that all sightings and captures are carefully recorded. The lynx prefers primitive forest as its habitat, is nocturnal in its movements and a meat-eater. Its diet includes mice, birds and rabbits, though on rare occasions, it will bring down a deer. The bobcat prefers swampy regions in dense forests and its size prevents it from attacking anything larger than a rabbit.

Beria, Six Others Face Firing Squad, Shot As Traitors

Found Guilty After Trial Held Behind Locked Doors

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has closed the books on Lavrenty P. Beria. The government announced that the sometime boss of the secret police (MVD) and six of his henchmen were shot by a firing squad Wednesday after a secret five-day trial. The Soviet Supreme Court found them guilty of high treason.

Beria, 54, held the Soviet Union's highest honors and had been elevated to No. 3 Kremlin post of first deputy premier and interior minister after Stalin died nine months ago. Three months later, in June, Premier Malenkov's government arrested him and discovered him as a traitor to the state and communism.

The execution announcement was the first disclosure that Beria's trial had been going on since Friday behind locked doors.

The hearing opened two days after the Soviet press published indictments against Beria and announced the names of the six other defendants. The papers at the same time stated Beria had been seven as the vilest kind of betrayers, and reported that mass meetings throughout the country were unanimously calling for their deaths.

(In past cases of executed traitors, the bodies have been cremated and disposed of without further announcement.)

CONFESSIONS CLAIMED

The eight-man tribunal, under Marshal Ivan S. Koney, a Second World War hero, announced that after "the guilt of all the accused was completely proved by the evidence and also by oral and written confessions" the government newspaper Izvestia said.

The official announcement said Beria and his six co-conspirators with him tried "to put the ministry of internal affairs above the party and the government for the purpose of seizing power" and introduce "the restoration of capitalism."

As early as 1919 Beria "occupied the post of secret agent in Azerbaijan, acting with groups "under the control of British intelligence organs," the announcement said.

"In the following years up to his arrest, L. P. Beria continued to extended his secret connections with foreign intelligence services."

After Beria became interior minister, the announcement said, he promoted his group of plotters in the MVD, tried to sow hatred between the Soviet Union and republic and other Soviet groups and sabotaged measures aimed at raising living standards. In addition, he and his accomplices "committed terrorist acts against the people whom they feared would expose them."

Shot along with Beria were Bevvulod Merkulov, minister of state control; V. G. Dekanazov, secret police chief in Stalin's and Beria's home state of Georgia; D. Z. Kobulov, former deputy minister of internal affairs; S. A. Goglidze, internal affairs chief in the Soviet Far East; P. Y. Meshik, internal affairs minister in the Ukraine, and V. N. Vlodimirsky, internal affairs investigations chief.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Warmer air from the Pacific covers most of the prairies and the Lakes-western states and is advancing into Ontario this morning. Early morning temperatures at Graham and one or two other points are as much as 50 degrees warmer than Wednesday morning.

The warm air is expected to cover all of Ontario by Christmas morning and sunny skies will be general throughout southern Ontario.

All Escaped Prisoners Back In Mich. Prison

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Notorious cell block 15 a grim, dark disciplinary unit, has back all the 11 convicts who broke out of Southern Michigan prison Saturday night.

The last two were caught in Richmond, Ind., Wednesday and returned Wednesday night. They were flung into solitary confinement. So were the others.

It was in cell block 15 that mutineers set off a bloody, costly, five-day riot in 1952.

Warden William Bannan "bawled out" his top 13 administrative aides Wednesday and told them he hoped it did them as much good as the "bawling out" he got from the state corrections commission did him.

NAMED-IN REPORT

Bannan, his chief engineer and two power house engineers were named in a corrections commission report blaming "laxity" and "inadequate security measures", as well as a manpower shortage, for the break.

Bannan said he thought the criticism justified, but complained sore that the legislature had returned down sufficient funds to hire 136 more employees he deems absolutely necessary.

ESCAPE METHOD

The 13 used an acetylene torch, stolen from a work crew inside the walls, to cut three saw-proof grates in a sewer, through which they crawled to freedom. They invaded a nearby home, terrorized a former guard and his wife and child, took civilian clothing and a getaway car.

The two taken at Richmond were among five who later invaded another Jackson home, abducting two women as hostages and fleeing to Detroit in a stolen car.

Three of the five were captured with a hail of gunfire in Detroit in a shabby southwest Detroit neighborhood. Eight were taken within 24 hours in the vicinity of Jackson.

No Reason Why Kissing Should Be Discontinued Says Journal

MONTREAL (CP) — Although kissing under the mistletoe may have its health hazards, a Quebec medical journal sees no reason why the custom should be discontinued.

In its December issue, the Canadian Doctor states there are many more hazards in kissing beneath the venerable twig than many an unwary female might think.

Even the dutiful peck on the cheek of a spinster could cause a type of skin disease. In scientific terms the journal states:

"It can lead to dermatitis or eczema in the region (the cheek)."

The "passionate, full-blooded kiss which is applied to the lips" can result in certain infections in the throat from passing of germs from one party to the other.

The custom of hanging mistletoe at a strategic point "with the object of trapping for osculatory salutations unwary (and at times not so unwary females) is not quite common in Canada as it is in Europe, says the journal. A possible reason was a shortage of mistletoe in Canada.

In the old world mistletoe has been prized for its healing powers, "for epilepsy, ulcers and barrenness in women and sterility in men people regarded it as a cure-all, especially for children . . . and in other parts of the world mistletoe was recommended as a useful antagonist against fever kept to open all locks and a lightning conductor."

Coming back to the dangers of kissing, the journal states:

"The risks of kissing, though serious, can be exaggerated. Many bacteria and viruses expelled, by sneezing, even in ordinary speech have considerable powers of survival and one need only be talked at, not kissed to acquire them."

And tradition is saved with the remark:

"It is, of course, worse to be sneezed at or coughed at than to be kissed."

RENE COTY NAMED NEW PRESIDENT FRENCH REPUBLIC

Conservative Generally Unknown to Public

PARIS (AP) — France's new president, 71-year-old Rene Coty, drove himself into Paris today. The weary parliament which elected him went home to a Christmas rest and prospects of a new year fraught with strife and division.

Coty, a Conservative generally unknown to the public, was elected Wednesday night for a seven-year term to succeed Socialist Vincent Auriol. The new chief of state will take office Jan. 17. Premier Laniel's cabinet then will resign, but presumably will be asked to stay without a government.

Coty's election, at the Palace of Versailles, ended a week's voting deadlock unprecedented in French history.

Previously no more than two ballots had been required to name a chief of state. Thirteen were taken Dec. 16 before Rene Coty—first proposed on the 12th ballot—received the necessary majority of more than 400 members of the National Assembly and Council of the Republic. Coty was a member of the latter.

Observers are certain that the deep parliamentary divisions revealed by the long stalemate, over such bread-and-butter issues as labor policy, church influence and especially the American-backed plan to rearm Germany within a European army, will be repeated in 1954's legislative wrangling over those issues.

The first test will come when the assembly is asked to confirm Laniel's successor.

Coty got 477 votes—436 were needed to elect—on the decisive ballot. Marcel Cachin, veteran Socialist, polled 329.

Nargeles had been runner-up on 10 of the previous votes and led on two of them. But the 100 or so middle-of-the-road legislators, who held the elective balance of power between right and left, refused to vote for him because his defeat would be a European army won him Communist support.

Coty's views on the European army are not publicly known. He was fit when the Senate debated the project, and has never taken a stand. He has been a parliamentarian nearly 30 years and was known as a member of the conservative, "free enterprise" Independent Republican group, and an advocate of constitutional reform to strengthen the executive and eliminate the frequent changes of government.

The Christmas Story

There's a gladness past expressing; there's a spirit that enthralls,
There's a mystic music ringing, to our hearts it softly calls,
There's a song of joy and gladness echoing down the ages past,
And it brings the gospel message, "Christ has come to earth at last."

Years ago the Shepherds heard it on the far Judean hills,
"Unto you is born a Saviour," how the word our spirits thrills!
Heard the angel voices singing o'er the fields of Bethlehem—
"Glory be to God the Highest, peace on earth, good will to men".

Now again we catch the spirit of the happy Christmastide,
Hear again the music ringing, see the glory far and wide,
Follow with the wondering Shepherds to the manger rude and cold,
See the wise men give their treasures — frankincense and myrrh and gold.

Oh! the happy Christmas story through the ages still the same!
Oh! the mystic might and magic of the Christ Child's matchless name!
Yes, the world will grow the brighter, better still the hearts of men,
If we take to heart the story of the Babe of Bethlehem.

Ike Warns U.S. Will Restudy Policies if EDC Not Set Up Soon

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has gravely told France that the United States will reappraise its basic European policies unless the proposed European Defence Community, providing for German rearmament, is set up soon.

The president expressed this view in a statement late Wednesday as the third move in an extraordinary campaign directed by State Secretary Dulles to carry the EDC issue directly to the French people and win their support of it.

Eisenhower acted little more than an hour after the French parliament's 319th ballot, on electing Rene Coty, a member of the upper-house Council of the Republic, to be the new president.

Thus the first important foreign policy step of the American government following Coty's election will be taken in the same stage was a sharp reminder that the U.S. is counting on EDC to provide security for Western Europe. EDC is a proposed six-power army, to include under a united command and in one uniform troops from France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg. Originally proposed by France, it has been stymied by inaction of parliament in the face of a rearmed Germany.

The U.S. has been pressing for 18 months to win French acceptance of EDC. Previously the campaign clearly has taken a new tack.

Christmas 1953 in Canada One of Brightest in Years

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Christmas 1953 may not be the whitest but it is one of the brightest Yuletide seasons in Canada in many years.

Stores, homes and streets throughout the Dominion are decked with millions of lights and gay decorations.

The main attraction in Edmonton is a 50-foot civic Christmas tree near Jasper Avenue with 400 lights. Winnipeg homes are ablaze with what is described as the most colorful display of lights and decorations seen in the last 20 years.

A lack of snow, however, is an almost general complaint of Canadians.

UNSEASONAL LOOK

Except for isolated areas in the south-central prairies and northern Ontario, Christmas from the Maritimes to Vancouver has taken on a rather unseasonal look. High temperatures and barren fields are frustrating those who love winter sports and pastimes.

Alberta and Saskatchewan have reported abnormally high temperatures while in Vancouver unbelievable are the order of the day. "A chinook moving east from Calgary was responsible for an unusually warm weather in Winnipeg.

In the east, the outlook in New Brunswick is a little whiter; the westherman has promised a possibility of a white Christmas. Colder weather was also welcomed in Montreal after residents were pelted with rain and thunderstorms.

In Ontario, government snowplow operators looked back wistfully to the heavy snows of 1947. However, the forecast for the next few days is lower temperatures and snow.

Today marks the home stretch for Canadian commercial interests who have outdone themselves with elaborate window displays, Christmas shopping specials and advertising campaigns.

Many stores have adopted a policy of late closing hours to accommodate last-minute shoppers, while a record credit purchase is offering for sale anything in the store up to New Year's Day without a down payment.

Christmas entertainment is following the usual pattern with movies, hockey games and private parties. Activities of the younger set has been curtailed in Edmonton where a polio scare prompted health officials to recommend against gatherings.

Once wide-open Montreal will be quiet on Christmas day this year due to early closing regulations imposed by the Quebec government. But Montrealers nevertheless were making the preparations for private celebrations.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Holiday-season law offenders are being dealt with severely by Ontario police who have launched a clean-up campaign with individual fines for driving while impaired as high as $500. They also have warned that private office parties are illegal and they will prohibit them where they are registered.

ATTRACTS VISITORS

In Quebec's Laurentian ski country 50 miles north of Montreal, a Christmasy village with the name of "Santa Claus" has attracted 150,000 visitors since it opened seven weeks ago.

Despite the entertainment and parties, the big attraction this year as always will be the special church services on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

EARNEST PLEA FOR WORLD PEACE MADE BY POPE

Warns Progress Blinding Men 'To Great Light'

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius today warned a festive world that modern technological progress is blinding men to the great light" radiating from the manger at Bethlehem.

It was his 15th consecutive Christmas message since he became Pope in 1939, and as he has in all of them, the Pope made an earnest plea for world peace.

But he warned that this peace would not be found through materialistic, technological progress.

The gravity of the hour was especially great for Europe. There "the materialism of which we have spoken, instead of solving, only aggravates its fundamental problems. These problems are intimately connected with peace and order in the whole world."

URGES EUROPE TO UNITE

For Europe he suggested a confidence that the people of the ultimate differences in standards of living and prosperity.

The 77-year-old Pope spoke for 15 minutes, more briefly than usual in past Christmas messages.

Without directly mentioning communism, he spoke of many "persecuted for their loyalty to Christ and His doctrine."

As his eyes scan the horizon, the Pope said, he sees "the grey vision of a still unsettled Europe."

Declaring that the time "seems ripe" for the ideas of European union to "become a reality," the Pope said:

"Hence we exhort to action first and foremost Christian statesmen, deeming it sufficient to recall to them that Christianity always considered its task to promote every sort of peaceful union between nations."

A strong encouragement to such a union was the "manifest failure of the contrary policy."

Referring to man's preoccupation with technology, the Pope said: "Around the radiant cradle of the Redeemer there remain the 'darkness and fears' that go around with their eyes closed to the heavenly light."

The Pontiff warned against "excessive and sometimes exclusive esteem" for what is called "progress in technology."

"Progress," he said, "was first cherished as the omnipotent help and dispenser of happiness."

But "it has finally imposed itself on the minds of men as the final end of man and of life, substituting itself therefore for every order of religious and spiritual ideal."

Moscow to Have White Christmas, Rest of Europe Unseasonably Warm

LONDON (AP)—Christmas Eve brought heavy snowfalls and low temperatures, with some mist, to much of western Europe, but winter sports enthusiasts were obviously over the lack of snow.

Only Moscow among the capitals had any great quantity of snow. It lay so deep in streets and fields that 1,000 mechanical snow-removal machines were kept busy, Moscow radio reported.

But from virtually every other area came reports of unseasonably high temperatures and blue skies with scattered patches of fog.

London was bathed in sunshine as was much of the rest of Britain. There was a stampede to get out of the cities. Thousands of special trains took holiday travellers to resorts. Highways were crowded.

There were jams at airports. Most planes were taking off on schedule, but there was delay in flights to Paris.

Some French airports were shrouded in mist, and because of strikes of ground staffs, pilots were obliged to refuel with only out radio aids.

Citizens of Stockholm gave up all hope for a Swedish white Christmas, as the temperature climbed well above the freezing mark.

Winter sportsmen were, for the most part, frustrated. "The worst Christmas for the skiier in 50 years," said Peter Kasser, tourist director of St. Moritz, Switzerland.

At Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, there was no little snow for the international bobsled competition, scheduled for Jan. 3 on the 1,650-metre Olympic track, has been postponed.

But trucks are hauling in snow from the hills to the Olympic ski jump where international contests will start the day after Christmas.

Holiday Express Plunges Into River Off Broken Bridge

Believed Cloudburst Caused Mountain Lake to Overflow

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (Friday) (Reuter)—A Christmas Day train wreck killed 100 holiday-makers here early today.

An express train crowded with people going home for Christmas crashed into a river soon after midnight.

The train was going from Wellington to Auckland. The crash occurred near Tangiwai on the Upper Wangaehu river.

The speeding express thundered straight into the river from a broken bridge.

CLOUDBURST BLAMED

It is believed that a cloudburst caused a mountain lake to burst its banks, flooding the river and carrying away the bridge.

The rail disaster started what may be one of New Zealand's most joyous Christmases. Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are in Auckland, and the Queen scheduled to make her annual world-wide Christmas broadcast from there later today.

Prime Minister Sidney Holland was told of the accident at 1 a.m. and immediately left Auckland by car on the 250-mile journey to the scene.

Midsummer rainfalls have been heavy in many parts of New Zealand this season — three floods arrived in a downpour at Auckland Wednesday to begin her royal tour of the dominion.

2 Killed, 11 Hurt As Car Hits Bus Near North Bay

BISSETT CREEK, Ont. (CP)— Two men were killed and 11 persons injured Wednesday night when an automobile and a bus collided on Highway 17 near this community some 75 miles east of North Bay.

Dead are Hugh Kelly, 25, Matachewan, Ont., who police said was the driver of the car, and Boyd MacPherson, 24, of Renfrew, a passenger in the car.

Taken to hospital at Mattawa, about 30 miles west of here and treated for bruises and facial cuts were:

Harry Baldwin, 42, of Ottawa; Mrs. H. Hunter, River Bend, Que.; John Miller, 75, Cornwall; Mrs Rose Winstein, 65, Montreal; Ross Peewee, 32, North Bay; Rose Waddington, 27, Ottawa; Angeline Minor, 32, Mattawa; Mrs. Ethel McKay, 54, Cochrane, Ont.; Reginald Pappone, Timmins; Michael Dupuis, 23, Ottawa; Sister Michaela of the Sisters of St. Joseph order, North Bay.

PASSING MOTORISTS HELP

The injured were taken to Mattawa hospital by passing motorist. Sister Michaela was later taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in North Bay.

Although the condition of the others was described by hospital officials as fairly good, all are being detained for observation.

Provincial constables Harry Brindle of Pembroke and Denny Jones of Rolphton said it was necessary to use a winch to remove the bodies from the wrecked automobile. Damage to the bus, which was the first section of the Colonial coach Ottawa-North Bay super-line run, was described as extensive.

Paul MacPherson, driver of the bus, who suffered a minor injury to his right leg, said the impact knocked him out of the driver's seat.

"There was nothing I could do to avoid hitting the car," he said. "I was just coming over the brow of the hill when the car appeared on the wrong side of the road."

P.C. Wm. Bloodhart of North Bay, who was seated beside the driver, was not injured. He assisted the injured. George Thomas, in charge of the fire hall staff at Bissett rendered first aid at the scene.

Producers Make Final Payments For 1953 Cheese

Final payments for 1953 cheese totalling $450,000 have been made by the Ontario Cheese Producers Association to 300 factories in Ontario.

The payments clean up the balance of trading in 1953 cheese. The settlement follows the sale of 19 million pounds of cheese to Great Britain in October of this year.

Payments on 1953 cheese were made in September of this year, with the balance for 1953 to be paid some time in the new year.

Reason for the delay in the 1953 payments is 1953 cheese was held over for lack of an export market and since cheese is handled on a yearly basis, 1953 production was sold before the 1953 surplus was taken up.

Twenty-seven needy families of the city will enjoy a hearty Christmas dinner and "lots of trimmins" thanks to the Christmas spirit of members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Lodge No. 325, Belleville, and its ladies' auxiliary.

The well-packed baskets will contain ham, vegetables, cakes, puddings and other holiday grocery goodies, while a specially wrapped gift is included for every child in the family.

Members of the relief committee of ladies' auxiliary, the ladies' Royal Purple, packed the baskets at the West End district fire station, under the supervision of chairman Mrs. D. Blakely. Members of the Elks Lodge assisted.

The baskets will be distributed to the families some time this evening.

Sixty Crippled Kiddies Enjoy Shrine Club Christmas Party

Twenty-three Santa Claus, one of them garbed in traditional costume, matched the beaming happy faces of upwards of sixty crippled and less fortunate children of the Shrine Club yesterday afternoon.

Kiddies, with crutches, kiddies with leg braces; kiddies with semi-paralyzed hands and arms; kiddies with other physical handicaps mingled with those children whose environments are such that they otherwise might have missed the holiday atmosphere that is the heritage of Canadian youngsters.

Shrine president Oriff "Bolier" Lloyd and his jolly cohorts had the time of their lives. True, they worked hard, but shining eyes and joyous laughter of happy kiddies more than repaid them for their outstanding efforts in bringing Yuletide joy and happiness to these unfortunates.

And the youngsters had the time of their lives. They started in something akin to awe at a giant Christmas tree laden with coloured lights and gaily decorated with "snow, ice" and all the colourful holiday trimmings that part and parcel of the "tree".

FINE ENTERTAINMENT

They also had a great amusement at the legerdemain of Ernie Coverell, Toronto magician, who performed a laudably proved one of the best acts of its kind to be seen in this city. The youngsters generously applauded pretty Shrine Princess Sheila Gordon's musical comedy actress who sang several popular numbers during the afternoon, whereupon Sheila and two dancing partners, Helen Addy and Joan Hughes, in costume appeared in a well-executed military tap-dance routine. Archie Cawker provided the rhythmic piano accompaniment.

The big moment came when Jolly Old St. Nick, garbed in the traditional red suit and whiskers, boomed and "Ho-Ho'ed" his way through the door. He had a gift and a handshake.

Beautiful gifts were given to each child together with large Santa Claus with candy-coated bag astride a chimney. The youngsters were treated to individual boxes of sandwiches, cakes and cookies. Later came ice cream, milk, and soft drinks.

One of the features of the party was the clown act staged by seventy-six-year-old Charlie Baker of Trenton, whose funny antics and step-dancing added much to the general enjoyment.

SHRINERS CO-OPERATED.

The co-operative effort of the Shriners was no small factor in the overall grand success of the party. Noble Norman Wright, of the Checker Cab Company generously donated several of his cars for transporting the kiddies to and from their homes. Other noble sons furnished automobiles and drove to it that each kiddie arrived home safely with his or her load of gifts.

Little Miss Sharon Rushlow was the sweetheart of the Shriners officiated at the drawing of the ticket for the beautiful jewel case. Aided by Shrine President Lloyd, Sharon extracted the ticket that was the property of W. H. Miles, 51 Elmwood Avenue, Willowdale, Ont.

The case was made originally as a gift for Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth when she was Princess, as a princess. A slight flaw in construction prevented it be accepted and later it was presented to the Shrine Club. All the proceeds derived from the draw will be devoted to the club's crippled children's fund.

Prior to the party President Lloyd extended a warm Christmas welcome to the young guests and outlined the treats that were in store for them.

Also contributing in no small measure to the success of the party were Mrs. George Woodhouse, Shrine Club hostess and her assistants.

Included in those present were Nicoles Lloyd, Crawford, Kim Vivian, John Fisher, Bill Holway, Jack Williams, Jack Baker, Madoc, Dave Stephenson, Mayor-elect Frank Ellis, Gerry Lewis, Harry Rollins, Bruce Bolmer, Garn Dobbs, D. L. Storey, Ken Campbell, Paul Foster, Jack Aikin, Art Seymour, George McIntosh, Horace Wright, Among the guests were Norm Banfield and Art Baxter, Trenton, and Jim Driscoll of Belleville.

Car Climbed Bridge Girder Then Fell 18 Feet to Floor

"I guess we are lucky to be alive," was the comment yesterday of Ross Elliott, 30, of Highland Grove, owner and driver of a privately-owned car which, Tuesday afternoon plowed into the Bridge Street Highway 62 north of Madoc, caught fire and then exploded.

Four other men in the car, William Bowley, Alphonse Hogan, William Ayotte and Dawson Lewis, were pulled from the blazing wreckage by the dynamite detonated and were safely away before the blast.

Two of the men, W. Rowley and William Ayotte are in Bancroft hospital, suffering from internal and other injuries and Ayotte with a broken cheek bone and facial laceration. Hogan suffered a sprained back and the other two were received facial cuts.

GOING HOME FROM MADOC

The five men, employees of a mining company, had been to Madoc to do some Christmas shopping and Mr. Elliott had purchased the case of dynamite for use in his mining operations.

On their way home during a dense fog as they approached the one-lane Keller's Bridge, Elliott noticed an oncoming car and had to choose between hitting the car or striking the bridge. The car was moving at about 45 miles an hour the driver said.

To avoid a head-on collision with the approaching car, he struck the bridge," Elliott said. "I chose the bridge."

The car ripped out seven guard rail posts at the approach of the bridge, climbed the slanting girder to the top of the bridge and then dropped on its top 18 feet to the floor of the bridge.

OCCUPANTS DAZED

All occupants of the car were dazed except for the driver who started pulling the other men out of the car. Ronald Johnston, 17, assisted in getting the injured men out. Rowley, the most seriously injured of the men, was carried on the car cushion to a nearby store.

Spilled gasoline from the fuel tank of the wrecked car was responsible for the blaze which detonated the dynamite. The blast ripped a four-foot hole in the concrete floor of the bridge and reduced the car to scrap metal.

Approximately 100 windows in six houses within 100 yards of the bridge were broken by the blast of dynamite.

Thief Purloins Christmas Gifts From Parked Car

Some kind of a "meanest thief" turned up in the city last night with the complaint from a Foster Ave. resident that Christmas presents valued at approximately $15 were stolen from his parked auto. The car had been left parked on the downtown area and when the owner returned the presents were missing.

Another resident reported the theft of an auto radio speaker from his car.

Outside of the two thefts reported police had a comparatively quiet night with four minor motor accidents reported. Police checked one border-line case, but this could be classed as anything resembling drunken driving.

Provincial police also reported a quiet night.

Children Enjoy Christmas Parties at Two Stations

CHILDREN ENJOY

Santa Claus, straight from the North Pole, arrived at Trenton station Tuesday afternoon. He was given a hearty welcome by hundreds of children—and their parents—attending the Children's parties at both the Station and Number 6 Repair Depot.

By 1.15 p.m. the South Station drill hall was packed with children and parents. One large corner of the hall was transformed into a fairyland, with a big throne for Santa, surrounded by richly gaily decorated booths piled high with Christmas gifts. The bandshell stage was adorned with two large Christmas trees and a fireplace hung with stockings.

Training Command Band under the direction of F/O C. O. Hunt provided a selection of Christmas music until the arrival of Group Captain J. B. Millward who opened the proceedings with a few words of welcome to the children, and praise for all those who had lent a hand with the party.

WO. John Silver, who was M.C. for the afternoon, led a short community sing-song which was followed by a ballet-dancing competition for little clowns and one little Indian. Children from grades 1, 2 and 3 of Trenton High School sang several Christmas carols under the direction of the Orchestral Mr. D. Dwyer and Miss A. Kennedy, with Miss J. Mitchell at the piano.

The climax of the afternoon was the arrival of Santa Claus on a sleigh drawn by eight reindeer, complete with bells on the fire truck. Santa being impersonated by F/O D. Jones. Reindeer were Flight-Sergeant Frank Wainwright and Sergeant George Dunn, Corporal Ken Hall. Afterwards Santa sat in state on his high reviewing throne while gifts and candy were distributed to nearly 1,200 children.

The gifts were purchased from Thomposon's Wholesale in Trenton who were also responsible for dressing with Christmas wrapping paper. Throughout the afternoon there was a steady run on the free cokes which were kindly donated by the Coca-Cola Company.

In charge of the party was F/L F. Konrad. He was assisted by a committee of ladies under the headed by F/O Ken Jackson.

6 REPAIR DEPOT PARTY

The Children's Christmas Party at Number 6 Repair Depot started at 2 p.m. in their drill hall, which was impressively decorated for the occasion with streamers, colored lights, and of course a beautiful Christmas tree. About 1,000 children were present with their parents. Christmas carols were sung until the entrance of Santa Claus on a sleigh pulled by a jolly fat man dressed in red suits. Santa was played by Corporal Weese, and the sleigh had been specially built by a local garage. Santa's sleigh was played by Corporal Weese, and the sleigh had been specially built by a local garage. Stories of Famous Hymns

Hark the Herald Angels Sing

Hark! The herald angels sing
"Glory to the newborn King;
Peace on earth and mercy mild;
God and sinners reconciled."
Joyful all ye nations rise,
Join the triumph of the skies;
With angelic hosts proclaim,
"Christ is born in Bethlehem."
Hark! The herald angels sing
"Glory to the newborn King."

Christ, by highest heaven adored,
Christ, the everlasting Lord;
Late in time behold Him come,
Offspring of a virgin's womb.
Veiled in flesh and Godhead see,
Hail the incarnate Deity!
Pleased as man with men to dwell,
Jesus our Immanuel.
Hark! The herald angels sing
"Glory to the newborn King."

Hail the heaven born Prince of Peace!
Hail the Sun of righteousness!
Light and life to all He brings,
Born with healing in His wings;
Mild He lays His glory by,
Born that man no more may die;
Born to raise the sons of earth,
Born to give them second birth.
Hark! The herald angels sing
"Glory to the newborn King."

"HARK, THE HERALD ANGELS SING"

Of all the grand, old Christmas hymns that will be sung during the holiday season none will find more favor than this gem of Charles Wesley's.

Charles Wesley and his brother, John, will be remembered for all time for their gifts to the Church of God. John was the preacher and someone has estimated that he held more than 40,000 services during his life-time.

Charles Wesley, the hymn writer, is credited with having turned out some 6,500 lyrics.

Charles wrote most of his hymns in inspired moments. Among the best of his songs are "Jesus, Lover Of My Soul", and "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling."

He died on March 29, 1788 and he was in the pulpit on the day before his death.

It is said that, in connection with the hymn, "I'll Praise My Maker While I've Breath". On the night of his passing, he was reciting the words of the same hymn when God called him home:

"I'll praise my Maker while I've breath,
And when my voice is lost in death
Praise shall employ my nobler powers;
My days of praise shall ne'er be past
While life, and thought, and being last
Or immortality endures."

A Lift for Living

As The New Year Nears

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Shall we face the New Year with fear or faith? No one can deny the dangers which beset the world. But just because of them, it behooves us not to give way to fear.

It is a common bit of prudential wisdom that we should be prepared for the worst. But how about being prepared for the best?

After World War I a European statesman asked, "We were prepared for war, but we were not for peace."

As a result, two wintry decades of hostility followed. A killing frost nipped all budding of prevential. Is the present world situation to repeat that tragic cycle?

NO PANACEA

I do not presume to offer any panacea for stopping the global cold war in 1954. But I would make a suggestion or two for ending some of our smaller cold wars. And maybe the principle of preparing for the best instead of the worst may have larger applications.

If we expect the best in others, we tend to bring out the best. If we expect the worst, we condition our minds to see the worst. Sir James M Barrie, whose "Peter Pan" and other writings revealed his keen insight, once told a group of students: "Never attribute to an opponent motives meaner than your own." The kind of motives we suspect in others is a reflection of some our own.

When we look for the best, we can find many heart-warming things even in this cold, throat-cutting world.

FAMOUS CANADIAN

Lieut. Gitz Rice was a member of a famous Canadian regiment which went to France in the First World War. The regiment fought in Flanders fields. It fought across the debolate "No-Man's Land," under cover of a fearful barrage—sometimes even without the sheltering barrage.

Lieut. Rice's company carried a strange implement of war—a piano. He was a dance in France. Gitz Rice composed the doughboys' favorite song, "Mademoiselle from Armentieres."

The afternoon before Christmas Eve, it was decided that the piano should be taken up to the frontline trenches. It was hoisted under an army truck and finally deposited at its destination.

Peace had settled over "No-Man's Land" that night. But the barbed wire remained and a morning attack threatened each side. The hostile troops were so close that one could hear them conversing.

PLAYED HYMNS

Shortly before midnight's holy hour, Rice began playing Christmas hymns in the British trench. First he played "Silent Night, Holy Night;" then "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" and other beloved songs familiar to all the Christian world.

The Canadian soldiers sang lustily then they paused. From across that shallow field they heard the German troops singing with them. It was Christmas Eve!.

Rice then played an aria from Wagner's Tannhauser. As he began the opening chords, a Canadian soldier mounted the rim of the parapet and sang the words. "More! More!" shouted the Germans. Then one of their own singers—a rich baritone—repeated the song to Rice's accompaniment, standing as a target for British rifles.

SEEDS OF GOOD WILL

Such incidents bring to light the seeds of good will which are hidden in the hard soil of our embittered world. If we look for them, we can find them.

Two men move into the same block. One sees it as a friendly community, a place of fine friendships, a good place to rear a family. The other sees the tawdriness of its Main Street, the stodginess of its people, the jealousies of its social groups.

It is the same town. The differences of anoralsai may be due in part to contracts made, but also in large part to the attitudes of the two persons.

As we enter the New Year let us think gratefully of what others are doing for us, rather than dwell fretfully on what others may do to us.

Let's be lamplighters of faith and not firebrands of fear.

Christmas—His Birthday

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Mummy, haven't we forgotten something?" five-year-old Joyce asked eagerly. Christmas dinner was over. Vast quantities of delicious turkey, vegetables and pudding had been consumed. The crackers had been pulled, and the gay paper hats donned at various angles, adorned the heads of everyone from Granny to Baby Mac. For the life of her, Mother could not guess what had been overlooked! When she did not reply, Joyce explained, "We've not sung 'Happy Birthday to You'—it's the Baby Jesus' birthday, isn't it? So we should sing the Birthday Song for Him. Couldn't we?"

This is a little scene from a Canadian farm home last Christmas Day. After the rush of preparing for this greatest of all festival of the year, they paused to remember its true significance!

Is your home doing your child know the important thing about December 25th is that it is Christ's natal day? Children as well as adults find it easy to think in pictures. There should be a good color print of at least one famous painting of the First Christmas in every Christian home.

Large colored teaching pictures such as Raphael's Madonna, or Plockhorst's "Tidings of Great Joy" showing the shepherds hearing the good news from the angels, or Lerolle's "Arrival of the Shepherds" picturing them at the entrance to the—cave at Bethlehem with the Holy Family within, or the Wise Men in Botticilli's "The Adoration of the Magi" all make the Christmas story very real.

There are fine prints of these splendors in most any Sunday School lesson helps. Religious Book Stores and Publishing Houses supply them. Quite a few small pictures can be found on Christmas Cards. A school age child might like to make a scrap book of Christmas scenes, both sacred and secular.

THREE GOOD REELS

The modern View Master has taken the place of the old-fashioned stereoscope. There are three exceptionally effective colored Christmas reels, on Joseph and Mary, the Shepherds, and the Wise Men. This is a swell gift for the whole family.

The story of the first Christmas fs told with great beauty and simplicity in the New Testament. Boys and girls hear about the Nativity at their hands, and he refused. To sit upon a throne and rule a political Kingdom was no part of his plan. He did, however, propose to establish a new way of life, and a set of social attitudes, so different from those then prevailing that the result would be nothing less than a new world. And he quite evidently never intended to establish his new order on this earth, among this race of mankind.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 27: "THY KINGDOM COME." Matthew 6:9-10; 28:16-20; John17:18-21; Acts 1:6-8; Revelation 11:15.

The word "heaven" has been used by us to express the idea of the life to come, after death. The fact that he called his plan "the kingdom of heaven" has resulted in confusion. Men have assumed there was nothing to hope for here and now, but that the new order would be one to be realized in the future. Certainly no careful reading of the scripture can justify any such distortion of Jesus' words and meaning. It is a fact, of course, that Jesus held to a steadfast belief in immortality, and to a conscious survivival of the individual at death. But the program he called "the kingdom" was one designed for this life and this world.

Some sublime ideas

In laying down his plans for the "kingdom" Jesus outlawed a long list of ideas which were held in high esteem by the Roman world into which he was born.

Revenge, power, authority, hate, greed, racial strife, legalism, sectarianism—these and hundreds of other popular concepts he placed under the ban. There was to be no place for them in his "kingdom."

In his thinking—there was no place for the "commonly accepted idea of the "ruling race," the right of one people to dominate another. Neither was there any place for class and the privileged to survive at the expense of the underprivileged. Many of the current distinctions between "sinners" and "the godly" were to become obsolete. It was not he counteranced any form of personal vice, even for "the least of these." And many parochial attitudes which had the sanction of the times, as being as vicious as vice itself.

OUR FATHER IN HEAVEN

He was not the first great Hebrew religious teacher to use the word "father" in his description of God, but he did make it central to his thinking, and he taught men to think of anything unfatherly as being also unGodly.

This means, of course, that our God cannot be neutral in any situation in which human dignity is being attacked, threatened or degraded, in which human personality is being destroyed or debauched, in which human rights are being ignored in favor of property rights, in which big buildings are given preference over little children. As Moses once said, "Shall not the God of all the earth do right?" so Jesus would have said, "Don't we have a right to expect God to take sides where justice and human values are concerned?"

Sunday School Lesson:

Our God Is Not Neutral

By ROY L. SMITH

It is just a little shocking to consider how glibly the average person repeats the Lord's Prayer—one of the most revolutionary petitions ever phrased for human lips—without a thought as to the seriousness of its real meaning.

The obscurity and vagueness of our praying of the Lord's prayer is probably due to the fact that the words "kingdom" and "heaven" have come to be used loosely in the language of people, clear and concise understanding and use of those two words, among Christians, would result in vast changes in our whole attitude to religion.

JESUS USED THEM

Nothing is clearer in the life and teachings of Jesus than the fact that the Galilean prophet was no politician. The people expected him to be a king. If he would accept a crown at Sunday School. But every little child should learn about Christmas as Christ's Birthday from his own parents.

It is confusing if children get the impression at home that Christmas has mainly to do with Santa Claus and the excitement of receiving gifts. How much children miss if they do not hear of the true origin of Christmas when they are still quite small!

One of the loveliest glimpses of a Mother telling her boy and girl this story is found in "Only Fun ny" by Zanie Dickson Rich. This recent book published by Longman's is remarkable for its insight into what goes on in the minds and hearts of children.

The author writes: "When Dinah was four and Rufus nine, at Christmas time I told them again the story of the Christ child—of the long hard trip to Bethlehem, and how that had no room and of the manger—Dinah's eyes filled with tears and Rufus said, 'It was cold, and the cows and donkeys would look so big to Him. He'd be afraid!' I had forgotten that it was possible to feel concern, real concern for the little Lord Jesus asleep on the hay!"

This Christmas time in our homes, through pictures and by telling the story of the First Christmas may we help our children see in their imaginations the baby Jesus in the manger at Bethlehem. "Love came down at Christmas"—and may our own hearts be filled with love for Him and gratitude for His coming!

Once again His Birthday Christians celebrate;
Steadfastly believing
Love will conquer hate."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

GULLS AT CHRISTMAS

By this date we hardly expect to see many water birds in Canada because our lakes and rivers are freezing over. However, gulls are among those that do not along quite well until Christmas, and some may be picked up a little throughout the winter. This is because gulls eat any form of animal matter, not by any means keeping to fish or crustacean. Dead birds, mice, and all sorts of scraps are eagerly sought after by them.

By far our most common gull is the herring, which frequents not only our coasts but also the interior of the continent. It may be seen at this season on most all our large bodies of water, and ranges from the southern provinces, from the Arctic south to the edges of the prairies, wintering from the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

THREE PLUMAGES

The uninitiated imagines he has at least three different species if he has seen a herring gull in the plumage worn by the adult autumn, which has passed this stage and is in what is known as immature plumage, or the adult. The adult's winter costume is somewhat different again.

The darkest birds are the youngest, the palest are oldest, but in their third year they have grown most the pure white.

These beautiful herring gulls are the ones most likely to be seen by Christmas time in southern Canada. There they gather by hundreds, many crossing the border about the end of the year, some lingering on.

Too easily confused with the herring gull is the ring-billed—so much so that even the experts find it extremely difficult to identify them when not close enough to observe details. The ring-billed is actually three inches smaller, but in the case of immature it is impossible to judge by size.

BEST TEST

The ring, or dark mark on the bill, is of course the best test, but this cannot be seen from afar.

A TRULY CHRISTIAN CHRISTMAS

Christmas is a time for giving, a time for children and a time for the family.

At Christmas time relatives and friends exchange gifts and good wishes as an expression of esteem and respect. A spirit of generosity prevails at this time that somehow seems more remote during the rest of the year. Why is this so at Christmas? Because the very spirit of Christmas which is one of giving was established by God Himself on that first Christmas night.

"God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son . . ." says the Bible. And the Son, the Redeemer and Saviour, for 33 years gave mankind, by lesson and example, the guide to eternal life and everlasting happiness.

In return for this divine generosity we have the example of the shepherds and the Wise Men. The shepherds, poorest of the poor in all Judea, came with their flocks on the first Christmas night to adore the new born Babe of Whom the angels sang, "Glory to God in the highest . . ."

The Wise Men, rulers in their own countries, were truly kingly in spirit and great in faith as they followed the star from their distant countries and at last bowed in humility before a tiny Babe wrapped in swadding clothes and lying in a manger. The Wise Men also presented the Infant Christ with gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh, as a material expression of their love and devotion.

This then is the true meaning of the gifts of Christmas—the gift of God, from God, to mankind, and in return, the willing gift of mankind's faith, love and adoration to God.

Christmas is also for children. In what other festival are so many gifts given such a prominent and loving place in the thoughts and affections of all?

It is only natural that this should be so because Christmas came into this world to focus our attention on the crib and on mass on earth because of the birth in a stable in Bethlehem of the Christ Child. In Him we see the hope and the salvation of the world, and each year on the 25th anniversary, we are reminded of the hope and the future of the world is dependent on the crib and the generations to come.

Christmas is also for the family. On that first Christmas, in the stable and the manger, we see the Holy Family of Mary, Joseph and the Christ Child—the establishment of the first family of Christendom. The Child Himself, almighty and omnipotent, humbles Himself as a helpless, defenceless Child dependent on the care and attention of His mother and foster father. We, with such attention of His mother and foster father. We, with such attention of His mother and foster father. We, with such

CHAPTER 28.

Tigellinus spread his legs and leaned back in his cushioned seat. An African slave in silk skirt and glittering veil waved a plaited palm leaf over his head. A captain of the Guard stood at attention before him.

"The man Paul is in prison as you ordered."

Tigellinus grunted. "He must have a trial because he is a Roman citizen. We can manage that quickly." He brushed away the girl's fan and stood up. "But not too quickly. We must have Peter, too. This Paul makes a lot of noise and goes around stirring up the people — but he is not the ringleader of this mess. He works under Peter — that I know from those who have deserted their movement."

He looked into the captain's eyes and said:

"Find Peter. If you have to rip up every grave in the city find that man!"

The cell stank. Never had the air, even in here, had a breeze found entrance. The air rested on him, and he felt it as a film on his pale skin. Paul's old fever came back, and he trembled with chills. He could not eat the slops in his bowl. He stayed on his knees, till at last he fell asleep.

To a tiny room behind a jewelry bazaar in the Subura came a strangely assorted crew. A man with a dark cloak tightly covering his perfumed body came on foot from his villa on the Aventine; he was Senator Pudens, Peter's first highly positioned convert and friend. He was joined by the ex-slave named Linus, a veiling woman called Claudia, and undecided man called Eubulus, and Luke the physician.

Though they were alone, they whispered.

The senator handed Eubulus a purse.

"Give three coins to the scarf-chewing man at the side gate of the prison."

Claudia spread a moth-colored cloth on the table and began folding into it candles and flint, soap, bread, and cheese. From the wide sleeves or her robe she drew pen, ink, quarter, and papyrus to add to the bundle. Luke filled a small leather bag with herbs and powders, and a note of instructions for his patient.

Eubulus stored the two bundles beneath his cloak, the purse in his sleeve, and trundled out the door into the night.

Night by night friends filtered through the behind guards to the depths of the prison to visit Paul.

Pudens' calm, his face masked even from the guards he bribed. Luke came every night to check on Paul's health, and rub ointment on his chilblained legs.

Paul had made a friend of his immediate night guard, without benefit of gold. The jailer looked the other way, as every evening Paul lit one of Claudia's candles and took up his pen. He was writing a letter to Timothy. Only a few lines could be done at a time, when other guards wandered through, Paul's cramped hands must pinch out the light.

There seemed no way to get the letter to Timothy. But there was comfort simply in writing the letter in pouring out his heart to the man he thought of as son. So, in the tense silence of candlelight he would write:

"To Timothy, my dearly beloved son . . . I thank God . . . that without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day. Greatly desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy . . .

As Paul wrote one evening down the damp corridor came the shuffle of sandaled footsteps and the clink of a well-filled purse. A moment later Paul had a guest, Onesiphorus from Ephesus.

"Whatever I can do for you, name it."

"Onesiphorus, the greatest favor you could do me would be to go home to Ephesus — and carry a letter to Timothy."

Pushing aside food, Paul picked up his pen and began to scribble by the candlelight. He told Timothy of his latest visitor, blessing the name of Onesiphorus. Briefly he mentioned how his other friends had deserted him. But not self-pitying his words:

"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.

"As to the rest, there is laid up for me a crown of justice, which the Lord the just judge, will render to me in that day; and not only to me, but to them also that love His coming."

Paul sighed, and whispered a prayer, as he wrote at last the sentence he had so longed to give many months before:

"Make haste to come to me quickly . . . The clogs that I left at Troas, with Carpus when they march, bring with them, and the books, especially the parchments . . .

Make haste to come before winter."

The Lord Jesus Christ be with thy spirit. Grace be with you."

Amen."

The old man stared at his own letter and wondered if Timothy would arrive in time.

"Do thy diligence to come to me before winter."

Would that be soon enough?

Along the sun-filled paths of spring, early outside Rome, Peter walked slowly, after months under the earth. His mind was not easy, his heart flickered with trouble.

He had not wanted to leave Rome. He yearned to stay with his flock, even, if God were willing, to suffer death for the faith. Almost, he had stayed. Then one argument, spoken by Linus, had struck home.

"You must not let your own wishes stand in the way of the Church, Peter. You can do more good alive. We cannot afford to have you martyred."

And Peter, who spent his life trying to learn humility, had closed his eyes and listened, wonder. He knew that the welfare of the Church did not hinge on his life. He knew the Church was immortal, eternal with the Christ who governed her. The Church would live, no matter who took his place. Christ had promised that the Holy Spirit would remain with His Church, forever. Without that guidance, no human effort could save the Church; with it, no man's weakness or mistaks could destroy it.

Peter had no qualms over the desertion of the Church. He feared only one thing — to offend God by pride, by insisting on the wisdom of his own opinion. And that was why, in the dawn of an April day, he had taken his friend's advice and left the city in secret.

But his soul was ill at ease.

In silence, Mark strode beside him in the early morning sunlight.

Suddenly, Peter stopped. The path to his side was filled with a glow of greater radiance than the sun. Then, in the center of the light, he saw the beloved figure of the Master, facing him, walking toward Rome.

Peter fell to his knees in the dust.

"Quo Vadis?" . . . "Lord, where art Thou going?"

"I go to Rome to be crucified again." And in that instant He was gone.

Peter rose and turned his face back to Rome.

"Mark! Come! We are going back, back to Rome. There times I denied Him. But never again!"

And Peter walked back into Rome like a conqueror, his head high.

Paul slumbered lightly in his cell. Suddenly the door clanged open.

Paul said the ' nawcomer calmly. "Paul — greeting!"

"Peter! Peter at last!"

A tall old man of eighty, the untutored son of poor parents in Galilee, trained to hard work in the sea-freshened air — and a witnessed scholar and servant. They met again in a dungeon.

As they were silent allen to each other, strangers from opposite poles of society. But they saw each other not as men but as servants of Christ, soldiers of the faith.

Peter had no trial.

Paul, because or the dignity of his Roman citizenship, was hustled off to a court near the Forum, tried without lawyer or witnesses, and convicted by Tigellinus.

The next morning Peter and Paul left their prison, Paul for the last time on earth.

Peter stretched out his hands. The centurion bound his wrists with rope and chain.

The light of the June morning dazzled Peter's old eyes. Warm breezes toyed with his unkempt beard, fluttered in his long white hair. Behind him another group of soldiers led Paul away in the opposite direction, down the straight street toward the outskirts of the city.

No one stood in the courtyard to watch Peter's procession. Street crowds thinned as they passed.

In the market place Peter heard a voice saying:

"Who is that old man? Weren't you a friend of his?"

And Peter heard the reply: "I don't know Peter. I'm not saying."

They climbed the Vatican Hill, to Nero's own gardens, thrown open now to the populace. Pillars of wood caged with pitch stood at the corner of every path. Some still waited to be lit. Others bore burned corpses, charred and black.

Crosses stood on the hillside among the grass and flowers. The centurion halted before one. By torches and threes a crowd gathered to gawk at death. A woman's voice sounded over the hum of bees and the clank of swords.

"You — weren't you a Christian, too, Peter, of this Whitebeard?"

And Peter heard the answer plain: "Not I."

And in a sudden rush of compassion, Peter understood that for his betrayers he could feel only pity — and love — and a longing to comfort them when remorse came later.

With his own brawny stance he stood fearlessly before the centurion. He uttered no farewell, his prayers were silent. He had but one last request of the world:

"I am not worthy to die as our Lord died, on the cross. If I must be crucified, let it be — head downward."

Thirty minutes later he hung on the cross, his travel-crusted feet in the air. His hair blew in the wind. The majestic white beard veiled the bleeding face of St. Peter.

They took Paul to a lonesome valley three miles from the walls of Rome.

Paul, born a Roman citizen, did not walk the sad way alone. As he paced in chains between armed guards through the city, people fell in step, with him. Jeering and joking, weeping and wondering, friends and his friends trailed beside him along the Tiber toward Ostia. More than the crowd, as they turned left amid the fragrant warmth of June foliage, through the countryside.

In the valley the procession halted. The centurion came to blindfold Paul. Two men bound Paul to a stake on a grassy mound, and scourged him, as prescribed, till the blood ran. They untied him and led him to another knoll and made him kneel.

"Our Father, Who art in heaven . . ." said Paul.

The sword glistened and fell. The man of Tarsus had died the honorable death reserved to Roman citizens. Paul's head lay on grass.

The soldiers left. The jeerers and the curiously seekers scattered.

Luke ran forward and buried his face in the grass beside the head of his friend.

In silence the Christians who remained carried the body and the head back along the road to Rome as far as the cemetery of the matron Lucina.

And they buried St. Paul.

The gardens on the hill called Vatican were silent that twilight. No one came to admire Nero's lively torches, no cheer at the sight of the corpse of the Christian leader.

Tigellinus had moved boldly, killing both major enemies of the state at once. He could not understand the silence.

He had took the body of Peter and buried it in the public part of the graveyard near the gardens. We put no marker there," the centurion reported.

Tigellinus leaned out the window at the starlit city. "I have killing them, I have put an end to foreign superstition. I have saved Rome from those who would destroy her gods."

In the city below the city — in the rooms of cemeteries, in dormitories and counting houses in spare bedrooms and cellars — men and women were singing that night. They sang praise to God the Father, and God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost.

They had lost Paul, the soldier of Christ, the fearless voice of Truth they knew. Paul is dead. His work lives.

They had lost Peter, the head, the rock, the shepherd. Another man already held the keys of heaven, Linus, the ex-slave, Peter is dead, but Peter lives.

Thousands of these men and women would die themselves in the arena, burning on pitch-soaked pyres, crucified, they would die for Jesus Christ, and for the Faith, the Church that Christ founded, built on the Rock, close-hewn and guarded by the voice of truth.

They would die that we might live in the greatest faith ever known.

They sang that night of glory to God, to Jesus Christ, who had conquered death.

THE END.

Bustamante Requests Curb On Communism

KINGSTON, Jamaica? (Reuters) William Bustamante, the Jamaican chief minister, has sent a letter to governor Sir Hugh Foot asking that a law be enacted to curb communism "in the island, it was learned here.

He will ask the executive council today to instruct the attorney-general to draft a bill immediately.

The aim of the bill is to ban the activity of Communists in industry or any public and semi-public sphere, and to prohibit any trade union or political party from being Communist-led.

Bustamante said the British government had suspended the British guiana constitution because of Communist intrigue.

He totally agrees with the action of the British government in this respect, he said.

Last Sunday Bustamante made a call for anti-Communist legislation here at the annual meeting of the Jamaica Labor Party.

Snowballs Sell Like Hotcakes At Nickel Apiece

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Snowballs sold like hotcakes here at a nickel each. They had been brought in under refrigeration to give a touch of Christmas cheer. Most native youngsters have never played with the stuff.

The snowballs were neatly wrapped in transparent plastic.

Four Santa Clauses made and packaged the snowballs at Hollywood and Vine.

The snow was made in an ice plant and brought to the intersection in a refrigerated truck. Hollywood had a high temperature of 84.

Proceeds went to a childrens foundation.

Ten Canadians Are Imprisoned In Red China

Britain is the protecting power in Communist China for Canada and the United States, who do not recognize the Peiping regime. She has repeatedly asked the Chinese government for her consul to be allowed to visit the prisoners, and for the release of those against whom there were no charges.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A WARM-HEARTED MESSAGE TO THAT BEWILDERED TEENAGER

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My heart went out to the teenager whose letter I saw in your column recently and who was so upset by the world events, and would like to tell her that I know how she feels.

My husband is in the Korean area now, although he was for 18 months enough to have been there while the fighting was going on. I went through the same kind of thing also during World War II.

At first, when I knew my husband was going overseas, I couldn't sleep at night. I had a feeling we wouldn't ever be together again, and that our two children wouldn't have their father with them again. I had a fear of another war breaking out in Korea and my husband being caught in it. I know how this girl must feel all sick and upset inside. But I was, on account of her boy friend being away from her.

There is a church close by where I live, and I took to making regular visits and actually getting my fears into prayers to the God up above, and do you know, I am now so much stronger, and a little less frightened, since I put everything in God's hands. My husband knows all about this, and you imagine how much more confident he feels, knowing that we are on God's side and that He hears even the smallest pleas. I'm sure if this unhappy young girl will try my solution to this same problem, and find she is not alone, as she thought she was. There are so many of us who feel as she does.

It always makes me very happy when a reader takes enough interest in some one of the unhappy people who write in to send a helpful word to that person. So I am very glad to have your letter here, in the hope that it will come to the attention of teen-age's attention and bring her some comfort.

I'm sure you will be interested to know, that, while my column appears in newspapers in many different parts of the United States, it just happens that the girl to whom you will be addressed lives near the same large city that you do, and I wish you two might get together. You could probably help her a lot.

The letter this girl wrote me withheld both name and address, and I have only the general area where she lives, since her letter was forwarded to me by the newspaper as yours. Perhaps if she does see this, she will want to let me know who she is and where you might reach her. As a rule, I do not attempt to put readers in touch with each other, believing it is generally unwise to bring together in this way people who are strangers to me. But this teen-ager so evidently needs to find an understanding older friend that I would be glad to make an exception in her case if both of you wished it.

HOW CAN SHE GET HER BOY FRIEND BACK?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The boy I was going with broke up with me to go with another girl. Now they have broken up, too, but there is still another girl who keeps trying to flirt with him, telling me she is trying to help me out, but she does more harm than good, so far as I am concerned, because I think he likes her.

I still like him and I want to go with him again, and he knows it. How should I try to get him back?

Dear H.S.W.:

There is an old theory to the effect that the best way to get a boy interested is to be completely indifferent to him, and many girls make the mistake of carrying this to such an extreme that they snub their friends and make a point of obviously ignoring them.

To my way of thinking, the smartest way to handle such a situation is, not to snub and insult the boy, but to be friendly and natural when you happen to meet, at the same time building up your friendships with other boys so that he will see you have plenty of other dates. No girl gets a boy interested in her again by being mean to him. But many have achieved their purpose by accepting all the dates possible so that the boy begins to feel left out.

I suggest you try this plan.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

COMPLEXIONS ARE BAROMETERS OF HEALTH

It sometimes happens that a woman who was originally blessed with a complexion of fine texture and good coloring, finds, to her dismay, that it is undergoing changes which are definitely not for the better. She hasn't realized that the fateful roasting must be guarded constantly. A digestive upset and the skin can look dull, even grey. Other internal disturbances may cause it to assume a sallow yellow cast. Dryness of the air will cause the cutaneous surface to be as rough as an emery board, while cold, harsh winds will produce extreme sensitivity.

Harsh soaps can set up a disturbance. Atmospheric dirt is a menace to the pores. Emotional storms will eventually line the face with creases. The complexion that stays fresh and young belongs to the woman who is in perfect physical health and who understands that spiritual health is also vitally important. Simplicity is a wonderful beauty aid.

The wise woman endeavors to lead an organized life. She is active, but not to such an extent that she suffers fatigue which not only interferes with the digestive organs but will eventually produce shadows under her eyes, creases around them. As soon as she is conscious of a sense of exhaustion she knows it is time to stop, pause, consider and find some way to relax and recharge her energy.

Tired women only look wretched, but she is inefficient.

The wise woman tries not to worry. We all must suffer anxiety at times; we can't avoid it. But to worry is something else again—usually over what might happen but never does.

The wise woman does not let her mind dwell on the hardships of the past nor does she anticipate trouble in the future. She lives one day at a time—a good rule for all of us.

The wise woman follows correct eating habits, getting the proper allowances of proteins, vitamins and minerals. Nutrition is important if she is to feel well and look well. Vegetables and fruits are beauty foods and she has plenty of them. She drinks four or five glasses of water a day. Above all, she has plenty of sleep!

Never Underestimate The Power of a Mother

By Mary Moore

Nobody's going to argue with me when I claim I've done my duty by food for Christmas.

This column has been so stuffed with rich food it nearly burst its seams, and now I'm going to wax philosophical to see if I can shrink it back to its proper proportions.

I'm glad that Christmas comes but once a year for many reasons. The minor ones being that physically and financially I couldn't stand the strain oftener.

But the major reason is because I love Christmas so much I love to have time to savor it and meditate over its true significance.

The mother in every household has a priceless opportunity to build up and bolster personality the essential unselfishness of the Christmas anniversary.

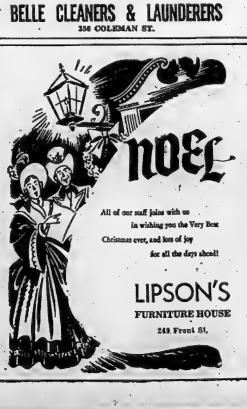
What do we?

Most mothers do I think, but because they do not care to spend hours over pious or over-righteous they neglect to remind their young ones—even those young ones are torn with curiosity about what they are going to receive—that the reason gifts are given at all is because they are a reminder of what Jesus gave for us.

In view of the bare-faced commercial attitude of merchants regarding the volume of Christmas business it is difficult to even keep reminding oneself that "Christmas business" is only a giant parasite that prospers because Christ was born on December-Twenty-fifth and died that we might have eternal life.

Ludicrous isn't it?

It is in your power to instil into the minds and hearts of your immediate family a dramatic reminder of the reason we celebrate this anniversary.



Just as it is an accepted and devout custom to say grace before meals, so too on Christmas morning before or after or in the midst of opening gifts annually you could read the Christmas story from the Bible.

In one family that I know intimately this was done by a different child each year (as long as small children lasted—in this family there were only two), and

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CHRISTMAS AS A HOLY DAY . . . NOT AS A HOLIDAY

"So shall we learn to understand The simple faith of shepherds then,

And clasping kindly hand in hand Sing 'Peace on Earth, Good Will to men!' "

WIDOW TO REMARRY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow, in my mid-twenties, and am to remarry. Do have to wear the engagement and wedding rings of my first marriage during our engagement or after we are married? Please guide me about the propriety of this, as I have been given so many different suggestions.

D.

The very definite rule is that you remove both the engagement and wedding rings of your first marriage before the ceremony of your second marriage. It is, I think, the very best taste for you not to wear your first engagement and wedding rings after you are remarried. Certainly you should not wear your first engagement ring with your second engagement ring, or after you have announced your engagement. But you may, if you prefer, wear your first wedding ring until the morning of your second marriage . . . then you should not again wear this first wedding ring.

NEITHER ELIGIBLY TO TAKE PART IN HER WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in May. My father is the minister of our church, and he will, of course, perform the ceremony. My mother is the organist of our church, and I have always had the wish that she should play the organ for my wedding. My only sister will be my maid of honor, and my only brother, several years older than I, is to give me in marriage. (He expects his term of service will be ended in February, and that he will have returned from the army in Germany.) Mother and I would like to know if you approve of her playing the organ at my wedding, as this would mean that there would be no woman in our immediate family to play in the first pew on the left.

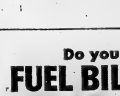
Olivia H.

It's a wonderful plan, I think, and entirely proper, for your mother to play the organ. What a fine "family membership" for this Great Occasion! I suggest you invite perhaps two (or more, according to the space) of your nearest relatives to occupy the first pew on the left . . . your grandparents if they are to attend, or an aunt and uncle to whom you are most devoted, or perhaps your grandparents and your godparents. Then your brother, after he has given you in marriage, takes his place nearest the aisle in this pew.

HOW TO REGISTER IN HOTEL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me what is the correct way for a man to register at a hotel for himself and his wife? Also how does a married woman, alone, register?



D.C.

The man registering for himself and his wife signs: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bryant. (Never should he sign "Henry Bryant and wife".) A married woman, alone, signs: Mrs. Thomas Hall.

Use Helicopters To Take Census Of Muskrats

LONDON (CP)—The lands and forests department is using helicopters to take a census of muskrats, southern Ontarios most important fur-bearing animal.

The helicopters flew over the marshes of Rondeau provincial park 20 miles southeast of Chatham, and counted the muskrat houses.

Department research men also intend to find out what the animals like to eat, where they live, their age and sex ratios and the condition of their fur.

Almost 200,000 muskrats were trapped for Rondeau in southern Ontario in the 1952-53 season compared with 95,000 the previous year. The 1954 season has been set for March 1 to April 21.

Experimental trapping will be carried out in the park this year to aid the census.

Information obtained from the tests, which may last for several years, will be evaluated by wildlife experts and the results distributed to trappers.

Christmas Gems

By ROYCE FIELDS

The jolly Santa, ringing his bell in an appeal for contributions for the needy, grinned his thanks as Dick Slater dropped a bill into the kettle. The donation was a salute not only to the Yuletide spirit, but to Dick's own good fortune. He had a bonny, lovely wife named Jean, and a smaller reproduction of himself named Pete. What more could a man want?

One other thing made this a great day for Dick. He was on his way to fulfill a dream. While they were still engaged, he had bought a strand of simulated pearls for Jean. Somehow the feeling had grown on him that, until he could replace the phoney baubles with a string of real ones he wouldn't be a success in the eyes of his dark-haired, brown-eyed Jean.

"Put this card on the outside of the package," he told the clerk who wrapped his gift. On the card he had written: To a real pearl—a string of them!

It was beginning to get dark when Dick got off the train in suburban Roseville where he lived. He started to walk briskly toward his home, two blocks away. Happy in the glow of having, at least, realized his cherished dream, he didn't see the figure lurking in the dark alley till the man stepped out and thrust the gun into his abdomen.

"This is a stickup!" the thug snapped hoarsely. "Turn around and get your hands up!"

A feeling of utter futility flooded Dick as he remembered he had spent most of his money on the necklace. Then the thought hit him—the necklace itself was in his pocket!

"Listen, fellow," he pleaded, over his shoulder with the gunman, "I have a Christmas present for my wife in my pocket. Take my money but leave me that!"

The hoodlum didn't answer. Methodically, he continued taking everything out of Dick's pockets. As his hand started to remove the precious little package, Dick Slater went wild. He whirled, slapping with his left hand at about where he thought the gun would be. He caught nothing. The thief merely stepped back and brought the heavy gun crashing down on his victim's head.

The thief merely stepped back and brought the heavy gun crashing down on his victim's head.

When Dick regained consciousness, he was lying in the alley. His head throbbed painfully, and he felt sick. Then he remembered the bad spell most of his money on the necklace. Then the thought hit him—the necklace itself was in his pocket!

"Listen, fellow," he pleaded, over his shoulder with the gunman, "I have a Christmas present for my wife in my pocket. Take my money but leave me that!"

The hoodlum didn't answer. Methodically, he continued taking everything out of Dick's pockets. As his hand started to remove the precious little package, Dick Slater went wild. He whirled, slapping with his left hand at about where he thought the gun would be. He caught nothing. The thief merely stepped back and brought the heavy gun crashing down on his victim's head.

As the darkness cleared away, Dick became aware that he was in a hospital. Gradually, he realized Jean and little Pete were beside his bed.

"Hello," he said groggily.

"Oh, Dick!" Jean half sobbed, half laughed, "I've been scared! The doctor says you only have a slight concussion, though, and you're going to be all right!"

As his head continued to clear, the realization of his loss overwhelmed Dick. The necklace—his precious gift was gone!

"I had a present for you, Jean —" he began.

"I know, Foolish," his wife cut in, "and you almost lost your life trying to save it."

"But it was the string of real pearls I've always wanted you to have, Jean. You know how much they meant to me."

"Yes, I've known the silly obsession you've had about my wearing simulated pearls," Jean said almost sternly. "It never seemed to occur to you that my husband and little Pete were the real pearls in my life!"

"Well, this is going to a bum Christmas for you," Dick said glumly, "and I thought it would be the best yet."

"It's going to be," Jean told him. "Look!"

She put her arm under his shoulder and lifted him to a sitting position. In one corner of the room was a beautiful little Christmas tree. Piled high under it were the gifts he and Jean had wrapped for little Pete. Jean went over and brought back two of the packages. One was her present to him—a watch he had wanted. The other package.

Suddenly, he recognized it—the pearls!

"Yes," Jean said, "my pearls. When the police caught the thief, we hadn't time to open them then."

Dick pulled his wife to him and said huskily, "It is a wonderful Christmas, darling, and you're right. The real pearls are the things we carry in our hearts!"

KEEPING CHRISTMAS

by Henry Van Dyke

Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people, and to remember what other people have done for you; to ignore what the world owes you, and to think what you owe the world; to put your rights in the background, and your duties in the middle distance, and your chances to do a little more than your duty in the foreground; to see that your fellow-men are just as real as you are and try to look behind their faces to their hearts, hungry for joy; to own that probably the only good reason for your existence is not what you are going to get out of life, but what you are going to give to life; to close your book on complaints against the management of the universe, and look around you for a place where you can sow a few seeds of happiness—are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

FULL REHEARSAL FOR THE BIG DAY — Robert wanted Nick the dog, to have dinner with him at his private table, but Dad and Mom were not enthusiastic until Robert demonstrated that Nick's table manners are impeccable. He did it with a dress rehearsal, which you see here. Nick seems to be enjoying nonchalantly an after dinner cigaret.

Egyptians Made Elaborate Dolls For Children

No one knows for sure who made the first doll, but it can be assumed the earliest figures were sacred-gods and ancestor images. These doll-like forms were not toys for the delight of children, but solemn religious figures that preserved the tribe from harm.

Then, somehow, somewhere, a change took place. Dolls became a toy for girls and the most popular Christmas toy of them all.

Dolls have been discovered in Egyptian tombs and ruins, some even had real hair; some were ivory, carved by craftsmen for a king's daughter; others were made of straw by an overworked mother in a peasant's hut.

In ancient Greece dolls were played with and cherished by little girls until they were ready to be married. Then (their dolls were taken to the shrine of a favorite goddess) and, often with tears, presented to her. The Roman children played with dolls, too ,but after the fall of the Empire there came a long period in, which there is no record of dolls.

Not until the thirteenth century when dolls were made in Nuremberg and dressed in the fashions of the times did little girls again play with dolls. They were here to stay.

By and by in Europe, the French fashion dolls became all the rage, not for children to play with but as models from which fine ladies could pattern their own modish costumes.

In America, the Indian children had dolls of their own made of raw hide and feathers and wood. Pioneer children had dolls much like these, and some were made of braided cornhusks, or nuts, or corncobs, or rags, and were dearly loved in spite of their plainness.

Much later, lifelike dolls were imported from Germany, where the doll industry had reached enormous proportions. These dolls had fine china heads with carefully painted faces and kid bodies that were jointed at the arms and legs. Later there came the Japanese-made dolls, which were inexpensive enough for almost any child to own. Then the American-made dolls began to appear—the special dolls, the kewpies, billikens, Buster Browns, teddy bears, Patsy dolls and Shirley Temples and phonograph dolls, with all the host of others that have followed and which are still to come. For dolls always will be part of childhood and joys of Christmases as long as there are little girls and boys to play with them, and parents and fond kinfolk to buy.

Christmas Eve Memory Check

DID YOU REMEMBER . . .

. . .to take home a few extra trays? If you are expecting two or three neighborhood small fry to drop in, you can be sure six will show up. And three toys and six children do not enhance "Peace on Earth."

DID YOU REMEMBER . . .

. . .to check the Christmas tree lights? Not day before yesterday. Not last week. We mean right now. A few stores are still open and you can supply new ones. Better pick up a few more ornaments too.

DID YOU REMEMBER . . .

. . .that you told all those people to drop in for refreshment tonight? Better check on the cake, cookies, soft drinks, and other goodies.

DID YOU REMEMBER . . .

. . . those last minute Christmas cards? If not, you can send telegrams to friends too far away for cards to reach them by December 25. You can even have a messenger call at your house while the guests you invited in for snacks are there and probably everybody will remember someone far away who should have a Christmas greeting.

DID YOU REMEMBER . . .

. . . to hang some kind of Christmas decoration outside the house, so passing strangers may enjoy some of the Christmas glow that is in your home and reflect it around your town? Remember, everyone has a part in this Christmas cheer, not just your small circle, and the more cheer you scatter, the more you will gather.

CHRISTMAS CHEER

DOROTHY BOYD KILIAN

Nan Raymond, seated in white starched loneliness at the hall desk of Ridgedale's ten-bed community hospital, stared disconsolately at the tiny table tree which she had just finished trimming.

"Would it be just too much to ask you to take Christmas Eve duty for me, Nan?"—Grace, the other night nurse, had asked her some days ago. "I know you aren't going to be able to get home for the holidays anyway, and my family is right here in town."

"Why, yes," Nan had answered slowly."I suppose I might as well be on the job as anywhere."

The urgent ringing of a bell broke in on her lonely dreams—the handbell of the patient in room two.

"Oh Smithers! I wonder what long-winded complaint she'll have now," Nan groaned.

She opened the door. "Mrs. Smith, every grey hair in place, was sitting bolt upright in bed "I'm expecting a visitor tonight. Where is he?" the old lady snapped.

"I'm expecting a visitor tonight.Where is he?" the old lady snapped.

"If anyone asks for you, of course I'll bring him up," Nan forced herself to answer politely.

"It's almost nine o'clock, and Algernon wrote definitey that he would make it for Christmas Eve." Mrs. Smith glared at Nan. "It's bad enough being here, let alone trying to celebrate alone."

"I'm not celebrating either, Mrs. Smith," Nan tried to sound sympathetic.

"Oh, you,—you're young and strong, and well, this is your job." The woman sighed. "How well I remember Christmases when I was your age! Sit down a minute and I'll tell you about the time we——"

"I'm so sorry, Mrs. Smith, but I have some things I really must do."

The old lady ignored her excuse.—"The time we invited the church choir to supper and to help decorate our tree before choir practice." she went on. "Well, somebody began a carol as he tied a popcorn ball to a branch, and, do you believe it, the last apple was hung on the tree, we had gone through our whole blessed program."

"Did you always put a star on the top of your tree?"

"Oh, my, yes," Mrs. Smith smiled. "I'll tell you just exactly what we did use for decorations. Let's see, now. There were the popcorn balls, and cranberry chains. . . ."

When the doorbell downstairs rang suddenly, Mrs. Smith brought herself up in the middle of a sentence and chuckled. "Thank you for listening to an old bore, my dear. Now you just go see if that isn't Algernon."

A young man, bare headed, with coat collar turned up to meet a tousel of sandy hair, smiled at her through the gloom. "Are you the unfortunate gal who's taking care of my Granny Smith?" he asked.

An imperious voice called from upstairs, "Is that you, Algernon?"

The young man grinned at Nan. "Awful, isn't it, but it does help to shorten it to 'Al'."

Nan led the way upstairs. As they entered room two Mrs. Smith held out her arms affectionately to the visitor, saying at the same time. "You look startled, Miss Raymond. I'll wager you never dreamted an old fuddy-duddy like me could have such a personable relative."

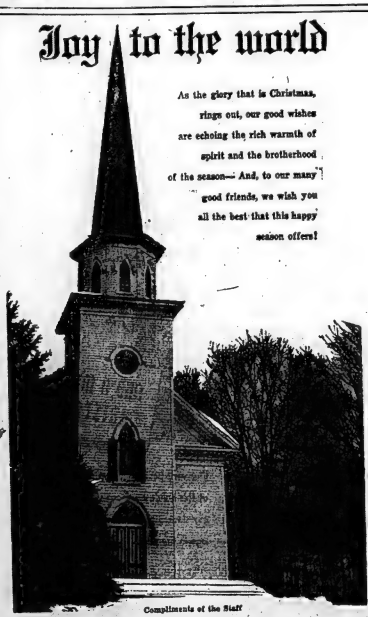
"Well, I guess I did expect——"

"I can imagine what you did expect," Mrs. Smith laughed. Then turning to her grandson, "You won't be able to stay with me, as we had planned, but luckily, there's a decent little hotel downtown."

"Couldn't I stay at your house, anyway, Granny? A hotel's such a lonesome place at Christmas time," Al pleaded.

"The house is all closed up," Mrs. Smith answered. "But, never fear, just this evening I have found a local cure for loneliness." She smiled at Nan. "This young lady sat here this evening and put up so cheerfully with my long-winded reminiscences, that I talked myself right out of a horrible mood into a pleasant glow. If you go at it the right way, I'm sure she can do the same for you."

Al said quickly, "Would having Christmas dinner with me at the hotel be a good beginning, Miss Raymond?"



"I think it would," Nan agreed.

Trombone Comes to Paris

By SHIRLEY SARGENT

Stevie rolled from the bed where Marge slept and started toward the living room. The glow of Christmas tree lights betrayed the children. Young Stevie—there was a boy for you—had one hand in his stocking. Julie was whispering, "Go on, see what's in it." Only Doris, the tall, older one, was quite still.

Paris turned just as Stevie said "Merry Christmas," sarcastically.

Young Stevie, with the engaging grin, whipped around, "Hi, daddy. Can we open our presents? It's almost daylight."

"Daylight, my foot—it's barely two."

"But Santa Claus has already been here."

"Sod," Steve commanded. Stevie and Julie hugged him, leaving without argument, but there was defiance plain on Paris's face. Paris—darned fool name for a boy. Marge's idea. "Bed, son," Steve reiterated.

"Under the tree, dad, I don't see anything long and sort of curved."

That Paris, an odd one. An eleven-year-old kid wanting a trombone. It beat Steve. "I don't either," he agreed, meeting his son's eyes. "Look, you're too old to believe in Santa Claus, and too young to realize how expensive a trombone is."

Paris looked down at the mounds of gaily wrapped packages. "Okay," he said in a flat, old-sounding voice, "so I get a couple of new shirts and Stevie gets . . ."

"Stevie gets what?"

Paris ground his bare foot into the rug. "Nothin', I was just talking."

"Good night, son," Steve watched Paris out of the room before he unplugged the tree lights and sank into a worn armchair.

Paris was right. Stevie had everything he'd asked for piled under the tree. Even an electric train. Cost a lot to keep a kid happy these days, but a trombone. Like the one out in the trunk of the car that was going back to the store first thing Wednesday morning. A man made only so much working in a laundry, trying to save enough to buy a half interest, so Marge went ahead and bought a trombone without a by-your-leave.

First Paris had to have lessons, then a rented horn to practice on. Now he wanted one of his own. Paris, a funny kid. Never listening to the football games like Julie and even Stevie did. Always wandering off for hikes and bringing home strange, ragamuffin kids. Happy when he could tinker with all radios, happier yet when he could listen to highbrow music. Thin stuff. Steve didn't understand him and that was a fact. From a distance he heard the voices of carolers and, upstairs, the wavering notes of the rented trombone. That Paris! What was he trying to do? Wake everybody up?

Even as Steve swung up the stairs, to the attic, he heard the sureness in the music. At first Paris had practised in the attic by request, but Steve had had it to him. He had worked hard; two-three hours a day until he could really play. Looking in on him now, Steve saw that the rented instrument gleamed. Paris had taken care of it—wouldn't let the others touch it.

To look at his intent, happy face, you wouldn't know—it was Paris whose everyday face was withdrawn, almost sullen. That playing a horn that took all your breath to blow, would give him happiness was amazing to Steve.

Paris put the trombone down when Steve touched his shoulder.

"You love to play, don't you?" Steve asked.

A smile the like of which Steve had never seen before crossed his son's face. Then, shyly, "Mr. Baxter wants me to play in the school band."

It was hard to keep his pride from showing, but Steve only said, heartily, "That's fine, Paris," before sending him back to bed.

Steve went downstairs, searching under the tree until he found young Stevie's electric train. The box was heavy in his hands as he considered. Toys didn't matter too much to Stevie—he liked active things, in which a father could share.

When Steve came back in from the car, he felt like Santa Claus as he put the shiny leather case that was long and sort of curved under the tree. A trombone for Paris.

The Children's SHOP

Christmas is a tree with bright lights and tinsel and the Star atop. It is a jumble of gifts, wrapped with pretty ribbon, beneath its green boughs. It is the light and faith in little children's eyes on Christmas morning. It is the choking feeling of joy in mother's heart as the packages are opened. It is the tear that wells in dad's eye and he tries to hide it with a grin. It is the remembrances of many other Christmases by grandmother and grandfather undimmed by golden time.

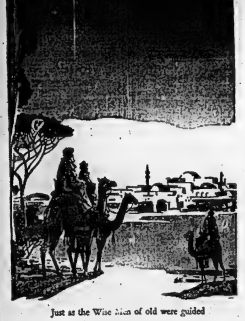
It is the sermon of the Story of Bethlehem. The hymns of the choir, the candlelight service, the softness of children's voices, the peace and goodwill that can come into men's hearts.

Christmas is the big tall tree in school, the only tree some of the children can call their own. It is the striped candy cane.

It is the joyful music of chimes and church bells, the carols from the record shop, the spirit of the season that makes strangers friends.

It is the garland and the candle in the window, the cards on the mantel, the wreath on the door, the mistletoe hung by Sis. It is sincerity in a handshake, the wishes of glad tidings, the vocal meaning in the hello from neighbors.

Christmas is a light. A light that vanquishes darkness; the light of charity.



"Look, you're too old to believe in Santa Claus."

Queen Puts Final Touches On Her Christmas Message In Sweltering Summer Heat

By GOMER JONES

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters) — The Queen brushed up today on her round - the - world Christmas message as this New Zealand city sweltered in its hottest weather of the "down under" summer.

Technicians forecast that the annual world-wide broadcast, delivered for the first time from outside Britain, will be transmitted smoothly and clearly.

The Queen goes before the microphone at 9 p.m. (1 a.m.) EST Friday, at the climax of an hour-long Commonwealth hook-up. Her greeting will be recorded in London and rebroadcast for the domestic and overseas service from there six hours later.

(The live broadcast will be carried in Canada by the CBC.)

Thousands of perspiring Aucklanders, getting in their last-minute Christmas shopping, cheered the Queen as she drove to and from her suite at Government House on a round of ceremonial activities. The temperature touched 80 and the humidity was intense.

LIVELY WELCOME

But the discomfort had no apparent effect on the lively welcome given the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh on the second day of their visit here on their Commonwealth world tour.

More than 15,000 lively youngsters shrilled their greeting to the Queen as she rode by jeep between their long ranks drawn up on the green turf on the main cricket grounds. In her speech, the Queen told the children of her furthest dominion that "we all belong to one great family."

Earlier the young sovereign and her husband paid an hour's visit to the Auckland hospital, arriving in the children's ward shortly before Santa Claus was due and pushing that dignitary far into the background. "This is much better than Father Christmas," said one delighted boy.

PRESENTS COLORS

In an' afternoon visit to nearby Devonport naval base, Elizabeth presented the Queens colors to the Royal New Zealand Navy and likened the Dominion's sea-going tradition to that of Britain. The two countries, she said, "are much alike in that they depend upon the ocean as a broad and safe highway in peace and as a lifeline in war."

Shirt-sleeved crowds shouted and waved to the royal couple as they drove home from Devonport for a quiet Christmas Eve dinner at Government House.

After dinner the royal couple attended a reception in the garden of Government House with 1,500 guests.

FAIR PROFIT DOWN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Western Fair Association operator of western Ontario's biggest fall fair, has reported a profit of $22,855 for the year, compared with a profit of $23,356 last year. Attendance at this year's fair in September—341,181—was the lowest since 1950. Attendance last year was a record 397,063.

3 Airmen Escape Injury When Car Hits Train

Three airmen from the RCAF's South Station at Trenton escaped injury but the 1946 model car in which they were riding was completely wrecked Wednesday afternoon when it was hit by a CNR eastbound train at a level crossing three miles east of Trenton.

Gregory McDonald, 25, driver of the car, and two passengers, Dermott Russell and John Richards, were crossing the mainline tracks back of S.R.D. when the car stalled. The men were trying to push the car off the tracks when local train No. 10 came past. They tried to flag the train but it hit the car, flipping it onto the westbound track.

The car was eventually towed off the track by a farm tractor and the trains which were temporarily delayed, continued as scheduled.

OPP constable Kowal investigated.

MVD Suffers Severe Shock With Announcement Beria Shot

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The Soviet police state structure molded by Joseph Stalin during a period of 20 years suffered a severe shock Wednesday night with the announcement that Lavrenty Pavlovitch Beria had died before a firing squad.

The upheaval leaves the Communist party more and more dependent upon the Soviet army to keep itself in power. In the final disgrace and humiliation of the once independently powerful MVD (ministry of internal affairs) through the execution of its former boss, the party has run into a dangerous—though probably calculated—risk.

Ivan S. Konlev, a Soviet war hero and regular army marshal, was chairman of the tribunal which sent Beria and at least six to their deaths. This is significant, bolstering the suspicion that the army played a large part in forcing the hand of the party and government in finally ending the fantastic police empire of a man who was a close ally and confederate of Stalin.

BALANCE UPSET

The Beria fantasy can only have the effect of upsetting the political balance and leaving the ruling Communist party in a weakened condition. Thus weakened, the party through the government may find itself obliged to make more and more concessions to the population.

Under Stalin, the Communist party was always behind the army. Stalin's MVD, a fully equipped army in itself, and the party had penetrated the ranks of the army from top to bottom with a spy system to keep the officer class under control. Stalin's Communists infiltrated the MVD itself, and the MVD in turn had its spies in the party.

As long as there was a dictator at the top, a single man with absolute authority, the system worked. Both armed forces—the army and the MVD—although they had no love for one another, were answerable directly to the top. Stalin could use the MVD as the instrument of iron party control.

Now, however, the MVD has become unreliable. Across the length and breadth of the vast Soviet land, the secret police has been and still is undergoing a thorough cleansing of the suspect elements. None in the network can feel himself above suspicion. And there is no one man at the top to whom the MVD can give its allegiance. The allegiance must be given to a whole top-rung collective in which most probably there still are sharp rivalries.

It seems obvious now that the private army of police through which Stalin and his fellow Georgian, Beria, wielded such terrible power, is a thing of the past. The MVD will continue to perform secret police functions, but it now will be answerable to the board of directors which sits in the Kremlin, the six senior members of the ruling Communist party Presidium headed by Prime Minister Malenkov.

OUR FLIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS,
Is to find some new way
To send our warm greetings
To you Christmas Day.

We've had so much pleasure
Just waiting on you
We feel something special
Be written for you.

But you've seen all the cards
That were ever created
So another, we know,
Will not leave you elated.

We've sold them in boxes
In dozens and singles,
We've sold them with verses,
Some prose and some jingles.

We've had big selections
For Sisters and Brothers—
For Husbands — for Wives —
And, of course, Dads and Mothers.

As well as the gal
Who kept changing her mind,
And the fellow who left
His wallet behind.

The boys and the girls
Who were looking "for fun"
The lass who pulled out
Thirty cards to choose one!

But we went through it all
Without shedding a tear,
'Cause good friends like you
Make us happy each year.

So the wish that we're making
Tho' it isn't brand new
One and all you have earned it

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU!

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

This is the shortest column of the year.

To those whom we have disappointed at times:

To those whom we, in our humble capacity, have tried to help:

To those to whom our criticism has appeared constructive, and to those who deemed it otherwise:

To those whose fine spirit of co-operation has eased what seemed to be a rather arduous task at times:

To those whose fine spirit of sportsmanship, has done much to further recreation in the city:

To those who disagree that clean wholesome sport is a must for every community, thus proving that "every knock is a boost":

To Mr. and Mrs. John Fan without whom, no phase of recreation would be possible:

To the rinkside referees, the armchair quarterbacks, the bleachers umpires:

To those heroes of ice-lane, diamond, gridiron and basketball court, the officials:

To sponsors, coaches, managers, to the players from puck-chasing peewees to divot-digging dads and grand-dads:

To sportdom, fandom, friends and otherwise:

This simple heartfelt wish,

A Merry Christmas

Alston Starts Off on Correct Foot, Hires Ted Lyons as Hurling Coach

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The first official move made by Walter Alston indicates that the new manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers is every bit as smart as they said he was when they brought him out of the minor leagues to tackle one of the trickiest jobs in the baseball world.

Alston, looking around at the unbroken ranks of ex-infielders who comprised the Dodgers coaching staff, asked his bosses to go out and find him the best pitching coach they could lay hands on, and bring the expense. They found Ted Lyons unemployed momentarily, and by signing the former White Sox great they both well have made a down payment on a world championship.

If the Brooklyn team of the last few seasons had had one noteworthy weakness it was the absence of an expert handler of pitchers among Charlie Dressen's staff. Dressen was a former infielder, as were Billy Herman, Cookie Lavagetto and Jake Pitler.

One of the differences of opinion between Dressen and his employer was said to have been Chuck's insistence upon being his own pitching coach. The Dodger officials did not consider Dressen especially gifted in handling his throwers, the young ones in particular.

The record does not prove conclusively that the bosses were right about it, for the little guy won two flags and tied for a third in three years. But the fact remains that he has just lost two World Series to a team which employs a full-time pitching expert named Jim Turner.

KEEPS TABS ON PITCHERS

Turner's duties consist mainly of coaching and pampering Casey Stengel's pitchers and advising Casey which of them had the best night's sleep.

As the Yanks also have an infield coach, Frankie Crosetti, and a catching coach, Bill Dickey, Casey thus is enabled to concentrate his heaviest thinking on the outfield, which was his own preserve, and on double-talking about the overall operation.

It isn't only the rookies who profits by the presence of a pitching coach on his bench. The veteran depends upon his colleague to check him regularly to see if he has unconsciously developed some little mannerism which might tip opposing batters as to whether they are about to get a curve or a fast ball.

Nick Mickoski Fires Winner In Dying Minutes of Game; Wings First Loss in 6 Starts

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Referee Frank Udvari was at most a silent figure Wednesday night as New York Rangers defeated the leading Detroit Red Wings 2-1 in a National Hockey League game in New York.

Udvari, one of the most controversial referees in NHL history and a key figure in the latest storms of penalty protests, called only eight penalties in a game that saw left-winger Nick Mickoski score his fifth goal of the season at 18:20 of the final period to break a 1-1 deadlock.

In Montreal Wednesday, NHL president Clarence Campbell said the morning public blasts at responsible club officials will be discussed at the top level in the near future.

MAY RESIGN

Udvari, who handed out a mass misconduct penalty against Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs during a giant rhubarb in Toronto two weeks ago, has hinted he may resign.

The league president said referees should not be made the objects of "public pillory."

"They have the toughest job in the world. And they are forbidden to criticize other people."

Detroit's loss Wednesday night was their first in six starts. The Ranger win, the club's first over the Wings in eight meetings, put them within five points of the fourth-place Boston Bruins.

FIRST GOAL

The Rangers scored the first goal at 15:08 of the first period when Don Prentice scored his first of the season on a pass from Ike Hildebrand. Glen Skov, assisted by Red Kelly and Tony Leswick, knotted the count in the second period.

Mickoski scored the winner on a 20-foot shot from in front of the goal.

Friday, the last-place Chicago Black Hawks face Boston.

Biltmores Trim Teepees 6-2 For 3rd Straight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Biltmores are on their longest winning streak of the 1953-54 Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season.

But even though they have won only three consecutive games the Biltmores are not sure they are riding a 10-game streak because their latest victory was a 6-2 defeat of the second-place St. Catharines TeePees Wednesday night. It was the season's first win over the Teeps.

Guelph also climbed into sixth place in the standings. Only 11 points now separate the last place Gail Black Hawks and Barrie Flyers from the league-leading Toronto St. Michael's College Majors.

The Flyers saved themselves from being the sole possessors of last place by fighting Toronto Marlboros to a 2-2 standstill draw in Barrie.

Bob Attersley, Hillary Menard, Burley Dimma, Bob Forhan, Wally Para and Billy Graham shared scoring for the Biltmores. Will Roberts notched both for St. Catharines.

Bill Harris and Charlie Burns were the Marlboro marksmen. Jim Robertson and George Ransier counted for Barrie.

Hamilton Tigers are at St. Catharines Saturday. St. Michael's play Marlboros in Toronto Sunday.

Oshawa Drubs Kingston 6-3; Take Over Top

Overmastering the Kingston Goodyears in every department, the Oshawa Truckmen moved to the top of the district Senior 'B' group in Kingston last night, when they won by a 6-3 score. The Truckmen built up a 5-1 count at the end of the second period and simply coasted home.

Oshawa were full measure for their win with Les Colvin in the twine, being outstanding. The team played positional hockey all the time and were deadly in their shooting. The Truckmen introduced a new player in Harry Samanski, who played with Cleveland Barons last year and at the beginning of this season announced his retirement, although he is only 28 years old. Samanski is not in playing shape but what he showed last night, it was just what the doctor ordered.

He centred a line of Etcher and Salamenko and his wizardry with a puck was out of this world. He scored two goals and set up two more and made every play look easy. His second counting of the night was a masterpiece. He outlearned MacGregor, sidestepped Nicholson and walked in to best Johnson cleanly.

It might be said that if the Truckmen continue the pace set last night they are the team to beat for all the marbles in the loop. They have three strong lines, a solid defence and an outstanding goalie. The Goodies looked disorganized all night and the 2655 fans on hand for the first time this year started the Bronc cheer on several occasions with Olinski their pet hate.

Three-Way Tie For Top Spot In Quebec Loop

Valleyfield Braves climbed into a first-place tie in the Quebec Hockey League Wednesday with Ottawa Senators and Sherbrooke Saints.

The Braves swept aside Sherbrooke 7-2 as Jean-Paul Bisaillon struck for two goals in the first period to start a Valleyfield scoring spree. A week ago they were in the cellar.

Meanwhile at Springfield, the once-champion Quebec Aces were blanked 3-0 by the Indians, handing goalie Wilfrid O'Hearn his second shutout of the year. It was O'Hearn's first game since injuries sidelined him a month ago.

John Bobenko collected two of the Tribe's goals, getting one in each of the second and third periods—while Graham rapped in the third for Springfield.

Radio, TV, Bowl Games' Santa Claus Add Million to New Year's Day 'Take'

NEW YORK (AP) — Television and radio sponsors are becoming "Queens of the Sands Classes" for a lot of United States colleges—and conferences—represented in the post-season football bowl games.

The spectators at the annual New Year's Day gridiron specacles will pay about $2,000,000 to watch the games, but the TV and radio rights will bring in almost $1,000,000 more, says an Associated Press survey shows.

That's a pretty nice collection of pies for the football teams to slice up among themselves. Many of them have to count their conference brothers in, too, however, so the athletic boards at many colleges will be swelled by the TV-radio take along with the gate receipts.

ROSE BOWL TOPS

Biggest bonanza of all is the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., matching UCLA of the Pacific Coast Conference against the Big Ten's Michigan State. The TV-radio money there even tops the gate receipts, since the sponsors have an advantage by cashing on the air after the other major games are over. Also, the game pits the No. 3 team in the country, Michigan State, against the No. 4 team.

The combined TV-radio take for the west coast classic is $610,000, well ahead of the gate of $340,000. After game expenses, state taxes and other expenses are taken out, each conference figures to get about $70,000.

The Sugar and Cotton Bowls also are reported to have TV-radio contracts in six figures to go with ticket sales in the $300,000-$400,000 range. But the Orange Bowl—probably the day's best attraction from the spectator's point of view since it matches Maryland, the No. 1 team against Oklahoma, No. 4—has a TV-radio contract calling for only $70,000.

However, 2,000 seats have been added to the bowl this year, making the capacity close to 70,000. That should push the gate receipts to around $365,000. Each team gets $120,000, which they'll split with other conference members.

Liberalized Fishing

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(United Sportsman, Author And Creator Of Sabrae Tables)

About eight or nine years ago a certain ichthyologist dropped a bombshell among the conservation organizations of our country. The gentleman's name is Dr. Ira W. Eschmeyer, an able scientist of broad vision and accurate thinking.

At that time, Dr. Eschmeyer was the biologist associated with the Tennessee Valley Authority. His job it was to see that this huge chain of artificial lakes was managed properly from the standpoint of the best interests of fish and wildlife.

It is a well-established biotic principle that, when a new reservoir or artificial lake is first filled with water and stocked with fish, two things can happen-either the stocking does not "take hold" and quickly dies, or, more often, the planted fish thrive, wax fat, and multiply. Rarely is there a middle point, almost always one or the other of the extremes are reached rather quickly.

FISH THROVE

The T.V.A. chain, under the direction of Dr. Eschmeyer was stocked with and the fish throve mightily. As is usual in new waters, they reached a population peak in comparatively few years. Anglers in that area had the time of their lives.

Dr. Eschmeyer watched the anglers' daily and yearly take and balanced it with the available supply of fish. Then it was that he made public his surprising conclusions.

He told the sportsmen that each year more fish died of old age than were caught by the fishermen. In other words, the annual available harvest of surplus fish was not being gathered. Feeling that this was a needless waste, he introduced his formation now known as "liberalized fishing."

Being in charge of the fishing regulations on those waters, he removed all restrictions. Fish as much as you wish, he told the sportsmen; keep as many as you want; and you are free to fish every day of the year, regardless of spawning seasons.

PUBLIC RESENTS

To a man like me, who has been reared in the belief that fish should be allowed to spawn without the unwelcome attentions of the angler, this sounded like pure heresy. Fish during the spawning season, indeed! Why the thing was monstrous, suicidal.

As might well be imagined, there was a tremendous uproar in the public press over this radical departure from all accepted conservation practices. A great many outdoor writers, I among them, predicted a sudden and drastic decline in the quality of the fishing in the T.V.A. chain.

Well—time marched on. The boys really went to work on these T.V.A. fish. In 1947 I fished Watt Bar Lake and Gunterville Dam and I found the fishing to be generally good.

Today a careful creel census at Gunterville Dam and Decatur Harbor shows a rather astonishing return of from 2.5 to 4. 5 pounds of fish per man-day. That surely is far from being the "biological desert" which was predicted by many of the outdoor writers in 1945.

PROOF IN THE EATING

It is an old saying that the proof of the pudding is in the eating. After all, Dr. Eschmeyer's experiment was working out as he predicted it would. The conservation agencies began to sit and take notice. However, they proceeded cautious ly.

At first they tried out liberalized fishing with panfish. Certain lakes were known to be overcrowded and on these all restrictions on panfish were removed. As the surplus was cut down, the quality of the fishing improved. Individual fish, having the food supply more to themselves grew larger, increasing the average size of the fish's catch.

Gradually, as experiment upon experiment turned out well, the creed of liberalized fishing has spread. No longer are panfish the only considered. Many species, including black bass and trout, are now open to practically unlimited fishing in some areas.

RESTRICTIONS OFF

For the 1954 season, Pennsylvania has fallen into line. All restrictions—now get this—All Restrictions have been removed from the taking of white bass, rock bass, sunfish, blue gills, catfish, carp and bullheads.

The Pennsylvania state biologists feel that this move is in line with sound fish management. However, they wish to be sure. Thus these regulations are placed on an experimental basis and will maintain only for the year 1954. After that, we shall see.

I had not realized, however, the extent to which liberalized fishing had spread until I read a report of a paper read by Mr. Harry Van Meter, of the Conservation Commission of West Virginia to the fish and game personnel of the northeastern states, held in Brenton Woods, New Hampshire, last September.

Mr. Van Meter had put together a resume of the fishing laws of our 48 states. Believe it or not, 8 of our states have no fishing regulations three others permit year- round trout fishing. Conversely, 7 states have closed seasons (less than four months) while the other thirty have open seasons.

MORE FISH

This is a very definite trend toward liberized bass fishing, permitting bass to be taken every day of the year, in 22 states a man can take such bass as he can catch at most any time of the year, only a few segregated areas being subject to regulation.

With panfish the regulations are liberal indeed, as 37 states allow year-round fishing for certain species. Pennsylvania will bring the number to 38 in 1954.

In the matter of size, 43 states have no size limit on panfish, the theory being that we have far too many of these and the removal of some of them from our waters is sound conservation. Incidentally, 31 states have no size limit on bass. You can keep what you catch.

So go the remifications of the Eschmeyer experiment. Most of us predicted that liberalized waters soon would be "biological deserts." Well, we were wrong. Our hat is off to R.W. Eschmeyer and his liberalised thinking. There must be a special reward in Heaven for the fellows who have the courage of their convictions.

Toronto Girl Lake Placid Winter Queen

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (CP)—Two figure skating champions—Barbara Grattan of Toronto and Hayes Jenkins of Colorado Springs, Colo.—will reign here as winter king and queen.

Stan Benham, director of the Olympic Arena, said the couple would be crowned Jan. 2 at a pageant.

Miss Grattan, Canadian ladies' senior figure skating champion will be a member of Canada's team in the skating competition at Oslo, Norway, next February. Jenkins, world figure skating champion, will defend his title at Oslo.

Edmonton Gardens Will Celebrate 40th Anniversary

EDMONTON (CP)— When Edmonton Flyers and Calgary Stampeders meet in a Western Hockey League game here Christmas Day it will mark the day the club's anniversary of the use of Edmonton Gardens for hockey.

Things were different Christmas Day 1913, when Deacon White's Eskimos and the Indians of Ken MacKenzie, now co-owner of the WHL's New Westminster Royals, clashed in the opening game that ended in a free-for-all.

There were stalls for horses along both sides of the original ice palace. The players warmed themselves between periods around pot-bellied stoves in the dressing rooms.

But there was no between-periods accommodation for the fans, no refreshment booths, no artificial ice and only a flickering lighting system to help them follow the play.

Cleveland Browns Slight Favorites Over Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — What is the strange football hex which coach Buddy Parker of Detroit Lions holds over Paul Brown of Cleveland Browns?

"Darned if I know," Parker said Wednesday. "But I hope it continues for at least one more game."

Brown is the most successful coach in the history of pro football—except when it comes to playing teams coached by Parker. Then it's another story.

These masterminds have tangled six times. Parker has whipped Brown's teams five times, with one game ending in a tie.

Brown gets his seventh—and perhaps most important—crack at Parker Sunday when the Browns and Lions meet in Briggs Stadium for the National Football League championship.

The oddmakers say Brown will do it this time. They favor Cleveland by 5½ points.

Baltimore Colts Have No 'Kick' Get $500 Bonus

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Players and coaches of Baltimore Colts, really believed in Santa Claus as for each received a $50 bonus cheque from their owners after winding only three National Football League games.

The cheques and a "thank you" notes were mailed to 40 team members who had no idea they were coming. In addition, their wives received a personal gift.

"Been in the game seven years and never played for better men," commented halfback Buddy Young. "Don't let anybody tell me there isn't a Santa Claus."

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Canadiens Trim Royals 7-5 For Kennedy Cup

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League Wednesday night defeated Montreal Royals 7-5 to win the Kennedy Cup, symbolic of the city's professional hockey championship. The Royals play in the Quebec League.

Bernie Geoffrion was the star for Canadiens, getting three goals while Maurice Richard, Doug Harvey, Claude Vinet, Johnny McCormack and Dave MacCready netted one each.

Eddie Litzenberger, Orval Tessier, Lorne Davis, Glen Harmon and Paul Meger counted for Royals. Referee Georges Gravel called three penalties in the generally clean but hard-fought game, two of them on the Canadiens. None figured in the scoring.

Dutchies Extend Senior Loop Lead With 7-1 Victory Over Mercurys

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

During their seven-league this season Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, last year's Allan Cup champions, have been beaten by all kinds of teams—top-notchers and last-placers.

But when their leadership of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league is in jeopardy, the Dutch men have a knack for coming through.

Wednesday night they trounced Owen Sound Mercurys 7-1 to climb four points ahead of the Mercs. The Mercurys had been defeated once in their previous 12 games.

Chatham Maroons stopped the three-game winning streak of St. Agara Falls Cataracts by taking a 6-5 decision in the other game the Maroons in fifth place.

In the NOHA, North Bay Trappers netminder Bondi Casola filled in for the injured Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., goaltender, Jim Gilbert, to lead the Indians to a 3-1 victory over Sudbury Wolves.

Owen Sound never threatened Kitchener. Ken Laufman followed with a pair and Jack McKenzie and Doug Verity notched the others.

Tommy Burlington scored with less than five minutes remaining to save Owen Sound from being shut out.

The Maroons had to overcome a 2-0 deficit.

Newcomer Bobby Palmer fired the payoff goal for the Maroons less than three minutes before the end of regular time. Jim Connelly notched two goals for Chatham, the others going to Bill Lee, Joe Cotveth and Ernie Dick.

Larry Unger counted twice for Niagara Falls. Ed Pista, Nick Dubick and Ken Campbell scored the rest.

Connie Bonhomme, Eddie Joss and Laurie Peterson each scored one for the Indians. The Sudbury tally was scored by Flori Geegan.

In the only senior action tonight Indians face Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Greyhounds and Sudbury is at North Bay.

Warriors Hold Leading Bisons To Overtime Tie

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The cellar-dwelling Toronto Warriors held the leading Buffalo Bisons to a 3-3 overtime tie in a rough American Hockey League game Wednesday night.

The Warriors took a 3-0 lead in the first period on goals by Walt Atanas and Del Prancho. They added another in the second, by Harry Pidhirny, before Gaye Stewart tallied for the Bisons. Kenny Hayden and Gord Pennell got the other goals. Then it was the Bisons' turn.

Referee Bill Morrison called 19 penalties, 12 in the first two periods.

FLOODED WITH OFFERS

LONDON (AP)— Gordon Flete, Britain's best distance runner, said Wednesday he is being "flooded" with scholarship offers by American universities.

The 22-year-old bank clerk, who is tops at 5,000 and 10,000 metres, told a reporter:

"I am flattered and not a little fascinated. I would like to make the trip but I cannot decide whether I want to go there and study. I am just thinking it all over."

NEW BOXING GLOVE

NEW YORK (AP)—A new boxing glove with a shorter thumb and additional padding on the side of the fist will become mandatory in New York state bouts on New Year's Day.

Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, said the commission feels the heavier gloves will cut down on thumbing and cause fewer cuts.

The additional padding does not increase the weight of the glove, which remains eight ounces, but it increases the padding from 16 to 25 square inches to 25 square inches. The padding decreases the space between thumb and fist.

Five Wisconsin Children Die As House Burns

MARINETTE, Wis. (AP) — A raging fire took the lives of five children when the home of the Robert Degrysner family burned to the ground.

The children were sleeping in bedrooms on the second floor.

The father left the house to call firemen. When he returned, the fire had spread too rapidly for him to enter the house and save the children.

Degrysner and his wife, who also escaped, were taken to hospital with shock.

NEXT AT THE BELLE—Taking the initiative away from Robert Taylor, Ava Gardner gets the drop on bandit Anthony Quinn in one of the exciting scenes from "Ride, Vaquero!" starting Christmas night at the Belle Theatre. Howard Keel also stars in the M-G-M outdoor drama, which was filmed on location in Utah, in full flaming color. A funny Tom & Jerry cartoon, is one of three choice short subjects on the same program.

AT THE McCARTHY—Jeff Chandler comes under the exotic spell of jungle princess Suzan Ball in the high romantic moments of the Universal-International Technicolor production of "East of Sumatra", opening Christmas night at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre which also co-stars Marilyn Maxwell and Anthony Quinn. John Sutton, Jay C. Flippen and Scat Man Crothers are featured in the cast. Budd Boetticher directed.

Steel Production Sets New Record

NEW YORK (AP) — American steel companies are rounding out a year of record production, estimated at 111,800,000 net tons, overcoming the iron age, national metalworking weekly.

"Production this year stands head and shoulders above the industry's best previous record of 105,375,000 tons poured in 1951," the magazine said. "Output in 1952 totalled only 93,200,000 tons, as the operations of most companies suffered from a 54-day strike."

The Iron Age said operations this year, based on the highest capacity in history—117,500,000 net tons—averaged 95.2 per cent of rated capacity. The highest average operating rate was achieved in 1951, when output averaged 100.9 per cent of rated capacity.

TOPS IN WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba legislative building, even without counting the "golden boy" statue on top, is Winnipeg's tallest building. Public works officials put the building at 240 feet high, with the Fort Garry Hotel next at 186 feet.

'Con' Man Gets $700

HAMILTON (CP) — A smooth-talking confidence man has obtained $700 in cash from two downtown banks in the last week, police revealed Wednesday.

The same technique has been used in each instance—a cheque has been presented and the teller told to deposit some of the money and pay the balance in cash.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What is Christmas like behind barbed wire?

Rob Wise can answer that. This will be the first Christmas in four years he has spent outside a Communist prison camp. Another Christmas, longer ago, he spent in a German prison camp.

Wise will be home by his house in Tacoma, Wash., to spend his first Yuletide with his son, four-year-old Robert Kent. The United States Army captain is here as technical advisor on a film called "The Prisoner-of-War Story."

Wise remembers his first Christmas under the Reds "as perhaps the worst experience of my life."

"On Christmas night we ended a 35-day march through the bitter cold. Most of the men—those who survived—were sick, starving and frozen. Our only solace was a chaplain, a Catholic priest and a saintly man, who would not rest until he had ministered to each man, even though he knew that would infuriate the Reds. Later he died of an infection; the Communists did little to save him.

"The next Christmas was better. It appeared that the truce talks were coming to a head, and the Reds didn't want us to appear starved. (Wise himself dropped from 175 to around 110 pounds.) So they brought in a truckload of frozen chicken and pigs and gave us a feast. After the talks stalled, we went back to our miserable life.

PROGRAM CENSORED

"The same thing happened in the Christmas of 1952. They even let us have a program, but everything was censored. We couldn't sing 'Don't Fence Me In.' Even a song about fields of yellow corn was deleted; they were that conscious of their color. Anything that indicated the downtrodden was allowed. They approved dictators' 'Christmas Carol' because of the capitalist Scrooge."

Wise already has Christmas with his family, his thoughts go back to a family in his earth, who was also captured but chose not to return.

"He was a boy 17 years old, very immature and unhappy," the officer recalled. "He had no family except a sister. I'm sure that if he returned to this country he would spend many years in a mental institution."

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, DEC. 27, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Set aside an hour or so for careful reviewing of such matters as diet, habits, associates and next week's budget. Start day right at church.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Please note Aries now. This is advice pertinent to all occasionally. Enjoy children.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — This is the kind of day in which you could either feel like tackling too many chores or be extremely lackadaisical. Aim for a happy medium.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — You can do more with your hours today than you may think at first. Don't be tempted to over-indulge in sweets or liquid, and don't be reckless with money. Mind associations. Pray.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — A period for some retrenching, some reviewing, and much thoughtful deliberation. Firm action can then be depended upon. Try be someone to church with you if possible.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Mind what you do with spare time. That is always more important than many of us realize. Cultivate your sense of humor.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—Don't forget: A job half finished is by no means completed. Today is fine for beginning new plans and planning new beginnings.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Use your fine reasoning powers to overcome any minor obstacles—although there shouldn't be too many or too difficult. Church services should not be neglected.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—There are obligations, perhaps a few minor matters that need attention. Don't put off till later what you can do now. Give any letdown feeling a boost with prayer.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—You may be just the ones others will depend upon now to straighten out difficulties or to revise outmoded plans. And don't hesitate to get rid of dead wood. But no unwise short-cuts!

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—If you give up some of your leisure time, be sure it is for worthy purpose. Don't inveigled into matters that should be taken care of by someone else. Pray, rest. Exercise, too.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Note Aquarius today. Give of your time, but supposingly reserve some for your own interests and for needed relaxation. It is a rare man who can say "no" at the right moment.

YOU BORN TODAY possess many talents, an admirable sense of duty and, in good health, are endowed with the energy for doing. You can succeed in a supervisory post, will work diligently to that end. You are lavishly just and steady-going. Rightly educated, you make devoted lifemates, ideal companions, though may never learn to like tedious chores of home or office. You love children, animals; are kind to the elderly. Birthdate of: Louis Pasteur, French chemist; Johannes Kepler, German astronomer.

MAY SETTLE IN U.S.

SOUTHAMPTON (CP) — Capt. Harry Grattidge, retiring master of the 83,000-ton liner Queen Elizabeth, says he may settle down in the United States, but refused to give any details. Grattidge gave his last orders from the bridge when the liner docked here Monday night. He now is retiring as commodore of the Cunard Steam-ship Company fleet, after 48 years at sea, 40 of them with Cunard.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Ribbiter

You can play a mean trick on a bridge opponent, the meanest legitimate trick I know. Give him enough rope to hang himself and watch him slowly torture his partner with a suicide squeeze.

The enough rope is a type of play that develops when an opponent has a long suit that he is leading. Kept up long enough it may squeeze his partner out of suit prematurely.

Get a load of the deal you see here:

South was declarer at the notrump. West made the natural opening lead of the diamond king. South refused this first trick.

When west led diamonds again and east fell out, South won it with his ace. Taking stock, declarer could see three spades, two hearts, two clubs, and the diamond ace, eight tricks only.

Hope of a ninth trick soon enough is not evident. Unless someone makes a mistake or otherwise hands him a trick. So, south threw west back in with a diamond and waited to see what would happen.

West did the most obvious thing under the circumstances, cashing his remaining diamonds. While he was doing this, dummy shifted from the south let go of a heart.

But look at what east was up against all this time. On two of the diamond leads, east gave up a heart and a club. What could he do on the fourth and fifth rounds of diamonds?

If he gives up a club again, he will let south take the third club trick. If he gives up another heart, south will get a third heart trick. If he gives up a spade, dummy gets the fourth spade.

By the time west takes his fourth diamond, east is absolutely helpless. There is nothing he can hold or cast that will prevent declarer from taking a club trick. He is suicide squeezed. And the homicide squad cannot get you for this.

PLAN TO ATTEND - BELLE NEW YEAR'S EVE FROLIC

By LORNA BOONE

NEVVY WISHED his worn shoes wouldn't make so much noise on the cobblestoned alley. In the darkness, he saw the discarded Christmas tree standing tall beside a trash barrel and even the rank odors of the alley could not drown out the faint fragrance of pine needles.

Nevvy shivered, taking his hands from the dubious protection of his pockets to pull his one written on. The , tree, his tree. (Just as he hefted it, he heard a shout.) Someone was coming down the path that led from the big house to the alley.

For an eleven-year-old Nevvy was fast, but the shout came again and then hard, pounding steps. Then, abruptly, he stopped as a large hand grasped his shoulder.

The grip on Nevvy's thin shoulder tightened as a loud voice demanded, "Where're you going with our tree?"

Nevvy twisted around to face a husky boy in a letterman's sweater. "You threw it out."

"Does that mean you can take it?" You alley kids start in young."

"It wasn't stealing," angrily, Nevvy heard his voice shake. "Tomorrow the trash man would have got it."

The light from a neon sign spot-lighted them. "You are young," the boy said, letting him go.

"Thirteen," Nevvy spoke quickly.

Just as he hefted it, he heard a shout. Someone was coming down the path.

"Don't lie," the older boy countered sharply. "Look, this is my tree."

"All right, so I'm eleven and I know's it's your tree."

"But today's the third of January," the boy said, in a friendlier voice. "What do you want an old dead tree for anyway?"

Nevvy wanted to say "You couldn't understand," but then he looked at the tree, still green and fragrant even if the needles were shattering, and spoke carefully. "We haven't had Christmas at our house yet and. . . and we need a tree."

"That's tough," the boy said, "how come?"

"Reasons."

"Tell me why or I won't give you this tree."

Nevvy let the tree go, watched it rock back and forth on its standard, and, thinking of his mother, hardened his voice. "Reason we didn't have a tree is we couldn't afford it. No job for my dad, no dough. And the reason we didn't have any Christmas sooner was because of my mother. She was in the hospital having a baby. Then they let my mother come home, right before New Year's, 'cause there wasn't anybody to keep care of the little kids 'cept me when my dad was job hunting."

"Tell me the rest," the boy said, "please."

"Not much to tell. Only the hospital kept the baby 'cause it's premature and they aren't sure it's going to live. But the little kids—there's five of them—promised them Christmas and we're gonna have it. I was going to take this tree home for a starter. Me and my dad have been making presents, but, my gosh, you gotta have a tree! Even they know that."

The boy was quiet a long time. Then, "Your brothers and sisters still believe in Santa Claus?"

"Oh, sure. I gave them a story about Santa Claus waiting until my mother got home to come to our house. They're beginning to wonder though.

"Listen," the boy's voice was eager, "let me be Santa, will you? We have a suit I could wear with some pillows. How about it?"

Nevvy felt the boy's enthusiasm. "Sure," he answered, offhandedly. "If you want to." Inside he was thinking how thrilled the kids would be.

"That'll be keen," the boy said. "Are you sure you don't mind?"

Nevvy knew then that the boy really wanted to do it. "Heck, no," he said sincerely, "they'll love it. Look, I'll give you the address and you come down in an hour—I'll leave the toys outdoors for your pack. Oh, and I'll have the window—the front one—open for you. It'll take me awhile to get the tree up."

"Swell," the boy sounded excited.

"Merry Christmas." Nevvy called after him and picked their Christmas tree up, not caring how much noise his shoes made as he ran down the alley.

The Mystery of God's Firmament

The "Star" which signaled "the wanderer" we derive our word "planets."

The Star of Bethlehem could have been any of these. It could even have been a "new star" or nova which suddenly burst forth with a many-thousand-fold increase in brilliance, due to some great stellar catastrophe. There are all explanations of what the "star" could have been. Had it been any of the above, it would have been seen by many peoples, and in literature would have been found references to the appearance of the object which attracted attention. But nowhere in the literature or in the folklore of any of the peoples noted as astute observers of celestial phenomena do these references exist.

From this we are forced to conclude the appearance of the star was a sign given only to the Wise Men to see.

Homemade SANTA

By ANCEL BEAUREGARD

Harvey Butler ran a chapped hand through the lank brown hair that fell over his forehead and stared contemptuously at Jack and Gordon Linter. Their blue eyes were on him, wide and questioning.

"You sure there ain't no Santa Claus?" six-year-old Gordon asked worriedly.

Harvey laughed. Course the Linters were little kids, six and seven, but they ought to know better. "You think I'd be parading around in split-out jeans an' a patched shirt if there was?"

"Probably Santa Claus is bringing you new ones for Christmas," Jack said hopefully.

Harvey sneered, thinking of the barren Christmases at his house. They were lucky if they had a tree even. This year on account of his little sister—just over three now—mom had said they'd try to have some presents. "Any new clothes I get we buy," he said, "as' usually I just get my cousin's old stuff hand-me-downs, mom calls them."

"Well," again Gordon looked hopeful, "that doesn't mean anything. Mostly Santa brings toys, not clothes."

"Not to me, he doesn't. I tell you there isn't a Santa Claus except for your folks."

Gordon's eyes filled with tears and Jack looked like crying. "Are you sure?" he asked, his voice quavering. "Your little sister told me Santa Claus—Kaws she calls him—is coming to your house."

The wind seemed to whistle through all the holes and thin places in Harvey's clothes. "Carol said that? Honest?"

"Yeah," Jack said, "you know how funny she talks. She said he was coming through the door, 'cause you don't have a chimney, when the lights are out and bring her a doll and some other things."

"What things?" Cry and remember." Harvey felt chilled. If Carol was expecting Santa Claus, [illegible]

"You were just kidding us, weren't you, Harvey? There really is a Santa Claus!"

"Sure, I guess there's a Santa Claus, but sometimes he doesn't get to all the houses. Like Carol said, we don't have a chimney for him to come down, so he probably missed us a couple of times."

The light was back in the boys' eyes. "Sure, that's it. What're ya making that scowly face for, Harvey?"

This time Harvey chose his words carefully. "Well, he might miss our house again this year and Carol'll sure be disappointed, so I was trying to think how I could see she got what she wanted. I think I can make her a wagon at the Boys' Club and a wooden cradle. You think that'd work?"

"Sure," Gordon agreed enthusiastically, "long as she thinks Santa brought them, she won't know the difference."

"What about the doll and the tricycle? You can't make those," Jack pointed out.

Harvey shivered, leaning against the board fence. "Mom gave me a weary for a haircut that I could use for a doll." Usually Mom gave him haircuts 'cause they were as expensive but she had a burned hand now.

"Hey Jack," Gordon shouted excitedly, "how about that old trike in the garage! Harvey could fix the wheel. . . ."

"Sure," Gordon answered, "and I'll bet we can find some red paint."

"And we could make her some blocks at the Boys' Club easy," and Harvey shoved his hands in his pockets, swallowing quickly. 'Gee, that'd be fine, she doesn't have any now. See you later."

"Come on, Gordon," he heard Jack yell happily, "let's go find that trike."

As Harvey hurried toward the barber shop, he was glad he had not persuaded them there wasn't a real Santa Claus. It didn't seem to matter so much with all of them trying to make Carol happy. That was the way Christmas should be.

A JOYOUS, BLESSED CHRIST-MAS TO ONE AND ALL!

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A blessed day, and may you and yours enjoy it fully, sanely, with charity and generosity in your heart. Grand planetary influences to encourage useful and pleasant activities. Pray.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — All planets favorably aspected this Christmas Day. All in free lands should thank God for our many blessings. Pray more earnestly for those who have no freedom.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — In your happiness with loved ones, remember children's and old-folks' interests, and those not so favored as you. There is much happiness in aiding others.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — You should feel inner contentment today, and you kindly, charitable folks will likely extend yourselves for others' comfort and pleasure. God will bless you for it. Go to your church.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Your Sun and other planets, in fine positions, are encouraging for essential tasks and holiday activities, stress religious services, happy domestic affairs. There are many ways to aid the lonely.

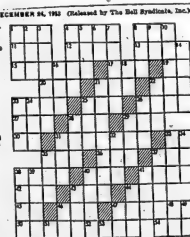
August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—You can lend your generous and thoughtful efforts to children's affairs, to bring happiness to family and friends. Brighten your own outlook with prayer, rest and wholesome fun.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Do not forget the significance of this Feast of the Nativity! Let us try to keep the sense of peace, cheer and goodness we feel now with us all through the coming year.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Mars negative in tendency which guarantees a peaceful, happy day. Other planets in fine aspect. Many you and your dear ones enjoy this day; pray for others.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—It is indeed wonderful to know the story of the Christ Child which has come to us through the centuries and still heartens, strengthens us to carry on in a good way of life.

Let us pay due rallying aspects.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Happy Indications. Your Saturn and other planets in homage to the Babe at Bethlehem, not only for today but always. Let His holy life be our beacon.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You have many fine qualities and today brings them out. It can be a useful, pleasant and inspiring day on the whole. Remember the ill and lonely with practical kindness in His Name.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—All of us, regardless of title, perhaps, should hold head high and look forward with hope and faith this most important of all birthdays! And remember, He will never fail us.

YOU BORN TODAY are strong-minded, reliable, sometimes too serious, yet innately fair, charitable, unselfish. You should feel it a great privilege to have been born on so great and holy a day! Try your best to emulate at least some of His beautiful qualities—be humble, patient, endure life's responsibilities without complaint. Continue learning, gather all the worthwhile knowledge you can, and always aid others as you climb upward toward success and achievement. Birthdate of Our Savior, Jesus Christ; of Richard Person, Eng. classical scholar; Sir Isaac Newton, discoverer of gravity.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, DEC. 26, 1953:

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A steady stand and calm disposition will carry you through day's rough spots, especially in the a.m. Don't be one to make up your mind before conditions are thoroughly understood.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — At first glance the outlook may tend to throw you off balance. Be careful. Think back What happened last time similar conditions came up? Make use of your personality, humor.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — A so-so day. Could be okay, then again the opposite It behooves one to be alert, ready to act on short notice, but with caution, adherence to sound, fundamental rules.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may have to adhere strictly to routine duties today. There may be some hidden contention, conflict with your plans, but both can be overcome.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't let things confuse you and, if a situation seems difficult, talk matters over with loved ones, friends. There's always a way, and tomorrow's another day.

August 24 to September 22 (Virgo) — You may have to call upon all your wits and powers to counteract opposition now. Combine your natural dexterity and reasoning power to bridge obstacles more quickly.

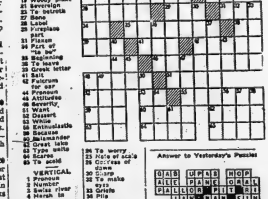
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Libra symbolizes balance, something of power; you can overcome hazards with determination, intelligence, but you must keep cultivating these gifts.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A progressive day. Starts slowly, tempo accentuates as day unfolds. Guard against laxness, letting things take their course. That's not like the real you!

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—You may need some prodding, an extra push to gather significance of possibilities. Aspects offer little encouragement. Realize this and you can help things along with extra effort.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Commercial, professional, general business affairs at almost level keel now. Whether they are made better or worse depends on you. Thought, time and patience are needed to achieve.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Most activities should progress; stars indicate an upward trend for well-managed endeavors. Research, wise counsel needed plus sensible procedure. Act with diwatch.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Not much of a day for new, untried ventures/ions. Interest yourself in others and you will gain unexpected benefits. Give thanks for blessings.

YOU BORN TODAY are ambitious, systematic and seldom go into needless debt or are extravagant. You can make what the sounds of your capacity to deliver, thus avoid trouble in business or personal affairs. You make able leaders, organizers, natural executives; can make good friends, but can cause unhappiness if you are sensitive to criticism of your own faults while caustic in your correction of others. Mastering self could make a great change in your personal happiness and health. Avoid melancholy. Birthdate: George Dewey, famed American naval officer; Thomas Gray, English poet.

Mass Street Parade to Be Staged Sunday

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CLC), striking against Noranda mines, have reacted against a planned back-to-work vote. The citizens' committee with a twin counter-move of its own.

The union leaders said Wednesday night there will be a mass street parade Sunday afternoon during the voting hours and a union-sponsored vote to be held Monday.

The citizens' committee, headed by Guy Delisle, Union-Nationale member of the Quebec legislature assembly for Rouyn-Noranda, has announced it will conduct a vote Sunday and Monday on a company offer of a 7½-per-cent-an-hour wage increase for the 1,600 workers.

The committee says the "majority" of the 24,000 citizens of Noranda and Rouyn are against the wage strike of the workers at Canada's biggest base metal mine. The steelworkers walked out Aug. 21 asking higher wages, a shorter work week and revocable voluntary checkoff of union dues.

DIRECTOR APPOINTED

LONDON (CP) — The Commonwealth Development Finance Company, an organization formed nearly a year ago to promote investment in Commonwealth countries, has announced the appointment of J. G. Bevoor as managing director. Bevoor is active in London financial circles and in 1947 was an adviser at the Marshall Plan conference.

THREE SAILORS KILLED

LONDON (Reuters)—Three sailors were killed and two injured when the 286-ton liaible freighter Francesca sank in the Adriatic Tuesday a few minutes after a compressed-air container in the ship's motor exploded. The two injured men were taken to a hospital at Sibenik on the Yugoslav coast. Three others were rescued.

Garden Notes

Your December Garden Almanac

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Gather evergreen branches for the house, for outdoor planter boxes and for your window boxes. Mix in some barberries, bitter sweet, mountain ash, and English ivy. The evergreens may come from your own evergreens, if you trim them with an eye to improving their shape and size. Evergreen branches may be bought on the market, or buy an extra Christmas tree and use that, and the branches you trim off your indoor tree to balance it and make it fit into the position you have selected for it.

Use the branches to trim the arch, the mantel, or to put in large jars, or baskets. Cut doors in window boxes, and planters they will keep their warm green color for several months and add a welcome touch for the bleak months of winter.

Don't forget to knock snow gently off your evergreens. A thaw and a freeze and the branches become so heavy they break.

House plants should be sprayed once a week with warm clear water to keep their leaves in good condition. African violets will also welcome a tepid spray. Make a collar of heavy waxed paper and slip it over the top of the soil and under the leaves. Aim the spray at an angle and do not allow much water to reach the soil. Ivies and smooth leaved plants will thrive on regular applications of leaf lacquer. This is a new liquid prepared for plants to supply nutrients and a shiny surface to leaves. Ask for it at your local florist, or seed store.

Indoor plants need regular feedings with a balanced nutrient. There are many new fertilizers in liquid, or powdered forms which will keep your plants in condition, and make them worthy of display.

For those little extra gifts from the garden accessory department. Buy the current copy of a garden magazine to tuck into dad's stocking and then if he likes it get him a subscription for it. "The Flower Grower" is one of the best. A book on flower arrangement will please the Madam, and you might like to make it a multiple gift by adding a planter, or ceramic jar, and a long nosed water pot to make the job of watering pooles easy.

Then if there is any time left you might spend a warmish day pruning up the shrubs and vines around the garden. Do not prune spring flowering plants. With the leaves off you can shape the skeleton to more graceful lines and remove any damaged, or diseased wood.

Remember, if you use salt for sidewalks to take off snow and ice the salt solution will not only damage the lawn grass, but will destroy soil structure. It causes puddling or running together.

SHANNONVILLE

SHANNONVILLE — Mrs. Albert Spencer was hostess to the members of the Guild of Holy Trinity Church on Wednesday evening for an enjoyable Christmas party. The program for the evening consisted of games, contests and the singing of Christmas carols, with Mrs. Herbert Houston as accompanist. Presentations were made to Mrs. J. Kent and Rev. and Mrs. L. Page. There was also an exchange of gifts among the members. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

On Friday another pleasant evening was spent at Mrs. Spencer's home when 30 boys and girls of the Sunday School gathered there for a Christmas party. The children played games and sang carols. Each child received gifts and refreshments were served. Mrs. Willis Wilson and Mrs. Walter Brant assisted Mrs. Spencer in giving this party.

Mrs. William Cole, of Guelph, is spending a couple of weeks with her sister, Mrs. Earl Vivian, and Mr. Vivian.

Mrs. W. D. Robertson spent the lunch hour on Wednesday with Mrs. and Mrs. Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burtt are spending two weeks' vacation with members of their family in St. Catharines.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Foote and daughter Esther of West Marlinburg, N.Y., were recent callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Spencer.

The local post office has been a busy place with the handling of the abundance of Christmas mail.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Morgan (nee Marlene Brown) who were recently married in St. Thomas' Church, Belleville.

Miss Mary Vivian, Reg. N., is spending the Christmas holidays at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. Vivian.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Craig and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keirl were the guests on Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Doxtator.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Sager were at home to their many friends and relatives on Sunday, December 20th on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

There was a good attendance at the Christmas and White Gift service in the United Church on Sunday evening. The church was nicely decorated with lighted Christmas trees and a basket of lovely red and white carnations. The choir assisted with the music, with Tommy Hindley as soloist, who sang the Christmas carol "Silent Night." A very interesting and impressive sermon was given by Rev. L. Scott. Another solo, "O, Herdsman Fold to Thy Heart Thy Brother," was nicely sung by Tommy during the ceremony of the lighting of the candles and the presentation of white gifts at the altar. Joan Ellis, Marian Mastin, Beverly Mastin and Gail Juby assisted with this part of the service.

Baskets containing these gifts are packed by the members of the Women's Association and given to the elderly and sick people in the community at Christmas time.

NECESSARY SOCIETY

LONDON (CP)—J. A. Boyd-Carpenter, financial secretary to the treasury, told the Income Tax Payers' Society he doesn't see any tax changes coming up "of such a drastic nature" as to render the society unnecessary. His remark won a headline: "Hollow laugh of the year."

CATS STOLEN

BRISTOL (CP)—More than 30 cats have been stolen here during the last two months. Police believe the cats are being seized for their pelts by an organized gang.

CORNS POISONOUS

BRISTOL, England (CP)—British housewives who put "hacky" sticky-pieces in the Christmas pudding are warned by city analyst E. G. Whittle that coins minted after 1946 contain an alloy which might cause poisoning.

ONE OF THEM

By ANNE O'SULLIVAN

Hesitant but determined, Ransome had brought his fiancee, Hilda, home for Christmas to his parents' mountain ranch. Now, on Christmas Eve, Bridget his young school-teaching sister, and Gloria his white-collared sister, sat in the pine-panelled living room, admiring the yes undecorated Christmas tree. And Hilda seemed to be getting along particularly well with Gloria, the ambitious, the contemptuous sister whose city veneer denied her mountain heritage.

He was the first to stir from the surprising but comfortable dark "I'll take care of it, Ma," he called toward the kitchen, "probably just a blown out fuse."

"Wouldn't you know it!" Gloria's voice rose sharply, complainingly.

"Hear that wind?" Ma said with the low, pleasant chuckle that characterized her to her family.

Pa, armed with a lantern, stamped in the back door, shedding snow as he shook his heavy jacket off. "Brr, a real snow-piling easterner, but the animals are all right."

"Did you check the fuse box, Pa?" Ran asked.

"Not much use—the wind probably took care of a transformer. What's the matter, boy? When you were living at home we didn't even have electricity."

"Yeah, well, we still got plenty of lanterns around!"

"I wish you'd let me help," Hilda said.

"Long as we got horsecome, we'll keep the lanterns ready," it was Ma's turn to laugh. "Likely our light'll be off two-three more times this winter."

"It's that Hilda he's thinking of," Pa said shrewdly. "Let's go in with the girls, She's a fine girl, lonesome."

"We can't trim the tree, Pa, when the light strings won't work," Gloria sounded petulant, dissatisfied. Was Hilda disappointed too? Ran wondered.

Ma and Pa laughed, "You sure have the all fireiest short memory!"

"Remember the times we trimmed the tree with popcorn balls and all?" Bridget asked. "Let's do it tonight, shall we, Ma?"

"Why, of course, Pa and I'd get a sight of pleasure out of that. How about you, Hilda?"

"I'd like to help." To Ran she sounded enthusiastic, but maybe it was just politeness.

"A sight more work too," Gloria pointed out. "Why you won't move. . . ."

"I'll need another lantern for the kitchen, Pa, if I'm to string cranberries," Bridget interrupted restfully.

Ran knelt beside the deep fireplace, built by his great-grandfather, to stir the coals. As a boy he had risked burning himself to pop corn in a frying pan; now they had a long-handled popper. The angry surge of wind reassured him in a strange way. He was at home. Safe and protected. If only Hilda could share his feeling for this place. . . .

He leaned on his heels, whistling, as the kernels began to pop. "I wish you'd let me help," Hilda said, "Bridget sent me in with a bowl, salt and butter."

Ran moved aside, finding it natural for Hilda to kneel and work beside him. Her eyes sparkled and her face was flushed in the firelight, but Ran missed his chance to ask if she were happy when Bridget summoned them to string popcorn.

Gloria held up a string of popcorn. "Not half so pretty as tinsel."

"Means more," Bridget said. "Seems like popcorn strings have a special beauty—the kind you can't buy."

Soon the Christmas tree was festooned with string of popcorn and cranberries. It looked beautiful to Ran even before they moved presents beneath. He caught the satisfaction on everyone's face, though Gloria still looked cynical.

Just then Hilda rushed out of the room and went upstairs. When she came back, she paused haltingly in the doorway, an accordion in her arms, "I thought you'd have a piano and, now that the radio's off, maybe you'd like some carols? It's been such a perfect evening."

Ran knew then, as he guided her into the circle and saw the family make way for her, that Hilda was one of them and his voice rose exultantly in "O, Come All Ye Faithful."

God Bless Christmas

"There are many things from which I might have derived good, but which, I have no doubt, I dare say," returned the nephew. "Christmas among the rest. But I am sure I have always thought of Christmas time, when it has come around, as a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time; and, therefore, uncle, though it had never put a scrap of gold or silver in my pocket, I say, God bless it!"—Charles Dickens. "A Christmas Carol."

A Christmas Message

"Fear not for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy . . . For unto you is born this day . . . a Saviour.'

Little wonder Christmas is so joyous an occasion bringing with it such timely messages as 'fear not — good tidings — great joy — a Saviour.'

On that first Christmas, the humble and the mighty, the rich and the poor, the young and the old, bowed to worship and adore the Christ. They rejoiced in the message of the angels for it met a need in the hearts of all.

As these ancient messages ring out through the needy world this Christmas-tide may they give hope and faith and love to all men everywhere, and bring each to worship and adore at the manger of the Christ Child.

As the Christmas candles are lighted may they shine through the darkness of hate and greed to lighten the hearts of all men, guiding them to the feet of the Christ, the Light to lighten all the world.

To all, we wish for you joy this Christmastide, and may that joy which fills your heart make your life so radiant that all who come within its glow may be lifted to that joy and peace proclaimed by the angels so long ago.

TTC Is Planning 3 More Subways In Next 10 Years

Additions Would Cost Toronto $113,500,000

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto transportation system hopes to build three more subways during the next 10 years to give the city a total of 19¾ miles of underground railway.

W. E. P. Duncan, TTC general manager, said today the proposed additions to the Yonge St. line, which goes into operation next March 7, would cost about $113,500,000 at today's prices.

The Yonge St. north - south line, a 4¼-mile subway from Union station to Eglinton Ave., will be the city's first.

Additions planned are an eight-mile route running east and west in midtown Toronto, a 5¾-mile section running east and west through the heart of downtown Toronto along Queen St. and a 1½-mile north-south route in downtown Toronto along University Ave. a half-mile west of Yonge.

Authorities Know Man Who Mailed Burgess' Letter

LONDON (Reuters) — The Sunday Chronicle said Sunday security authorities have traced the man who mailed a letter in southeast London last Monday on behalf of Guy Burgess, the missing British diplomat.

The letter was a Christmas greeting from Burgess to his mother, Mrs. J. R. Bassett. It was the first news of him since he disappeared in May, 1951, with his foreign office colleague Donald Maclean.

The Sunday Chronicle said M.I.5, Britain's security organization, knows a top British Communist but back from Czechoslovakia brought the letter into England and mailed it in southeast London. He has committed no offence and can not be prosecuted.

Russians Free 1,463 Germans Held Since War

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians have released another 1,463 Germans held in the Soviet Union since the war, the German Red Cross in Berlin disclosed today.

The latest transport arrived last week at the Polish-East German border and some of the repatriates are in Berlin and West Germany already.

The group brings to 7,500 the number of German prisoners of war and former civilian employees of the Third Reich turned loose by the Russians as part of last summers announced amnesty of minor war criminals. The Red Cross said about 400 of the newest arrivals want to remain in Berlin, 720 in the Soviet zone and the remainder want to go to West Germany. Among the latest returnees were almost 400 women and children.

MANY STILL HELD

Earlier this month, West German representatives told the UN General Assembly in New York that 109,858 German ex-soldiers and 133,000 German civilians were in Soviet custody up to Sept. 1.

Marriage Links Royal Families

BOURG-ZM - BRESSE, France (AP)—The royal families of Austria-Hungary and Italy were linked today by the marriage of Archduke Robert of Hapsburg to statesque Princess Marguerite of Savoy-Aosta in the little market town's city hall.

Hundreds of Austrians and Italians still loyal to the now defunct crowns of their nations swelled the crowds of curious who stood in a cold mist outside the 18th century hall.

Archduke Robert, 38 and six-foot-two, is second in line for the Hapsburg throne, which toppled at the end of the First World War. Princess Marguerite, 22, and a stately six feet tall herself, is farther down the list. She inherited not the crown of Italy, which was abolished after the Second World War.

FOUR RESCUED AFTER SIX DAYS IN FROZEN NORTH

Plane Missing Since Last Monday in Bush

WINNIPEG (CP)—Four persons rescued Sunday from their snow-bound plane after spending Christmas in frozen northeastern Manitoba, can give thanks today to the sharp eye of an RCAF navigator.

The rescue came one day too late for a baby born to an Indian passenger during the six-day ordeal.

The light Central Northern Airways plane, missing since last Monday in the bush country 340 miles north of Winnipeg, was piloted by Paul Hickey, 27, of Winnipeg and was carrying Mrs. Annanias Harper and her two children, Elizabeth, 4, and Joseph, 6, from God's Lake.

It was first sighted by FO. R. B. Dafoe of Winnipeg, a navigator who was one of six spotters aboard a Dakota search plane.

"Look, look," he shouted to his pilot, Flt. Lt. O. Korol of Winnipeg, who immediately began to circle contact with the missing craft's headphones at Island lake, 90 miles south. Korol kept his Dakota circling above the area until the CNA sent another ski-equipped plane to pick up the survivors. They were taken to God's Lake hospital.

Then word was passed on that a child born Tuesday to Mrs. Harper had died Saturday.

CARIBOU FOOD FROM

Hickey apparently became lost late Monday after by-passing his destination, Island Lake, on a 35-mile flight from Bigstone lake. Thinking it would be best to wait until dawn to try to find his way, he landed his light plane on a lake and landed under some trees at the shoreline. He had plenty of gas in the tank, but the plane was equipped with emergency rations, heaters and sleeping bags.

The next day, Mrs. Harper gave birth to a child, another and the mercury plunged to the 40-below-zero level.

Rescue Vessels Pick Last 43 From Lifeboats

NEW YORK (AP)—Rescue vessels plucked the last of 43 persons from open lifeboats on icy, wind-lashed North Atlantic seas Sunday, hours after the coast guard cutter Yakutat's engineers' freighter had split in two.

Rescue operations, hampered by a heavy sea, were completed by the U.S. military air transport ship Bluejacket and the Finnish freighter Orion.

The ships then continued toward their European destinations. But the Bluejacket was forced about 5 miles before huge waves made it pull up to ride out the storm.

The Bluejacket was first on the scene after the Swedish freighter Stureholm sent out distress signals. The U.S. vessel took 26 of the Stureholm's crew and reported all in good condition.

The seven on the Orion could also be assumed to be unhurt, a coast guard spokesman said.

ALL CREW SAVED

The 43 survivors, including one stewardess, were the entire crew of the Yakutat except the only person aboard. The coast guard said all are believed to be Newfoundlanders.

A message from the Bluejacket quoted the Oklahoma's skipper, Capt. Lawrence Hall, as saying the vessel broke in two about midnight. The crew gathered on the after section but had to abandon it when the engine started taking water.

Efforts to find the ship later were unsuccessful. Lt. Kutschbach messaged the ship's general freight agents, Furness Withy and Company of New York, that it had probably sunk. However, a coast guard spokesman said the search would continue today.

Kutschbach gave the position of the Oklahoma when she split as 200 miles off the coast of Newfoundland. The 3,800-ton vessel was headed from Sweden to Baltimore with a miscellaneous cargo.

HEADS SUDAN FORCES

CAIRO (Reuters) — Col. Abdel Fattah Hassan, commander-in-chief of Egyptian armed forces in the Sudan, has been appointed Egyptian deputy minister for Sudan affairs, it was announced Sunday night. He will help Maj. Salah Salem, minister of National Guidance who is also minister in charge of Sudan affairs.

Some May Have Been Trapped in Fire Which Swept City Block in Holyoke

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP)—A predawn fire raged through a block of apartments and stores today, endangering the lives of 75 persons including many women and children before it was brought under control.

Four hours after the flames destroyed the four-storey structures —four connecting buildings formed a city block on high street— only two persons were unaccounted for.

Fire Chief John Rohan said "some may be trapped in the fire but we can't be sure yet. My men can't get in yet through those flames."

The fire was still out of control some three hours after the first alarm was sounded.

Six ambulances carried some 30 persons to Providence hospital. Doctors said most of them were suffering from varying stages of smoke inhalation. Few appeared to be burned.

Hollinger Miners Accept Proposals for Settling Strike

TIMMINS (CP)—The first real break in the long strike by gold miners in this northern Ontario district has come.

Some 1,500 employees of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Limited voted almost unanimously Sunday night to accept an agreement based on proposals worked out at conferences held under provincial government sponsorship between officials of the mining company and of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

The agreement ending the work stoppage which began March 1 and 2 weeks ago includes an 18-month contract—the company asked for a two-year term and the union for one year—and for an hourly wage increase of five cents an hour but no checkoff of union dues. The union had sought a "substantial" wage boost.

A new contract is expected to be signed between company and union today or Tuesday.

The Christmas week-end accord raised hopes of labor peace at seven other mines employing a total of about 2,500 men. They are Preston East Dome, McMillan Yuvgoure, Ronalan Reef, Aunor, Hallnor, Coniaurum and Upper Canada, of which have been idle since mid-July.

Union officials in Toronto last week wired the managements of these seven mines a request for meetings aimed at ending the strikes.

Meanwhile, a settlement offer also is being considered in North-western Quebec where 1,000 men are involved in the big Noranda mines have been on strike for four months. The company has offered a wage increase of 7½ per cent. A Rouyn-Noranda citizens' committee arranged a vote for Sunday and today on whether the miner employees favor or reject acceptance. When the polling places closed at 8 p.m. (EST) 1,600 votes had been cast.

The union announced plans to hold its own vote today.

South Koreans Displeased As 2 U.S. Divisions to Leave

SEOUL (AP)—President Eisenhower's announced plan to reduce United States military forces in Korea, which includes divisions to be withdrawn "soon," was received unenthusiastically and unfavorably by South Korean officials.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, UN commander of the U. S. Army forces in Korea, said "it may be safely assumed that the withdrawal of these divisions will not affect men with combat experience in the war in Korea. Such men will be transferred from the designated divisions to other outfits in favor of men whose tours are about over."

Officials in the government of South Korean President Syngman Rhee who previously have carried on truce and favors resumption of the war against the Reds, criticized Eisenhower's plan.

Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai said it would "seriously affect the position and indicated he felt South Korean troops were not ready to remaining.

into the gap.

"We do not welcome any UN decisions being withdrawn, especially when their replacements have not been built with Korean person and by Korean armed men."

Both Pyun and the South Korean prime minister, Yong Chan Paik, said they had not been notified of U.S. President Eisenhower's announcement.

The U. S. has eight ground divisions in Korea. There was speculation that the 25th division would be one of those pulled out.

A army officer predicted that if the troops are withdrawn by divisions, the order probably would be that after the Second World War would be followed by the men with the most service in Korea would be transferred to the division to be with him and comparatively new men would be switched to the units

Former Mines Minister Dies In Nova Scotia

NEW GLASGOW (CP)—Michael Dwyer, 78, a bull-shouldered Irishman who came to Nova Scotia as a boy of seven and became probably the province's best known mines minister, died early today after a short illness.

Mr. Dwyer was known as "Mike" in Nova Scotia colliery towns where he was born and in many distances between miners and operators. His fame spread beyond the province when he led the historic River mine rescue operations in 1936.

Mr. Dwyer was mines minister from 1923 until 194., when he resigned to be appointed Nova Scotia general manager of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company at Trenton, N. S.

MAYOR IN TWO CENTRES

He was mayor of Glace Bay and of Sydney Mines in 1926 and was elected to the provincial legislature in 1928 under the administration of Premier Angus L. Macdonald, took office in 1933.

He was mayor of New Glasgow in 1945-46.

Mr. Dwyer was a self-styled history student who challenged the accuracy of J. B. McGeachy's book claims the Royal William was the first steamer to cross the Atlantic. He said weeks of research convinced him the first was the 124-ton Cape Breton.

Mr. Dwyer is survived by his widow, the former Beatrice Campbell of New Glasgow.

ROBBER SHOT

CLERMONT GERRARD, France (Reuters) — Jean Dubuffet Sunday while robbing the apartment of cafe owner Helene Brun in Clermont in France. Dubuffet had prepared to fight police with a revolver and a cartridge belt, police "threw tear gas into the apartment and fired a burst from a sub-machine gun. He was taken to hospital with a bullet wound in his thigh.

BLAST KILLS TWO

GALLIPOLI, Italy (AP) — A woman and a boy were killed Sunday night and three others were severely injured when an explosion blew up a house in this south Italian port. Police said a large store of explosives intended for making homemade fireworks probably was responsible for the blast.

French Planes Hit Vietminh Forces in Laos

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP) — French fighters and bombers plastered Communist Vietminh headquarters of Laos today and French ground defenders of the little Indo-Chinese kingdom hastily strengthened key bases.

The French were reported concentrating south of Vietminh-held Sam Neua, capital of Laos' northern province. French reconnaissance units moving north from their base of Seno reported they had been unable to make contact with the rebel forces who lunged across Laos last week, cutting Indo-China in two at the narrow line in the seven-year-old war.

The French announced they had lost about a company of their own and North Laos troops in the Vietminh attack. The scouting units reported, however, they were encountering only scattered opposition in the area who had fled from the jungle at the Vietminh advance.

The Vietminh radio, meanwhile, claimed that the "greater part" of the Laotian troops under French command had deserted and joined the Red forces.

Freedom Party Will Boycott Queen's Welcome

KANDY, Ceylon (Reuters)—The Sri Lanka Freedom party decided unanimously today to boycott all ceremonies connected with the Queen Elizabeth's visit to Ceylon in April on her Commonwealth tour.

Premier John Kotelawala declared in a government policy statement on Nov. 24 that Ceylon values its membership in the Commonwealth and will give the Queen a warm and loyal welcome.

64 PERSONS DIE DURING HOLIDAY IN ACCIDENTS

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's long Christmas week end brought death by accident or violence to 64 persons.

A Canadian Press compilation today listed 43 deaths in street or highway mishaps from Christmas Eve, Thursday, until Sunday midnight. The others were from a variety of causes including falls, shooting, burns, suffocation, asphyxiation and drowning.

The four-day total compares with 96 deaths in the five-day Christmas week-end of 1952 when Christmas Day fell on Thursday.

The toll by provinces: Ontario, 22; Quebec, 8; British Columbia, 6; Alberta, 5; Nova Scotia, 5; Manitoba, 3; Saskatchewan, North-west Territories and New Brunswick, one each; Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, none.

Gerald Novak, 16, returned home from a Sunday outing and found his mother, Mrs. Mary Novak, 39, once Novak, dead from carbon monoxide poisoning in their Windsor, Ont., home. Police said fumes backed up into the house from a faulty furnace.

Also in Windsor, a car-truck collision killed Mrs. Victoria Lablelle, 30, a passenger in the truck.

Separate fires in Montreal and Montreal Saturday and Sunday took the lives of Romeo Vendette, 50, Gabriel Bellefeuille, 54, and Ernie Lafleur, one month.

Two Vancouver victims included Clare MacKay, 2, accidentally shot by a playmate, and Mrs. Ruth Hill, 28, west of Vancouver, and Paul Solecki, about 35, killed in a mining accident at Kimberley on Kootenay lake.

William Janeke was remanded until today for a court appearance at St. Catharines, Ont., on a charge of murdering his landlord, 76-year-old Alfred Hindres, who police said was bludgeoned to death after a carol-singing gathering Christmas Eve.

A murder charge also was laid against Norman Young, 36, of Fort William, as a result of the fatal shooting of his son, Daniel, 31, during a Christmas Day visit to the father's home. Young is scheduled to appear in court Dec. 3.

Car, Guns, Birds Confiscated By Game Warden

WINDSOR (CP) — Ontario game authorities said today that William Dunn, 41, of suburban Malden Mills was found in possession of two live pheasants during the week-end and that a car, guns and birds were confiscated. He will be prosecuted.

"We are determined to stamp out the practice of taking pheasants out of season," deputy game warden Harold Baker explained.

The deputy said that for some time game officials have heard on Boxing Day a favorite time for flaunting the law is to shoot pheasants.

The pheasant population is carefully guarded. At no time are hen pheasants allowed to be taken. Cock pheasants may be taken in a short season each year.

Detectives Bewildered as 71st Car Windshield Broken on Open Road

By DEREK JAMESON

LONDON (Reuters)—The phantom marksman of the London-Portsmouth highway struck again this week-end, shattering his 71st car windshield in a flash of orange light.

The latest victim, Andrew Wilson, a 30-year-old official of the Ford Motor Co., was driving on the rest. A sharp crack, then splinters of glass flashing into his lap.

"There was a bright orange flash," said Wilson, who was driving alone. "I think I'm involved or that there's malicious intent behind the incident."

That left theory No. 2—loose stones kicked up by passing cars. But the road was resurfaced in 1950 and there are few loose stones. And, in any case, why should stones fly only in daylight? To make sure, the road was swept daily.

Only the more romantic—and untested—theories remain. One is that mysterious supersonic waves unheard by ear shattered the windshields in much the same way that a vibrating tuning fork can smash a wine glass.

U.S.-Designed Grumman Planes For Canadian Navy

Will Be Used for Defence In Submarine Squadrons

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy's anti-submarine air squadrons will be rearmed with Grumman S2F aircraft, a twin-engined, high-wing monoplane designed specifically for carrier-borne operations against submarines, Defence Minister Claxton announced today.

It was learned from other sources that the first of the planes will be purchased within several years. Some will be assigned to the new carrier Bonaventure being built in Belfast and scheduled for delivery in late 1955.

Acquisition of the all-weather aircraft will complete the changeover of navy squadrons to new-type planes. The navy announced in November intention to make the change was made with the U.S. Navy to purchase W.H.2 Banshee all-weather jet fighters for carrier-borne fighter squadrons.

The navy's carrier air group is made up of No. 871 fighter squadron and No. 881 anti-submarine squadron which operate from the aircraft carrier Magnificent. One support air group, based at Summerside, P.E.I., is made up of No. 880 fighter squadron and No. 890 anti-submarine squadron.

BUILT IN CANADA

The aircraft will be built at the Toronto plant of de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., under a licence from the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation of Bethpage N.Y., and will be the first navy aircraft manufactured in Canada since 1945.

"The Grumman S2F will replace the Grumman Avenger, a Second World War piston-bomber made famed for service as an anti-submarine aircraft.

"The principal feature of the S2F is that it is the first comparatively small aircraft capable of meeting the modern requirements of actual anti-submarine warfare," Mr. Claxton said. "It has maneuverability similar to the short take-off run and low landing speed, and at the same time to carry all of the devices and weapons considered necessary for the efficient operation of modern anti-submarine search and attack tools."

Police Search For Motorist; Said Kidnapper

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto police said today they are searching for a motorist whom an 11-year-old girl reported kidnapped her in suburban Scarboro, assaulted her and then set her free.

The girl told police that the unidentified girl came home crying and said her parents had died when the car driver dragged her into the vehicle. She fought with him, managed to escape when he chased her and caught her again.

The girl reported she was taken to a lonely spot, assaulted by the man and then driven back to a spot near her home and set free.

Dead, Missing In Train Wreck Stands at 155

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (Reuters) Eleven passengers previously unaccounted for in the Christmas Eve rail disaster now are known to be safe.

They reduced the toll of dead and missing to 155 from the earlier estimated figure of 166.

Latest casualty figures announced by the disaster emergency committee tonight were:

Safe 123; bodies recovered 144; still missing 14.

Of the 114 bodies recovered, 83 have been identified.

The unidentified bodies will be buried at Wellington, Thursday, the emergency committee decided.

Three more bodies were recovered today from the Wairarapa river, into which the Wellington-to-Auckland express plunged from a wrecked bridge on Christmas Eve.

The search is continuing.

Mountaineers Sunday established that an eruption of the volcano Ruapehu as the cause of the disaster. In examining the summit of the mountain they found evidence of a volcanic upheaval which sent a great torrent of water down the mountainside to sweep away the bridge over which the ill-fated train was to have crossed.

Franco Predicts Surplus 1st Time Since Civil War

MADRID (AP) — Spanish taxpayers will have to dig deeper next year to meet the highest budget in Spain's history.

But there is good news for the national economy: Generalissimo Franco's government predicts a surplus in funds for the first time since the civil war.

The Cortes parliament unanimously approved last week a budget for 1954 of 60,007,777,853 pesetas—18 per cent higher than 1953—almed to leave a surplus of 1,628,184,000.

At a valuation of 3½ cents for the peseta, the budget is about about $650,519,000 and a surplus of $1,335,000. Defence costs will account for 20 per cent less than 30 per cent of the money. That is a drop of about 10 per cent from this year.

The United States is supplying Spain $226,000,000 by next June 30 under the 20-year aid-for-bases agreement signed here Sept. 26. Of this amount, $141,000,000 is for military equipment and the rest for agricultural commodities and in some way in the development of military strength.

Defence costs are duplicated each second year, so that for 1955 will be next the highest budget in

Name Caretaker Government For British Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Governor Sir Alfred Savage named a caretaker government Sunday night to replace the administration led by former prime minister Cheddi Jagan, ousted last October.

Jagan and five others of the cabinet, members of the Peoples Progressive party of Premier Jagan, discussed on charges they served Moscow instead of the Queen.

The PPP had won 18 of the 24 contested seats in the legislative assembly in elections last April. Seven PPP members were named in the new interim government. The governor gave this explanation:

"None of them has had the courage openly to declare himself opposed to Communist influence which presently dominates the party which has threatened a policy of non-co-operation.

TO BE WARDEN AGAIN

The governor was acting on a British government order of May 5 authorizing a caretaker administration under close British supervision.

The new interim constitution provides for a seven-member executive council and a legislative council.

Savage appointed Sir Frank McGrath, former financial secretary and treasurer, the post of minister of agriculture, forest, lands, and mines, the post once held by Jagan.

The governor appointed a 27-member legislative council including two women and 5 members of former legislatures.

St. Paul's Choirs, Stirling, Present Centennial Year Christmas Service

By MRS. PERCY MACHULLEN

Sunday evening, December 20, St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was filled with worshippers for the "Centennial Torch-Light Service". A large number of children were present from all nearby points.

At 7 p.m., the Christmas chimes rang out for a 15 minute period and were greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Robert A. Patterson led the carol singing and Rev. A. E. Baker presided over the service which was arranged in three parts.

Mrs. A. E. Baker presided at the organ and contributed several selections which included "Carol of Merry Christmas", "Noel", and a "Medley of Carols."

In Part I several uncommon carols were sung by the Young People's Choir, included a "Welsh French selection", "Angels", and "Wexford Carols." Three solo parts were taken by Dawn Hobbs as Carol Singer. An English carol, "A Virgin Unspotted" with solo parts by Wendy Warren, Carolyn Bedford and Marilyn Rose.

The Junior choir sang, "Christmas Bell". This group have just been members since September 1952 and under Mrs. Baker's guidance they are gaining poise and confidence.

The full Royal Junior choir rendered, "Hail, Holy Child" in French carol and a Polish selection with Allyn Warren taking the solo part. Mrs. Ralph Ingram was heard in a vocal solo, "The Holy Babe."

As the congregation sang, "Joy to the World," the choirs took their places in the various sections of the church for their singing backing from the loft.

Part II opened with the men of the choir singing a Russian carol. Under the moderator of the United Church of Canada the Rt. Rev. Lorne Leigh, Lake of the Woods, D.D., gave a Christmas message based on Jesus' life as a child and what His coming had meant to the Christian world.

Rev. Allan Francis manipulated the projector and the various pictures appeared on the screen above that followed with the choirs singing the lovely various Christmas selections.

THE CHRISTMAS CRIB

This was a Free Will Worship presentation in word, song and picture with Rev. A. E. Baker as narrator. As the lights were dimmed, and shortly earlier; it was the custom on great religious days to illustrate the gospel narrative with tableaux and song.

The first picture was the Annunciation, the angel Gabriel announcing to Mary the birth of Jesus. Later pictures showed the shepherds and their flocks, the journey to Bethlehem, the Wisemen, Herod, the Flight into Egypt, the Boy Jesus in the temple, and the Crucifixion.

The choirs sang, "Christmas Bell", "Silent Night", "Angels We Have Heard on High", "Away in a Manger", "Hark the Herald Angels Sing", and "O Come All Ye Faithful".

The Rt. Rev. Lorne Leigh pronounced the benediction.

Christmas Holiday Passes Quietly In This District

Christmas has come and gone for another 360 odd days. On the whole it was a quiet and rather uneventful Yule as compared to other years and places. No traffic accidents marred the festive day and police departments throughout this district reported "all quiet."

Firemen, for the most part were likewise unperturbed on Christmas Day. Three alarms were answered, two of which were of a minor nature and the third which occurred last night and proved to be a chimney fire.

Temperatures were mild and in keeping with the general peace of things. Snow was absent in the district.

Monday news was at a premium in the editorial offices of the newspapers. So little had happened during the long holiday week-end, reporters found themselves hard-pressed to dig up even the smallest item of local news.

The hospital emergency ward was relatively quiet during the week-end and only a few minor or cases attended according to an official at the hospital.

Despite the calm of the Belleville area, other parts of the province were not as well. A total of 64 Canadians lost their lives in traffic accidents, a few of whom were killed in Ontario. The city of Kingston accounted for 47 automobile accidents on the day before Christmas. In that city, police report only few accidents in Belleville over the week-end were out of a minor nature."

Many persons spent the holiday at the home of relatives in distant points as Florida. Generally, Christmas in Belleville was an extremely quiet holiday.

Napanee Girl Killed Instantly In Car Collision

The decision to take a bus instead of driving the family car to Kingston for a Christmas Eve party proved fatal for Mary Jane 17-year-old Napanee girl Thursday evening.

Mrs. Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Grant, R.R. 4, Napanee, was fatally injured as she and her sister Catherine, 19, alighted from the bus at the bus. The accident occurred about a mile east of Napanee when a car driven by a man with a pick-up truck crashed into the rear of the car in which the girls had been riding.

Two occupants of the pick-up truck including the driver, have said by provincial police to have fled the accident leaving an 11-year-old boy in the vehicle. The lad, identified as Glen Bruyea of Bath was taken to Kingston General Hospital. Later police apprehended Arthur Hegadorn, 50 of Bath and charged him with failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Father Charged With Slaying Of Own Son

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Norman Russell Young, a 39-year-old pulpwood cutter, was charged Thursday with murder in the slaying of his son, Norman, shot during a drinking party.

Young, a tall heavy-set man, appeared in magistrate's court and was remanded to Dec. 31 along with four men held as material witnesses.

The four—Thomas Kabalay, Fred Primeau, Robert Kishegwish and Joseph Kishegwish—were with Donald Young on a visit to the father's three-room house near Fort William.

Provincial police said the shooting followed an argument between the two men. They said they believe the weapon was a 22-calibre rifle they seized in the father's home.

Kabalay, owner of the car in which the body was found, told police he had been sleeping in the living room of Mrs. Norman Young and awakened by Mrs. Young crying that her husband had killed her son. He died shortly after 10 p.m. Friday.

When police arrived, Norman Young unlocked his door and came out of his shack in response to their call.

Mrs. Daniel Young, who has a seven-month-old baby and is expecting another child in the spring, told police her husband and his father and some other men had been drinking throughout Christmas Day.

Mrs. Norman Young said her son had no recollection of death. "It was very strange. He told me just a few days before that he felt he was going to die soon."

Dean of Western Newspapermen Dies in Brandon

BRANDON (CP)—The sprightly humor of William Noakes which brightened the editorial page of the Brandon Daily Sun for more than 30 years will no longer appear in print.

The 82-year-old dean of western newspaper men and editor of the Sun, whose column, "Sun Gleams," brought chuckles to readers throughout Canada, died Sunday in his sleep.

Mr. Noakes had appeared in good health while spending Christmas with his family. Previously, he had prepared editorials for today's paper.

Born in Burwash, Sussex, England, in 1871, Mr. Noakes started in the publishing business as an artist and engraver. He later worked in Ireland, the United States and Canada as a reporter, feature writer, desk man, press bureau editor and newspaper editor.

"The newspapers and news services where Mr. Noakes worked included: Hastings Observer, England; Lancashire Daily Post, Preston; Hull Daily Mail; Belfast Evening Telegraph; Toronto Globe; Ottawa Journal; Rochester Post-Express; Ottawa Citizen; Western Associated Press, Winnipeg; Regina Leader; The Canadian Press; and the Brandon Sun.

SAW TURBULENT TIMES

Arriving in Canada in 1904, Mr. Noakes reported Canada's development through some turbulent years while working for the Ottawa Citizen.

While in Montreal, he was among the first to handle the news of the Titanic, which he called the greatest newspaper story in history.

In the west he served as night editor of the Winnipeg Free Press and also as night editor of its forerunner, the Western Associated Press in Winnipeg. He was night editor of the Regina Leader before going to the Brandon Sun in 1921.

One of Canada's oldest working editors, Mr. Noakes insisted on putting in his daily stint at The Sun.

General services will be held Tuesday at St. Matthews Anglican Church, with burial in Brandon cemetery.

Holiday Period Exceptionally Quiet in City

"An exceptionally quiet Christmas", was the way both city and provincial police described the activities of the holiday week-end.

Despite the fact that highway traffic through the city was extremely heavy from Thursday afternoon on, not a single accident in which there was personal injury was reported in the city, or in the immediate district. Even fenderalo minor accidents were at a minimum with only a few resulting in fender dents being reported.

Most serious accident reported by the provincial police occurred on No. 37 highway, where a car went off the road causing about $500 damage.

Christmas Eve a Thomasburg resident complained that Christmas presents left in his car were pilfered, while a minor break-in was reported at Ward's Grocery at the corner of Dundas and Church streets.

A window at the Metropolitan Store on Front street was broken. Three youths later came to the police station stating they had been responsible. They said the glass had been broken while they had been fooling around the store front.

Harry Abramsky, Two Sons Acquire Chain of Stores

KINGSTON — Ownership of the largest independently operated chain of stores in eastern Ontario has been acquired by Harry Abramsky and his two sons, Lionel and Joseph, it was announced today.

The transaction involved the purchase of the shares owned by the estate of Joseph Abramsky in the Joseph Abramsky & Sons Limited group of companies, Gananoque, Napanee, and Picton, and in the Percival Stores at Smiths Falls, Brockville, Belleville and Peterborough.

Plans for the complete re-organization and modernization of the chain are now being made by Mr. Abramsky and his sons.

The Joseph Abramsky & Sons Limited store at Kingston, the foundation on which the business has been built, was opened in the year 1891 by Joseph Abramsky, father of Harry Abramsky, Sept. Abramsky and the late Sam Abramsky. At one time, all three were associated with their father in the business. In 1928, shortly before his death, Joseph Abramsky retired from active participation, and in 1930, Moses Abramsky disposed of his interests and retired from the business.

TREND OF EXPANSION.

From that date until the death of Samuel Abramsky in 1951, the business was carried on by Harry Abramsky and Samuel Abramsky and saw the greatest period of expansion. In 1932, the firm established the first branch when it acquired the Percival Stores in Smiths Falls, Brockville and Belleville.

In 1947, it established a Percival Store in Peterborough and Joseph Abramsky & Sons Limited now have branches in Gananoque, Napanee and Picton.

The sudden death of Samuel Abramsky, who was president and sales manager at the time, left Harry Abramsky, the other chief owner of the chain, undecided whether to sell his interests and retire from retail business, or to purchase his brother's shares and carry on the family enterprise.

Harry Abramsky joined his father in the business in 1919, just after his discharge from the United States Navy, where he had served during World War 1, and he has been continuously associated with it since that date. His decision to purchase control in association with his sons, was disclosed, he says, partly by regard for the communities where the firm has stores, partly by loyalty to the large staff of employees, and partly by a hard-headed appraisal of the future prospects of the stores.

Jesuits Order Members to Leave 'Workers' Priest'

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Jesuits have ordered their members to withdraw at least temporarily from the ranks of France's controversial "worker priests," organized by Catholic communists.

Confirming this, the general curia of the Society of Jesus said today only about a dozen Jesuits have participated in the 10-year-old organization.

Under-its program, specially selected priests were assigned to work in factories, adopting the dress of workers and accepting pay for their labor. Criticism recently sharpened against the program, however, when it was charged that some of the priests were being converted to communism.

'Put Christ Back Into Christmas' Subject of Talk

TRENTON (Special) — Rev. G. J. Mirsleily in his message to the King street United Church congregation yesterday advocated giving more than just a silver jubilee to send them forth with courage. He urged more than mere words, figured the church served as an opiate with a quietening effect.

Asserting that the church must give man a faith to live by Mr. Mirsleily called for a revival of strength in religion. "Let us go forward," he said, "knowing that the Lord is with us in every good effort." He called for a united movement to put Christ back into Christmas.

As an illustration to support his views he recalled how the Protestants and the Roman Catholics rose up to oppose the Nazis. "Now we are attempting to put Christ back into Christianity," he said.

He pointed out that Christ has never left Christianity, but the people who have changed.

The subject of Mirsleily's talk, "Christ Divided Up," was in theme with the New Year. "Canadians have many things to be thankful for. Let us not forget, but let us not forget to share with others!"

He called the Christian church's missionary movements the greatest contribution in the whole world today.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Roger Parker, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parker of Dundas Street, had a narrow escape last week. He was playing with three boys in the cellar when his foot went through a dart. The sharp point embedded a half-inch in his left leg, just below the ear. A doctor at the Trenton Memorial Hospital was called to extract it. Until X-ray showed no apparent damage had resulted the boy was kept under anxious moments waiting for the examiner's report.

Steampipe Burns Fatal to Baby Born on Train

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A newborn baby boy, his tiny body covered with burns, died at Milwaukee County Emergency Hospital Sunday, 15 hours after he was found wedged between hot steampipes on a Milwaukee Road passenger train.

The infant's 17-year-old unmarried mother, who told police the baby was born in a washroom on the train as she travelled from her farm home to western Wisconsin, was in the Milwaukee jail on investigation at the hospital.

Police said the girl, a high school student from Monroe county, was bound for Detroit where she hoped to meet a would-be lover. He until the baby was born. When the birth occurred prematurely on the train she became frantic and placed the baby in a valve shutoff cabinet in the women's washroom.

A woman passenger heard a baby's cries and notified the conductor, who called police when the train arrived here. The child was found between the pipes. The young mother, seated in another car, officers a soldier now on active duty was the father.

Big Three Will Likely Agree To Postponement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France are considering their reply to a Soviet proposal for postponement of a Big Four foreign ministers' conference, amid signs they will agree to the delay and keep pressing for the meeting.

The state department indicated this is the U.S. attitude, even though it implied the Russians may be manoeuvring to lessen the chances of France joining the European Defence Community.

A British foreign office spokesman expressed confidence the three Western powers, which had proposed Jan. 4 for a meeting in Berlin, will accept the Russian counter-suggestion that it be held Jan. 25 or later.

French official sources said only that the note Russia sent the three powers today will have to be studied carefully.

In Bonn Sunday Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, whose future would be high among the subjects discussed at any Big Four meeting, predicted the proposal will be accepted.

And the Soviets, in a broadcast Sunday that could be a propaganda overlude to the conference, blasted away again at the Western plan for free all-German elections.

SAYS U.S. PLOT

Moscow radio, heard in London, aired an article from the official publication Izvestia saying "false talk about 'free elections' is needed by the Adenauer clique and its friends to screen their endeavor to get full control of Germany for their aggressive aims."

The Western powers want Germans both in Adenauer's federal republic and in the Soviet-dominated East German state given opportunity to express themselves on unification of Germany before any other steps in that direction are taken.

The Izvestia article repeated the Russian idea of East and West German parliaments joining in a temporary all-German government to supervise elections—a plan which the West says offers no guarantee of freedom in the East zone and gives the Communists undue influence.

Two-Headed Son Will Be Taken To Parents' Home

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley decided Sunday to take their two-headed son into their home near Petersburg with their three other children as soon as Riley hospital releases him.

Sunday was the first time the 27-year-old mother, Margaret Hartley, had seen her baby, Cecil Jr.

Hospital officials indicated the baby could be released before long.

The Hartleys were left alone in the room with their child. They remained a short time and showed no emotion when they came out.

A doctor assured them the child's condition remains satisfactory. However, the baby has been given oxygen treatments periodically since he was brought here immediately after his birth in a Washington, Ind., hospital Dec. 13.

OXYGEN TREATMENTS

The hospital said the oxygen has been administered because blood circulation hasn't been normal on the left side.

The mother was unconscious when the baby was delivered by caesarean section. Last Sunday, she had seen only a photograph of the baby.

Dr. J. W. Elbert, the Hartleys' family doctor at Petersburg, Ind., said Mrs. Hartley has recovered from the birth.

Dr. Elbert said he will come to the Indiana university medical centre here "some time this week" to discuss the baby's case with Riley hospital doctors. The hospital said its examination of the baby has been completed.

The Hartleys returned to Petersburg after they saw their baby in the hospital.

CNR Net Revenue Lower in November

MONTREAL — The diminishing volume of traffic moved by the railways is again reflected in the monthly report of the Canadian National system's income and expense statement for the month of November and aggregate figures for the eleven months of the current year.

In November, for the second consecutive month, operating revenues were behind the corresponding period of 1952. Expenses continued to exceed those of last year, due principally to heavy increases in the railway's wage bill in 1953.

Operating revenues for the Canadian National System, all inclusive, for the month of November 1953 amounted to $52,906,000, compared with $55,081,000 for the same month last year, in the same period, operating expenses rose to $51,557,000 against $49,839,000 a year ago. The result is a decrease of $3,743,000 in net revenue for the month. Aggregate figures for the first eleven months of 1953 show a drop in net revenue of $11,254,000,

None Attend Special Audience But Get Blessing

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Communists of Rome's Tor di Quinta who boycotted a special audience given for their community Sunday by the Pope got his blessing anyway.

Tor di Quinta is a populous section of Rome. Many of its poor residents are Communists.

Speaking of those who could come but did not," the Pope said that "they do not know what they do." He blamed Red leaders for taking them astray and filling them with hate.

"How could the Pope and the church be against the poor and peace?" he asked.

He concluded by giving all people of Tor di Quinta, including "those not here" his blessing and good wishes for the holiday season and the New Year.

ON NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

Christmas is over for another year. New Year's is next in line.

The start of another year always creates the illusion of a fresh start with a clean sheet, that what we are starting off with a clean slate, that what we will put in the 365 days which lie ahead depends entirely on our thoughts and actions within the boundaries of its weeks.

That, alas, is not true. Much of what is to be has already been etched on pages as yet uncut by our actions in the past. We cannot remake ourselves at the stroke of midnight and step into 1954 new men and women, in thought and habit and outlook.

That is why those who approach each new year with a lengthy list of resolutions, designed to remedy every defect in their character, are doomed to taste failure.

But we can, if we are strong and patient, mold ourselves and the world a little nearer our hearts' desire. There is no good reason, of course, why we should postpone the start of such an attempt until New Year's Day. But it does give us a sort of yardstick in time, to which we can look back and by which we can judge the progress made after the elapse of so many days, weeks, months or even years.

In almost every line of human endeavor, the job goes better if the worker is able to experience an honest feeling of achievement. When we are dealing with New Year's resolutions, that feeling is most likely to come to those who do not let themselves too heavy a task. A little attempted—and that accomplished—is much to be preferred to aiming at the moon and failing to reach even as high as the ridge pole.

But if a little is to be selected out of the much which might be aimed at, it is necessary that the selection be made with great thought. And the time to do that is not on New Year's Eve, among sensual gaiety, nor yet on New Year's morning when perhaps a whole host of resolutions seem momentarily attractive, but rather today, when New Year's is still a few sunsets in the future.

Pick only a few targets and let them not be too high —but determined to hit them.

BRAZILIAN POWER CRISIS

Some day Brazil is almost certain to be one of the great nations of the world.

Already coming events are casting their shadows before. Sao Paulo today is the world's fastest growing city. Two and a half million people dwell in this metropolis whose centre now rests where tea was grown sixty years ago. It was founded in 1532 by the Jesuits. One hundred and sixty years later it became a city. By 1936 it had grown in population to 1,120,405. In less than two decades it has more than doubled in size.

Sao Paulo is one of an awakening Brazil. But before Brazil can rival other great nations in wealth and prestige, it must greatly develop its industries.

The key to such development is electric power.

The warning this week by President Getulio Vargas that private power firms face nationalization if they stand in the way of expanding new national electrification plans should be considered against the background of the country's present needs and future potentialities.

There is no doubt of adequate electric power is imperative. But the supply of this power, if it is to be achieved most economically, must be a monopoly.

Keenly useful if two companies to service the same area.

Yet no private firm should be compelled to expand its facilities in a manner in which its officers believe economically unsound—that is in a way which in these officers believe is unlikely to bring a reward in profits.

Under such conditions, expropriation may be unavoidable. Such actions by the Brazilian government are certain to result in criticism. But, if proper provision is made for compensation of the present owners, there need be nothing inherently unjust about such a policy.

In the United States, where private power companies have provided excellent service for vast areas, there is a decided tendency to frown upon public development. A development here in Ontario, where the publicly-owned Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission has an enviable record, we know that public development and operation of electrical power plants need not necessarily be inefficient or expensive.

HOW NOW, FOOL COW!

There was a young man named McNutt
Who said to the magistrate, "Tut
My cows stand in water
I know they shouldn't oughta
But they just got themselves in a rut."

That tells the story. Well, perhaps not exactly. If you want the precise details, then we must tell you that when Farmer Byron McNutt was charged by the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals with "abandoning" his dairy herd, he told Magistrate H. G. Hall of Victoria, B.C., that the cows apparently prefer water and mud to a dry barn.

Just in case anybody should think that this is a habit peculiar to the fair province, Arthur Metcalfe volunteered the information that when he farmed in Saskatchewan his cattle used to stand in a creek.

Another neighbor, F. L. Beebe, also came to Farmer McNutt's defense. The cattle in question, he said, looked all right to him "but they are darn fool cattle."

"That's not the sort of testimony we want in this court," reminded Magistrate Hall.

"It's relevant for anyone that knows anything about cattle," retorted Mr. Beebe.

We think he had a point there.

Magistrate Hall, however, ruled that McNutt's cattle would have to stay in the barn whether they liked it or not.

This ruling has a familiar ring. In late years all sorts of persons and organizations have taken it upon themselves to make people behave in their own best interests, whether they want to or not.

Many of us have a deep-rooted dislike for this sort of benevolent regimentation of our activities, but few of us will want to extend this opposition to cover cows.

A dog in Peterborough ran foul of a porcupine and wound up with a muzzleful of quills. The dog found out that sitter all there are some points in sticking one's nose in other people's business.

SOME TAILOR

Take a look at me today.
Note the vest that I display;
See those checks of black and gray?

Cast a quick, admiring eye
On my very gaudy tie.
It's the best five bucks can buy.

Gloves? A very splendid pair.
Like a glove they fit. I'll swear.
These a king would proudly wear.

For a minute let us pause.
The old boy deserves applause.
Quite a tailor—Santa Claus.

Bespectacled Generation

(The Times of London, England)

Spectacles come to some people earlier than to others and — as the countryman of 90-something recently reported — he is reading his paper with naked eyes bears witness—a lucky few escape them altogether. First encountered in childhood, they are a permanent nuisance. The mildest acrimonies break down on the asphalt of the playground.

Early acquaintance has, at least, the virtue of breaking in the wearer young to the importance of not mislaying the things. As adults find it hard to learn to ride a bicycle, so, the longer they are able to put off the evil hour, the more impossible becomes the drill of keeping glasses at hand.

Vanity enfilades the victims from two angles of fire. They "can see quite well without" and they are by no means sure, especially if they are ladies, that any style of spectacles suits them to advantage. The strange feeling on the nose is accompanied until custom does away with it by several other feelings — a red line, by doubts on the wisdom of having added that extra, highly visible attention to life. Might it not be better to do exercises and to shift the eyes about in the manner of a dog in the dining room watching for the scraps from the table with a brisk discipline and throw him a titbit?

This is an old fear. A seventeenth century physician uttered a warning that the glasses "weakeneth the sight unless you wear them always." As time goes on the need is brought out by the odd tricks played by the eyes when they "play." More and more, the naturally long-sighted find themselves looking at arm's length and their opposite numbers have to extend the arm shorter. After all, the wretched little pages in their too too fragile frames are very trying.

Utility is not their only claim on our gratitude. Though it may be to a rational philosopher, they give a certain dignity to a man among the perfectly sighted, is every captain of industry really as wise as he is? It leaves those important looking spectacles, if nothing else, momentarily on the desk, to which he so impressively lowers them half a dozen times in the course of an interview? Is even the seaside resort with the finest record of sunshine so rarely as bright as the Sahara that there is not about to gracing its promenade must veil their eyes in gloom?

At any rate, suspicion may permissibly be harboured that the gay colors round the glass and along the sides of the head have something to do with the cult. Once again is it a case for Ruskin, noted tourists who passed their time in looking at the world through blue spectacles.

But more people do so nowadays than ever before; and recognition has been so thickly bespectacled.

Lawyer Toots His Horn

(Windsor Free Press)

Despite their silks and gowns and dignity, lawyers on occasion toot their own horns much as other business men do. Rarely however, do business men emit such amusing toots as Mr. Herman Lordly, the librarian of the Saint John Law Society in the following verses which appear in the Canadian Bar Review:

When Good King Alfred singed the cake
That was a picayune mistake.
To fright the Danes? For Heaven's sake!

Threaten 'em with a lawyer!
Old King Canute made royal spoof,
Commanding waves, at Fly-mouth port,
Then fined them, for contempt of court.

Without advice of lawyer.
When Thomas Becket sought retreat,
Beneath a fat churchwarden's seat,
Came knights (with swords) and made cat's meat
Of Tom. He had no lawyer.
The Duke of Clarence came to grief;
They drowned the bloke in Malmsey wine,
Then proved it wasn't by design
Through some ingenious lawyer,
And Mary, Queen of Scots, they say,
Might be alive unto this day.
But (being Scottish) wouldn't pay.

A bawbee tax her lawyer,
And her George Three had similar grief
Whose tea-tax caused a legal gimmick,
All Yanks might yet be talking Yankee.
But George rebuffed his lawyer,
Ye Monks! Ye Merchants!
Likes not Queen Dowers!
When full of Malmsey, guile, for Henry
Dip deeply in thy nether jeans,
And fee a brilliant lawyer.

Not Too Aggressive

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

We heard a salesman on television the other night say the following audience that the hair dressing he was demonstrating was "good" because it becoming massed "even when it is caressed." Men must be rather lackadaisical careerers in his part of the country.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

SOME RUNCKLEHEAD'S ARE NOT LATHEN.

New England reader heartily agrees with me that there are rackets in the medical profession, having learned about this for himself in the hard way. From what he knows of the doctors in his city, they're better business men — than they can "take you over" is really some thing. But still he has one criticism to offer. My name ailing lessens my professional dignity.

Dr. Brady

That's what a lot of readers tell me. Sometimes it worries me a little — but only a little. When I begin taking it seriously I get right up and roll a few you know what. Then, in the fetid air settle down to my regular name calling.

Webster, doesn't deign to mention knucklehead and good old Roget suggests such polite synonyms as blockhead, jerk, nincompoop, numbskull, fathead, nitwit, moron and bonehead.

Incidentally I'll award a year's subscription to this newspaper to the first person who identifies an individual whom I have called knucklehead or anything in that vein. Anything of the sort in print. When you come across these epithets dismiss them as indications of my low breeding — unless you think they apply to you. In that case you may tell me how undignified I am.

The New England reader, I take it, isn't going to squawk right away,, for he adds a pat on the back:

"Because you're honest and outspoken the trick specialists regard you as a traitor to your class — but keep it up, you're O.K."

Instead of purring perhaps I should remind the New England reader that I am not and never was a member of that class. I was an honest family physician for the first six or eight years of practice, and after that not quite so honest, for six or eight years, and after that an avowed newspaper quack.

It is my purpose to enlighten you dumb laymen about hygiene, health and prevention of disease and I can't take time off the job to display dignity, sympathy and that sweet expression all these fellows can get wholesale in other columns.

When I say some doctors are knuckleheads they'll probably regard me as somewhat worse Canada traitor, but I think this needs to be said and I'm going to follow I'll tell you why I think so.

Radioactive Hens Stolen

(St. Catharines Standard)

That this is a new kind of world in which people are living is borne out by a story of a chicken theft reported at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon. It is enough to make anyone stop, pause and consider things.

On Sunday, thieves got some hens and their eggs at Guelph. In their feed, were radioactive elements sent to the school as part of scientific research and experimentation. Professor W. J. Hayden explained that this would be ruinous to a whole year's experiment. Not only the thieves and the danger they had incurred for themselves, should they eat an omelet, but also that it was their worry and their own digestion too.

If it were not serious, it could be funny. Imagine a Saskatoon copper armed with a geiger counter making his rounds among humans and watching for the instrument to go crazy in proximity to the man whose innards were in combat with nuclear propulsion.

Voting Time Unimportant

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

People will remember that there was a great outcry against August as a voting month in the last federal election. Protests were made on the basis that choice of holiday month would disenfranchise a great number of the Canadian electorate. What was the result? An excellent voter turnout, we believe.

Municipal voting in Ontario has been held in very favorable month as far as seasons go—December. And the voter apathy now showing across the board in the province. All of which leads to the conclusion that the vote is not an important factor in election interest. Rather candidates and issues seem to determine election interest.

Queer Disease

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

A psychiatrist says conceit is a form of mental disease. If so, it's the commonest disease that afflicts the patient and makes his associates sick.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When you get a Christmas card from a stranger and reads "Heartiest Christmas Greetings and the Best Wishes for the New Year from the Smiths, "you can't help but wonder which of the Smiths it is. Is it Bill Smith or Harry, or could it be Oliver, maybe?

Even if it reads "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year from Mr. and Mrs. Popplefizz" you figure it must be Joe, Joe Popplefizz. So you rush to the telephone book to look up the Popplefizz's. There are dozens of them. There is no Joe, or Joseph or Jos. There are J. A. Popplefizz, and J. W. and Jonathan and J. and H.J. any one of whom could be Joe.

Among the list of Popplefizz's a Christmas card in return, nor do you send one to the Smiths. Among you Christmas cards is bound to be one signed, in a rapid flowing pen, "Mary and Jim," and another from "Amy and George." Now, who the heck are May and Jim, and who Amy and George?

I agree that at this happy season of the year we should be informal and adopt as friendly and intimate an air as possible. Should there be acquaintance for the new one? But need we be anonymous? Or even mystical?

What I am coming around to, as you can see, is that on Christmas cards addresses should be given. To the half dozen or dozen of such mystery friends, who know where you live, the address will make a difference one way or the other. But to the three dozen acquaintances to whom, in the warm glow of good will, you send a card, your address is particularly if your name is Bill, and you are hidden in the phone book under any one of a dozen combinations and permutations of W, such as W.A., W.B. or M.W.or B.W.

And of course, your Bill may be short for Wilfrid or Wellington or Archimedes. To wonder is that the Christmas card makers don't urge everyone to put addresses on the cards, even the ready-printed ones, for they could sell far more cards if they did.

33rd Session Of Older Boys' Parliament Opens

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The 33rd session of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament opened here Saturday night to map out a program for youth groups sponsored by Protestant churches in Ontario.

The "speech from the throne" said the parliament will be asked to approve a budget of $25,000 for 1954—an increase of $4,000 over 1953—to expand the program.

Premier William Dowdell, 21, of Wiarton said he will seek approval to double the present boys' work program.

Some 100 boys, representing a membership of 6,000, attended the opening and will take part in leadership training courses, Bible study periods and discussion groups during the six-day session. Leader of the opposition is Eric Snider, 19, of Harcourt.

The government reported that the Ontario boys' work board sponsored 30 camps in 1953 and was in direct contact with 394 boys' groups. Christian youth councils were held in seven areas and a province-wide public speaking contest was held.

T. M. Palmer of North Bay, chairman of the board, welcomed the parliament.

Mother Throws Two Children From Window

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — A mother threw her two children from a second-floor window to neighbors standing below early Sunday when fire broke out in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wright here.

Mrs. Wright, roused by her sister, Marion Wilson, 15, when the fire broke out in the room where her children, Larry, 2, and Patti, 5, were sleeping. She picked them up and dropped them out of the window to neighbors and then jumped herself.

Miss Wilson suffered leg burns in the blaze, believed caused when a clothes line on the first floor near a stove caught fire. The others were unhurt.

Mr. Wright had left shortly before the fire to return to the RCAF base at Calgary where he is stationed.

Damage, confined to the first floor, was described as extensive.

Yule Week-End Accident Toll In U.S. Is 678

CHICAGO (AP)—The sobering statistician of Chicago's holiday accident deaths had only this small consolation to offer: They weren't as bad as they ever have been.

The 78-hour Christmas week-end —from 6 p. m. Thursday, local time, to midnight Sunday—brought violent death to 678 Americans. Traffic accidents killed 493, fires caused 77 deaths and a variety of accidents took another 108 lives.

Belated reports might swell these figures, but there appeared little likelihood they would reach the record 1950 figures for a three-day Christmas week-end toll—545 traffic fatalities, 724 total accident deaths from all causes.

They were well short of the records as in the four-day Christmas week-ends of 1952—556 traffic fatalities, and 1951—769 deaths from all accidental causes.

Butte Miners' Union Quits Red-Led Group

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—The Butte Miners Union No. 1 Sunday withdrew from the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

In a resolution, the group directed officers to apply to the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) for a local union charter.

Anaconda mine-mill Local 117 leaders indicated they may take similar action.

The action follows charges hurled by Butte and Anaconda unions that the mine-mill leadership was Communist-dominated. The charges were made shortly before the international's election Nov. 2.

Born in Stable

CLINTON (CP) — A baby born Christmas Day in a stable is doing well in Clinton Public Hospital.

The child, second son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Rehorst, was born shortly after 5 a.m. when Mrs. Rehorst went out to tell her husband that it was time for her to go to the hospital.

Mr. Rehorst left his chores in the barn but before they could leave, the baby arrived.

Neutrals Ask Allied, Red Command to Settle Fate Of Reluctant Prisoners

(By WILLIAM C. BARNARD)

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A three-member majority of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission today turned back to the United Nations and Communist commands the question of what to do with more than 22,000 war prisoners who have refused to go home.

An Indian command spokesman said that if the two commands reach no agreement by January 22 "we do not appear to have any legal right to hold them (the prisoners.)".

The majority report was signed by the Indian chairman and by Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Switzerland and Sweden filed a minority report saying it was "appropriate" to refer the prisoner problem back to the two commands. But the Swiss and Swedes said they could see no reason for a formal report at this time. They refused to sign the 44-page majority document which also charged South Korean interference in the anti-Communist compounds and criticized the U.N. command.

Officials sources said there was little prospect that the majority report would lead to settlement of the bitter prisoner disputes.

The Allies hold that the armistice provides specifically that unrepatriated prisoners be freed as civilians 30 days after the close of a 90-day period for explanations. That would mean the prisoners must be freed January 22.

The communists contend that they are entitled to 90 days of actual explanations rather than a 90-day period which ended Dec. 23. They have used 10 days. The Reds also insist that the prisoners remain in custody pending action by the peace conference, regardless of when a conference is convened.

In addition to turning the prisoner question back to the two commands, the majority report said:

1. A secret South Korean headquarters in Seoul reached into all 35 compounds of the south camp holding anti - Communist Koreans and Chinese and exercised a powerful influence over the prisoners.

2. South camp compound leaders used "coercive methods" and "acts of violence were committed against prisoners wanting to go home."

3. The commission could "find no evidence" of such a similar organization in the north camp housing Americans, South Koreans and one Britisher — although prisoners there seemed "under strong discipline".

4. The commission could not say that even the prisoners who went through the explanation tents were "completely freed of force or threats of force."

Igor Gouzenko Believes Hundreds of Red Agents May Be Operating in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Igor Gouzenko, whose testimony cracked a Soviet spy ring in Canada, says he thinks there may be hundreds of Red agents operating in the United States.

And he recommended, in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U.S. News and World Report made public today, that the government "make it worth while for some of them to quit and come out with their documents."

That is what Gouzenko himself did in 1945. He was a code clerk in the Russian embassy at Ottawa. He smuggled out documents which led to the cracking of an atomic espionage ring.

Since then he and his wife and two children have been living quietly in Canada, under assumed names, and with government protection.

The Senate internal security subcommittee is now arranging to interview Gouzenko in secret, in a search for leads in subversion in the U. S. government.

SAYS 25 RINGS WORKING

Senator William Jenner (Rep. Ind.) the committee chairman, said in a statement Saturday night that on the basis of testimony from Ismael Ege, a former Red intelligence officer, "there probably are 25 Soviet spy rings working in the United States."

Gouzenko, asked to estimate how many Soviet agents might be working in the United States now, replied:

"I think it might run into hundreds. At some indication, they spend several million dollars in telegrams alone."

Many of these agents, he said, work through rings, perhaps with embassy contacts, and others are "agents resident (who) would work independently and have direct contact with Moscow by radio."

Explaining his views, Gouzenko said, "there are some who learn to like the way people are treated in the United States and Canada." He said there are Russians who, if assured fair treatment, would break with communism as he did.

WOULD GIVE GUARANTEES

He advocated a five-point program to encourage defections among Red agents. It would include guarantees of U. S. or Canadian citizenship, lifelong protection, material security, help in finding employment and formal acknowledgment "that his service . . . entitled him to all assistance and help."

Gouzenko was asked to give his appraisal of the work of Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) chairman of the Senate investigations sub-committee.

"I think he is doing a good job," Gouzenko said, "but he would do a much better job, obviously, if he had documentary evidence. But in his job he is doing the right thing because he is bringing into the open many things . . . people are trying to use as excuses and pretexts. . ."

FIRE DESTROYS BARNS

Dollar Position To Be Examined At Conference

LONDON (Reuters) — Full-scale analysis of the prospects of the sterling area will be made by Commonwealth finance ministers at their one-week conference beginning in Sydney, Australia, Jan. 4.

Financial observers here said that the finance ministers would first examine the current position of the area's gold-and-dollar reserves, and then review its balance of payments prospects for 1954.

The Sydney conference, unlike most of the previous post-war Commonwealth finance and economic discussions, will not be a crisis one. The area's gold-and-dollar reserves last Nov. 30 were at the safe figure of £815,000,000 ($2,282,000,000). Richard Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, who is expected to preside at the talks, will be able to give a confident report on the fortunes of the area of the colleagues Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, Ceylon and the new Central African Federation. They last met in Sydney in November and December, 1952.

COMMONWEALTH PROSPERITY

The principal aim of the Sydney deliberations is to maintain and increase the prosperity of the Commonwealth and sterling area, which has an annual export-import turnover of £12,000,000,000.

The main theme of the talks will be the expansion of intra-area trade, industrial and agricultural development of the Commonwealth, ways of keeping down raw material prices of vital sterling-area raw materials like rubber, tin and jute, and methods of strengthening sterling.

Howard Hughes Defies Censors And Jane Russell

By BOBBY THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Howard Hughes' latest defiance of the film industry's censors today brought open rebellion from his most famous star, Jane Russell.

Tuesday, in St. Louis, RKO will premiere "French Line," which has been refused a seal of approval by Hunden's self-censoring Breen office. The movie was reportedly turned down because of "some glaring breast shots" of Miss Russell and a dance by her "that will certainly bring the cops to any theatre where it is shown."

Hughes' publicity campaign was hampered by Miss Russell's statement that she thinks the Breen office is right.

"I thoroughly agree with the Breen office," she told me. "It is the publicity angle that hurts the actor's, too. I hope and pray the studio will make the cuts required.

RECALLS 'OUTLAW'

Miss Russell and the rest of Hollywood saw the latest Hughes action as a repeat of his manoeuvre with "The Outlaw," her first motion picture. Then an independent producer, Hughes defied the Breen office by releasing the picture without a seal in certain cities. He soon shelved the picture, and later released it again after making certain cuts.

"I had nothing to say about such things before," said Jane. "But now I won't be drawn into the affair. My contract is up in February and this experience will color the possibility of my re-signing."

The voluptuous brunette's first big squabble with the studio came during the shooting of "French Line." She was supposed to wear a Bikini-like costume.

"I fought and beefed and argued," she admitted.

EXPANDED SUIT USED

She finally consented to a slightly expanded version of the costume.

RKO's release of "French Line" is believed to be the first time a major studio has put forth a film without Breen office approval. Earlier this year the producers of "The Moon is Blue" released the picture through United Artists although the industry's censors would not approve it. The picture has enjoyed fabulous success.

Insiders believe Hughes will also release "Son of Sinbad" without a deal. The picture contains some sizzling dances by Lili St. Cyr and a nearly nude dance by Sally Forrest.

PICTON

'Dream Cottage' Is Won By Kingston Man

PICTON—F. Jarrett, 5 Westview, Grenville Park, Kingston, was the lucky winner of the "Dream" cottage, Prince Edward County Bayshore, J. McFarland, and valued at $2,500, was used to raise funds to assist with the payment of the proposed 50-bed Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital.

The draw was made Saturday night when 900 attended a bingo in Picton armouries sponsored by the BPO Elks and "C" Company of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. The ticket was chosen by five-year-old Caroline Buchanan, from a huge drum.

Mr. Jarrett purchased the ticket during the campaign. Miss Blanche Lightball as he waited to cross Glenora ferry.

Mayor McFarland made a strong appeal for support of the drive which will continue into the new year. The new hospital is urgently needed, he stressed. Objective of the canvass is $400,000.

The mayor announced donations totalling nearly $4,000 from firms with which he deals.

Turns Up Safely

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The tiny passenger boat Golden Dawn turned up safely Sunday after being unreported on a Christmas trip along Newfoundland's east coast.

The Golden Dawn left Wesleyville Christmas Eve and completed the first leg of her trip to Dunbay.

Starting back, however, the vessel developed trouble and put back into Hare bay. It was the non-appearance at Wesleyville that started the search.

The Golden Dawn returned to Wesleyville Sunday.

PILGRIMS JAM VATICAN

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope Sunday gave audience to nearly 10,000 Christmas pilgrims. The 77-year-old Pontiff was carried on his portable throne through the cheering crowds of pilgrims, massed in the halls of the Vatican palace. From a golden throne in the hall of benedictions he later spoke to the pilgrims in six different languages, giving them his blessing.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Is your husband working under continual pressures at the office? Does he come home tired and knocked out? Is he nervous, run down? On sale in New York is a new toy for grownup boys. It is called the "Digest stick." Made of sterling silver, about six inches long, the gadget is shaped like a spoon.

The digest stick is meant for pencil chewers, doodlers, heavy smokers and the like, who when under stress and strain grasp for something to relieve their tension. Medical men think fiddling and doodling save many high strung men from nervous breakdowns because the strain is eased by the trifling habit.

In the old days, men had pocket watches, watch chains, pen knives on chains, cuff links, tie pins, mouthpieces and the odd extra trinket to fool with when they were nervous.

Today, something has been devised to take the place of old fashioned ways. It is the silver fidget stick. And today, the baby born with a silver fidget stick in his mouth may be lots happier in later life than the one with only a silver spoon. Who knows?

POLITICS

The Canadian Women's Press Club is proud to have its first member in the Federal House. Margaret Aitken of the Toronto Telegram. Much interest is catching on in the touch Margaret's son and Byrne Hope Sanders wrote on Margaret's political campaign. It is entitled, "Hey Ma! I Did it!"

Something different this campaign was the way most of the women who beat the pavements for their friend's election were Liberals. But they rallied round and helped to get her parliament at Ottawa one of their own number, even if she she was to sit in the Opposition. It is not true that women always knock their own kind when a woman runs for public office.

After the business was concluded, a social time was enjoyed playing euchre with prizes going to Mrs. Dora Morton and Mrs. Georgina Charlton.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Morton and her people.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Morton for opening her home to the group for such a lovely evening.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A BLESSED CHRISTMAS TO YOU ALL

I am thinking, this Christmas Day, of all the people who have written to me during the past year.

All the distraught wives; the harried husbands; the unhappy and bewildered young people; the lonely, the sad and the heartbroken. And I am wondering how things are with each of them.

Have the problems of some been solved in a way that makes it possible for them to have a peaceful Christmas? And how many of them may be spending this day with only continuing anxiety and despair for companions?

I am thinking, too, for all those who may be readers of this column but who have never had reason, or impulse to write to me. Among these, I am sure, there must be a vast number who are happy and content with life; whose Christmas Day will be a time of joy and happiness.

There is still another group in my thoughts. These are the men and women who, during the year, have taken the time to write and tell me that, even though they have never written me about any problem of their own, they have found help and comfort in reading what I have said to others. Unfortunately, most of these kind and thoughtful people sent their letters anonymously, so that I have been unable to write, thank each one of them personally. So now, at Christmas, I take this opportunity to say Thank You to all of them. It is a wonderful and heartening thing to receive such messages, and the day on which one arrives always seems like Christmas, whatever the time of year.

On my part, I would like to send to a message of my own to everyone of my readers, both those with whom I have been in personal touch and those from whom I have never heard.

What I would like to say is that whatever the circumstances by which they find themselves today, I wish for them the sense of peace and hope that is the heart of Christmas. Whatever the personal tragedies that may cloud this day for some, however depressing the problems of the world look to us all, Christmas brings unfailingly the assurance that underneath all the surface turmoil there is, as one writer put it long ago, "a power that makes for righteousness." To remember this, is to face the future with new courage.

I wish, too, that every time during this day each one of you, or family group together, might sit down and read over that wonderful story by Charles Dickens called "A Christmas Carol." For I think that no one who reads it can come to the end of it without feeling that, despite anything tragic that may happen to us, life can be worthwhile and satisfying if we do our part to make it so, and that if we do this, we cannot fail to find our own happiness.

To close with the most familiar words of the whole "Christmas Carol" — those of Tiny Tim—let me say, "God bless us, everyone." To which I would add: "God bless You, everyone."

New Year's Buffet—Country-Club Style

By Mary Moore

"Mary, this is Merle. . . I called early before your line got busy. I'm having that crowd again this New Year's eve and want to serve something that is not turkey."

I had just been to supper at a country club a few evenings previous to this so it was easy for me to recall and string off such delicious items at the collation as cold whole glazed salmon with sardine garnish, ham mousse, cold tongue platter, hot beef and kidney pie, cold lobster, hot fried shrimp, deviilled eggs tomato jelly ring filled with cottage cheese, tossed salad, cabbage salad, sliced tomatoes, potato salad, dark rye bread "panned", mustard pickles, spiced chutney, garlic sweet pickles hot green peas, etc.

When I stopped for breath she said "Now say it again slowly" so I repeated the performance just like a puppet.

At the other end of the wire she muttered and cogitated for a while then decided she liked the glazed salmon, the ham mousse, the hot beef and kidney pie, the deviilled eggs, the tomato jelly ring filled with cottage cheese, the dark rye bread, the hot green peas and the apricot chutney.

For her choice of deviled eggs I would have substituted a tossed green salad, but it was her party, so hard as it was, I kept quiet.

Are you also keen perked by the same dilemma as Merle's? Do you want to serve a buffet meal without turkey?

Shall I tell you how to prepare a glazed salmon, like the chef at the Ritz does? You have only to have your butcher say that your crowd will be open-minded and sophisticated enough to enjoy these non-traditional dishes.

To stay right in character, girls I warn'y add that this meal you like turkey would.

GLAZED WHOLE SALMON

The retail price of B.C. salmon in my neck of the woods is 70 cents per pound, and they weigh from 6 to 12 lbs. each. This means that an 8-lb. salmon would cost you over $5.00 and would serve (according to restaurant figures) 16 people adequately. (I think more.)

Ask the fishman to scale, clean, bone, behead, defin the fish. When you have it in your own kitchen wipe it clean with damp cloth and dry it. Wrap it in double or triple thickness of parchment paper, so that the steaming waley is kept out. Steam or boil it. I do half and half by using the roasting pan with rack in, and 1 inch boiling water. If desired, inside fish you may place a little minced onion, celery, parsley and a bay leaf, to impart some elusive inner flavor to the flesh.

Steam-cleaned, then wrapped fish 8 minutes to the pound after boiling point has been reached. Lower heat so that water simmers. An 8-lb. fish requires just a little over 1 hour. Do not overcook—to make sure it is done at centre carefully open fish at thickest part, where it should be opaque pink—not pale. Lift out carefully to large platter and allow to chill. Peel off parchment. If you are lucky skin will cling to it leaving diagonal mackerel-markings on the fleshy surface. Carefully transfer to large serving platter.

Prepare Glaze: Tip contents of 1 can consommé into a bowl. Soak 1 tbs. tablespoons gelatin in 1-4 cup cold water for 5 minutes, then dissolve stirring over hot water until clear. Stir this into the consomme. Chill until, it begins to congeal then stir in 1-2 cup genuine mayonnaise and 1 tablespoon lemon juice, then spread this over the entire exposed surface of salmon. Garnish attractively with tiny choice sardines or shrimps and sliced stuffed olives. Radish border with lemon wedges and parsley. Chill until serving time.

HAM MOUSSE

Soak 1 1-2 tablespoons gelatin in 1-4 cup cold water five minutes. Stir into it 1-2 cup boiling water until dissolved and clear. Add 2 cups cold boiled ham which has been put through fine knife of food chopper three times until it is a paste. Add 1 teaspoon French mustard, shake of cayenne, then fold in 1-2 cup heavy cream which has been whipped until stiff. Pour into individual molds and chill. Serve with

To 2 tablespoons genuine mayonnaise add 2 tablespoons well-drained horseradish, 1 teaspoon mustard, 1-2 cup heavy cream whipped until stiff, 1-2 teaspoon salt and shake of cayenne. Gently fold and chill.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

A FRIENDLY AND CORRECT IMPULSE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Yesterday I went to a luncheon party at our Country Club, given in honor of a friend who used to live here, but moved away, and hasn't been here for over two years. I was sitting, with the group of people chatting, when the guest of honor arrived, I rose to shake hands with her. The others remained seated, greeting her and not shaking hands with her. I felt very awkward and self-conscious, and have been wondering if I were wrong. Was I?

Babs.

No you certainly were not wrong. It is never wrong for a woman to rise to greet another woman. I think it was a most natural thing for you to rise to greet your friend when you hadn't seen her for so long, and to shake hands with her, to show your devoted welcome. Also it was a graceful tribute from you to her, as the guest of honor of the party. And actually every guest there should have paid her this tribute of rising to greet her, and of shaking hands with her.

MAN SHOULDN'T EVEN OFFER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

To settle an argument, will you answer this question, please: When a man meets a woman he knows in a stationery store or bookshop, should he offer to pay for the magazines she has just bought?

Marie and Ted

No! There would be no reason for the man to offer to pay for the magazines, and if he did offer to, the woman should have enough sense and perfect courteously to refuse his offer.

BLACK-BORDERED VISITING-CARDS RARELY USED TODAY

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I read the other day in your column that a widow should continue to use her husbands name. for example, Mrs. Edward Paul Stetson. The visiting-cards I have used ever since I was married are engraved with that name. (I am using here a sample name, not my own name.) My husband recently passed away. May I use these same visiting-cards now, just as they are, or should I order cards with narrow black borders?

Widow

It is completely correct for you to use your all-white visiting-cards, the kind you have always used and with your name exactly the same. Today one rarely sees black-bordered cards (or correspondence either), and it is not at all necessary to use one.

They'll Do It Every Time

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE PLAIN JANE CAN BE CHARMING

Two of the greatest actresses of all time—Sarah Bernhardt and Duse—were not even good looking. Sarah was as thin as a rail. And Duse, who we make up, not even on the stage, wore her straight, drab hair wadded into a knot, an arrangement that was anything but interesting. Yet, both of these wonderful women had the world at their feet. They excited interest and admiration. They stirred one's thoughts, made a strong appeal. Both had about them a striking, mysterious glamour.

The plain Jane needn't feel sorry for herself. She can be as attractive as the next one, if she will make the effort. Pretty little dollies are a dime a dozen these days. But, unless they also have charm they may be side-line sitters.

Perhaps Plain Jane has qualities of beauty that she has not discovered.

The color and shape of her eyes don't matter. She can make them sparkle and they will be beautiful She can send messages through her eyes—messages of friendship. Compare such eyes with cold, bored eyes or calculating ones and you will see the difference.

If Jane has a soft, low musical voice she has an asset of charm that is unusual these days when so many young women shrill or shout. She can cultivate endearing qualities which, after all, count for more than a perfectly molded nose, pertrily curved lips and a peaches and cream complexion. We don't love individuals for their looks, but for what they are, they mean to us, what they contribute to the happiness of other people.

Jane should realize that she must cultivate know-how where her appearance is concerned. She can wear smart clothes, develop hair and clicks. She can sport a sassy hairdo. She can consult specialists who will teach her how to use make-up. Help is at hand; she has but to seek it.

CHILDREN SAVED

HENSALL (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. William Coward led their four children, ages four to seven, to safety early Saturday when part of their home, about five miles east of Exeter, was gutted by fire.

INJURIES FATAL

TORONTO (CP)—John Francis McNeilly, 3½, struck by an automobile while returning from school last Monday, died Saturday night.

SEEK END TO POLLUTION

KITCHENER (CP)—A resolution asking the Ontario health department to start a crackdown on municipalities responsible for polluting the Grand river will be put before a general meeting of the Grand river conservation authority here Wednesday. If approved, it may mean the spending of 36,000,000 to clean up the river during the next three years.

AUTO PRODUCTION UP

WINDSOR (CP) — Ward's Automotive Reports said Saturday total automotive production for 1953 to date is a record. Its statistical service said the figure for last week was down due to the Christmas holiday by 25 per cent but more than 470,000 cars and trucks have been built during the year. The figure compares to more than 427,000 last year at this time.

Toronto's Lumley Appears Headed For Hockey's Top Goaltending Award

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ALL OVER!

Well, that's that. It is all over for another year. The turkey is rapidly reaching the hash stage; the presents have been well tried, with not a few waiting for the exchange counters. It was a real jolly old Christmas, despite the fact the weather man waited for the 12th. time since 1908 to celebrate a snowless holiday.

As a matter of fact the weather records show that since 1908 we have had 30 white Christmases, three grey, (slushy that is) and 12 green Yules.

But the holiday spirit was the same inside warm Yule decorated homes. Churches echoed to the glorious Christmas music and little children enjoyed to the limit the "surprise" of Christmas morning and the opening of presents.

But with the holiday comes the inevitable sadness for some families and homes. Traffic and other accidents took their deadly toll and many a happy, care-free Canadian will not see the New Year. It seems it has to be that way.

Back to the realm of sport, the Memos lost a heartbreaker up Orillia way Saturday night, bowing to the Pontiacs of that town by a 4-3 score in ten minutes of overtime. The Memos, who iced only ten players in all, gave the redoubt Petes a whale of a battle throughout the whole single goal and for a while in a hectic third period when they were leading 3-2 it appeared they might pull a win out of the bag.

Davey Kane was clouted none too gently over the noggin by the Pontiacs' goalie, according to reports, and "Red" Doran got the merry-old heave-ho from officials for speaking his mind too volubly. The Memos are in Peterborough tonight in action against the redoubt Petes who' slipped back to fourth spot by virtue of the Pontiacs' win over our side.

Reports from Orillia say that Don Barclay, in the Memos' net on Saturday night, was little short of sensational. The former Jr. "B" net star battled back the rushing Pontiacs' offensives time after time, and even the hometown radio announcers picked the "Turk" as the outstanding star of the night's play.

BACK ON TOP!

Oshawa's resurging Truckmen are back into the Senior "B" hunt with a vengeance. The Dickens "David Copperfields" liked the victory sauce they sipped last Saturday night when they whomped the Kingston Goodyears 6-3 in Kingston, and asked for more on Saturday night in Bowmanville. They again turned the trick, handing a 6-5 setback on the doubles to take over the group top spot, three points in front of last year's champions.

Orillia's 4-3 overtime win on Saturday vaulted the Pontiacs back into third place in this "piggy-back" set-up but the Petes can reclaim the spot if they defeat the Memos tonight. Only six points separate the fourth spot Petes and the league-leading Oshawans. The Pontiacs, by the way, are guests of the Truckmen tomorrow night and a win will about them into second place tie with the Goodyears.

STILL TOPS!

Marlene "Little Ben" Stewart, the teen-age rolling sensation from Fonthill, Ont., who won the British ladies' title this year, has been acclaimed Canada's outstanding female athlete for 1953 by the country's sports editors and sportscasters. Marlene won the award for the third year in succession by an all but unanimous vote, and in so doing tied the record set by Barbara Ann Scott in the late forties. Incidentally, two of the sports scribes still have a soft spot for the dainty Barbara for they voted her one top spot position and one second place. Cam Church, of St. Thomas, said "still the best" when he recorded his vote for the Ottawa maiden.

The sports scribes have now been asked to cart their votes for the "Ontario Athlete of the Year," and if looks very much as if Marlene will score well out in front in this event. She led the polls in the "ladies" division and now the millwrights and radio chappies will vote for either Marlene, Cliff Lumsden or Tip Logan, for the all-round title.

Incidentally, a western Canada athlete, practically unknown until recently, won the "Canada's Outstanding Male Athlete for 1953" award. He is Doug Hepburn, 286-pound weightlifter from Vancouver, who shaded Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight champion and Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings star. Hepburn polled 109 votes, five more than Walls and 16 more than Howe. Last year's choice, Maurice Richard, Canadiens' flash, placed fourth with 36 points.

And it was one night's work far from home that decided the issue for the Vancouver strong man. Already holder of the Canadian and British Empire weight-lifting titles—a fact little known outside strong-man circles — he went unheralded to Europe last summer. On August 30 at Stockholm he won the world's heavyweight championship with a total lift of 1,030½ pounds.

He defeated John Davis of the United States, world and Olympic champion, and Argentina's Humberto Selvetti. He didn't receive the acclaim of other Canadian world champions but scientors remembered his feat months later.

Remember When

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dick Irvin, then captain of Chicago Black Hawks, suffered a fractured skull in collision with Red Dutton of Montreal Maroons in an NHL game at Chicago 25 years ago tonight. That finished Irvin's playing career, but he coached Toronto Maple Leafs for 10 years before taking over as Montreal Canadiens coach in 1941.

Turns in Sensational Chore In Leafs' 4-2 Win Over Wings; Detroit Still Tops in Loop

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Conn Smythe traded five hockey players for Harry Lumley because Lumley could win games and sell tickets.

Lumley, a 27-year-old veteran of nine National Hockey League campaigns, has been doing that ever since he shifted from Chicago Black Hawks to Toronto Maple Leafs last year. This season he may go all the way to the Vezina Trophy as top goaltending award.

The chubby native of Owen Sound, Ont., has never won the trophy but he was nearly at his best Saturday night as the third-place Leafs defeated Detroit Red Wings 4-2 before 13,475 fans—another sellout crowd at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

The victory maintained Lumley's edge over Detroit's Terry Sawchuk in the netminder's race. In 33 games this season Lumley has allowed only 54 goals for an average of 1.64 goals a game. Sawchuk, who has won the Vezina for the last two years, is second with 64 goals in 35 games.

Montreal Canadiens scored a 3-0 shutout over fifth-place New York Rangers in the other Saturday game. Sunday, Red Wings moved into sole possession of first place with a 3-1 win over fourth-place Boston Bruins. Last-place Chicago Black Hawks beat Rangers 4-1.

At Toronto, Lumley stopped 16 shots after Leafs took an early lead. Sawchuk handled 32 Leaf drives.

KENNEDY GETS TWO

The Leafs were also led by centre Ted Kennedy's two goals. The others were scored by defenceman Jim Morrison and leftwinger Harry Watson.

Leftwinger Ted Lindsay and Metro Prystai tallied for Red Wings.

The Canadiens were minus the services of Bernie Geoffrion.

Goaltender Gerry McNeil received a sportsmanship ovation from the 14,527 Montreal fans as he registered his fifth shutout of the season.

Calum MacKay and Ken Mosdell scored the Montreal goals. MacKay's first-period tally proved to be the winner.

Referee Bill Chadwick handed out 17 penalties, including a 10-minute misconduct to Montreal's Maurice Richard.

Geoffrion was unable to play because of a suspension pending a decision by league president Clarence Campbell next Monday on inquiry into events which led to match penalties in the Leafs' game against the Montreal forward and Tom Murphy in a New York game, Dec. 20.

Hawks scored twice in each of the last two periods to trounce Rangers Sunday. It was only their seventh win in 37 games.

SCORE FOR HAWKS

Lou Jankowski, Larry Wilson, Pete Conacher and Bill Mosienko scored for Chicago. Harold Walsh, Wally Hergesheimer tallied New York's lone marker.

Prystai scored the winning goal against the Bruins at 13:49 of the third period. It was his sixth of the season and second in two nights.

Minutes earlier, at 11:24, Boston had tied the score 1-1 when Johnny Peirson took a pass from Fleming Mackell for his 12th goal of the season.

Detroit's Glen Skov scored in the second period.

No games are scheduled for tonight. Tuesday night Bruins travel to New York.

Talk of Max Schmeling Damage Suit Recalls Movie Farce of Louis Fight

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a report from Germany that Max Schmeling is indignant at the portrayal of himself in "The Joe Louis Story" and is thinking about suing somebody. That would be a hot one.

If Louis had ever seen the job they did in the movies of his first bout with Schmeling back in 1936, the one in which the German gave Joe an unmerciful beating and knocked him out, the actor he'd pursuing everyone who was even remotely connected with the production.

We were at the official premiere of the German version in Berlin, and after all these years the memory of the evening remains vivid. We could have been shown through a number of other countries, including the U. S., and would have been less surprise at the events of 1936.

Later, we sometimes thought it might have been a fine idea if the film with its German commentary could have been shown through a number of other countries, including the U. S., and would have been less surprise at the events of 1936.

Schmeling to the United States.

Early in the going he thought he saw Louis foul Schmeling. "You swine," he screamed, "you will pay for that! There, he's fouling our Max again, the swine!"

GUESTS JOIN IN

Before long many of the distinguished guests were heaping word vocal abuse on Louis than the official cheer leader.

When Louis finally went down for the last time in the 12th round you could have heard a flat-bed mixer car pass down the next row of seats. Louis, the American Negro who fought foul, had paid in full.

Later, we sometimes thought it might have been a fine idea if the film with its German commentary could have been shown through a number of other countries, including the U. S., and would have been less surprise at the events of 1936.

Orillia Pontiacs Shade Memos 4-3 In Hard-Fought Overtime Thriller

Aiken Slips in Winning Goal After Ponts Tie Game in 3rd; Barclay Stars in Memos' Nets

ORILLIA (Special) — Belleville Bobby Behind the near-sensational goaltending of Don Barclay, newly pulled a win out of the fire here Saturday night, but bowed to the Pontiacs 4 - 3 as an overtime thriller.

The victory pushed the Pontiacs into third place in the group standing, one point in front of the Peterborough Petes, and five points behind the group-leading Oshawa Truckmen.

In fairness to the Memos they lost only seven players, with Jack Wadsworth, Keith Hatchard, front-line speedsters, being among the missing.

Barclay, the ex-Belleville Junior "B" net star, was spectacular all through as the Belleville belts and the youngster's fine goaltending kept the game down to what it was. On the other hand the Memos nearly pulled the game out of the fire when they scored a seven-second goal in the third period to take the lead for the first and only time of the game.

COACH ROUTED

It was fast, rugged hockey, but clean otherwise, as Referee Jim Rodden and Dick Yeo of Owen Sound, handing out but five penalties. A new experience to Peter Jones of the Memos. Jones raced from the Memos' bench when it was alleged his brother Davey was struck over the head by Pontiac goalie Lorne Shropshire.

The younger Jones boy fell to the ice and brother Peter dashed out when no penalty was given. Coach Frank Doran, of the Memos, who was not in uniform, also ran out the protest to the officials. In the verbal dual that followed the coach fell to the ice and Jones was given a misconduct penalty with Coach Doran behind him from the proceedings.

There was no scoring in the second period with both goalies standing out about the only two of the Memos and then Pearsall of the Pontiacs drawing sin-bin sentences.

The Memos struck quickly in the second period with Ken Gray on a passing play with Erwin and Edwin Aikens finishing the light behind Shropshire after fifty-nine seconds of play.

GRIGG TIES SCORE

Peter Jones misconduct sentence was the only penalty of the third. Sandy Grigg came up with some sparkling saves as the Pontiacs fought back to even the count. Playing coach Vic Grigg set the teams all square when he took Vasey's pass to the rubber home. Five minutes later the Pontiacs swept into the lead when Payne with Fravero and Aiken drove goalward with the former netting the rubber to make the score 3-2.

The timekeepers hand was on the gong when Barclay made a fateful home Jake Wade's pass with exactly one second to go to again even the count.

Striking swiftly again on the third beat, the Memos again took the lead. Just seven seconds had ticked away on the clock when Doug Hull and the Duncans headed for the Pontiacs goal with Hull flashing that light to make the count 3-2. Barclay again rose to hockey heights with his net defence tossing back Pontiac offensives time and again. Payne finally beat him midway through the period when he took Favero's pass to score.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle in the overtime period with Aiken scoring the winning marker after six minutes of play with Payne getting an assist. Favero drew a minor sentence but the Pontiac defence held the Memos' last-ditch efforts to even the score.

The lineups: Belleville: goal, Barclay; defence Wade, Basteda, Semark, V. Goyer; forwards, Erwin Duncan, Duncan, Hull, Peter Jones, Davey Jones, De-Gray.

Orillia: goal, Shropshire; defence, Pearsall, Sheedmore; Rochester, Grigg; forwards, Bowen, Richardson, MacDonald Favero, Payne, Aiken, Nelson, Mayhew, Leod, Vasey.

Lew Worsham, Lloyd Mangrum Top '53 Golfers

CHICAGO (AP)—Lew Worsham, thanks to his remarkable shot at Tucson, Ariz., and Lloyd Mangrum, money winners with $34,002 and the $26,815 respectively, are champions, says Lloyd Mangrum with a 70.22 stroke average.

Worsham, one of the two top honors in play-for-pay competition during 1953, was named in figures released by the Professional Golfers Association of America.

Worsham's sensational 4-wood 2 shot in the "world" tournament at Chicago rolled him the 18th cup from 140 yards out to win top prize of $25,000.

Mangrum was the year's best shot-maker for the second time in three years with his 70.22 average for 64 rounds, but finished third in earnings with $20,636, behind Worsham and Dave Ford with $26,815.

Last year's money winner in the champion was Julius Boros (837/.620), who plunged to 30th this year with $5,000. Ben Hogan, 1948 top money winner was Jack Burke, Jr., in 1952, was 39th in earnings for this year's competition when he picked up 19 PGA play.

Valleyfield Takes Over Top Spot In Quebec Loop

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Valleyfield Braves, the cellar-team of the Quebec Hockey League a few weeks ago, moved alone into top spot during the week-end when they defeated Springfield Indians 3-2 in Springfield and 4-3 at home. Sherbrooke Saints slipped to fourth place by losing 4-1 to second-place Ottawa Saturday and 4-3 to Montreal Royals Sunday.

Chicoutimi Sagueneens edged out Quebec Aces 3-2 Sunday in Chicoutimi to go from fourth to third place. The Chics have 25 points while Royals and Saints, tied for fourth, have 24.

Quebec have 30, one more than the last-place Springfield.

In Springfield Saturday, George Boucher sank the winning goal in overtime for the Braves. Jacques Thomson and Jack Irvine scored the other Valleyfield markers while Doug McMurdy and Gordie McLeod counted for Springfield.

Sunday at Valleyfield, Larry Kwong, Jean Paul Bissillon, Bruce Cline, and Lionel Leclerc scored for the Braves, and Ken Schinkel and Jack Caffery for Indians.

Ottawa broke loose for three third-period goals by Bill Johnson, Jack Gordon and Ray Portland Flatie. Al Juntz scored another for Ottawa and Bert Gratton replied for the Sherbrooke tally.

Sunday Ray Laplante, Skippy Burchell, Orval Tessier and Bobby Frampton scored the Montreal markers. Jacques Plante and Jean Bowmans scored for Sherbrooke.

Montreal Royals moved into second tally proved the winner as Chicoutimi Sagueneens shaded Quebec. Bernie Geoffrion, the NHL Montreal Canadiens' star while Gerry Desaban and Denis tallied for Quebec.

Sport in Brief

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lou Perini, who switched the Braves from Boston to Milwaukee last season, was cited Saturday night as the major league executive of the year by The Sporting News.

Perini, president of the Braves, was named in the annual selections by the baseball newspaper.

The Braves' league executive award went to R. W. (Dick) Burnett, president of the Texas League.

Gene Autry, owner of the world champion New York Yankees, was named manager of the year in the baseball writers' poll. Cleveland third baseman and the Braves' most valuable player, was picked as the major league's outstanding player.

In the minor leagues, Bobby Bragan of the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast League was cited as the top manager. Gene Conley, pitcher for Toledo of the American Association, was selected as the outstanding player, and Carl W. Roth, general manager of the Peoria club of the Three-I League, was cited as the leading executive for the lower classification minors.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Richmond will have a big list of players to choose from if the city succeeds in its efforts to call down a spot in the class AAA International Baseball League in 1954.

Harry C. Selhold, who will operate the team if a park can be found to accommodate it, revealed Sunday that major and minor league clubs have offered him 55 players. If Richmond erases the "tentative" label on its IL franchise, Selhold said he and his newly appointed manager, Luke Appling, will meet Sunday to make the trip to Florida for spring training.

Selhold already had purchased nine players from Baltimore Orioles, who held down a franchise in the International League during the last season, has stepped up to the majors. Chicago Cubs now have made 24 players available for sale, the club's members of their Los Angeles and Springfield, Mass., organizations.

Last-Minute Touchdown Wins Pro Football Title for Lions

DETROIT (AP)—End Jim Doran of Detroit Lions waited until the precise moment to catch his first touchdown pass of the season—and it was worth $23,812.44.

That's how much extra the Lions earned Sunday for clipping Cleveland Browns 17-16 for their second straight National Football League championship.

The game was a real thriller, matched by only a few pro playoffs, and the ironic part about it was that Doran was supposed to play defence, and not offence. He was forced into offensive action when Leon Hart, Detroit's towering end, suffered a wrenched knee early in the game.

With barely two minutes to play Ken Dora was gathered in Bobby Layne's winning touchdown pass.

It was a crushing jolt for the Browns who were hoping to regain their accustomed position as rulers of the professional football world. They led 16-10 with less than five minutes to go, thanks to Otto Graham's pass to Lou (The Toe) Groza and a nine-yard touchdown run by fullback Chick Jagade.

MARCH 30 YARDS

But the Lions marched 80 yards in eight pulsating plays. Layne hit Doran with three passes in the drive. They combined on

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons fought their way to two American Hockey League week-end victories and emerged a slim two points ahead of second-place Cleveland Barons.

Sunday at Buffalo, it was touch-and-go until the seven-minute mark of the third period when Buffalo's Bill Mosienko, one of the Bisons' top scorers, Gerry Ehman and Siewy Wosky got the other Bison tallies. Norm Corcoran, Arnie Kullman and Skip Teal replied for the Bears.

At Providence, goals by Tod Campeau, Zellio Toppazzini and Paul Knox in the first period were matched by Elliot Chorley, Bill Gooden and Del Franche of Syracuse. The opening period couldn't break the deadlock.

Saturday's results: Buffalo 3, Pittsburgh 1 Cleveland 4, Hershey 3; Syracuse 6, Providence 2.

Four Games Added To Junior A Loop

TORONTO (CP)—Troy Gregg, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, said Sunday night that four home games will be added to the schedule of the junior A group to meet requests of Ontario clubs.

The Ontario teams, led by Jack Motz, president of Gail Black Hawks, and Hap Emms of Barrie, previously said they would meet each other on the schedule with Quebec unless they were given more home games.

When the inter-locking schedule was drawn up it was expected the Ontario teams would get more home games. When the schedule was completed they discovered they had lost four home dates.

Gregg said he will meet soon with Frank Buckland, first vice-president of the OHA, to draw up a new schedule.

Teepees Tie St. Michael's for Lead After Brawl-Marked Win Over Tigers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines TeePees fans were treated to their first afternoon game in 11 years of junior hockey Saturday and they got a near riot thrown in for good measure.

The TeePees trounced Hamilton Tigers 6-1 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game that ended with police being called in to break up a row. Rough play in the third period reached a boiling point with 45 seconds to play.

Nelson Bullock of the TeePees and Lionel Hotley of the Tigers were handed major penalties for fighting. On the way to the players' bench, the Tigers' Barry Halton swung at a spectator in a rail seat and Larry Hillman poked at other fans with his stick.

Police broke up that battle and as the game ended Joe Zorica led a fistic charge across the ice to resume the engagement. No damage resulted as officials and police steered the combatants to their dressing rooms.

The TeePees moved them into a first-place tie with Toronto St. Michael's College Majors. Toronto Marlboros, who beat the Majors 6-4 in Toronto Sunday, are one second place, a point behind the TeePees and the Collegians.

St. Catharines will at Kitchener Tuesday night would give the TeePees sole possession of first place.

CIESLA STARS

Henry Ciesla spearheaded the TeePees' scoring attack Saturday with two goals. Pete Koval, Hugh Barlow, Don McLean and Barry Cullen were their other scorers. The Hamilton goal was fired by Paul Lavender.

Rookie Mike Nykoluk was the hero in the game between two-score teams, scoring two overtime goals.

The Marlboros, down in the first period, opened two fast goals in the third stanza to go ahead 3-2. But some goals by Charlie Conacher Irish netminder Gerry McNamara with more than two minutes of the period remaining and Marc Reaume scored for the Collegians to send the game into overtime.

Nykoluk's first goal in the extra period was matched by Paul Knox' counter for St. Michael's. But his second won it for Coach Jackson Beckett's insurance tally.

Other marksmen for St. Michael's were Jack Cottery and Jim Price. Wally Maxwell, Mike Elkhart and Billy Harris netted the other Marlboro goals.

Aussies Favored to Win Davis Cup After Head Whips Seixas in Singles

MELBOURNE (CP)—The canonball service of Australia's 18-year-old Lewis Hoad was the key for Vic Seixas to handle today and give the defending champions a 1-1 split and a clear edge in the Davis Cup challenge round against the United States.

Although Hoad's 6-4, 6-2, 6-3 victory over Seixas was matched by a 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 win by U.S. Navy ensign Tony Trabert from the ever Rosewall, the Australians are conceded a definite edge in Tuesday's doubles match. If they can come through as expected, another split in the final two singles would give them their fourth straight cup.

Hoad, who had never won the more experienced Seixas in six previous meetings, outclassed the Philadelphian from the opening game, in which he broke the American's service. His own booming serves forced Seixas to stand as much as three feet behind the baseline in his efforts to return the ball.

Trabert evened the count by banging away at the forehand of the unsettled Rosewall. The two sets the Australian tried unsuccessfully to match his opponent's power game. In the third set he tried placements and volleys to greater effect, breaking Trabert's service in the seventh game, but eventually lost out.

DOUBLES LINE-UP

Tuesday's doubles are expected to pit Hoad and Rosewall against Trabert and Seixas, although there may be changes in the Australian team. Captain Harry Hopman may withdraw the 160-pound Rosewall

Mammoth Ice Shows Take Over In London

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Stage pantomimes, as traditional to the Christmas season in Britain as plum pudding and mistletoe, are being pushed out of London by Hollywood-type glamour served on ice.

Mammoth ice shows with huge casts have moved in and almost taken over. Three major skating extravaganzas are booked into stadia in or around London for the Yule season but only one specimen of the time-honored "panto" on boards is scheduled here.

There is no doubt as to the popularity of ice spectacles. At least one ticket agency has sold out its allotment of seats for all three shows while the Keith Prowse agency, London's largest, reports its share almost gone.

BARBARA ANN POPULAR

One of the first large-scale ice shows to hit London following the war was a version of "Rose Marie" which starred Canada's Barbara Ann Scott. It opened in September, 1950 and ran for three months. Since then the ice shows have caught on with Britons and can count on full houses.

Ice shows in recent years have borrowed heavily from straight pantomimes for theme and treatment while adding more color and action.

British critics are generally agreed that the secret of the ice shows' success is that they combine the best of several theatre attractions. The speed and acrobatics to the music and dancing of a Broadway musical and the dazzling sets and costumes of a Hollywood film are all mixed into the program.

CANNOT KEEP UP

Pantomime producers like Emile Littler, London impresario, protest that they cannot possibly afford to stage shows to rival the ice spectacles, each one of which costs

U.S. Navy Saves Crew Of British Sunderland

TOKYO (Reuters) — The United States Navy today announced a task force had rescued 11 crew members of a British Sunderland flying boat which crash-landed near an island in the Straits of Korea Sunday.

Some of the British airmen were lifted from the crippled plane by helicopters. Others paddled ashore in a rubber life raft and two remained aboard the plane to direct salvage operations, the navy said.

Engine trouble forced the landing near Tshushima Island.

Volcano Caused Rail Disaster In New Zealand

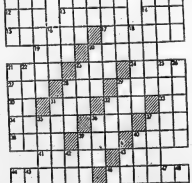
By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND (CP)—An eruption of the 9,000-foot volcano Ruapehu in the centre of New Zealand's North Island has been established as the cause of a Christmas Eve railway disaster which took 165 lives.

Mountaineers who examined the summit of the mountain Sunday found evidence of a volcanic upheaval which sent a vast volume of water from Crater lake rushing down the mountainside.

The lake, which normally covers 14 acres, is in the crater of the volcano. Several times in living memory it has been dispersed by eruptions. Usually the water runs down the many streams which have their source on slopes of the mountain.

This time the upheaval appears to have forced a tremendous volume of water over the southeast edge of the crater carrying an avalanche of ice, snow and volcanic ash down the mountainside into the narrow Wangaehu river, swelling it to 25 feet above normal level and sweeping away the railroad bridge on the plain below.



Thousands of tons of ice were carved out of the glacier and swept down with the debris.

Prime Minister Sydney Holland, who has been on the scene directing relief operations since early Christmas Day, returned to Auckland Sunday night. Immediately upon his return he had an audience with the Queen who showed deep concern over details of the disaster and keen interest in relief operations. Holland told the Queen her messages of sympathy and concern, and her practical gesture in calling on survivors, had been a source of comfort to all.

GIFTS FOR REFUGEES

OSLO (CP)—The Norwegian society for Czechoslovakian relief has shipped three tons of Christmas gifts to Czech refugees in camps in Western Germany, Austria and Italy. Norwegian Christmas trees with decorations are also en route.

Labor Minister Says 1953 Good Year for Workers

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg said in a year-end message that measured by any standard 1953 was a good year for the working people and industries of Canada.

Industrial output is expected to be $24,000,000,000 compared with $23,000,000,000 in 1952 and the labor force in industries other than agriculture totalled 4,451,000 in August—latest month available—compared with 4,326,000 a year ago.

Personal incomes rose although wage increases averaging 10 cents an hour were smaller than in some years since the Second World War. However, the cost of living levelled off allowing the working man a greater return for his work in terms of goods and services.

"Not only was the average worker able to obtain more goods and services with the money he spent but by and large he was able to save more money," Mr. Gregg said.

The steady trend towards shorter working hours, longer vacations and more paid statutory holidays in manufacturing industries continued. The proportion of factory workers on a 40-hour week almost doubled since 1949 and the percentage on a 48-hour week was reduced by half. The five-day week in industry has become more common in plants and offices.

Commonwealth Is Entirely New Conception Says Queen In Her Christmas Address

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — The Queen, in her Christmas Day broadcast to the Commonwealth pledged herself to the conception of an equal partnership of nations and races. The Commonwealth, she said, bears no resemblance to the empires of the past but is an entirely new conception, built on the highest qualities of the spirit of man.

Following is the text of the Queen's address:

"Last Christmas I spoke to you from England. This year I am doing so from New Zealand. Auckland, which I reached only two days ago is, I suppose, as far as my city in the world from London, and I have travelled some thousands of miles through many changing scenes and climates on my voyage here.

"Despite all that, however, I find myself today completely and most happily at home. Of course, we all want our children at Christmas time, for that is the season above all others when each family gathers at its own hearth. I hope that perhaps mine are listening to me now, also. I am sure that when the time comes they too will be great travellers.

"My husband and I left London — month ago, and we have already paid short visits to Bermuda, Jamaica, Fiji and Tonga, and have passed through Panama. I should like to thank all our hosts very warmly for the kindness of their welcome and the great pleasure of our stay.

"In a short time we shall be visiting Australia and, later, Ceylon, and before we end this great journey, we shall catch a glimpse of other places in Asia, Africa and in the Mediterranean.

FIRST WORLD VOYAGE

So this will be a voyage around the world—the first that a Queen of England has been privileged to make as Queen. But what is really important to me is that I set out on this journey in order to see as much as possible of the people and countries of the Commonwealth and Empire, to learn at first hand something of their triumphs and difficulties, and something of their hopes and fears.

At the same time, I want to show that the Crown is not merely an abstract symbol of our unity but a personal and living bond between you and me.

Some people have expressed the hope that my reign may mark a new Elizabethan age. Frankly, I do not myself feel at all like my great predecessor, who was blessed with neither husband nor children, who ruled as a despot and was never able to leave her native shores.

But there is at least one very significant resemblance between her age and mine. For her kingdom, small though it may have been, and poor by comparison with the European neighbours, was yet great in spirit and well endowed with men who were ready to encompass the earth.

RICH IN ENTERPRISE

Now, this great Commonwealth, of which I am so proud to be the head, and of which that ancient kingdom forms a part, though rich in material resources, is richer still in the enterprise and courage of its peoples.

Little did those adventurous heroes of Tudor and Stuart times realise what would grow from the settlements which they and later pioneers founded.

From the empire of which they built the frame, there has arisen a world wide fellowship of nations of a type never seen before.

In that fellowship, the United Kingdom is an equal partner with many other proud and independent nations, and she is leading yet other still backward nations forward to the same goal.

All these nations have helped to create our Commonwealth, and all are equally concerned to maintain, develop and defend it against any challenge that may come.

As I travel across the world today, I am ever more deeply impressed with the achievement and opportunity which the modern Commonwealth presents.

Like New Zealand, from whose North Island I am speaking, every one of its nations can be justly proud of what it has built for itself on its own soil. But their greatest achievement, I suggest, is the Commonwealth itself, and that owes much to all of them.

PLEDGED TO PEACE

Thus formed, the Commonwealth bears no resemblance to the empires of the past. It is an entirely new conception—built on the highest qualities of the spirit of man: friendship, loyalty and the desire for freedom and peace.

To that new conception of an equal partnership of nations and races, I shall give myself heart and soul every day of my life.

I wished to speak of it from New Zealand this Christmas Day because we are celebrating the birth of the Prince of Peace, who preached the brotherhood of man. May that brotherhood be furthered by all our thoughts and deeds in the year to come.

In pursuit of that supreme ideal, the Commonwealth is moving steadily toward greater harmony among its many creeds, colors and races, despite the imperfections by which, like every human institution, it is beset.

Already indeed, in the last half-century it has proved itself the most effective and progressive association of peoples which history has yet seen; and its ideal of brotherhood embraces the whole world.

To all my peoples throughout the Commonwealth, I commend that Christmas hope and prayer.

And now I want to say something to my people in New Zealand. Last night a most grievous railway accident took place in Tangiwai which will have brought tragedy into many homes and sorrow into all upon this Christmas Day. I know there is no one in New Zealand and indeed throughout the Commonwealth, who will not join with my husband and me in sending those who mourn a message of sympathy in their loss. I pray that they and all who have been injured may be comforted and strengthened.

Eisenhower Acts To Protect U.S. Producers

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower, acting to protect American producers, has decided to limit imports of oats into the United States from non-Canadian sources to 2,500,000 bushels from Dec. 23, 1953, to Sept. 30, 1954.

The move, announced Sunday, supplements an earlier agreement which restricts shipments of oats from Canada to 23,000,000 bushels during the period Dec. 10, 1953, to next Sept. 30.

Argentina is the biggest exporter of oats to the U.S. aside from Canada.

A department of agriculture spokesman in Washington said oat imports from Argentina in the last six months amounted to 1,500,000 bushels but purchases there in the last few weeks indicated the import figure would have been increased "quite a little." About 200,000 bushels of oats were imported from Mexico annually from 1948 through 1950 but none last year.

Strikers Ignore Vote Taken By Committee

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—The 1,600 men who have been on strike for four months at Noranda Mines Limited practically ignored a vote conducted Sunday by a Rouyn-Noranda citizens' committee.

The vote was on whether to accept a company offer of a wage increase of 7½ per cent.

Only 30 ballots were cast when the polls closed for the day. Voting continues today.

Officials of the striking United Steelworkers of America CIO-CCL said those who voted were not not union members.

Union members stood in 10-below-zero weather outside the polling places and distributed handbills which advised rejection of the offer and announced that the union will hold its own vote today on the wage offer.

At church services Sunday, Roman Catholic clergy told the strikers it would be a good thing to vote. The messages from the pulpits said it would be bad if a poor turnout led the citizens' committee to withdraw its efforts to settle the strike.

The union called the strike to enforce demands for wage increases and for the checkoff of union dues.

Police Receive 'Ransom Note' Asking $50,000

Think Screwball Sent Letter Saying McDowell Girl Alive

TORONTO (CP) — York county crown attorney Harold Sanders said today a $50,000 "ransom note" has been received in the Marion McDowell disappearance case but he said that it probably was sent by some "screwball!"

The note said that the pretty 17-year-old bride, reported kidnapped by a hooded gunman from a parked car in suburban Scarborough township Dec. 6, is "alive and well." It instructed the family to raise $50,000.

Sanders said: "There are about 99 chances in 100 that it is the work of a screwball but we have to take that single chance."

AD PUT IN PAPER

He said instructions in the note have been followed to the letter but no communication had been established with the writer. An advertisement was placed in a Toronto newspaper addressed simply to "X" and saying: "I can get the $50."

The note was received five days after Dec. 6.

There was a second development in the case with disclosure of the discovery of an old salt cask and hat on Hogg's Hollow bridge in suburban Toronto early today.

India Assailed By South Korea For PoW Report

PANMUNJOM (AP) — South Korea's foreign minister today assailed India for backing a report claiming South Korea for sabotaging the explanations to balky Communist prisoners.

"We are not surprised," Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai said, "because we know India is with the Communists on all important issues."

Pyun's attack was the opening blow of an expected South Korean campaign against India's newfound virility in the touchy prisoner situation.

India, chairman power of the five-country repatriation commission, sided with Poland and Czechoslovakia in a majority report that accused South Korea of controlling compounds housing more than 22,000 anti-Communist North Koreans and Chinese war prisoners.

Only a small number of the anti-Communist prisoners "whose fate had not been communicated" had been returned to their homelands by an overwhelming majority.

A minority report by Sweden and Switzerland blamed Communist explanation teams for bringing out the interviews sometimes as long as five hours.

DISPUTE CHARGES

Pyun told a press conference in Seoul that he does not know what would be added to the prison compounds in the neutral zone but added: "If we do not know, Communist charges are fully founded."

The Communists were backing away from a Korean political conference because it would then make the release of unrepatriated prisoners Jan. 22 "look like a family reunion."

The Communist high command maintains that after the 90-day explanations and prisoner remaining should be turned over to the political conference for disposition. Negotiations toward setting up a political conference sat at a standstill.

The United Nations command maintains that armistice provides that all unrepatriated PoWs be released as civilians after 72 to 90 days after the explanation period which ended Dec. 23.

Canadians In Korea Had Good Christmas Holiday

OTTAWA (CP)—It was a merry Christmas and a happy one for Canadians serving in Korea this year—especially for the four Red Cross girls who helped with more than 100 soldiers at the men's canteen behind the lines.

Army headquarters, describing the holiday festivities of the 25th Canadian infantry brigade, said that after the girls finished dancing with the soldiers in the canteen they visited other men on duty in the line.

Besides the dancing, and religious services, soldiers found enough time to put on Christmas parties for four Korean orphanages and to present a gift to each of about 150 young orphans.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synoptic: Very cold weather continues as polar air is plunging southeastward into Ontario and will cover nearly the province by midnight or early Wednesday during Canada's real taste of winter.

Snowfall is expected to fall to 26 below in northern Ontario, 15 to 20 below in central sections and to near zero in southern areas, with only slight moderation during the day.

Snowflurries accompany the leading edge of the cold air. Heavier snowfalls will occur Wednesday in the southern Georgian Bay and eastern Niagara areas with considerable drifting. The Toronto area too should receive considerable snow Wednesday.

RHEE PROMISES TO FREE, RESCUE NORTH KOREANS

Says War With Reds 'Eventual, Inevitable'

By WILLIAM BARNARD

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee today called on the Allies to halt "futile discussions with the Communists" and join South Korea in "the last great battle to annihilate the Red forces that seek destruction of the Free World."

The fiery Korean patriot, in a New Year's message to his people, said that school his government is to unify Korea by force, asserted that a decisive war with communism is "eventual and inevitable."

A few hours earlier the aged leader pledged to North Koreans in a new year's greeting: "We will come to your rescue just as soon as we can."

He told the people of the Communist-ruled north "never do we forget, even in the nightmare dreams of sleep, that you live a terrible plight in which you are captives."

The strong statement appeared to give new life to his repeated threats over the last stages of the war last spring that South Korea would fight on alone if necessary to the Yalu river boundary.

Rhee demanded Koreans that he had agreed to a temporary halt in his aim to unify Korea and that Korean forces will remain from action for 90 days after the start of a Korean peace conference.

But the recent break-off of negotiations at Panmunjom, Rhee said, "can be regarded as final."

"If the United States continues to maintain its present strong stand, we shall never have to wait another three or four months in an attempt to prepare for a political conference that is foredoomed to be fruitless," Rhee said.

"Many times over we are convinced that as long as the Chinese Communists on Korean soil there can be no successful conference and no peace for our sufferings people.

It was his biggest stab yet "our allies come to realize fully that the war in Korea" has a close link with their future safety from Communism.

"Now to make certain that these sacrifices shall not have been in vain, we call upon them to continue their determination with the Communists, and to rise with us in courage and valor for the last great battle to annihilate the Red forces that seek the destruction of the Free World. . . ."

Former Toronto Alderman Fined

TORONTO (CP)—R. M. Spalding, Toronto osteopath and former Toronto alderman, Monday was fined $500 or three months on 12 charges of fraudulent use of Ontario Securities Commission Act.

Spalding pleaded guilty Dec. 18 to selling $18,000 worth of his own personal stock in the Sparling Corporation Limited. He was remanded today for sentence.

The charges were laid after commission investigator, testified Spalding formed the public company in 1947 to market his own invention of ulcer capsules.

Mr. Cox said Sparling, the corporation president, sold his patent to the company for 100,000 shares and a block of personal stock.

The company was registered with the securities commission and was qualified to sell company stock. Sparling, however, sold his personal stock.

Predict 360 Fatalities In New Year's Traffic

CHICAGO (AP)—The American traffic death toll for the New Year's week-end, the National Safety Council estimated today, may reach 360.

The council said its estimate, for immediate traffic deaths only, covers the period from 6 p. m. Thursday, New Year's Eve, to midnight Sunday (local time).

The council's estimate is the possible 360 victims was: "A wonderful way to start the New Year would be to start it!"

In the similar Christmas week-end period, 342 persons died in motor lives in traffic accidents, 13 more than the council had predicted.

Chimpanzee Being Raised as 'Child' In Home of Scientist and His Wife

BOSTON (AP)—A scientist and his wife say a chimpanzee they are raising as a "child" in their home is proving a terrific scribbling.

Dr. Keith J. Hayes and his wife Josephine, both of the American Association for the Advancement of Science say their experiences rear six-year-old Vik.

Recently, Hayes said, the chimp went on a pencil-sharpening spree.

"She came right over, borrowed my pocket knife and tried to sharpen it," said Hayes, who with his wife, Josephine, conducts research at the Yerkes Laboratory of Primate Biology, Orange Park, Fla.

Viki also likes to hammer nails, he reported.

"She doesn't actually build anything, but she likes to pound the nails into pieces of wood."

One time he found Viki before a mirror inspecting a loose baby tooth. After looking at it for a while she picked up a pair of pliers and began to pull it.

"She stopped before it came out," Hayes said. "Maybe it hurt."

That definitely was not imitative behavior, as she had never seen her parents' mouths during a visit to dentistry.

The couple brought Viki home when she was three days old and weighed four pounds. Now a husky 30 pounder, she wears dungarees, pants and a knitted T-shirt. A corduroy jumper is added if it gets chilly.

There have been a few problems.

"She doesn't always see things as we do," Hayes said. "To us, window drapes are a decoration. To her they're something to swing from.

"But we compromise and all get along very well."

Ontario High School Teachers Move to Overcome Shortage

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario high school teachers will consider a suggestion that British teachers be recruited to help ease the teacher shortage in the province.

S. G. R. Robinson, general secretary of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, told the group's annual three-day assembly Monday that British teachers who have come here so far have been "almost without exception, good capable teachers."

"Let us fill our ranks with these rather than have them filled for us by the half-trained or the untrained," Mr. Robinson said.

He said that 12 years from now 10,000 secondary school teachers would be needed, without considering further demands which would be made because of increased migration.

The Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation, also in session here this week, unanimously agreed that it does not consider it unethical for any member to fill a legal vacancy even if he is not qualified on any secondary school staff.

STRIKE THREAT

This decision was considered a step which could pave the way for some of them to take jobs in the secondary schools if the staffs of these schools carried out a threat to resign next March. They have threatened this action if the Toronto board of education does not eliminate the single salary schedule for public and high school teachers.

However, an official of the public teachers' federation said that members have no intention of strike-breaking if the Toronto secondary school teachers leave their jobs.

Lillie Coughlin of Windsor, president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation and the OSSTF assembly it must resist attempts to lower teacher qualifications.

Miss Coughlin said the province's high school population was increasing at never before each year we find an increasingly fewer number of our first rank university graduates willing to spend the extra year necessary to obtain secondary school training, commerce and the learned professions offer more in salaries and prestige than does teaching, she added.

900 REPLACEMENTS

Mr. Robinson said the present number graduating from the Ontario College of Education as high school teachers barely meets the annual demand for normal or normal replacements.

The OSSTF general secretary listed four other possible steps besides recruiting British teachers to overcome the shortage: Lower requirements for secondary school teachers, fill vacancies by promotion from high school to public school, the setting up of four-year high schools run by public school teachers covering grades seven to 12 inclusive, and the establishment of a three-year university course for teachers.

The Public School Teachers' Federation, which has a membership of 18,000 teachers, last night endorsed recommendations made by a royal commission on teacher standards in teacher training. The federation decided to support the commission's educational aims but to staff schools by admitting grade 12 graduates to teacher training courses.

However, it objected to these students receiving a first-class teaching certificate identical to those obtained by students with higher qualifications.

The decision was also taken to hold another summer course next year in administration and supervision for principals and principals. The course, held for the first time this summer at Queen's University, Kingston, was a success and $3,000 will be included in the budget to operate it in 1954.

Queen Bestows Honors on 60 In Flower-Bedecked Hall

By GOMER JONES

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth stood amid the flowers and buzz of an indoor garden here tonight and bestowed the insignia of honour on 60 men and women.

The investiture, held in the flower-decked town hall, contrasted with similar ceremonies in the formal luxury of the state or gold state ballroom at Buckingham Palace in London.

The Queen wore an ice blue, full-skirted evening gown of slipper satin. Her only jewelry was her diamond circlet, diamond and pearl drop earrings, and diamond necklace and bracelets. The Duke of Edinburgh wore evening dress with the star and riband of the Order of the Garter and decorations.

Multicolored banners hung round the walls of the hall, which usually is used for wrestling contests, dances and flower shows.

Eighteen selected persons—relatives and friends of the recipients of honors—and invited guests attended the ceremonies.

First to receive honors the Queen was William Goodfellow, who received the accolade as a knight bachelor. The Queen laid the sword blade lightly on each shoulder. Sir William is managing director of services to the dairy industry and for primary producers.

As each recipient came forward across the stage, Lord Althorp, Lord-in-Waiting to the Queen's household, handed Queen Elizabeth her insignia or decoration on a scarlet velvet cushion. She had a handshake and a few words for each.

The investiture lasted half an hour.

Cost of New Year's Frolic Comes High in Some Cities

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some partying Canadians will spend more than $100 each on New Year's Eve entertainment, but most revellers will settle for a cheaper evening in a friend's home.

A Canadian Press survey shows that cost of the biggest celebrations across the country, including taxis, food and drinks, ranges from $20 a couple in St. John's, Nfld., to $100 in Toronto.

"You can spend $100 here as easily as anywhere," said a spokesman for a Toronto night club which caters to businessmen executives. The club's New Year's party cover charge is $25 a couple but the cost goes up in the extras —three bottles of imported champagne, for example.

WIDE PRICE RANGE

In between the St. John's-Toronto cost figures are: Vancouver, $40 a couple; Montreal, Regina, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Saint John, N.B., $30 a couple. There are no cost estimates from Montreal where a 10 p. m. provincial curfew will force bars to close at 10 p. m. and shunt celebrations into private homes.

The majority of Canadians will bring in the New Year on a much less lavish scale. Many plan to attend midnight movies and others across the country will go to house parties and drink nothing stronger than ginger ale.

In Vancouver, prices of New Year's Eve entertainment range from $4 to $15 a couple. Some places serve a turkey dinner; others have only dancing.

Two big hotels in Vancouver were booked early for 1,400 persons, mostly young. Older couples prefer home parties.

In the Prairie cities, hotels serve dinners and dance for parties for about $15 a couple.

INTERNATIONAL FLAVOR

The big hotels in Manitoba are expected to go to Minneapolis or St. Paul to get United States for their celebration.

Toronto night spots expect queues from the United States. One reports reservations from as far as Calgary. The Royal York Hotel, which is accepting reservations from 200 couples, has some booked from Mexico.

Sample delicacies from the Royal York's 24-course dinner served in the half shell, eggs stuffed with caviar, soup, salad, sweetbreads, and roast pheasant. Cost is $35 a couple for food only.

In Montreal, night clubs generate a bourse parties but the big hotels will have their usual New Year dance at $16 a couple. Tickets have been sold out for days. Dresden spots in Hull, Que., across the Ottawa river are closing at 9 p. m., after a Quebec curfew law.

Montreal night clubs, long considered Canada's loveliest, will be quiet because of the curfew.

In the Maritimes, prices for hotel dances range from $10 at St. John's, Nfld., to $13 at Saint John. Midnight movies and house parties are favorites in Maritime centres.

HOLLINGER GOLD MINE STRIKE OFFICIALLY ENDS

New Contract Will Run for 18 Months

TIMMINS (CP) — The Hollinger gold mine strike officially ended last midnight.

Members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), who went on strike 14 weeks ago to back demands for a "substantial" wage increase and the dues checkoff, dismantled picket tents outside the mine gates and officials of the company and of the union met to sign a collective bargaining agreement.

The signing was the first break in the union's strike which has tied up eight mines in this northern Ontario district, some since mid-July.

Still on strike are employees of Preston East Dome, McIntyre Porcupine, Broulan Reef, Aunor, Hallnor, Coulsaurum and Dobrite Silver-Crow Wing, all seeking pay boosts and the checkoff.

The new Hollinger contract will run for 18 months.

SETTLEMENT OFFER

Meanwhile, at Noranda, Que., members of the same union voted 1,388 to 1,188 to accept a wage increase taveraging about 18 cents an hour. The vote was secret balloted. In the Noranda mines have been on strike since Sept. 24 to enforce demands for a wage increase of 25½ cents an hour over the basic rate of $1.05, a guaranteed annual wage of up to 44 a week, shift premiums, paid holidays and the union dues checkoff of union dues.

Noranda union members virtually ignored a vote on the offer held under auspices of a citizens' committee. The result of that vote was 118 in favor and 14 opposed.

The Hollinger strikers also walked out Sept. 24 was an hourly wage increase of five cents, but wanted 10 cents.

WORKERS RETURN SOON

The first of the Hollinger strikers to return to work were those in the mine, Wednesday. The company said the mine underground work force will likely be back on the job Saturday.

W. J. Dunn, mine manager, said in a statement released after the signing:

"I am pleased that we have signed a collective agreement between the company and the United Steelworkers of America.

"Our labor relations objective is one of getting back to normal operations as soon as possible. The first men will be called back Wednesday morning and we expect that it will be possible to call every employee by the middle of next week.

"I hope the spirit of this new agreement marks the beginning of a long period of industrial peace and development."

The Hollinger agreement may set a standard for settlement of the disputes at the other mines. The union has been in settlement conferences and five other companies have agreed to them.

Both Food, Bacteria Necessary For Tooth Decay Report Shows

By FRANK CAREY

BOSTON (AP)—A new concept of tooth decay—that both food and bacteria are necessary for it to occur—was reported today to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The report resulted from research by Dr. Notre Dame dentist and dental school and the University of Chicago. Dr. Frank J. Orland said they were feed flies living the rats were fed diets which produced result in tooth decay. But none of the rats developed bad teeth.

At Harvard, rats were reared under normal laboratory conditions and therefore had bacteria in their mouths, just as man does under ordinary conditions of living.

The rats were fed the same kind of diets as the animals at Notre Dame but they were fed through a stomach tube so the food never touched their teeth.

Again, no rats developed tooth decay.

Said Dr. Orland:

"These two rather unique experiments have demonstrated that both needed evidence which tends to establish the concept that a diet living tooth cannot decay in the complete absence of bacteria nor in the complete absence of food."

Dr. Reidar Sognaes of Harvard said:

"Further work on laboratory animals of exact hereditary and nutritional background and raised on synthetic diets of known composition offers real promise for testing the effect of specific food elements. Drugs and other agents with potential decay preventive properties."

Dulles Hints U.S. To Hit Red China If She Intervenes

Warns Against Aggression In Indo-China or Korea

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles hinted today that U.S. sea and air forces will retaliate directly if Communist China intervenes in Indo-China or renews the fighting in Korea.

In a press conference discussion of President Eisenhower's decision to pull two divisions out of Korea, Dulles said the U.S. might meet renewed aggression in Korea or Indo-China by striking at the aggressor forces in places outside of Korea and Indo-China.

He said that while American strength in terms of foot soldiers in Korea is being reduced, its power in terms of modern electronics—obviously new weapons—is being increased.

Elsenhower himself had made much the same points when disclosing the decision to withdraw two divisions from Korea.

TIME TABLE NOT UPSET

Dulles expressed confidence that available French and native forces in Indo-China will deal effectively with the new Communist threat across Laos.

He said that nothing the Reds have done in this operation has altered appreciably the time table set by which the American and French governments hope to break Communist power in Indo-China in a year.

Asked whether Dulles, said, he does not think that the Red drive represents any presentiv threat to Thailand, bordering Laos on the west.

OTHER STATEMENTS

On other points Dulles:

1. Made clear that the United States, Britain and France will accept Russia's proposal that the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting in Berlin be held Jan. 25 or later.

2. Disclosed he had planned to take up with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in Berlin next week—in the meeting now delayed—proposals for a summit meeting of President Eisenhower's a t o m ic plans and the cold war issue. But Berlin conference has been put off, some alternative way of taking up this question will be found, as it must be found.

3. Said the United States sees greater promise for international atomic agreement in a modest line than in the grandiose, sweeping plan, as he called it, for solving all atomic problems at once. He said he hoped the Soviet government also will accept that view.

3. Expressed hope that Israel and Jordan will hold a face-to-face conference soon to work out an agreement to eliminate points of friction between them.

DANGER EXAGGERATED

Dulles began his conference with a discussion of the situation in Indo-China. He said he thinks the importance of what has happened in Korea is greatly exaggerated in the press.

Some members of Congress Senator William Knowland (Rep.-Calif.) for one have expressed concern that Thailand might be invaded.

British Cabinet Discusses Plans For Berlin Talks

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill and his cabinet today discussed the Soviet proposal that the Berlin conference of the Big Four foreign ministers should open Jan. 25.

The reply of the Western powers accepting the Soviet date will be sent to Moscow soon, but the Western powers have still to agree with Russia where in Berlin the conference should be held. This will be discussed by representatives of the four high commissioners in Germany at meetings early in the year.

Britain, France and the United States would like Russia to accept the allied control council building in West Berlin as the conference site.

The cabinet today also gave a final briefing to R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, for flies tomorrow to Sydney, Australia, to take the chair at the finance ministers' meeting conference beginning Jan. 8.

Plan to Link Mecca and Syria With New Line

LONDON (Reuters) — Mecca-bound Mohammedan pilgrims, hundreds of thousands every year from beat, bandits and disease on the annual pilgrimage to the Holy City, may soon be able to speed through arid desert country to Mecca on board trains.

A reliable source said Monday that a line to bend Arabia was to link Mecca with Syria and Jordan by new rail lines, as part of the modernization program of the ad-rich Middle Eastern country.

Seven hundred miles of the new 1,300 mile line will be built from Medina south to Mecca, the government plans to build a new line, tracing a route the Hejaz railway took when he fled from Mecca in 622 a.d.

Mecca-bound continues on the government's new line linking the Holy City with the capital Ryadh.

Bumper Crop Grown from Skins Of Potatoes

The "eyes" had it!

The unwinking optics that mottle the skin of the ordinary potato, have yielded a crop of the largest specimens ever grown in the city, and possibly the district.

The crop grown in the garden of George Vuyk, Highland Avenue restaurateur, yielded some thirty bags. Between thirty and forty of the potatoes weighed 2½ pounds each. A large number averaged up to two pounds. Gooseburs were common.

The "trick apples" are cleanfleshed and solid. There is no evidence of "mollow centre". The skin is clear and the shape consistent.

No seed potatoes gave the gargantuan spuds they start in life. It all started with Clark Kennedy, one of De Vuyst's restaurant assistants.

Last spring Kennedy was peeling potatoes for the boss and decided that the "spuds" would grow from the skins which were plentifully scattered on the floor.

The peelings went into the De Vuyst garden and were treated with a "special fertilizer". This ster specimens.

The fertilizer? Ask Kennedy.

Three Municipalities to Have Elections Mon. for Reeveship

Acclamations for reeve seemed to be the order of the day in many of the county municipalities in which nominations were in yesterday.

This was true in Sidney, also in Tyendinaga township, and in Thurlow township. There will be elections for the office of reeve in Thurlow township, Hungerford and also in Frankford village.

In Sidney Township Reeve Harry Mintrow was returned by acclamation as was deputy reeve Byron Hardier and councillors Harley Hamilton, Basil Brooks, and James Campbell. Three other men, Albert Jones, Frank Bedell and Harold Terry were nominated for council but withdrew.

With the retirement of Reeve Percy Moore in Tyendinaga, Deputy Reeve Leslie McLaren stepped up to the office of reeve, by acclamation. Charles T. Long was acclaimed Deputy Reeve, while William J. Walsh, Martin Doyle, Carman Gibson, William Hanson and Delbert Hardy were nominated for council with three to be elected. Nominations close at 2 o'clock this evening to qualify.

In Stirling Reeve Russell K. West was returned by acclamation, while Deputy Reeve Wells Hollister, Nominated for council received acclamation for public. E. Bailey, C. A. Wills, Harry Philp, Guy Bradshaw and Milton Montgomery.

Five men, Dr. E. A. Carleton, R. E. Fox, R. B. Ketcheson, C. E. Ellis and Percy Rodgers, were nominated as school trustees for the village. There will be a vote.

CONTEST IN RAWDON

There was a possibility of a contest for the reeveship in Rawdon township with former reeve Wilford Conway and present deputy reeve Theodore Cooney both nominated for the position and with Dr. Ernest Heath, Mr. Heath, reeve for the past three years, declining to stand.

James Spry was acclaimed as deputy reeve, when three other nominees Ernest Saries, Gordon Bailey and Ernest Connolly withdrew. Seven men were nominated for council. They were Ernest Saries, Ray Short, Lorne Watson, Gordon Bailey, Kenneth Bailey, Kenneth Mumby and Karl McAdam. The last named three were declared duly qualified by nominations.

The township hall was filled for the nomination meeting which despite the number of nominations received, went off quietly.

There will be an election for reeve in Thurlow township with present reeve, Fred E. Mitchell being opposed by John H. Armstrong and Harry J. Harman. Other nominees for the reeveship included Cecil B. Ketcheson.

Cecil Ketcheson, Harry Wickett and H. Jack Allin were nominated for deputy reeve.

Nominations for Thurlow township council included Harry Wickett, Cecil Ketcheson, Frank Cook, Howard, Alfred Wickett, Carl Thompson and John H. Armstrong. Nominees for the North Dundas public school board included E. J. Wilkinson, Everett Geen, Earl Ray and Clifford Ray with two to be elected. Arnold Mitchell, Douglas Atkins and George Wyman received nomination for South Thurlow public school board.

CONTEST ASSURED

A contest for the reeveship was assured in Frankford village with Reeve George G. Montgomery and Carman Mills both nominated. Other nominees included James Johns and Roy Osterhout.

Nominees for council included, W. G. Reynolds, Leonard M. Reid, Howard Duncan, Ray Osterhout, Ross Turley, Frank Rabel, Hugh Beckett, Carman Mills, Percy Lawes, Jack Williams, Oscar E. Harris and Fred Munns. There are four to be elected.

With three to be elected the following were nominated for school board: Frank Rabel, Roy Hungerford, Raymond Rowe, Allan Lawes and Clayton Kemp. Wilmot H. Rose, George Kemp and Ernest Spencer were nominated for public utilities and all qualified. There are two to be elected.

Reeve Bernard J. Hunt and Deputy Reeve W. E. Bateman will contest the reeveship in Hungerford township with James Kinlin receiving acclamation for deputy reeve, stepping up from this year's council. Nominated for council were Harold Vardy, Edward Rivers and Morley Meeks, Arthur Bates, James Lajoie, Fergus Cassidy and Kenneth Jeffrey. The first three have qualified.

Number Stolen, Abandoned Bikes At Police Station

The number of stolen and abandoned bicycles recovered by police in various parts of the city is to be reduced by a new plan now in effect.

The whole trouble is that the bikes have not been licensed and when there is no record of serial numbers it is impossible to trace the owner", commented the police sergeant.

Owners of bicycles whose bikes have been stolen apparently fail to realize that police have now picked them up after they were abandoned and neglect calling around at the police station.

POLICE BLOTTER

"Be Prepared" must have been the motto of a thief active in the city during the Christmas eveningbut no true boy scout could be implicated in the dirty performance of two strings of Christmas tree lights from a Queen street residence.

The Queen street resident reported to police that he had a nicely-decorated tree on his front lawn. Yesterday he found a string of colored lights which adorned the tree had disappeared.

In another case in which two trucks were involved slowed traffic on Station street yesterday afternoon. Trucks driven by George Downes, Belleville, and Bennett Bouder, Trenton, bumped together as one vehicle passed on the other. The latter suddenly attempted to make a right hand turn into a driveway.

Outlines Voting Precedure At Rotary Conference

Ken Pairidge, past district governor from Brampton, spoke on the subject "Rotary at the International Level" on Monday at the local club's regular meeting. He revealed a number of interesting items concerned with the international organization.

Mr. Partridge, a nominee for the board of directors in 1954, discussed the composition of the board the method whereby an international president is chosen and a few / surrounding voting at an international conference.

He stated individual clubs are permitted one delegate for every 50 members, pointing out such a club is therefore allowed one vote by each delegate.

The birthday rose was presented E. S. Booth. Art Francis made the presentation. Another rose was given to Don Devers, the district Rotarian. Mr. Devers is from Wisconsin.

The speaker was introduced by Cecil Wilson and the appreciation of the club, was extended by Ed. Bernstein.

To Cut Accidents Make Law Feared Is Quebec View

QUEBEC (CP)—Court proceedings and heavy penalties should be the first step in the province's safety drive, the Quebec province Chamber of Commerce said today.

The 25,000-member chamber said in a brief prepared for submission to the Quebec government today motorists break the law "because they feel safe or do not fear penalties."

"A law is effective only as much as it is observed and it is best observed if sanctions are feared," said the brief which dealt mostly with highway safety.

LIQUOR CAUSES MISHAPS

Noting that liquor is one of the main causes of traffic accidents, the chamber said three kinds of motorists are mostly involved in accidents—the unfit, the ignorant and the careless.

"To eliminate the unfit, instruct the ignorant and keep the careless at a distance, the chamber believes it would be advisable that all motorists undergo a competence test," the brief said.

The tests would include all drivers under 25 years of age, all whose permits have been suspended temporarily and all who have been held responsible for accidents.

Two Americans Held for Years Freed by Russia

BERLIN (AP) — Two Americans held by the Russians for years were released by Soviet authorities in Berlin today.

The army announced the return of Pfc. Homer H. Cox, 33, of Tulsa, Okla., and Walter H. Unverzagt, 34, a merchant seaman, of San Francisco.

Cox has been missing from his military police unit in Berlin since Sept. 29, 1948. He apparently was arrested by the Russians in the Soviet sector of Berlin and has been held incommunicado, the army said.

Unverzagt disappeared in Finland in 1952 while on shore leave from his ship.

The two men apparently have been in Russian prison camps all this time.

Army officers said that the men "looked all right" physically except that they needed some barbering.

Russia Tries for Trade Supremacy, Says Traveller

While other travellers in Russia return with reports of living conditions and military preparations, Marshal McDuffie, New York lawyer who made a 10,000-mile tour of Russia, returns to New York with a report that the USSR plans to challenge the U.S. and the West in general for world trade. He said he was mollified of the Soviet economic intentions by Nikita S. Khrushchev, Red party chief. — Central Press Canadian.

Oil Stove Explodes Aboard Cabin Cruiser

OSHAWA (CP)—An oil stove exploded today aboard a 30-foot cabin cruiser in the Oshawa harbor, setting fire to the boat and doing damage estimated at $5,000.

No one was aboard at the time.

The boat, owned by Simpson Marine Construction Company of Brockville, put in at this Lake Ontario port Monday night because of bad weather.

WILL FREE PRISONERS

ROME (AP)—Soviet ambassador Mihail Kostilev Monday told Premier Pella that 28 convicted Italian soldiers and six civilians will be freed for return to Italy as the result of a Russian amnesty. What they were convicted of was not disclosed. The 34 are only a tiny fraction of the thousands of Italian prisoners-of-war which Italy claims Russia still holds.

Scouts Overdue In Wild Region West of Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—Five Calgary Boy Scouts and two scoutmasters were reported overdue Monday night in wild, mountainous country near Upper Kananaskis, about 75 miles west of here.

The party included scoutmaster James Jamieson, assistant scoutmaster David Knox and scouts Earl Hand, Ben Potter, John Williamson, Phil Draper and Mike Simpson.

Scout officials and the RCMP expressed no immediate concern as the group carried enough food for another three days and was outfitted with sleeping bags.

The hikers left the Big Horn ranger station Saturday to cross the Highwood summit to Mile 96 of the Kananaskis valley, a distance of about 16 miles.

Scientists Hope To See Atoms

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Scientists are on the same way to-ward being able to see and photograph small molecules and even individual atoms. Dr. Linus Pauling, Physical Society was told today. He said that he can observe what takes place when a catalyst breaks down one chemical compound to form another—a reaction widely used in industry but little understood. He also viewed some electrically-interesting lattices formed by atoms in making crystals.

These prospects were reported by Dr. Pauling Henderson of the University of Washington, Seattle, and Dr. W. J. Dolan and Dr. W. P. Dyke, of Linfield College, McMinnville, Ore.

GERMAN DEVICE

Best bet for getting a look at the atom, Dr. Henderson said, is an instrument called an ion microscope developed by scientists of Siemens Reiniger-Werke at Erlangen Germany.

The German researchers haven't seen an individual atom yet but have reported getting acceptable pictures of molecules, Dr. Henderson said.

POLICE RECEIVE

In the coat was Marion McDowell's name and the address 631 Collins Ave. street, Montreal. Scarborough police—are checking with the Montreal police—reported there was no such number and they were checking further.

FIND INITIAL SCRATCHED

Meanwhile Scarborough police reported they had picked up a youth who had scratched initials on Marion McDowell's arm. But they said the initials were not those of another youth who they were convinced had nothing to do with the case.

Acquaintances of Marion had told authorities earlier that the tyslat had exhibited the initials "DG" scratched on his arm and had said she scratched her name or initials on the arm of the youth who had imprinted his initials on her.

Marion McDowell was parked with 13-year-old James Wilson in the latter's car on a lonely lover's lane in Scarborough the night of Dec. 6.

Wilson reported to police that a hooded gunman slugged him and kidnapped Marion and the girl. He said the gunman stuffed Marion unconscious into the trunk of a second car and drove off.

An intensive two-week search failed to turn up any clue as to the girl's whereabouts and police have expressed fear that she had been killed.

"GOODBYE" NOTE

Police said the coat discovered in Hogg's Hollow also contained a note written on the inside flap of a cigaret package which said: "Goodbye, J.M.—love, K.M."

Mr. Sanders disclosed that the "unknown note" was signed with the letter "K."

He said the note, partly printed and partly written in longhand, was delivered in error to another McDowell family on Oak Park avenue, the street on which Marion's parents live. It was addressed simply to "Mr. McDowell, Oak Park avenue."

It was turned over to police.

Mr. McDowell, father of Marion, was instructed to keep the matter secret while Mr. Sanders inserted an add in the Toronto newspaper in an effort to make contact with the writer.

Today Mr. McDowell declined to discuss the note and Scarborough police chief Wilfred McLellan said he had no comment to offer as to whether the note might be genuine.

LONDON (Reuters) — Maj-Gen. Sir John Winterton, British military governor of Trieste's Anglo-American zone, arrived Monday for London on leave. He will report on conditions in the troubled free territory during his unofficial visit.

Looks Like Colds Will Be Popular

GLASGOW (Reuters)—The Scots, who for hundreds of years have been brewing the Highlands' special cure for a cold are going to export the heady "medicine" from Jan. 1 to more countries.

The mixture, called Atholl Brose, is made by judiciously combining malt whisky, oatmeal, honey and cream.

It will be made commercially, for the first time, at Pitlochry, near Inverness, a private firm disclosed today.

Atholl Brose gets its name, according to tradition, from the Earl of Atholl who in the time of James III of Scotland (1451-1488) captured the Earl of Ross by putting the potent b rw in a well from which his victim was known to drink.

Robert Louis Stevenson mentions the drink in "Kidnapped." The Scottish national dictionary defines the brew as "a cure

One Year Term For Attempting To Smuggle Gold

MANILA (AP)—William Ernest Jolliffe, 37-year-old China-born Canadian was convicted today of trying to smuggle gold bullion out of the Philippines. He was sentenced to one year in prison.

Judge Bienvenido A. Tan also fined Jolliffee $1,000 and confiscation of 22 gold bars valued at $17,200.

The defence said it would appeal.

Jolliffe, a former assistant to the Canadian government trade commission in Shanghai, was arrested at Philippine customs agents Dec. 7 as he was about to board a plane for Hong Kong. They found a cold found strapped around his waist.

CHINA-BORN

Jolliffe was attached to the trade commissioner office in Shanghai after the Pacific war, then settled in Hong Kong and recently moved to Manila. His wife and three children are in Canada. He was spending the Christmas holidays in the British crown colony.

Jolliffe was born at Chengtu in China in 1916. He served part of the Second World War on the Atlantic with the Royal Canadian Navy. In 1945 he was posted to Hong Kong as assistant to the Canadian trade commission, but he resigned to go into business in Shanghai. His wife and three children arrived in Hong Kong from Toronto about six weeks ago.

QUEEN BESTOWS

WAITING CROWDS CHEER

Crowds who had waited in the streets for more than three hours greeted the Queen with cheers as they left the hall and drove to Government House.

The royal party returned here earlier today from Whangarei.

Before leaving Whangarei, the couple chatted with 100-year-old Mrs. Jessie Mackie, one of the few surviving original settlers who migrated from Nova Scotia to New Zealand. Mrs. Mackie, who was born aboard a ship bound from Nova Scotia, was presented to the Queen here.

The Queen wore a short-sleeved dress of pale green, with a design of dark green and white dots, and a matching yellow hat. The duke was in a blue suit.

Their first stop was at Warkworth, where a public welcome in the main street awaited them. The Queen was presented with a basket of fruit.

From Warkworth the Queen and duke drove to Auckland, 45 miles north of Auckland. They spent three hours at the beach in sunny weather and enjoyed a picnic lunch at a cottage on the shore.

Queen Elizabeth under the shade of red-blossomed pohutukawa trees visited her husband's war memorial for a swim and a canoe ride on the blue waters of the bay.

New Zealand Quakes

AUCKLAND (AP)—Nine earth tremors were felt today in Rotorua in the centre of New Zealand's North Island.

Townspeople were awakened by the noise but no damage was reported.

NON-STOP FLIGHT ENDS

Gives Up Run To Pelee After 8,500 Flights

LEAMINGTON (CP) — After 10 years and more than 8,500 flights, veteran pilot Harry Honey Saturday gave up his Pelee Island mail run.

Mr. Honey, who plans to start a business in the United States, has an accident-free record on his 23-mile run which he first flew in a single-engined plane out of Windsor. When Leamington airport was completed he moved.

The plane is the only connection between the island, off the shore of Lake Erie, and the mainland for about three months each year. His cargo has included mail, pump handles, assorted groceries, injured persons and women in the advanced stages of pregnancy.

Douglas Worgan of Toronto took over the flights Monday.

Asks Canada, U.S. Limit Lake Trade To Own Vessels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) today again expressed confidence Monday that Canada and the United States can agree on a treaty to restrict trade between Great Lakes ports to vessels of the two countries.

The proposed treaty would not affect trade between Canadian and United States ports and those of other countries. It would apply only to vessels in the Canadian-U. S. trade.

Ferguson discussed the matter with President Eisenhower last week. He talked at the White House Monday with Bernard Shanley, special counsel to the president, and Livingston Merchant of state, defence and commerce departments, and the maritime commission and the budget bureau.

In a statement Potter asserted that "it is essential that only American and Canadian vessels should be permitted to engage in the transportation of goods by water between the United States and Canada."

Maintenance of U. S. and Canadian merchant fleets, Potter continued, "is essential to the national defense and internal security of both nations.

DEFENCE MEASURE

"We cannot afford to rely on foreign ships to support this trade. Such ships, under pressure from these vessels would have to be removed from the waters in time of war and, therefore, would not be available to prosecute this defence effort which is so important to our countries."

Scottish Miners Throw Support Behind Red

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — Scottish miners Monday threw their support behind Arthur Horner, British Communist as their candidate for the presidency of British National Union of Mineworkers.

Abe Moffat, 57, a member of the Communist party's executive committee, thus became a leading contender for the post in the 700,000-man union which dominates Britain's coal industry.

His candidacy got support from 91 of the national union's 96 Scottish branches at a meeting of the Scottish area executive committee here. The almost unanimous nomination was called unique in the Scottish miners' history.

Another avowed Communist, Arthur Horner, is already secretary of the union. But Sir William Lawther, a "moderate," at present holds the key post of president.

Bush Fire Near Observatory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mount Wilson's valuable observatory and television equipment were still safe today as more than 1,000 men battled two forest fires in the San Gabriel mountains.

One fire, which fanned the flames Monday abated, but the fire creeping up the mountain was reported out of control and its progress was estimated from 200 yards to a quarter of a mile from observatory structures.

Thousands of acres have been swept in this area and another 3,000 in the second fire 20 miles eastward, below Mount Baldy, fosters said.

Approximately 2,500 persons have been evacuated from both regions, but a redneck Monday night showed the number of unoccupied cabins burned to be about 30. Earlier 236 cabins were reported destroyed in big Santa Anita canyon.

Young Britons Told They Are Lazy, Unambitious, Apathetic

LONDON (Reuters)—The average 18-year-old young man in Britain was told today in an official report that he is lazy, unambitious, apathetic and inclined to drift.

Robert Morris, president of Manchester University, and Maurice Goldberg, psychiatric social worker, reached this conclusion after three years studying the background, work and leisure of young men in Britain from all classes.

They asked each youth interviewed to answer 120 questions. The answers revealed that all youths, from the intelligent and mature to the "poorly motived," had a "striking lack of creative leisure pursuits."

"The majority, in their leisure interests, seem to be 'passing' in time" and this is well illustrated in their week-end program.

"On Saturdays they might do shopping, watch soccer or cricket, or play billiards. In the evening the majority went to the cinema or the local dance hall. On Sundays they would laze around, often lying in bed till mid-day."

The authors, Mr. Morris said of the youths' working lives that to the machine minders and labourers "the job seemed to be a place to clock on and clock off each day and to collect a wage packet at the end of the week."

Reading is rarely extended beyond the daily newspapers. A great number of youths read only Westerns and thrillers, while a few had not advanced beyond the comics.

Sheriff Kills Negro Witness Against Him

GROVE HILL, Ala. (AP)—Percy Fountain, federal district attorney, will ask an investigation of Sheriff Jenkins Hill's killing of a Negro who identified Fountain the sheriff at a liquor conspiracy trial.

Fountain announced today that he will ask agents of the federal alcohol tax unit to look into the shooting here Monday of Moses Jones of Bessemer, Ala.

Hill reported that Jones threw him when the Negro jumped him and tried to take his gun. The sheriff said he had brought Jones back from Bessemer on a fugitive warrant because Jones had failed to pay a liquor fine.

CONSPIRACY TRIAL

The sheriff, Sam Dess, a night watchman at Jones, Ala., and Pat Rone of Jackson, Ala., a used car dealer, were tried here last fall on charges of a federal liquor conspiracy. The case ended in a mistrial.

Jones testified then that he turned down a proposal to sell liquor for Hill and Dess under a protection arrangement. He said that four weeks later Dess and another man beat him and told him to "get out of town" if he ever came again.

Fountain said he had expected to use Jones at a new trial for Hill and the other two defendants.

Noranda Mine Workers Reject Company Offer

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Striking workers of Noranda Mines Limited today voted 1,786 to 1,000 for acceptance of a company offer of a 7½-cent wage increase in the union-sponsored balloting there were 12 spoiled ballots.

In another vote on the wage offer, conducted by a citizens' committee, 118 ballots favored acceptance and 14 were opposed.

The International Union United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) said the balloting shows the union membership does not interference by a third party (the citizens' committee) is needed.

"Maybe now the company realizes that our package demand still stands."

NEW OFFERS

He said the company has recently made additional demands of the union and that the citizens committee has nothing about these offers.

About 1,800 men went on strike at Noranda Sept. 24 to enforce demands for an increase of 22½ cents in the hourly basic pay, from $1.05, a cut in working hours from 44 a week to 40, with premium pay penalties and welfare plans and the checkoff of union dues.

Voting was carried out in nearzero weather. Miners trudged down snowy streets and the northwestern Quebec mining town to the polling booths where election officers manned out the ballots and tabulated the union-sponsored vote.

Arrests Made For Negligence In Train Wreck

VIENNA (Reuters)—Prague radio announced Monday night that "a number of arrests" have been made for "negligence" in connection with the Christmas Eve train wreck which killed 103 persons at Sakvice, Czechoslovakia.

The Czech ministry of the interior blames the wreck on "criminal negligence" on the part of railroad workers, the radio said. The government announcement said special pensions and allowances will be granted crash victims and their families.

Eighty-three persons are reported injured in the crash.

Mother Says Baby Born In Manger Blessed

CLINTON (CP)—A happy Dutch mother said Monday she knew that a healthy son born to her Christmas morning in a manger "had been blessed."

Mr. and Mrs. Leenton Rehorst came to Canada from The Netherlands three years ago and now have a 100-acre farm 18 miles north of Stratford. About 80 yards from the house is an unpainted barn. There, in a straw-filled manger just before dawn, the nine-pound boy was born.

It was after Mr. Rehorst went to the barn to milk and feed the cows that his 32-year-old wife realized the baby was about to be born.

She waded through knee-deep snow to reach him.

"I had to lie in the straw and I remember as the baby was being born a young calf poked its head through a wooden grate," she said.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Mr. Rehorst picked up his wife and the baby and carried them to his truck. He wrapped the child in one of his jackets and drove as fast as he dared over icy roads to the hospital, a few miles northwest of his farm.

Doctors said it was a "miracle" both mother and child came through the ordeal in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. Rehorst said she didn't realize the significance of time and place in the arrival of her son until she heard a nurse singing a Christmas carol in the hospital corridor.

"When the nurse sang about the Christ child in the manger, I knew our baby had been blessed," she said.

The Rehorsts who also have a 22-month-old son, plan to name the baby Christ.

SHORT-SIGHTED OBJECTIONS

The St. Lawrence seaway and power project was intended to do away with several international rapids and the rough water passages, but before it can be initiated the whole project will have to by-pass several rocky legal obstacles. Three different American groups are seeking legal means of stopping New York state from joining with Ontario in the project.

The American Lake Ontario Beach Owners and Land Protective Association, the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers Association, and the Public Power and Water Corporation of New Jersey, are all trying to block the $600 million development. For different reasons, of course.

The beach owners and land protectors want a guarantee that the lake level will not exceed 248.8 feet above sea level, thereby saving cottagers that their front verandahs won't be mistaken for floating piers. This sad case was dealt with in an editorial early in December when it was pointed out that the present high water level in Lake Ontario was entirely due to circumstances beyond man's control, and that like drought, famine, and disease, it is not easily subject to remedies, especially legal remedies.

However unusual the beach owners' case might be, they at least are on the lake. The Pennsylvania Coal Producers' are basing their grievance on the belief that should the project be completed, the power generated would be used in place of coal, thereby putting coal miners in the Quaker state out of work. A truly long range viewpoint to be sure, and one worthy of every serious consideration by responsible people. No one would dream of wanting to expand the country for great nations if it meant that a coal miner in Pennsylvania would be put out of work.

Anyone can see the justice of this objection on the grounds that its bid to build the project was more inclusive than that of New York State and therefore it should be allowed to retain the construction contract. Its plan is being by-passed because New York claims the company is not financially secure and that the plan itself contains engineering errors.

No matter what happens it appears that the whole case will be taken to the United States Supreme Court before a decision is made.

We have little doubt that the final decision will be returned in favor of the power project because the ultimate good of the people of North America as a whole supersedes the limited objections of certain groups and special interests. Already the objections of business leaders in the Mississippi Valley, who fear that a St. Lawrence seaway will reduce their trade through New Orleans, have been overcome, as well as protests from the railroads all the way from Wisconsin to the Atlantic seaboard. Even the great port of New York looked on the seaway as a threat to its dominance of Atlantic maritime commerce.

It seems too bad that such a great project should be hamstrung by petty argument. The very scope of the seaway-power development demands a breadth of vision and enterprise that needs all the energies and resources available. It should not be necessary to spend time, money, and resources fighting the limited self-interest of certain vocal groups, whose connection with the great project is tenuous at best.

A SIGNIFICANT DECISION

The announcement by President Dwight D. Eisenhower that two U.S. divisions will be withdrawn from Korea shortly is a significant one. That is self-evident. It is a little more difficult to decide exactly what it signifies.

The President's political foes, or alarmists, may read into this announcement evidence that the administration is accepting the view that Red China is that the Communists are not likely to renew their aggression in Korea.

But it will seem to most of us inconceivable that the man who led the allies to victory in Europe during the Western Front in the Second Great War would be so naive as to regard any assurance, whether from foe or friend, as positive. The General Eisenhower we are certain from resuming the war if it should suit their purposes.

Indeed, President Eisenhower himself gave warning that any renewed aggression would be opposed "with even greater effect than heretofore." He referred to the growing air power of the United States and there was a distinct hint that this might mean the use of atomic or any new attack. The objections to a resort to such weapons while the war was still in progress were valid; but these objections will not apply with equal force if the Communists strike for a second time.

South Korean officials are reported displeased at the U.S. plan to withdraw two divisions. That is not surprising. It reduces the size of the allied force in South Korea that war-torn land. But that, too, may have been part of the strategy behind Eisenhower's decision. For the threat to the U.S. double one, embraces the possibility of a resumption of the fighting by the Communists, but also the danger that Rhee may choose to order his troops to endeavor to unify the country by force. The reduction in the strength of U.S. forces in Korea will probably tend to check any such move. Perhaps this was a factor in Eisenhower's decision.

And then, of course, there are many other points which almost certainly played their part in determining this policy, including the desirability of reducing the amount which the U.S. will spend on defence needs.

THE OLD YEAR

Another year not long to live;
But when its record we review
'Twill show some chance for all to give.
Some time for all their tasks to do.

Disaster had its cruel share.
Death struck with furious
storms at times;
Some men disgraced its record fair
With heartless, vicious, shameful crimes.

This old year now was once the new,
Perhaps some cherished
dreams were vain,
But all allowed to live it through
May hope and dream and try again.

A year grows old from day to day.
Some days seem slow; some fleet of wing.
But time to serve and time to play
Is all that any year can bring.

Labor Unions And Socialism

(Winnipeg Free Press)

In a non-socialist state (which now-a-days means in effect in a capitalist state any longer by any previous definition of the term) labor groups are free to struggle with the private boss, with one another and with the entire economy for what they consider a fairer distribution of rewards. This they can never do in a socialist state planned and controlled by the government. There is then no legal individual or group can be permitted to dislocate the over-all plan without wrecking it and the entire economy. There can be no serious strike against the state.

In every socialist state throughout the world, whatever label it may bear, labor unions either have been abolished or become mere show pieces and tools of the government.

The British unions wisely put their full energies above the promised gains of socialism, especially when they find themselves disappointing and when, as a final answer to socialism, the economic health of Britain declines under a Labor government and quickly recovers under a Conservative government. That, after all, is the true test of any economic system— its ability to produce and distribute goods.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THINK ABOUT IT—RIGHT NOW

More liquor is consumed at this season of the year than at any other. Motor accidents rise to astonishing proportions during the Christmas season. Right in the midst of the joyous Christmas season, we read of brawls and murders. There are social events at which drinking by both old and young, which shock the fine sensibilities of decent people.

Regardless of the attitude one takes toward liquor, he should ponder the fact that from 25 per cent to 50 per cent of all automobile accidents are caused by drinking. Drunken drivers cause very few automobile accidents; most accidents on the highway are caused by drunken but by drinking drivers. The F.B.I. reports that after deducting traffic arrests 65 per cent of the remaining local arrests are chargable to drinking.

The alcoholism problem drinkers is the fastest increasing one in number of population of Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco, Pittsburgh

If we are not conscious of the enormity of this problem, we ought to be. American life becomes more complex and more anized every day. It would appear that quicker recovery comes easily with habits, customs, and commodities which produce such alcohol social situations.

Queries from Far Lands

(Ontario Dept. Of Lands And Forests Release)

"How long will it take before Ontario is completely settled?" "When is the season for the training dogs?" "Do you have a record of a bear killing a mosquito?" "Do you have information on frogs, mushrooms, chipmunks and polar bears?"

These are some of the more picturesque queries from all parts of the world which pass through the information Section of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests at the rate of about 10 a year, they reflect a wide interest in Ontario, its wildlife and its vacation and tourist attractions. Some display a touching interest in a strange new land. This annual number from the Gold Coast, for instance:

"Dear Sir: I am very glad to inform you this few lines about my life. How are you enjoying on the Earth?

"Please, I want you to send me your free booklet without any obligations, also new address of your friend so that I can write my friend. So that if you see this book, reply me in the time as time and idle not wait for no man.

"I think I will drop my pen here for the time better. I hope you much love. I will remain (sic) yours. Your New Friend."

More letters, similarly phrased, arrive a few months later from Malaya, the African locality, giving rise to the theory that the village scribe, annoyed at the flowery phrase book which he used somewhat indiscriminately, was doing a roaring business.

In its review of queer queries, flies, the lands and forests department's information service, one from Latbakiddadu, in southern Nigeria, is typical:

"I know that there are famous things, I wish to know I about Toronto. I have heard Toronto is the most wonderful and beautiful place than any other in the world. Such far renown!

This Terza's flattering approach has not been bettered:

"For some time," he wrote, "we have noted with envy the shining eyes to Canada. To me, it has always been a great land, and that was one of the last frontiers for people such as myself. Canada is truly holds such riches not only in minerals but in wildlife and happiness that a person can only describe by stretching his arms out without touching the sides of multitudes of people or without touching the cold stones of mighty buildings!"

Sylva fears a holiday week-end at Union Station must be a real disillusionment!

The Toronto girl asked: "Do you have any information on the men-to-women ratio as I am thinking of the future, as my information is stenographer, not merely mathematical."

An Ontario woman wanted to know if the snake she had seen on a farm a few years ago might have been poisonous. It wasn't.

Children are among the most inspiring correspondents. One wrote:

"Would you be kind enough to rake us to knowledge that you know about the spruce bug-worm and send to me? I like to know anything about those flies which are destroying the trees and peed in from Australia would you send me information on this too? Also anything you have on bug-worm was "raked up" but "those flies" I would like to remain objects of vivid conjecture!

Most interesting, and with a touch of Christmas in it, was this letter from a Wild West lad:

"I am an English boy who would very much like to go in for a real deal about lumbering. In the north of England we have large fields covered with grass and pines. These trees grow very quickly and tall. They are used for telegraph poles.

"In Norton we have two sawmills which supply us with wood through the winter as coal is scarce where we live, so we have where you are positions are. On a night we play hide and seek which is a game some people run and then when they are found the chasers count one-two-three. And then at night I go to the pictures and there sell ice cream and sweets. I would like to know what Canadian boys do on a night If they go to the swimming pools or to the pictures like we do.

"Could you send me some pictures about lumbering and logging and could you send export it to England? I would like to know about Canadian schools and educational enemies.

"On returning I feed my rabbits and then let my dad's geese out and feed them, too. So you can see I have a great deal to do. I go to do on a morning before I go to school.

"P.S. I am sorry I have been such a long time writing but the fault was that we broke up for our holiday. I don't feed my dad's geese now because we ate them for Christmas."

Child's View Of Christmas

(Montreal Gazette)

The crowd surged into the department store and waited until the operator had difficulty in closing the doors. Then a voice, above the what floor she was leaving, didn't know whether she would go up or down. A harried father, loaded with packages, was muttering about the queues. A woman with a feather in her hat realized it had gone and was looking for another.

Then, as the door closed, a child giggled with delight. A small boy, child, held high by his mother, one arm around her neck, the other waving wildly, was shouting and tearing world of Christmas fancy. "Look, look!" he said, and looked again. "You like it, do you?" said his mother.

"Uh-huh!" he said, bobbing his head up and down.

The child stopped her questions, the father forgot his troubles, the feather in the hat got her feather. Even the weary elevator operator found herself able to smile with everyone else on the car.

They weren't just smiling with the child near them. Each one was looking at the child, at first vicariously, then with a personal interest. The child was no longer a child; they had forgotten long ago, small thing at that child and with that child the child had once was.

What oceans of wonder, of delight, of fabulous imagination that came flooding back in that short journey to the floor that was the first! Those wonderful trips downtown with Mother and Father and both of them, Daddy first visit to a Christmas toy department; the flights and fancies, the first visit to Santa Claus . . . .

Memories, knowledge, maturity have their satisfactions. But it is only when we look through the woods of childhood, when we can hear the singing birds, that we get the full richness of living can be felt.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SILENT FRIENDS

I have a little book in my library called "Silent Friends." It contains the essays of an English author who writes about books and people. Never do I open a book to read but I don't feel that I have invited a guest to be with me.

Edward Gibbon once said: "I would not change my invincible love of books for the vain pleasures of India." Books are our silent friends, and they are of our own selection. They can match any mood. It is as though we had only to whistle for them to be with us when most needed. I am not confined to books by the necessary. As though they were of the flesh, I go from room to room and greet my books on their different shelves.

For years I have formed the habit of slipping into the books that I most love, clipping about them, or letters that I have received from them and then writing them a little book to help to personalize them. Some of these books are so interlarded with notes and personal attachments that I cannot believe that the author, in many cases, is no longer in the flesh.

George Barr McCutcheon was a famous author and a collector of books. He wrote a little book called "Books Once Were Man," and in that book he put into his book plate. And here is a sentence from the last page of his book: "Books once were men. You may buy them and sell them, but you cannot make men out of them." Put them on the block and knock them down to the highest bidder—and yet they are free men. They always will be free men no matter who owns them or where they spring from in the beginning."

That's why books mean so much to the one who loves them. Their authors are free to enter into their books beget other books, and so the life of a great book actually never dies. Their very silence is life!

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

THE PARASITE FEEDS ON THE HOST.

The American Dental Association distributed to the press an article marked "Release Sunday,

Dr. Brady

It the ADA says "studies have shown conclusively that the mother's teeth do not release calcium or any other element for the benefit of her unborn child."

No, perhaps not. In just that way.

But during growth and development of the child before birth if calcium or any other element is needed and there's any available, you bet your life the parasite will have first chance at it and only if there is any left over will the host get here.

A normal woman about to bear a child should gain from 12 to 16 pounds in weight during pregnancy.

The expectant father should tolerate no monkey-shines with the diet calculated to prevent the accumulation of that 10 per cent surplus!— above all because the over-indulgent mother who counsels restriction of diet with a view to insuring easy labor. That labor is usually the easy way—badly.

It seems to me that the dentists, up to 10 o'clock this morning, still harbor a notion that once a person has cut all the (28 to 32) teeth one is going to have that's it. The teeth become monolithic and feel like the bones and every other part of tissue in the body, beyond the reach or control of metabolism.

Mind, now, I say the parasite (fetus) robs the host's (expectant mother's) blood of calcium, and hence the expectant mother's daily intake of calcium must be greater than she ordinarily needs to maintain good nutrition good teeth, vis-a-vis dentists for child-birth. The high calcium foods on which I expect the mother should rely for this purpose are milk in any form—milk and cheese—evaporated milk or dry milk powder and various dishes in which milk is a main ingredient; eggs; cottage cheese or any other kind of cheese; peas, beans, nuts, peanuts; fresh leafy vegetables and greens.

When the ADA tells us that studies have shown "conclusively" that the parasite does not take calcium out of the host's teeth I have first chance at it and only if there is any left over will the host get here.

Besides the high calcium foods mentioned as desirable for the expectant mother—these are just as desirable for the expectant father, brothers, sisters, maiden aunts and grandparents—the host needs a larger daily ration of vitamin D (sunshine vitamin) than she would ordinarily require for vitamin D is essential for the assimilation and utilization (metabolism) of calcium in the body.

I think it if not impossible to get an adequate daily ration of vitamin D from the foods because few foods contain enough —though whole milk cream, butter, egg yolk and canned sardines and canned salmon contain considerable. Therefore it is a good rule to supplement the prospective mother's diet with a daily dollop of Cs and R throughout pregnancy.

Not Eager For Beaver

(Windsor Star)

Miss Mazo de la Roche, the novelist, is not the first to question the beaver's suitability as Canada's symbol. Nor is she the first to have trouble with a pun against the strange ways of heraldry.

Her objection to the beaver, incidentally, is not that he's a flighty thing like the Canada goose, but rather for the reason his looks and virtues are objectionable.

"Who wants to work like a beaver, look like a beaver, delve continually into the mud?" she has asked.

She thinks the deer would be more appropriate.

It just happens, however, that heraldic animals are not expected, by tradition, to have great staying power, and the deer hasn't much of it. So the eagle, lion, leopard (constant and rampant) and unicorn are in place on the arms of many countries. The beaver has been with a daily dollop of Ca and R throughout pregnancy.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is now just a little better than half way between the Christmas holiday of Last Friday and the next great festival of the salad menu, we set upon a fruit salad, a specialty of the season.

It was not too bad. The chief hunks of grapefruit, the juicy slices of orange, the grapes, the canned peach half, the ring of pineapple, down to their destination with a lovely missionary zeal. They went to work at once, like little housewives, dusting and cleaning and probing and ferreting into all the untidy corners and angels of my sadly abused interior, even down into the lower great green lettuce leaves which had been in the position of my salad, I gave them. The waitress removed my plate.

"Not eating your lettuce?" she reproved.

I shook my head.

"Remember in the war?" she said wistfully. "When there was no lettuce? And we had to put cabbage leaves under all the salads instead?" Our we learned to do a real lettuce!"

So I took the plate back from her, and ate the lettuce too.

confidentially. She's only been out from England thirty years. "Do tell me more."

After a rather refreshing and pleasant discussion of the salad menu, we set upon a fruit salad, a specialty of the season.

Reds Draw Back Into Jungles For Ambushes

SAIGON (CP)—The Communist-led Vietminh rebels, who late last week cut Indo-China in two in a Christmas-time offensive, appear today to be drawing back into the jungles to ambush any French counter-attack.

Reports from the Thailand capital of Bangkok said the Vietminh troops withdrew Sunday from the Laotian town of Thakhek, near the Thai border, leaving only a small guard in the smouldering ruins of the town. The French earlier evacuated Thakhek before the Red troops reached it in their drive across the peninsula.

French planes pounded the invaders Monday in what appeared to be the prelude to a ground counter-attack. Ground forces were reported massing north of Thakhek.

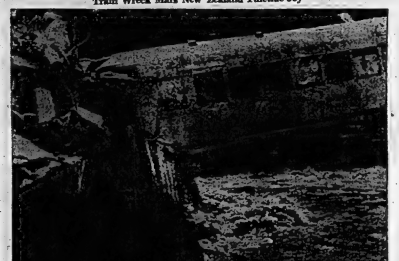
Thailand also has been reported massing troops along its border with Indo-China in the face of the Communist threat. Bangkok reports said the Thai cabinet met in extraordinary session and decided the government is capable of handling any emergency resulting from the Indo-China crisis.

ATTACK NO SURPRISE

In Paris, the vice-premier and defence minister of Laos, Phouy Sananikone, said the Red thrust was neither a great victory for the Vietminh nor a surprise for us," since the attack had been expected since last October.

The attack came after the Vietminh leader, Ho Chi Minh, had been quoted as offering to negotiate a peace with France. The French turned down the proposal, since Ho's offer refused to recognize the French-sponsored Viet Nam government here.

Baby-Sitter, 17, Given 21 Years For Kidnapping



MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Tommie Dene Doughty, 17-year-old unrepentant kidnapper of a five-month-old Indiana child, Monday was sentenced to a 20-year-term in federal prison for the crime.

Mrs. Doughty, former carnival strip-teaser, pleaded guilty to abducting the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee Stammer while baby-sitting with the boy in Evansville, Ind.

Her lawyer, appealing for a suspended sentence, said Mrs. Doughty had a mother complex because she had left a baby of her own. Psychiatrists ruled her sane.

After her arrest at her Oklahoma home, the young kidnapper said she would take the child again if given the chance. The boy was recovered unharmed.

Train Wreck Mars New Zealand Yuletide Joy

This view shows part of the wreckage of the crack express train that plunged from a damaged bridge into the Wangaehu river near Wellington, New Zealand, bringing death to an estimated 166 persons. Bodies have been recovered as far away as 50 miles downstream. Locomotive and passenger cars of the train left the track when a cloud burst weakened the caissons of a bridge at Tagiway. Most of the people aboard the train were on the way to see Queen Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, who are in New Zealand on their tour of the Commonwealth. — Central Press Canadian.

Seaway Project To Top Agenda Of U.S. Senate

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times says today that the St. Lawrence seaway project likely will be the first order of Senate business in the next session of the United States Congress opening Jan. 6.

In a dispatch from Washington by Clayton Knowles, the paper quoted "a high Republican source" as saying that the bill to authorize the U. S. to join Canada in the project will be brought in early because of its long-controversial nature.

It was decided, says the Times dispatch, "to deal head-on and early with the two major legislative items that could provoke a filibuster. These are the seaway and the Hawaiian statehood bills."

"The priority position now held by the St. Lawrence measure, it is understood, stems as much from White House wishes as anything else. President Eisenhower is expected to push for early passage of the bill, . . ."

Passage has long been blocked in the U. S. because some interests contend it would hurt eastern U. S. ports and railroads.

Stiff Fines Handed Out

TORONTO (CP)—Jail sentences or stiff fines for drinking drivers were the rule in Toronto police court Monday.

Five men were convicted of driving with ability impaired. One man got 15 days and another was fined $150 or 15 days, two others $100 or seven days, and another $75 or seven days.

Police and magistrates warned last week that heavy fines would be laid against drinking drivers arrested over the Christmas holiday period.

ACTOR DIES

NEW YORK (AP)—John McKee, actor and stage director, died Monday, apparently of a heart attack. He was reported to have been in his 80s. A native of Belfast, Ireland, McKee started his stage career in "Rip van Winkle" in New London, Conn., in 1910. He was later in such long run Broadway shows as "Three Wise Fools" in 1936, "Jeremiah" in 1939, "Magic," 1942, "The Big Knife" in 1949 and "Romeo and Juliet" in 1951.

Duke to Attend Mass Funeral Of Train Victims

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (CP)—New Zealand prepared today for a mass funeral for the victims of the Christmas Eve wreck as the death toll was revised lower.

The Duke of Edinburgh, who is visiting New Zealand with the Queen, will fly to Wellington with Prime Minister Sidney Holland for the services Thursday.

Officials today said eight more persons who left the scene of the crash in the darkness have been reported safe and taken off the missing list. The original toll announced was 166.

So far 137 bodies have been recovered and 30 passengers are still unaccounted for. Parties are still searching the Wangaehu river, into which the Wellington-Auckland express plunged after a sudden flood took out a bridge.

BOY DROWNED IN CANAL

CARDINAL (CP)—Hartley Collison was drowned Monday in an attempt to rescue his german shepherd dog when it fell through the ice on the old Cardinal canal, 45 miles northeast of Prescott.

Piston-Engine Bombers May Be Discontinued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States aircraft industry disclosed Monday it may quit building piston-engine bombers next year and confine production of fighting planes to jet aircraft.

This likelihood was expressed by retired admiral DeWitt C. Ramsey, president of the Aircraft Industries Association, in a year-end review.

Ramsey reported that during 1953 the industry produced, for the first time, more airplanes powered by jet engines than by piston engines.

"At least four new jet fighter models will reach volume production during the coming year and deliveries of jet bombers will continue to increase," Ramsey said.

"Production of jet aircraft by year's end may comprise 75 per cent of the total military air craft output.

"1953 saw delivery of the last piston-engined fighter and in all probability the last piston-engined bomber will be delivered during 1954."

If this prediction comes true, the only new piston driven aircraft to be acquired by the military would be transport planes, trainers, helicopters and small reconnaissance craft.

Commercial Fish In Lake Erie At Low Ebb

PORT DOVER (CP)—A fisherman said Monday that there are so many ale-wives, gizzard and smelt in Lake Erie that there is no room for commercial fish.

Carl Kolbe, long a fisherman here, said the lake is just about fished out and predicted: "It's going to slump worse soon."

He blamed the loss of commercial fish on nylon nets which were introduced about three years ago when pickerel were at a low point in their population cycle. The pickerel didn't recover their numbers, he said, and "scrap fish" are taking over.

"It would take five years to get the industry back on its feet."

It was announced Monday that the license fee for pound and trap nets has been reduced from $40 to $20 a net. Mr. Kolbe said the reduction will not keep fishermen "from going bankrupt if the fishing is so good."

Commercial fish are naturally predatory, he said, and normally keep down the number of scrap fish. But commercial fish now had become so scarce that the scrap fish were crowding them out.

Ale-wives are non - commercial fish related to the herring. The gizzard is a type of shad.

Poorer Education Forecast For Children of Ontario As Teachers' Standard Cut

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas Aldcorn of Toronto, president of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation, said today Ontario children will in future get poorer education as a result of the province lowering qualifications for first-class certificates for teachers.

In an address prepared for delivery to the federation's annual convention, Mr. Aldcorn said lower qualifications will mean a decline in the prestige of teaching as a career and reduce the morale of teachers who got first-class certificates before requirements were relaxed last Easter.

FEARS MORALE DROP

"If the present policy of lowering the standards for established certificates is continued, the results will be lowered morale among qualified teachers who see new teachers obtaining certificates equal to their own with less effort, less experience, less education, and less expense; a decline in the prestige of teaching as an occupation; and a decline in the quality of education of our children."

The 4,500-member federation recognized a need for extra inducement to help overcome the shortage of teachers. But it felt candidates who did not have "minimum requirements" for a first-class certificate should get an inferior one.

SUGGESTS STANDARDS

Mr. Aldcorn said minimum requirements should be Grade XIII graduation, one year at a teachers' college, two years' successful teaching, and completion of five summer courses with the Ontario department of education.

He suggested a faculty be set up at some Ontario university to give elementary teachers a three-year course leading to a superior teaching certificate.

The federation supports retention of a single-salary wage scale where it now is in effect, he said.

Best Economic Record Is Made By West Germany

PARIS (AP)—The 15-country Organization for European Economic Co-operation reported today that West Germany led Western Europe during 1953 in economic improvement and production.

The organization's year-end review of European economic trends said West Germany's output increase had been "clearly superior to that of other large countries."

Britain's economic situation also improved in a "striking manner," the report said, and Italian industrial production gained about seven per cent. French output dropped.

In Britain, OEEC reported, production is increasing and unemployment is on the downgrade.

Her position in world trade was reported approaching a balance after having been dangerously in deficit in 1951.

Designed for that lower, longer look so prized in modern automotive styling, the new Chevrolets meet other high standards besides eye appeal. The 1954 series have more power, better performance and chassis improvements that will substantially increase the pleasure and convenience of motoring. For 1954, a total of 13 body models are available in three series of cars. The Powerglide automatic transmission, teamed with a new 125-horsepower engine, is now optional on all cars. Another outstanding development, also available as an option in all series, is Power Steering. Above is pictured the Bel Air four-door sedan.

Congressmen Like Gouzenko's Anti-Spy Plan

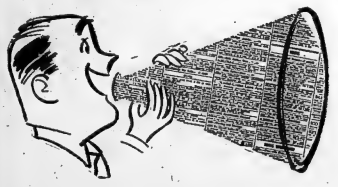
WASHINGTON (AP) — Several Congressmen agreed Monday with a suggestion by Igor Gouzenko that the United States should try to crack any Soviet spy rings now operating in the country by offering protection and security to members who expose them.

"I believe in fighting fire with fire," Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep. Wis.), chairman of the Senate foreign relations commitee, told a reporter.

Senator Herman Welker (Rep. Idaho), a member of the Senate internal security sub-committee which has been probing Communists in government, said such a proposal might cause some criticism that "you are giving social security to a spy, but it also might collapse Soviet espionage apparatus here."

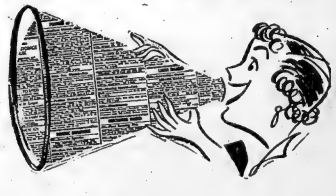
WOULD TR TIT OUT

Senator Lester Hunt (Dem. Wyo.), a member of the Senate armed services committee, said the plan should be tried.



Gouzenko, former code clerk in the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, cracked a spy ring in Canada by his testimony and documents he produced in 1946.

In a copyrighted interview with the magazine, U. S. News and World Report, Gouzenko said there may be hundreds of Red agents now operating in the United States.



He recommended that the government "make it worth while for some of them to quit and come out with their documents."

Holloway United S.S. Presents Nativity Pageant

The children of Holloway Street United Church Sunday School enacted recently the oldest story of the birth of Jesus at Bethlehem, showing a depth of feeling and sweetness that no adult could imitate.

The program, directed with the minister, the Reverend S. K. Larman, represented a cordial welcome to the assembly of parents, friends and teachers, which was added to by the superintendent of the Sunday School.

Fashion Flashes

Fine detail adds distinction to a dress and makes it a prize. Black silk taffeta is used for a cocktail-glamour dress, fine fabric set off by all-over tucking in a zig-zag points and chevron design. Deep, pointed neckline, short sleeves and very flared skirt complete a nice design.

Fitted but unmarked is the word for this waistline for many new pre-spring fashions. A blurry print in blue and violet shades on white tones dominating, makes up into a pretty resort dress. A band of solid color curves directly under the bust and then makes a narrow panel at each side. Natural waistline is fitted, but bellitas, and the skirt is full in back and narrow in front, making for an interesting line.

Getting together to create a handsome theatre outfit is a full-length coat, a skirt and a blouse. Skirt and coat are of woolen in a black and pink flowered tapestry motif, the coat lined in pink taffeta. The pink jersey top has a deep, curved V neckline, cuffed and rhinestone-fastened.

Filmy dresses for late afternoon into evening wear are doing well this season, especially those with street-length skirts. Chantilly type lace, with inserts of nylon tulle and velvet, make up into a handsome dress with deep, oval neckline and long sleeves. A wide band of velvet makes the lower part of the skirt.

Helpful Aunts Bureau Doing Big Business

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver organization of 120 women trained to cope with any domestic emergency is doing a flourishing business here.

Known as the Helpful Aunts Bureau, it was founded by Mrs. Joy Dunford, a widow who almed at establishing a business that would not only help her remain at home to look after her two daughters, but would help others with similar problems.

"It is not an employment agency," she said, "but exists for the unexpected crisis in domestic affairs—the sudden illness, the unheralded arrival of visitors."

The typical auntie is between 40 and 60 years old, one whose family is now grown and who finds time heavy on her hands. From a large list of applicants, Mrs. Dunford finds it easy to maintain a high standard. Her helpers are Canadian citizens of good character. "They do not drink and they do not talk excessively."

"We are ready to tackle anything," she said. "The firm's log book lists a variety of chores. Sitting up with an expectant mother of setter puppies; making slipcovers for furniture; taking small fry to see Santa Claus; filling in on a bowling team or making a fourth at bridge; packing the household treasures on moving day; shopping for a shut-in or arranging a wedding."

Aunts prepare food for every occasion—sandwiches for the business girls' bridge night, canapes for a cocktail party, and Christmas dinner for a whole family.

Greater part of their attention is occupied by baby-sitting. The experienced matrons are in demand for taking over household and children when parents feel the need of a week-end or so off or when mother brings the new baby from the hospital.

Christmas Concerts

WHITE'S SUNDAY SCHOOL

WHITE'S DISTRICT — There was a hum of activity at White's Church, Bayside, on Wednesday evening when young and old joined forces to present a fine concert with recitations, dialogues, choruses, duets and solos, climaxed by a realistic presentation of the Nativity scene.

The Rev. R. W. T. Middleton capably acted as chairman and called on the Sunday School for a chorus of welcome. He added a few words of welcome and witticisms, then the program continued as follows:

"The Spirit of Christmas," by Alma Copeland; "A Merry Christmas to You," a motion song and exercise by junior girls and boys; piano and vocal solo, "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Away in the Manger," by Miss Nancy Hockaday; "His Letter," by the Misses Barbara and Beverly Sandercock; "Jingle Bells," by Miss Susan Blong; "The Little Boy's Dream," by Master Ronald Ferguson; duet, "Silent Night," by the Misses Joan and Barbara Shoemaker.

"If Only Santa Does Not Forget," by Miss Sylvia Bilham; solo, "The Holy City," by Mrs. George Caves; "At Christmas," by Miss Gail Glingras; dialogue, "Christmas Means," by the Misses Marilyn Bowers, Gail Glingras, Anne Blong, Audrey Bowers, Sylvia Bilham, Anne Copeland and Nancy Hockaday in an apron.

Solo and piano selection, by Mrs. Waldron; recitation, by Miss Suzanne Hockaday; "The Small Stocking," by Master Larry Billham; duet "Tore Christmas," by Master John Hunt; "A Candle and Candy Ceremony," by the Misses Anne Blong, Marie Church, Gail Glingras, Marilyn Bowers, Sylvia Bilham and Mrs. George Bilham, Mrs. Floyd Dodge and Mrs. Leonard Young.

"The Reason Why," by Miss Sharon Jeffery; "What is Christmas," by Miss Audrey Bowers; solo, "O Little Town of Bethlehem" by Miss Joan Shoemaker; "The Gift," a Nativity pageant, by Daniel Bowers, Gordon Drouillard, Gary Reid, Mr. F. Westover, Mr. Albert Hockaday, Mr. Earl Meyers, Miss Marie Church, Mrs. R. Bilicke as shepherds; Mary and Joseph and the Misses Marilyn Bowers, Anne Blong, Suzanne Hockaday, Brenda Yateman, Joanna Gainforth, Stella Caves, Judy Blong and Susan Blong as angels, assisted by the choir, which entertained the audience with carols; Mrs. Floyd Dodge as pianist, and Mr. Dudley as light operator; Mrs. Leonard Young as narrator, and Mrs. Albert Hockaday as costumer.

A comic reading, "Dollar Day", by Mrs. Donald Sandercock.

As everyone sang "Here Comes Santa Claus" Santa arrived with his pack of gifts and delighted everyone with his antics. Many gifts were presented by the Sunday school for good attendance, as well as gifts of candy, nuts and an orange for all children.

There was an exchange of gifts and all were happy.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

MARMORA — The interior of St. Paul's Church, Marmora, was prettily decorated with evergreens, bitter sweet and holly, for the Christmas festival, while the altar was adorned with flowers, chrysanthemums, the joint gift of Mrs. Horace Neath and Mr. Charles Leach.

A large congregation was present to welcome back Canon J. M. Brownlie after his recent visit to the West and Vancouver and to participate in the mid-night celebration of Holy Communion. Prior to the celebration, there was a carol service. In it, course Mrs. R. Shatford rendered "The Holy City."

Following an appropriate sermon by the rector, the choir rendered a Christmas anthem by Calvo Simper.

At the Sacred Heart Church, on Christmas Eve, the midnight mass was celebrated by Rev. W. J. Healey as largely attended. There was also mass at 8.30 a.m. on Christmas Day followed by high mass at 10 a.m. The sanctuary and altar were beautifully adorned with flowers.

CHRISTMAS EVE SERVICE.

An impressive Christmas Eve service was held in St. Andrew's United Church and was largely attended. The Rev. R. J. Crawford, B.A., B.D., officiated.

In course of the service, which featured with the singing of six Christmas carols and two film-strips, "The Wise Men" and "The Child of Bethlehem", an offering was taken for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the United Church of Canada.

In his sermon, the pastor spoke on "God's Gift".

In the absence of Mrs. A. F. Fraser, Miss Barbara McIlkejohn was at the organ. The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Canon and Mrs. J. M. Brownlie returned on Thursday afternoon from their visit to Alberta and Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crawford, of Kingston, were Christmas guests of Rev. and Mrs. K. J. Crawford.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bonter spent Christmas with friends resident in Guelph.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Frost and two daughters are spending a few days with relatives in Montreal.

Mr. H. W. Sandre spent Christmas with relatives in Hamilton.

John Brownlie, a student attending Trinity College, Toronto, is spending the Christmas vacation with his parents, Canon and Mrs. J. M. Brownlie at the rectory.

Art Hannan, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., is visiting relatives here for a few days.

Mrs. Oscar Cole, Marilyn and Jimmy are visiting relatives at Clinton.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beech and family are spending Christmas holidays with relatives in Montreal.

CHRISTMAS EVE SERVICE.

Christmas Day guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Prentice were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Prentice, and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McAuley and family, Belleville; Mrs. W. Prentice and Mr. and Mrs. B. Wannamaker, Foxboro.

Deloro community Christmas tree party was held in Deloro Hall on Thursday evening with Mr. A. W. Drew in charge and the usual good patronage accorded it. A program of impromptu numbers was given by the children, supplemented by Santa Claus on his arrival before he took charge of the distribution of presents.

Don Flynn, of Kingston, spent Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Flynn.

Conductor of Bell Singers writes for Daily Star

One of the feature attractions at the Canadian National Exhibition for the past several years has been the handbell program presented by the Leslie Bell Singers.

Dr. Leslie Bell, conductor of the Bell Singers, so popular on Radio and TV, writes a column about music in The Toronto Daily Star each Saturday.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

NO WOMAN SHOULD LIVE WITH A BRUTAL HUSBAND

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married seven years and have two children. I love my husband very much, and he says he loves me, but when he drinks even a little, it's different. Then he gets angry with me or with someone else, but however it is, I'm always the one he takes it out on. He even beats me sometimes, and it is getting so that he does it more often.

Tell me what I can do about it. I help him all the time with his work, and I do everything I can in the house, but he says I never do anything.

Dear M.M.C.

M.M.C.

There are many kinds of husband trouble that I believe wives can and should try to work out. But when a man begins to abuse his wife physically, that is something else again, and I do not believe that she should continue to take it. A drinking husband is difficult enough to cope with, even without additional complications, and when his drinking brings out a brutal streak in him, he is not safe to live with.

My advice is that you seek out the nearest family welfare organization and discuss this serious problem with someone there. There may be one such organization right in the town where you live, but if not, your priest or the minister of your church should be able to tell you how to find the nearest one. What you need is to have someone close by who can guide you continuously in dealing with this situation.

Please do this immediately, as neither you nor your children should be at the mercy of a drinking man whose brutal instincts are set loose by alcohol.

SEND THIS BOY ON HIS WAY

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The boy I like is nearly 18 and I am 16 years old. I started going with him about two years ago, but broke up with him finally because he kept asking me to do something that I knew was wrong.

After all this time, he suddenly walked me home from the show the other night and when he left me, asked if he could come and see me the next night. So he came. But right away he started asking me the same thing again. He even told me that a friend of his with a girl for just her kisses but for something more than that. They boy used to be nice and kind, but now he's rough and demanding and I am so unhappy I don't know what to do because, you see, I like him very much.

Rose Mc.

Dear Rose M.:

I think it is unfortunate that you allowed this boy to come and see you again and so gave him a chance to annoy you further. I suppose you wanted to see if he had changed any, but now that you have found out that any change is all for the worse, you will only be risking for trouble, and you'll certainly get it, if you keep on seeing him.

It's a little bit hard to understand how you can want to waste any time on a boy who is "rough and demanding" and so morally twisted that he repeatedly makes improper proposals to a nice girl. The only wise thing for you to do is to show him definitely that you won't stand for it and send him on his way.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

REDHEADS HAVE SPECIAL PROBLEMS

Without doubt, the redhead's crown is one of beauty. The old masters evidently regarded hair of this color as the most beautiful, since they selected so many models of this wise were so blessed.

There are different types of redheads—nearly all red haired with complexions of fine texture and fair, delicate coloring. There are lovely crests of coppery-red and there are other shades, each with its own individual charm. On every head there are graduated tones that give the coiffure a delightful play of lights and shadows. These shades are also present in lesser degree in the tresses of blondes and brunettes.

"The gift of red hair, however, like some other beauty gifts, hat's catch-'it" in eyelashes and eyebrows may be of fainter toner. But a touch of brown mascara will overcome this slip of nature—if it is a slip. One caution against the black crayon which is in too pronounced a contrast to the fair complexion.

She of the flaming thatch is about the only girl who must consider her tresses when selecting her make-up. If the hair is true auburn, the complexion highlights should almost match them. If the hair has an orange cast or a coppery tone, rouge and lipstick of orange-red are the best beauty bets. Where the redhead is concerned, it is always best to not peal on make-up. Laid on with a too generous hand, it will make her look brittle. This rule also goes for the blode. Brunettes are often able to get away with make-up "thurder," their com-

Readers' Letters

As Told to Mary Moore

NOTE OF EXPLANATION:

As late as December 15, I was still receiving letters asking for recipes for Christmas baking—some without name and address—not to mention misspelled and cope. All who enclosed name and address were answered by direct mail. Please give me a break and at least give your name and address to make it possible for me to reply. This column has space for only a small fraction of my answers. Always remember that I want to answer you and will if you tell co-operate.

QUESTION:

. . . my problem is in making cream of tomato soup using our own home-canned tomatoes. My recipe calls for 2 cups tomatoes, 1 quart milk, 1-4 teaspoon soda and flour and butter, etc. and every time the milk curdles in the soup. . . can you tell me how I can overcome this difficulty. . . Mrs. Percy K.

ANSWER:

Yes. One thing you must remember is to add the tomato slowly while stirring to the milk mixture. Here is the method:

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

To 2 1-4 cups tomatoes (canned, stewed or fresh) add 1 small slice onion, and, if desired, 1-8 bay leaf, and simmer covered five minutes. Mix together 2 tablespoons butter 2 tablespoons flour, then strain into this the cooked tomato, stirring until thick. Add 1-4 teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Heat 4 cups milk in double boiler and when scalding hot, slowly stir in the tomato mixture. Serve at once.

QUESTION:

May I tell you that your column is simply wonderful! Could you tell me how you make this type of cookie . . . I had it at a dance lunch and it was so tasty

. . . I believe it is made of angel food cake squares, rolled in a brown sugar mixture and then in chopped nuts.—Mrs. D. A.

ANSWER:

You sure may. I sure can.

ANGEL PECAN BALLS

Break or tear angel cake in pieces 1 inch in diameter. Dip, covering completely, in Double Boiler frosting cooked only a minutes. Drain well and roll in chopped pecans or shaved Brazil or fine coconut. Double Boiler Frosting—Put in top of double boiler 2-3 cup each white sugar and brown sugar, 2 egg whites, 1-2 teaspoon cream of tartar, 3 1-2 tablespoons boiling water and 2 tablespoons corn syrup. Place over boiling water, turn heat low, stir gently until sugar is dissolved, wiping off sides of double boiler to remove sugar crystals with damp clean cloth; then beat with rotary beater for 4 minutes. (If this is to be used for ordinary boiled frosting beat until mixture stands in peaks.) After dipping cake in this and nuts let drip on wax paper at least 1-2 day.

QUESTION:

Dear Mary:: How are you and your family . . . I have mislaid the recipe for molasses drop cookies and again.—Mrs. Gordon C.

ANSWER:

We are all tip-top and shipshape, thanks, and hope you are the same.

MOLASSES DROP COOKIES

Two-thirds cup shortening, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup molasses, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 1-2 cups unsifted flour, 1 1-4 cups rolled oats, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1-2 cups chopped nuts and chopped dates or coconut mixed, and if desired, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg. Cream shortening, gradually beating in the sugar, then molasses, then eggs. Sift flour and other dry ingredients together, except rolled oats. (Raw wheat or rice flakes may be used in place of rolled oats if desired.) Add sifted dry ingredients, then oats and nuts. Drop dough from tip of spoon onto buttered baking sheet, spacing them to allow spreading. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 10 or 12 minutes.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

YOU'VE FORGOTTEN TO SEND A CHRISTMAS CARD?

Alas, alas, it happens to most of us . . . that in our Christmas mail, particularly in the last minutes and most particularly in the mail the day before Christmas, we receive cards from some friend whom we really should have included in our greetings, but whom, unfortunately, we forgot to include. We're disappointed, chagrined, that we were not so thoughtful of them as they were of us.

What to do? Forget this gesture to us? When there has been such a thoughtful remembering, it does seem especially thoughtless not to acknowledge it in some way. It certainly isn't a good idea to rush to dash off a "return" card, for the chances are that it will arrive too late for Christmas. A shabby give-away.

A graceful way to make a returns bow to the how these kind friends made is to write each a New Year's note. A bright little brief little note of appreciation and good wishes. Write it on your personal note-paper or on the inside page of your informals, or on an attractive New Year's card, and take a sentence or two to keep the friendship on the friendship-pathway:

Rosalie, you dear!

Your lovely Christmas card with your friendly greetings made me so very happy. Thank you for your friendly remembering—it was wonderful to hear from you.

Happy days and happy years for your New Year, Rosalie. And let's have a date soon, to talk of "old days and new!"

Devotedly.

GIVING FRIENDS YOUR PHOTOGRAPH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me how to go about giving my graduation photographs? Should I wait until friends ask for one, or do I offer them? Some of my girl friends are giving them as New Year gifts, but to me this seems conceited. I would very much like to give one to a special boy-friend of mine, but I don't know what to say. Do you think it would be proper if my mother gives it to him? Please advise me.

C.

I agree with you that it seems inappropriate, "forced," to offer your photograph to friends. And I'm certainly quite enthusiastic about giving a photograph to a friend as a present on any occasion. I'm quite all right to take for granted that members of your immediate family and a loving grandmother or grandfather or favorite aunts and uncles will want to receive your photograph as a present, but not casual friends.

However, I doubt very much if you'll have to worry about having friends request your photographs . . . when they know you seem to have quite a supply, you'll probably have to "ration" them! And that special boy-friend of yours . . . he'll ask for one, I'm sure, and you won't need to have your mother take over the suggesting.

Back to Health

Merry Menders, Polio Victims On Road to Health, Give Aid

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Merry Menders, polio victims on the road back to health, roll through hospital corridors in their wheel chairs with gifts of courage. As they give, they receive.

The Merry Menders Club was started by polio patients convalescing at Princess Elizabeth Hospital here. Their aim is to help other polio victims, as well as themselves. . .

Princess Elizabeth patients who have graduated to wheel chairs pay visits to the more than 50 iron-lung cased at King George Hospital. They read to them, gossip with them and write letters for them.

TWO-WAY DEAL

The visits pay off in two ways. "The iron-lung patients see how much we have recovered and how we are improving," says Stu Millet, visiting committee chairman. "That gives them courage.

"We see how much worse off some polio patients are than we ourselves, and that gives us courage. It's a two-way deal."

The Merry Menders keep busy in other ways, too, and one of their interests is square-dancing. The dancing is done sitting down and the command of "Swing your partner" is complicated by an occasional interlocking of the front wheels of the wheel chairs.

ORGANIZE RECREATION

Organization of nightly entertainment in the hospital is another Merry Menders' chore. The entertainment schedule goes like this: Wheel-chair table tennis every night; Tuesday, bingo; Wednesday, quiz and games; Thursday, concert. Friday is unplanned entertainment as many patients go home for the week-end.

The Merry Menders publications committee puts out a weekly newspaper called the Weekly Flicker.

President of the Merry Menders is school principal Vic Dotten, who says:

"Time can hang terribly heavy on your hands in hospital. None of us is actually ill now. It's just a matter of therapy treatments and a scheduled routine.

"But there is still a lot of spare time. The club and its activities use up that extra time very nicely."

Canadian Labor Made Gains In Ratio of Wages to Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian labor has come through a good year, on the whole.

It held the line, and even gained a bit, on the ratio between wages and living costs. It obtained some favorable legislation. It took a tentative step in the direction of unification of the country's labor organizations.

On the other hand, the labor outlook was blotched by spotty unemployment as the year-end came up. And 1953's biggest strikes, in the gold and metal mines of northern Ontario and Quebec—was still running.

SMALLER INCREASES

In wages, unions generally gained over last year, though the advances were smaller than in the last few years. The leveling-off of prices from December to December assisted to wage demands. It also made unions more inclined to settle for lesser pay increases than in other post-war years.

"The cost of living is not moving away from the earnings now, and real wages are better," a union official said.

In employment, the country had the anomaly of more people at work than ever, but also more looking for work than for many years, in the late weeks of 1953. This came about from such factors as the highest labor force on record—more than 5,000,000—and spotty unemployment in several industries. There have been layoffs in the textiles and in the textile, coal-mining, aircraft and rubber industries.

STEPS TO UNITY

On the labor unity front, December developments pulled Canada's two chief central bodies more closely together, though any solid amalgamation appeared still in the distant future.

The moves were the establishment—by the 580,000-m e m b e r Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the 375,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor—of committees to explore means of cooperation.

However, these were tentative steps. Similar- action was -shipwrecked two years ago. And still on the outside were the other central labor groups—the 100,000-member Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor and the railway running trades, which have about 40,000 members.

LEGISLATIVE ADVANCES

In the legislative field, the two major advances were taken by the federal Parliament. These were:

1. Extending unemployment insurance benefits to those who become sick or injured after being put out of work for other reasons.

2. A bill that makes it a criminal offence to discriminate in the employment of anyone on the ground of race, color or religion. This applies to industries under federal jurisdiction such as railways, shipping and communications.

Labor lost out—at least up to the year-end—on such other legislative proposals as having the federal Parliament put the checkoff of union dues into effect on a mandatory basis—as far as employers are concerned—in the industries under its control.

It was a heavy year for strikes, though time lost did not hit records. At times, there were as many as 20,000 on strike, in such industries as the northern mines, British Columbia lumber, and some construction work.

As Christmas neared, there were still 7,000 men on strike in northern Ontario's Porcupine gold camp and the gold and base metal mines across the Quebec border about 150 miles, away.

By the end of November, these strikes had caused a loss of 664,000 man days. However, this was well below the 1,000,000-man-days figure for the general rail strike of 1950, the biggest in recent years.

Howe Predicts Expansion Rate May Drop in Coming Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe today predicted another generally prosperous year for Canada in 1954 but estimated that the rate of expansion may drop.

"Some industries are encountering difficulties," he said in a 4,000-word year-end review, "and for this reason our expansionary trends in the Canadian economy in the year now ahead may be less pronounced than in the last three years."

But capital investment—reaching a record $5,600,000,000 in 1953—would "remain high." The prospect for sales in the Canadian market is "firm" and government spending for defence and other purposes will likely continue to act as a "stabilizing influence."

RECORD PRODUCTION

The gross national produce rose to a record $24,300,000,000 during 1953, up from $23,000,000,000 in 1952. Officials are still hopeful of some increase in 1954, but not of the $1,300,000,000 magnitude.

Mr. Howe said that there is some recession talk in the United States but that there is nothing in the overall picture to warrant "any serious interruption in the generally prosperous conditions now prevailing."

Even in the U.S. there was no evidence of pre-recession boom which could lead to collapse. There might have to be some "adjustments" in the U.S. but this should not lead to reduction of Canada's major exports to that country—Canada's biggest market.

As for overseas markets, there had been a "considerable" drop in Canadian exports. But the exchange problem is improving and some "pick -up in sales of basic materials is possible." The exception is wheat. In the face of improved world production, "grain sales are almost certain to fall short of the record shipments achieved in the last two years."

A BANNER YEAR

Mr. Howe said that 1953 was another period of record economic achievement. Crops again were exceptionally good. The general rise in production was accompanied by a further increase in employment. Farm income had declined slightly but income generally was higher.

But more significant was the rise in living standards. Canadians were able to buy more with each consumer dollar. Consumer prices averaged about one per cent lower this year than last.

The 1953 real per - capita consumption rose by 3½ per cent over that of the previous year, the first significant gain since 1947. A greater increase has occurred in 1953."

Mr. Howe, also minister of defence production, touched briefly on the 1953 defence program, stating that in terms of new orders the program has reached its peak "and shows signs of levelling off."

FULL-SCALE PRODUCTION

Most of the key defence facilities required now were established. The year's highlights included full-scale production of the CF-100 Canadian jet fighter, "together with the development of a new version," and continued large deliveries of the F-86 Sabre fighter.

Canada also made a start on production of other aircraft, advanced plans for production of speedy escort vessels, produced equipment for Canada's radar screen and increased output of the American three-inch, 50 - calibre twin naval guns for Canadian and American forces.

A significant trend was the decline in dependence on American industry for Canadian defence equipment. The Canadian Orenda jet engine replaced the American J-47 engine in the Sabres.

Pontiac takes its place beside the biggest, most impressive cars on the road with the introduction of the 1954 Star Chief, pictured above. With a 124-inch wheelbase and an over-all length of 213.7 inches, the Star Chief is eleven inches longer than the longest of Pontiac's other 1954 models. The Star Chief, Chieftain Deluxe, Chieftain Special, Laurentian, Pathfinder Deluxe and Pathfinder provide a choice of 31 different models, all immediately identifiable as Pontiacs by their new, beautiful and distinctive Silver Streak styling. The 1954 Pontiac, more brilliant than ever in appearance, offers greater value in terms of power, economy, and all-round performance.

National League President Swings Big Stick In Stick-Swinging Case

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

ANOTHER ONE!

If the law of averages holds out in this zippy-back Senior "B" loop the Memos are due for a hero tomorrow night against the Oshawa Truckmen. Last night the Dacon crew faded in the third beat and the Peterborough Petes racked up three goals with nary a return to win their third tilt in a row by an 8-4 count. It was the Memos' fifth straight defeat.

They face a tough assignment here tomorrow night when they meet the up-and-coming group leaders from Oshawa, who have won their last three starts, two of them at the expense of the Kingston Goodyears and the other when the Orilla Pontiacs bowed to them. The Truckmen bounced out of a six-game straight loss slump, thanks to the acquisition of Joe Samanski, who did his former puckchasing in Michigan and who, reports state, has sparked the Oshawans to their trio of triumphs since joining the Dickens crew.

However, it is recalled the Memos stopped the Motor City's win streak at five earlier in the season, when no other team in the loop could turn the trick. The local senior "B" crew is due for a win, and tomorrow night should see them take the points. It should be a thriller since the Oshawans haven't forgotten that early setback and the Memos are wise-starved.

WELL, NOT TOO MUCH!

Way out yonder in the wild and woolly west where one Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, made his home and reputation, and the Grey Cup has been for some years a fleeting will 'o the wisp, they're not taking a certain promoter's offer of $10,000 guarantee to five of Hatdom's faithful too seriously, it seems.

The other day the public prints headlined a story that Jack Berry, Edmonton's gift to the beak-busters' promotion guild, had offered a ten century-note guarantee to Emanuel Charles, Valdes, Rasheed La Hines, Don Baccereal and Dan Cockell, that jolly ole blighter from Laxmas, who dotes on cockles and welkin, a spot of arf-and-arf or mild-'n'-bitter, with generally a mailbox of gin 'n cleves on Boxing Day, to tangle with Walls.

Now it seems that all of these blighters with the exception of "Alive-Alive-O'Cockell hang around the offices of the International Boxing Club in N'Y——, and it's a cinch that any one of them is going to take the chance of being semi bye-bye or even decklassed by some upstart from the frozen wilds of Western Canada.

The only one who is at liberty—so to speak—to cross leathered registers with the Canadian champion is the Britisher, which perhaps is just as well for the colored fighter, who was recently named Canada's athlete Number Two. Western sports writers, especially those from Walls' adopted city, Edmonton, (he is now reported to be in Toronto), think a lot of Walls' ability to punch.

They probably base their opinion on what Walls did to Rex Layne, who used to rate headlines as the great opponent of who intercepted a night-life training spree to fight the Canadian, and Bernie Reynolds, a stubble-bum-pusherer, who, Dan (New York Mirror) Parker said, was hauled from the mob department of a tavern to den brunks and intersperse beakers of brew with his appearance against Walls. Parker in a moment of satire wrote that Reynolds when he left the tavern, the police pals wanted to know where he was going, one of his buddies quipped, "Deutcha know, he's gotta date to be knocked out in 33 seconds by a Canadian fighter."

An Edmonton Journal sports writer says: "From Walls' point of view Cockell would probably be the ideal opponent. He is easy to hit and once tagged would yield up the British Empire heavyweight title. Cockell by virtue of his win over Harry Matthews last summer would draw well here."

The writer rees on to say: "Walls would stop Cockell. He would also step La Starza or Dan Bucceroni. But he would encounter considerable difficulty against either Charles or Valdes. In fact we believe at this stage of Walls' development, Charles, a clever fighter, would give him a bad time indeed."

That drop of British blood in our veins makes us root rather strongly for our earthly ancestraph is mixed up in, but for once we can't see eye-to-eye with our Edmonton friend. Walls has anything but an imposing record and to use an old boxing cliche "what does he do?" Any one of the five mentioned, with Cockell having the odd nod, would net only give Walls "a bad time" but would probably emerge with the Canadian bauble atop a battered dome, plus the ten thousand berries from Berry.

There is nothing we would like better to see than a Canadian world heavyweight champion, but "Earl the Pearl", has a long way to go before he steps into a ring with a world title holder. And by the way, whatever became of that proposed match between Walls and Rocky Marciano, supposed to be sponsored by Las Vegas business men?

Former Bear Will Play For Dutchies

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen said Monday Joe Schertzl has been reinstated as an amateur and will play for the Dutchmen in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league.

Schertzl, 30, played with Hershey Bears the last three years and picked up one of the highest scoring defencemen in the AHL. He was credited with 45 points in the 1950-51 season and 31 points last year.

The Dutchmen have been playing with three defencemen since Dec. 18 when Clare Martin suffered an injury to his right arm. Martin is expected to get back into action in a week or 10 days.

Hands Out Stiff Suspensions Boom-Boom Out for 8 Games With Murphy Ousted for Five

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League swung the big stick Monday night in the sequel to a stick-swinging duel in Madison Square Gardens Dec. 20.

In the harshest rebuke in some years, Campbell suspended Bertie Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens for eight games and Ron Murphy of New York Rangers for five as punishment for the incident in which both were injured.

His announcement, after a weeklong study, said neither player was blameless and that the officiating of the game will be the subject of a separate investigation by the referee-in-chief.

Campbell said:

"But it is not sufficient to consider only the comparative results for the principals. What is much more important is the possible effect of these two episodes on the game as a whole, including other players and the clubs and the public.

"Stick swinging is the greatest single evil in the game of players and jeopardizes the entire conduct of the game.

Geoffrion dropped from second to third place in individual scoring standings for the week. It was shown in league statistics released today. It was Murphy's first year in the NHL.

HAND STARTED FIGHT

Campbell said Murphy, still in hospital with a broken jaw, first menaced Geoffrion with his stick while the Canadien player was attempting to fight with his fists. Athlinesman Dom Baolio tried to separate the men, Geoffrion said in a statement. "In the right side of his head opening a cut which subsequently required 11 stitches."

Geoffrion then retrieved a loose stick and made a terrific two-handed overhead swing at Murphy but missed and his stick struck the ice. He immediately followed with another two-handed baseball swing which struck Murphy on the left side of the face and Murphy fell to the ice."

"Subsequent medical examination showed that Murphy had suffered a fracture of the upper left jaw near the ear and a severe concussion which the medical report states will incapacitate him for the balance of the season," Campbell's statement added.

Campbell said the game was played against a background of "ill-considered publicity" suggesting the renewal of an earlier feud among several other players of both teams, and "the players and fans followed this lead."

The suspensions, dated from Dec. 20 mean Geoffrion will miss the next seven games between Canadiens and Rangers. Murphy is suspended for the next four games. Neither player played in last Saturday's game here, which went without fireworks.

Geoffrion, interviewed at Sudbury, Ont., where Canadiens played an exhibition game Monday night, said he considers it a stiff suspension for "something I did to protect myself."

Dick Irvin, Canadiens coach, commented in similar vein.

Bombers, Trafton Come To End of Trail

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fiery George Trafton now is a free agent and will be able to dicker with football clubs in Canada and the United States.

Trafton and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers came to their official parting Monday in a statement issued by Trafton and Bomber president Karl Slocomb at the club's annual meeting.

Terms of the settlement give Trafton a full salary of $12,500 for the 1954 season.

Trafton, who took the Bombers to the Grey cup final this year, said: "I've had a good career in now and didn't feel free to negotiate with other clubs, therefore, I have nothing lined up."

Slocomb told members: "The executive committee, unanimously passed the recommendation that a new head coach be hired for 1954 and that the president be instructed to negotiate with Mr. Trafton with a view to working out some mutually satisfactory agreement."

WANTS YEAR'S SALARY

Mr. Slocomb said he had been informed that Mr. Trafton representing Trafton, that the former Chicago Bear star would like to have his contract in consideration of payment of his full salary for 1954."

A number of applications have already been received for the coaching positions with the club, Slocomb said. He said he thought a coach should be signed for one year with option of renewal.

The new executive, which holds its first meeting next week, will handle hiring of the 1954 coach.

The official statement ended weeks of wrangling by the coach and executive. Trafton recently announced he had been fired and Slocomb countered this charge, saying a new "head coach" would be hired for 1954.

SHOT SCORES

Bombers had a good year at the gate, clearing an estimated 112,540 from the Western Interprovincial Football Union's regular league schedule. They will also share in receipts from the Bombers' play-offs: the semi-final game against the Toronto Rugby Football Bailey Beaches; and the Grey Cup final against Hamilton Tiger-Cats. The club expects to clear considerably more than the $16,800 they netted in 1953.

Total revenue was $399,280, while expenses were $386,660. Receipts from two exhibition games and eight league games played in Winnipeg's new stadium totalled $379,700.

Al. Murray Replaces Dawes As Galt Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Dawes, a former professional hockey player with Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs, Monday night was replaced by Al Murray as coach of Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Jack Moffat, president of the Galt club, said Dawes "resigned." Dawes, a freshman coach, had the Hawks in second place early in the schedule, in recent weeks the team faded badly until now they are tied with Barrie Flyers for last place.

Murray is a former coach of Hawks and has been a director of the club for several years.

KINGSTON (CP) — A Kingston rink skipped by Murray Hampton won the eastern Ontario high school boys' curling championship Monday night and will represent the district in the Ontario high school finals in Toronto Jan. 30.

Hampton's rink won the district title by defeating another Kingston rink skipped by Bill Laird 9-8 after sweeping to the finals over entries from Brockville, Gananoque, Odessa, Smiths Falls and Kingston. The winners won the Clair Palmer Memorial Trophy.

Laird Sherwood's Brockville rink won the Don Linn Trophy event, edging another Brockville rink skipped by Peter Roode 7-6.

Bolton Out With Injuries

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Hugh Bolton, shuttled between the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs and the Senators of toe Quebec Hockey League, is expected to be out of action from three to three weeks with a shoulder separation, a Leaf spokesman said Monday night.

Bolton was injured in the final play of the NHL game here Saturday between the Leafs and Detroit Red Wings. The injury occurred when he checked Detroit's Gordie Howe.

Somebody slipped up and Leiherheide sent its hatchball team.

It was no problem for harmonyloving Luedingsworthers: They played baseball the first half of the game and soccer the second. The over-all score: Luedingsworth 20, Leiherheide 8.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Wings Live Up to Promise, 'First Place by Christmas'

MONTREAL (CP) — Two main points highlight today's picture in the National Hockey League:

1. League president Clarence Campbell has dashed ice-cold water on the fiery tempers of players who use sticks as combat weapons;

2. The Detroit Red Wings are back in the league leadership, with a two-point edge over Montreal Canadiens.

A statement by Campbell Monday night had hard words for a blood - stick-swinging duel between Bernie Geoffrion of Canadiens and Ron Murphy of New York Rangers in a New York game Dec. 20.

Campbell suspended Geoffrion for eight games and Murphy, still in hospital with a broken jaw, for five. Geoffrion also suffered a head wound in the battle.

League statistics released today put the official seal on the success of Detroit's promise of "first place by Christmas." Wings lead third-place Toronto Maple Leafs by six points. The up-and-down Boston Bruins are fourth with 23 points, followed by New York with 26 and Chicago Black Hawks with 19.

HOWE STILL LEADS

Although Gordie Howe failed to garner a point during the week-end, he held his position at the top of the scoring list. The big Detroit winger has 16 goals and 25 assists for 41 points, a seven-point margin over teammate Ted Lindsay, who slid ahead of the suspended Geoffrion into second place. Geoffrion holds third place with 23 points, and Maurice Richard of Canadiens is next with 20 goals and 12 assists.

Rocket Richard is the circuit's leading goal-getter with 20 this season. Howe is tops in the assisting department.

Red Kelly, the league's highest scoring defenceman, has 12 goals and 29 assists for 38 points. Ed Sandford, Boston and Earl Reibel, Detroit, each have 29 points; Tod Sloan of Toronto has 27 and Ken Mosdell of Canadiens 26.

Harry Lumley of Toronto is the leading goal-keeper with a goals-against average of 1.66 in 33 games he has played. Al Rollins, Chicago, has also has five shutouts, tied in that department with Terry Sawchuk, Detroit, and Gerry McNeil, Montreal.

NHL statisticians report that 21 players are eligible for the Calder trophy, awarded annually to the best first-year player, at the season's half-way mark. It carries a $1,000 bonus.

The rookies are: Boston, Frank Martin, Doug Mohns and Ray Gariepy; Chicago, Murray Costello, Jack Price and Ken Wharram; Detroit, Earl Reibel, Bill Dineen and Al Arbour; Montreal, Eddie Mazur, Lorne Davis and Jean Beliveau; New York, Gordon Hower, Camille Henry, Ike Hildebrand, Ivan Irwin, Bob Chrystal, Ron Murphy, Andy Bathgate and Billy Dea; Toronto, Bob Bailey.

I Remember

the first game I ever refereed!

BY MIKE RODDEN

"My debut as a senior referee in Sault Ste. Marie thirty years ago was memorable in the extreme. The famous Soo Greyhounds were 'entertaining' the illustrious and hard-hitting Wolves season in the inaugural test of another season and feeling was running high. Referees worked alone in that era, unaided by linesmen, the Soo club was represented by Bobby Gowans and Bobby Boyd, two of the toughest customers ever to don a pair of skates.

"Gowans was a stranger in the roaring Soo and for that I was thankful. That game in the Soo left little to be desired with the sole exception that the howling Sudbury Wolves bore down and whipped the Greyhounds 8 to 3. A great silence prevailed when it was over—but I was not badgered or molested. The following morning, however, I ran the gauntlet of bitter fan criticism until Bill Phillips, whom I did not know or recognize, intervened a bit forcibly on my behalf."

They plicked in three unanswered goals in the third as Memos, minus Red Doran, McDonald and Semark, gradually faded, though the Quinte crew counted one Petes' tor the first third of this final frame.

CLEAN PLAY.

Play was fairly clean, with the odd bit of high-sticking and a dozen bowling crossing up, and the fans were after referees Jim Crombie and Maurice Walsh (especially the latter) on several occasions. They showered the ice for a time in the second period after Walsh had sent off Bert Hill with a misconduct — for protesting an offside call — Bill McMaster for elbowing and Bill McMaster for holding, all in a row. Keith Montgomery followed shortly for cross-checking, but Memos scored but one goal while Petes were shorthanded two, the delayed penalty and misconduct not figuring in on it. Petes drew eight of the 14 penalties.

Though it might have been scrambly here and there, play kept fast and quite interesting and it was only in the late part of the third period that the visitors really clinched it, their final goal coming seconds to go.

At that, goalie Jack Dooley (who was brilliant throughout) had to be at his best early in the third frame when Memos drove hard in a final desperation attempt to sew it up. Barclay in the other net also made some good saves.

Dooley suffered a cut on the chin late in the middle chukker in a collision, but continued in the game. Bill McMaster, who did some rousing bumping at the blue line, was also accidentally on the face with a stick in the last period but stayed in. Both sides banded hard but the ice got unduly rough most of the distance.

The Prentice - Bellale - Peterson line stood out for the winners, going both ways. Danny Peterson notched two markers, Rod Bellale was in on three and Don Prentice had an assist. Chum Fryia scored a pair and line-mate Gus Lazanakis aided on two. Bert Hill and Bill Crowley each had a goal and an assist, while Ted Collins and Bill McMaster got a marker apiece. Single assists went to coach Ed Redmond, Freddy Garvey and hard-working Keith Montgomery.

Best for Belleville were Erwin and Edwin Duncan with a goal and two assists each. Canny Jake Wade tallied one, as did Ted De-Gray, while Peter Jones and Chuck Doran assisted once each.

Braves Lead Quebec League By Two Points

MONTREAL (CP) — Valleyfield Braves, formerly the Quebec Hockey League's bottom team, last week took over first place in the seven-team loop.

Latest QHL statistics show the Braves on top with 38 points, two ahead of Ottawa Senators. Chicoutimi Sagueneens are in third spot with 35 points while Sherbrooke Saints and Montreal Royals are deadlocked for fourth, each with 34. Quebec Aces are one step out of the cellar with 30 points and Springfield Indians occupy the low spot with 29.

Valleyfield's Andre Corriveau has also taken much of the credit for his team's success. The little right-winger is currently the circuit's leading scorer with 31 points on 19 goals and 12 assists, tops in the help-out department. He is 10 points away from Chicoutimi's Ricky Buchanan, who has garnered 22 goals and 19 assists for 41 points and second place.

Montreal's Skippy Burchell is third with 38. Ottawa's Leo Gravelle and Rip Riopelle are tied for fourth spot, each having 35 points. Gravelle and Buchanan are the top marksmen with 22 tallies each.

'Bobo' Olson Named 1953 Fighter of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl (Bobo) Olson, world middleweight champion, has been named "fighter of the year" for 1953 by Ring magazine in a copyrighted article in its February issue. The selection is at odds with the Boxing Writers Association's pick of Kid Gavilan.

Editor Nat Fleischer and his staff decided on Olson after considering Walter Cartier, Gavilan, heavyweight king Rocky Marciano and lightweight champ Jimmy Carter.

Pointing out that Gavilan had Dundee, Wisconsin, boxing board found Olson, and Olson alone, showed no interest in Dundee.

Despite Marciano's two knockout victories in title defences, the Ring polished that the heavyweight king Jersey Joe Walcott was marred by Joe's failure to get up and Rocky was slow to get started against Ezzard Charles. Also, he was faulted for the two non-title defeats in eight fights despite three successful defences.

Olson won all four fights this year, stopping Kid Gavilan for the American title and defeating Randy Turpin for the world championship.

CANADIANS RATED

The annual year-end ratings of fighters in all classes include three Canadians.

Earl Walls of Edmonton is rated No. 8 among challengers for Marciano's heavyweight title. Nino Valdes of Cuba is rated No. 1 behind Charles and knocked out Heinz Neuhaus of Germany, has replaced Walcott as No. 2 contender. He's followed by Charles, LaStarza and Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia.

Arthur King of Toronto is No. 8 and Armand Savoie of Montreal No. 10 among challengers for Carter's lightweight title. Wallace Ball of Scotland is first in line.

Nino Valdes Manager Is Indignant At Marciano-Nardio Announcement

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The voice of Maury Waxman, who, in turn, is the voice of Nino Valdes, the Cuban heavyweight, trembled with indignation as he discussed the possibility of Rocky Marciano making his next titled defence against Bonnie Nardico in Miami Feb. 24. Maury had just finished reading Rocky's own announcement that the match had been made.

"What's happened," he said, breathing deeply, "is that Rocky let the cat out from the bag. Sure Wells's denying it, but that's exactly what he's trying to do—tell the IBC or giving him and Rocky a nice payday against a fellow where his title couldn't possibly be in danger. It's the same thing Gene Tunney did when he fought old Tom Heeney.

"I happen to know the IBC doesn't want any part of it. They know they can't sell Nardico down there where he was outclassed by Joey Maxim. Any body can beat Nardico. Only reason Weill picks him is that he were some old time favors to his manager, Lou Viscusi. They were partners once and Al would like to give Lou a payday."

SEEKS VALDES MATCH

The reason for Waxman's burn was, of course, readily apparent. He quit a soft job with matchmaker Chris Dundee down in Miami to help steer Valdes into an immediate match with Marciano.

"It says here," Waxman continued on a risible note, "that Weill says who is Valdes and why should he give him a match. That's a lot of audacity if I ever heard it. Valdes is six foot, two inches and over 200 pounds and he has been the daylights out of Ezzard Charles and knocked out Heinz Neuhaus, the champion of Europe."

"Why don't we want to fight Charles first? Why should we? We beat him once, good, and all he's done since then is to beat this punk kid Coley Wallace. We'll fight him again if we have to, but not for any peanuts."

ALWAYS AIM HIGH

Why, we inquired cautiously, wouldn't it be smart for Valdes to first whip Charles again, if it's such a cinch he can do so, thus getting himself a fat purse and at the same time placing Marciano in a position where he couldn't possibly dodge him?

"That's not how you figure in this business," Waxman said with fine restraint. "You've got to always look to get the big shot. You don't get in the big money unless you fight for the championship. We think our boy is ready right now to win the title, so why should we fool around with Charles or anybody else?"

1953 Was Year Of Expansion For Canada's Navy

In the Royal Canadian Navy, 1953 was a year of development, fleet expansion, training and travel. Ships of the fleet sailed many thousands of miles in the fulfillment of training and special assignments. There was the Coronation Naval Review, in which six RCN ships participated; the Far Eastern cruise, where three Canadian destroyers continue to serve; Exercise Mariner, massive NATO war games in which five Canadian warships took part, and a continuous series of other cruises designed to provide practical experience for ships and their officers and crews.

The photographs above reflect a small portion of the Royal Canadian Navy's activities during the year.

'FATIMA' CHILD PILGRIM

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Sister Lucia dos Santos, one of three children said to have had six visions of the Virgin Mary near Fatima, Portugal in 1917, will come as a pilgrim to Rome during the Marian Year, it was announced Sunday. Now a nun in a Carmelite convent at Coimbra, Portugal, Sister Lucia was the eldest of the three children whose visions made Fatima one of the greatest centres of Catholic devotion to Madonna.

Boxer Faints Waiting For Bout to Start

TORONTO (CP)—Les Stark, Toronto boxer, fainted from nervousness Monday night as he stood in the ring waiting for the start of a 185-pound amateur fight.

It took a doctor and handlers 10 minutes to revive Stark.

Con McCullough of Toronto substituted for him and scored a technical knockout over Georgs Kvralak, also of Toronto, in the third and final round.

Results included:

122 pounds: Al Chapman, Toronto, won a three-round decision over Grant O'Reilly, Oshawa.

138 pounds: Eddie Arcadio, Toronto, won a three-round decision over Walt Kelly, Oshawa.

Trabert, Seixas Win Doubles To Give Yankees 2-1 Lead In Davis Cup Challenge Round

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MELBOURNE (AP)—Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, top American aegis gamers, defeated Mervyn Rose and Rex Hartwig 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 today to give the United States a 2-1 lead over Australia in the Davis Cup challenge round.

This doubles match was of paramount importance to both countries, and now the U.S. has a decided advantage in that it must win only one of the two remaining singles scheduled for Wednesday. They will put Trabert against Hoad and Seixas against Ken Rosewall.

Captain Harry Hopman and the Australian pair blew their chance gambled and lost by sending Hartwig into the court instead of Rosewall, the youngster who dropped the second singles match to Trabert Monday.

They must have known and regretted their decision almost at the start of the first set. From the beginning it was apparent that Hoad and Hartwig were not teaming well.

Hartwig, new to Davis Cup competition, had a bad case of nerves. In addition, he never had teamed with Hoad in a major tournament before, and could not anticipate his partner's moves.

Hopman, however, was fearful of Rosewall's additional work service, so he took the gamble—and will have to pay for it today if the Aussies lose the cup for the first time in four years.

MOVES SMOOTHLY

The decision by the Australian selectors to break up the Hoad-Rosewall team when they won the Wimbledon, French and Australian championships, drew criticism from observers here. However, big Norman Brookes, head of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association, defended the position in an unprecedented press conference.

Several Australian newspaper writers called the switch a "crazy gamble." Hoad and Rosewall playing the cup to America on a silver platter.

Trabert, as usual, was his mosterful self. It was Seixas, though, who gladdened American captain Billy Talbert's heart and raised his hopes. Vic seemed like his old self after his disappointing showing in Australia before today.

He and Trabert seized the initiative at the outset and held a tiger-like grip throughout the match. The Yankees never could get going, and in exactly 58 minutes it was all over.

All the Trabert and Seixas broke Hartwig's service three times, consolidating their own. Rex was having trouble with his first delivery and was forced to rely heavily with the soft second attempt he found himself in trouble.

'Red' Sullivan Still Tops In American League

NEW YORK (CP — Although held to a single point on one assist last night, George Red Sullivan of Hershey suffered little in his quest for the American Hockey League scoring title. The Bears' veteran centre holds a eight-point lead with 13 goals and 32 assists for 45 points. Only one of his pursuers also had off weeks.

Jackie Gordon and Eddie Olson of Cleveland were second and third with 44 and 43 points respectively. Gordon picked up two goals and a newcomer to the top ranks, Bronco Horvath of Cleveland, is fifth with 39.

Sullivan retains the lead in assists with his 32. Harry Pidhirny of Syracuse remains the leading goal-getter with 34.

Larry Cahan of Pittsburgh is still the top player in penalty minutes with 90, and Jacques Plante of Buffalo holds a commanding lead in goals-against with an average of 2.57 on 30 goals and in 35 games. He has a shutouts with Gil [illegible] of Pittsburgh with two each.

Boxing Deaths Set New Record In 1953 Says Ring Magazine

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — A record number of 21 boxing fatalities in 1953 was recorded by Ring magazine in a copyrighted article appearing in its February issue.

The records showed 11 professional and 10 amateur deaths with only two pro deaths in the United States. Dick Miller died after a Worcester, Mass., bout last March and Robert Lee (Bobby Donald) after a Miami Beach match Aug. 14. Of the 10 amateur fatalities, six occurred in the United States.

In 1952, there were 17 deaths. Ring also selected Nino Valdes of Cuba as the pro boxer making the most progress in 1953. He scored a 22nd heavyweight, six feet, three and 215 pounds, hit the high spots by upsetting Ezzard Charles at Miami and knocking out Heinz Neuhaus in Germany to become the No. 1 contender to champion Rocky Marciano.

Wallace (Bud) Smith, Carmen Basilio and Earl Walls of Edmonton also were recognized for 1953 progress. Smith took over the No. 1 ranking among lightweight challengers and Basilio moved into the same spot in the welter class after he had down champion Kid Gavilan while losing a disputed split decision in a title bout. Walls moved into the No. 8 spot among the heavyweights by twice knocking out Rex Layne.

Ring selected Carl (Bobo) Olson, the middleweight champion, as the "boxer of the year" although the Boxing Writers Association had named welter champ Kid Gavilan as their choice for the year. Ring editor Nat Fleischer's board selected Joey Maxim, Gavilan, Marciano and Jimmy Carter.

The new No. 1 challengers were: Heavyweight, Valdes; lightweight, Harold Johnson; welters, Basilio; middleweight, Smith; feathers, Red Top Davis, and bantams, Robert Cohen. Randy Turpin still is No. 1 among the middle contenders and Jake Tuli in the flyweight behind champion Yoshio Shirai.

Arthur King of Toronto was rated No. 8 and Armand Savoie of Montreal No. 10 among the challengers for Carter's 135-pound crown.

WINGS RECALL HAY

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings Monday recalled defenceman Jim Hay from Sherbrooke of the Quebec Hockey League. The Wings' hockey league champions sent defenceman Al Arbour to Sherbrooke to replace Hay.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

This may sound like one of those trick questions you hear on radio quiz programs. And, in fact, it is. Here's the question: Can it be possible that the biggest upset in a Canadian sport during 1953 didn't happen in Canada at all?

The answer isn't too difficult. Hockey is a Canadian sport, and Canadians were on both ends of the upset when the lowly Boston Bruins, who had just barely scrambled into the playoff picture, knocked the lordly Detroit Red Wings right out of the picture. It didn't happen in Canada, because Canada's six great professional League champions and Cup holders unceremoniously shouldered out of the picture by an unannounced, and every hockey fan on this continent, were all played on U.S. ice. It was the sports upset of the year.

The depth of the upset can be seen in a quick review of the regular-season figures, in which Detroit won 37 games, tied two and lost two against Boston. The record-setting Wings, who won an unprecedented fifth-straight N.H.L. title, also outscored the Bruins, 62 goals to 19, over that stretch. On Detroit ice, where Boston won a key game in the Cup series last spring, the Wings held a fantastic 27-2 margin over four seasons, including 12 straight wins. But in the Cup series, Bruins scored 21 goals in the six games, the same number, by coincidence, as did Red Wings.

The hero of the spectacular Boston triumph undoubtedly was Samuel (Sugar Jim) Henry, the Bruins' goalie. Two years before, Henry had been a spare goalie in Boston's Red Wing camp. He had a call for help came from Bruins, the veteran goalminder, who had failed in previous forays with New York and Chicago was sold to the Boston club for a few thousand dollars.

So amazing was Henry's comeback with Boston that during the first year, 1951-52, he was named to the second All-Star team and was third in the voting for the National Hockey League's Most Valuable Player award.

In the opening round of the post-season playoffs he came back to thwart the team that had sold him to Boston. In the first three games against Detroit, Sugar Jim made 122 saves as Boston upset the defending champions twice to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

And when Bruins battled Canadians right down to the wire in the Cup finals, it was the gallant Henry, bobbing on one foot, his ankle badly damaged, who held the Habitant team at bay, without a goal, until one whistled past him in over time of the fifth and final game to give the Montreal team the title.

Sport in Brief

NEW YORK (AP)— Al Weill, manager of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, said Monday he hasn't agreed to a Marciano-Danny Nardico title fight in Miami Feb. 24 or "any kind of a fight for Rocky yet."

Weill called The Associated Press over a story from Brockton, Mass., Rocky's hometown, which quoted Marciano as saying he was going to defend his title against Nardico in Miami, Feb. 26.

Rocky was quoted as saying "I'm going to New York Thursday to sign for the fight."

"He must have been misquoted or misunderstood," said Weill. "Rocky don't know who he's going to fight next. He may not even fight in Miami. I ain't closed for any fight.

"I've been talking to Jim Norris (president of the International Boxing Club) on the 'phone," said Weill. "We've mentioned Nardico, Dan Bercovich and Cesar Brion as possible opponents for Rocky down there in Miami but we ain't settled anything."

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)— Lionel Heinrich, defenceman with Humboldt Indians of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League, was fined $25 in police court Monday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault causing actual bodily harm.

Police said Heinrich struck a Prince Albert fan on the head with a hockey stick during a game here Nov. 26. The incident occurred when Humboldt coach Scotty Munro and Bill Fryer, coach of Prince Albert Mintos, staged a fist fight as both teams were leaving the ice.

The fan, Hugh Critchley, said he was not paying much attention and was looking the other way when "clobbered." Heinrich said Critchley was trying to get on the ice to grab a teammate.

EDMONTON (CP)—Coach Darrell Royal of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union Monday put Florida, where he will watch the Orange Bowl New Year's Day.

Royal, a former Oklahoma Sooner star who brought the split-T formation to Canada, is then scheduled to fly to Starkville, Miss., to confer with split-T quarterback Jackie Parker, an all-American resident eighth this year in the selection of the finest United States college football players.

Royal was non-committal concerning Eskimos efforts to recruit Parker, but said Mississippi Al Anderson said Royal would try to get in touch with the player and other prospects at Mississippi State University.

Movie Column

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Pudgy Alfred Hitchcock, the sultan of cinema suspense, is a sucker for tough pictures. In his latest one, the hero spends the whole film in an apartment, encased up to the chest in a plaster cast.

"I don't like to get into a rut by directing normal pictures all the time," remarks Hitchcock. "One must have a challenge now and then, you know."

He's had 'em. For instance, "Lifeboat" took place almost entirely in one lifeboat at sea after a German torpedoing.

Then there was "Rope," a grim story of a thrill killing by two young men. Hitchcock aimed to tell the tale in continuous action, with no cuts except for the end of each reel.

Now he's doing "Rear Window," the story of a newspaper man, James Stewart, who breaks a leg and is confined to his Greenwich Village apartment. With nothing else to do, he starts studying the neighbors. Sort of a scientific peeping Tom, you might say.

During his peering, he notices that an invalid woman seems to appear in her apartment window. Two men come there and carry away a trunk. He thinks it's murder, and he tries to prove it by means of telescopic cameras. Eventually the murderer finds out what he's up to and pays him a visit.

"The whole action is seen from his apartment," explained Hitchcock. "The only persons who visit Stewart are his girl, Grace Kelly; the nurse, Thelma Ritter; a detective, Wendell Corey, and the murderer. All the rest of the cast are seen at a distance across the court between the apartment houses."

The director showed me movie set and it is one of the most impressive I have ever seen. An apartment house rises six storeys in the Paramount stage, and all the 31 apartments are occupied by actors.

Crews dug 30 feet below the stage floor to create a sunken garden. When the picture started, the sound man couldn't account for a gurgling noise that came through the microphone. It turned out that the excavation had struck water. Now pumps are operated between takes.

Although the scenery is limited to the surrounding apartment houses and a small patch of sky, the movie is being made in color. I asked Hitchcock how come.

"To get moods and times of day," he remarked. "The scene changes from the bright rays of morning to the subdued light of afternoon to the end of sunset.

"Also, we need color to pick out the characters in a crowd a distance. If they were in black and white, you would scarcely notice them."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
THE NEA BRIDGE EXPERT

In ancient Greece or thereabouts, they once had a swell racket. It was called the Delphian oracle. Nobody knew who headed the joint. No Kefauver or FBI of that time dared dig up the dope.

The setup was at the mouth of a cave. By giving up your right eye and a couple of heifers you could ask a question. Back through an amplifier would come an answer in bass like a prophecy.

What horse or dog would win in the seventh race? Should you marry the girl or risk a shotgun? Who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder? Deposit your question and ask the oracle.

The answer you got was in double talk. Your interpreter(s) turned out good the oracle got the credit. If it turned out to be bad you were a sap for not taking the other meaning.

It was a great system; heads the oracle wins, tails you lose. Thus, the oracle could never be wrong no matter what happened. And most bridge experts are modern oracles.

A player got hurt opening one spade with this hand:

♠Q 9 7 4 2
♥Q J 3
♦K 7 6
♣A 8

Criticized by his partner for it, the player was indignant. He insisted that his was a bad hand, honor tricks made a good opening.

Asked for an opinion my answer was that the inventor of honor tricks would not consider this hand a sound opening. So, the player went out into the author's book and pointed to a place therein.

This is what the book read: At times hands containing slightly below the minimum requirements may be bid. And hands containing the minimum requirements or slightly more may be passed.

This explained the oracle. When an honor trick player is wrong can it be proven by the author of the system? Not much chance as boiling water in a deep freeze.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, DEC. 30, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A rather uninteresting, maybe dull day. You may find some confusion during the week. That should get you fiery folks on your toes, to work, thinking up ways to overcome obstacles.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You can hardly expect to advance unless you double effort, forget personal feelings awhile. Analyze carefully; reply on your own deductions, and make use of others' knowledge as well.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Caution! Avoid useless legal or personal entanglements; smile, even when you don't feel like it.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Mark time a bit in the A.M. hours (be smart); wait patiently as you work out difficulties. Study each situation, know its values, its pitfalls, and you will save backtracking.

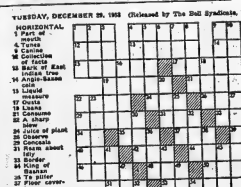
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You are fortunate in having more advantages in your favor than others right now. This is a day in which you can move forward if you exercise. Avoid needless haste.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Move cautiously until you have set your course, and you can turn in a good day. Avoid irritability, needless talk on unessentials. Distractions are about.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Not an out-of-the-ordinary day. You are willing to put in extra effort and make better plans, will gain in some unexpected way; may turn the bitter to the sweet by sheer determination.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Minimize disturbing words or conditions. Don't be a party to petty or foolish notions; they only upset and place everyone in uncomfortable positions. You are above such things.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—This day may be much harder and more irksome than you expect, so don't be smug or too sure of things. You—all of us, in fact—are weather such situations if we remain our natural and sensible selves.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your chart says "extra care" in money and business matters, especially where you have to take risks. Some things are better not tried. Protect income family valuables.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Be alert to deception from the outside and don't be in a hurry to sign papers or make loans unless carefully studied in advance. Concentrate on duties, necessary matters first.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Like Aquarius you should be alert, on the lookout or you will miss out today. Time and opportunity wait for no man. Heart interests, home and family need attention now.

YOU BORN TODAY: have a profound mentality and are practical; usually dignified, ambitious and persevering; seldom are discouraged although you often are disappointed when your affairs or schemes do not mature as expected. You could succeed as builder, decorator, stock farmer, grocer. You could also conduct large enterprises, make an able statesman. Avoid discontent, melancholy. Birthdate of Rudyard Kipling, Anglo-Indian author; Alfred E. Smith, American public official.

Top Canadian News Stories Of 1953

KOREAN WAR ENDS — Canadian forces held part of the Korean battle line at the time the cease-fire went into effect in July ending the Korean war after more than three years of fighting. An artillery unit is shown firing the last Canadian shell a few minutes before the truce went into effect. The Korean war cost to Canada has been more than $300,000,000. A total of 26,723 Canadian servicemen have seen service in the war. Eight Canadian navy ships have done 15 tours of duty in Korean waters and the RCAF has flown 1,000 trans-Pacific transport flights, logging 6,500,000 hours. RCAF pilots also took part, as exchange pilots with the United States Air Force. Casualties suffered by Canadian troops were listed at 1,543 including 256 killed in action, nine presumed dead, 36 died of wounds, 1,101 wounded, 101 injured in action, six missing and 33 returned from prisoner of war. — (CP from National Defence.)

MURDER IN GASPE — The bear-pawed bodies of three United States hunters, missing more than a month, were found in July near Gaspe, Que. The slayings touched off an exhaustive investigation throughout much of the province and resulted a month later in a charge of murder being laid against a 37-year-old mining prospector Wilbert Coffin. Coffin was charged with the murder of Richard Lindsey, 17, of Brook Mills, Pa. and held criminally responsible for the death of Fred Claar, 20, of East Freedom, Pa. The third victim was Eugene Lindsey, father of Richard. This picture of Richard and Claar was developed in police laboratories from film found in a camera on the scene. It shows them outside their Gaspe cabin only a few days before they were slain. — (CP Photo)

STORM HAVOC — The southern part of the Maritime Provinces was battered Sept. 7 when an Atlantic hurricane swept inshore. One man was drowned, shipping was scattered, nearly half of Nova Scotia's apple crop was destroyed, buildings were damaged and trees blown down by the 80-mile-an-hour wind. This photo shows the wreckage left when the roof was blown off a Halifax apartment house. The Halifax weather office said it was the worst storm to hit that seaport in three years. — —(CP Photo.)

WHEAT PILES UP — Grain valued at $300,000 lying on the ground near elevators at Makepeace, Alta., is typical of a severe grain storage problem in Canada. Three big wheat crops in a row filled all available storage space. In November the bureau of statistics reported the 1953 crop at 613,963,000 bushels, second highest in history. The carryover from the 1952-53 crop was 362,700,000 bushels, despite exports of 283,900,000 bushels in the 1952-53 season. Prairie merchants struggle with retail credit difficulties. In its brief to the Canadian Wheat Board, the Alberta Retail Merchants' Association suggested the government guarantee bank loans up to $1,000 on grain in farm storage "to alleviate cases of particular distress." — (CP Photo.)

MINE STRIKE — More than half the breadwinners of Northern Ontario's Porcupine mining camp were idle throughout the autumn of 1953 after the United Steel Workers of America (CIO — CCL) called progressive strikes in six of the area's 11 mines. In Timmins, centre of the Porcupine camp and a community or 28,000, violence broke in July in the early stages of the strike. This photo shows Ontario Provincial Police in an altercation with a group of pickets near the strike-bound Broulan Reef gold mine. — (CP Photo.)

TORNADO DAMAGE — Debris clogs the main street of Sarnia, Ont., after a tornado swept across southwestern Ontario May 21. The death toll was five and the damage was estimated in millions of dollars after the twister traced an erratic path across a corner of the province. Sarnia's damage alone was counted at more than $1,000,000 and 50 persons were hurt in the disaster which struck the industrial city of 42,000. — (CP Photo.)

DOUKHOBORS POSE PROBLEM — The problem of what to do with some 2,500 persons, members of a radical Doukhobor sect in British Columbia's interior, who defy the law by upending gravestones, dynamiting railways, setting homes on fire, parading naked and refusing to send their children to school is puzzling provincial and federal authorities. Here, a group of women members of the radical Sons of Freedom undress before a burning cabin near Kreslova. While the more law-abiding of Canada's 18,000 Doukhobors have turned the Kootenays into a "garden," the Sons of Freedom created squalid villages such as Krestova, their stronghold. In October 42 were sentenced to prison terms ranging from six months to three years. Another 19 were handed one-year suspended sentences on charges of nude parading. Earlier 38 were sentenced to three years on the same charge. (CP Photo.)

WOMEN IN COMMONS — Four women won seats in the House of Commons in the Aug. 10 federal election. In the previous Parliament, Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Progressive Conservative from Hamilton West, was the only woman member. This picture shows the four elected in August as they attended the opening of Parliament in November, left to right: Mrs. Ann Shipley (L—Temiskaming), Miss Margaret Aitken (PC—York Humber), Mrs. Fairclough, and Miss Sybil Bennett. (PC Halton. — (CP Photo).

LEADS TO VICTORY — Prime Minister St. Laurent, leading his Liberal party in a Canadian general election for the second time, led it to victory at the polls Aug. 10. The party, which also won the 1949 general election under its 71-year-old leader, took 171 of Parliament's 265 seats. Two months after the election Mr. St. Laurent announced plans for a world-girdling air journey early in 1954. The prime minister said the trip would enable him to return visits made to him in Ottawa by the prime ministers of France, Germany, Italy, Pakistan, India, Australia and New Zealand. — (CP Photo.)

BUS DISASTER — Twenty died when this Toronto-Montreal express bus crashed into the Williamsburg Canal 20 miles west of Cornwall, Ont., July 31. The bus, with 39 aboard, was speeding through the early-morning darkness when it struck a truck on the road, both vehicles plunged into 20 feet of water. Max Boodman, 40, of Toronto, the truck driver, was later convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to a year in reformatory for his part in Canada's worst highway disaster. — (CP Photo)

PIPELINE ENDS — An electric arc flaring in the darkness puts the last weld in the 711-mile pipeline stretching from Edmonton to Vancouver. Transmountain Pipeline Company's line from the Alberta oilfields was finished in October and became Canada's second major oil pipeline. It was built across the mountains at a cost of $97,000,000. Two years earlier the 1,127-mile interprovincial pipeline between Alberta oilfields and the head of the Great Lakes was finished at a cost of $95,000,000. — (CP Photo.)

Most Decorated Pilot to Command North Bay Unit

MONTREAL (CP)—Wing Cmdr. John E. D. Braham, DSO, DFC, AFC, the RCAF's most-decorated fighter pilot, will take command of No. 3 all-weather operational training unit at North Bay early in January, the RCAF announced Monday.

Wing Cmdr. Braham is being moved from a staff position at air defence command headquarters at St. Hubert, Que. In his new post he will be responsible for the operational training of CF-100 crews.

The 34-year-old fighter ace served with the RAF during the Second World War and destroyed 29 enemy aircraft before being shot down over Denmark in 1944 and imprisoned. He was awarded the DSO and two bars and the DFC and two bars in recognition of his service during the Battle of Britain.

WON U. S. AWARD

After being released from a German prison camp in 1945 he was named to a staff position with the British air ministry until 1948 when he took charge of the all-weather development wing of the central fighter establishment in England. He was awarded the AFC in 1951 for his achievements in the development of all-weather aircraft.

He transferred to the RCAF in 1952.

He will succeed Wing Cmdr. E. D. Crew, DSO, DFC, 36, who has been in command of the unit since its beginning in October, 1951. Wing Cmdr. Crew is returning to England after completing his tour with the RCAF.

Mrs. Janet Jagan Is Fined $250 For Holding Meet

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—A magistrate's court Mon., fined Mrs. Janet Jagan, wife of the deposed prime minister of British Guiana, $250 and costs of $84 or three months imprisonment on a charge of holding an illegal meeting.

Nine other defendants were reprimanded and discharged. They were arrested under emergency regulations put in force when the colonial office suspended the constitution on the grounds that a Communist plot was in progress there.

The defence claimed the emergency regulations were ambiguous. Mrs. Jagan contended that the meeting in question had a religious character.

In passing sentence the magistrate said the meeting was not religious at all but was an "unholy farce."

The defence promptly gave notice of appeal.

The British Guiana dollar is equal to four shillings and twopence in English money—approximately 59 cents.

Maoris Pledge Loyalty Anew At Treaty Site

WAITANGI, N. Z. (CP)—New Zealand's Maoris reaffirmed their loyalty to the crown in an impressive ceremony Mon., on the site of the 1840 treaty that first bound the aboriginal tribes to Britain.

Five thousand Maoris welcomed the Queen as "our chief, our lord, our sovereign," as she arrived with the Duke of Edinburgh at the historic treaty grounds of Waitangi—Maori for "weeping waters"—where the tribe first submitted to British rule.

Before leaving Auckland on the first step of a 1,250-mile tour of New Zealand, the Queen presented colors to the Royal New Zealand Air Force.

GRASS-SKIRT GREETING

At Waitangi, the grass-skirted tribesmen whirled in a ceremonial dance of welcome, spears in hand, as the Queen and duke arrived. Greeting the Queen in the musical Maori language, a spokesman, Tipene Rankin, expressed "welcome to greatness, to sanctity and exalted majesty."

Rankin, wearing a grass skirt, a mat of kiwi feathers over his shoulders and a feather in his headband, renewed his ancestors' pledge to Britain and said:

"We thank God for a century and more of British rule."

Then the couple stepped onto the kowyhai, a sacred flax mat.

Three sticks were placed before the royal pair, signifying the god of the sea (Queen Elizabeth), the god of war (the duke) and the mystical parents of the ancient Maori race.

New Zealand Premier Sidney Holland handed the first two sticks to the Queen and her husband, keeping the other himself.

12,132 Students In Final Year At Universities

OTTAWA (CP) — The labor department reported today 12,132 students are in the graduating classes of Canadian universities.

The enrolment is about the same as in the 1953 graduating classes, the department said. In addition, there are 2,929 students in the final year of post-graduate studies.

Those in the final year include 1,870 engineers, 2,228 in arts, 1,078 in education, 790 in commerce, 802 in medicine, 172 in dentistry, 235 in agriculture, 287 in law, 340 in pharmacy, 683 in nursing and 85 in forestry.

GIRL SKIER PERISHES

MERANO, Italy (Reuters) — A rescue squad Sunday found an Italian girl skier of 23 dead and her 19-year-old companion with badly frostbitten feet 4,000 feet above the Alpine village of Avelengo. The alarm was given by a youth of 18 who had been making a ski tour with the others. After a night spent in the open he was the only one able to move.

Allies Demand Punishment Of Border Guards

BERLIN (AP)—The three Western Allies, in a sharp protest to the Russians, demanded punishment of Soviet border guards for the fatal shooting of a 16-year-old West Berlin youth and the wounding of his mother Saturday night.

The American, British and French commandants also demanded damages be paid the family of the slain youth.

Identical notes from the three Allied chiefs were handed the Soviet protocol office. The notes asked a thorough investigation by the Russians and punishment of guilty parties.

The youth, Joachim Womlak, was hit in the chest when Russian border guards opened fire at a car in which he approached the West Berlin border on a Soviet zone highway. His mother, Ilse, 40, was injured, and his father, driving the car, was not hurt.

The East German police seized the vehicle but released it 30 minutes later.

Coldest Weather In Several Years Sweeping South

Now 60 Below Zero in North, 10 Below in Toronto Soon

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario was the coldest province in Canada today with temperatures sliding to 60 below zero in some of its northern regions.

Armstrong, 140 miles north of Port Arthur, reported 57 below. Normally it would be having temperatures a few degrees on either side of zero at this time of year.

Meteorologists in Toronto said it was the coldest spell to hit Ontario for a number of years.

Ten below was forecast for areas around Toronto Thursday with temperatures moderating for a short time Friday. Normal in the Toronto area and southern parts of the province at this time of year is a high of 32 and a low of 20 above.

Five or six inches of snow are expected today in the Niagara and Bruce peninsulas.

The weather office said the cold will probably be the general later today and move into New Brunswick and Nova Scotia tonight.

Winnipeg forecasts said temperatures which have been well below zero will rise.

Alberta and Saskatchewan had Arctic conditions while in British Columbia reported normal weather, just above freezing.

AUTO COLLISION KILLS SIX NEAR KIRKLAND LAKE

Cars Meet in Storm On Icy Highway

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — A head-on collision on an icy highway 27 miles north of here Tuesday killed six persons and injured four others.

Police said automobiles driven by Paul Rance, 42, of the Barrie district, and Kenneth Hager, 21, of Timmins, met in a snowstorm after the Rance car pulled out to pass another car at the bottom of a steep hill on Highway 11, five miles north of the Kenogami settlement.

Killed were Hager, a hydro employee; his 20-year-old wife, whom he married last June; his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jean Lapointe, 52, of Timmins; Mrs. Eastman, daughters, Dorothy, 8, and Shirley, 4; and Mrs. Kunce, 36.

Injured were Kunce, one-time if fisherman who runs fish and chips shop and now operator of auto wrecking camp on Little Lake, just north of Barrie; his daughter, ex-Pauline, 13, and son, Roland, 9; and Jeanne Eastman, husband of the woman victims.

KEYBOARD WAS VISED

Police said the Kunce car was a late-model heavy vehicle, while Hager's was a 1949 coupe. The model.

The six persons in the Hager car were returning to Timmins from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ed W. Hills, Mr. Hager is employed by power station on the Montreal river. The Rance car was owned by of Mrs. Hagar and Mrs. Eastman. Mr. Hills Kunce are believed to have been visiting cousins who live just north of Kirkland Lake. They were not in the car when it left.

The impact drove both drivers under their steering wheels so violently that both steering columns were bent in between the windshields. Rescuers spent three hours with crowbars to free Hager's body, which was pinned in the wreckage.

Fred Hicks of Timmins, who had been travelling along the high-powered game upon the scene in time to help arrange to move the dead and injured to Kirkland Lake in private automobiles.

New Year's Eve for Two in Swank N.Y. Spots Will Knock Out $100 Bill

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Taking the best girl out for New Year's Eve will require the major part of a $100 bill at some of New York's swankier night clubs.

The minimum tab at the hotel Pierre's Cafe Pierre room will be $27.50 a person. For that payment dinner, a show, noisemakers, dancing and a champagne cocktail.

It's the $55 for two, add the price of all other drinks, tip, transportation, a snack on the way home and maybe a headache remedy.

The Pierre charges another $5.50 per-cent luxury tax. At most other places the quoted price does not include the tax, which must be added.

The hotel Plaza's basic charge will be $25 a person in its Persian room for dancing, dinner, favors and a show. At the Waldorf-Astoria, the price will be $25 in the Empire room, $20 in the Peacock alley cafes, and $7.50 in adjoining cafes.

The hotel New Yorker will provide its ice show, supper, funny hats, noisemakers and dancing for $12.50, including tax.

The minimum is not to be confused with a cover charge usually required to cover the price of admission, which some places will apply in addition to a minimum.

Some places will have "open house." That means that regular peters will prevail without covers or minimums.

The Sheraton hotel, in the heart of New York's gay white way, is refusing to rent any rooms or tables for New Year's parties.

Ernest J. Kramer, the owner, says such parties would disturb the sleep of travelling salesmen who have to be up and on the job the next day.

At Long Beach, N.Y., police chief Leo Nolan is installing a "coffee bar" in police headquarters. Drivers returning from New Year's Eve parties are invited to stop in for a cup of coffee. The free coffee before continuing their trip is Nolan's idea. The plan will help to prevent vehicle accidents.

Canada's Top Labor Leaders Stress Unemployment Issues, Social Security Demands

OTTAWA (CP) — Problems of Canadian unemployment and demands for wider social security measures were spelled out by Canada's two top labor leaders in their annual New Year broadcasts. However, they labelled 1953 as a year of "advance for labor and expressed optimism for 1954.

The messages, released today, came from Percy R. Bengough, president of the 450,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and A. R. Mosher, president of the 375,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor. The organizations are the largest of Canada's central labor bodies.

"The year now closing," Mr. Bengough said, "had had its share of difficulties, but there also had been gains. In the main it has been a year of progress."

"On the other hand," he said, "there have been the dark spots. And for many these troubles are increasing rather than lessening with the passing months.

UNEMPLOYMENT SERIOUS

"Unemployment and underemployment are already serious in some industries and are on the increase through-out the length of Canada. Those normally employed in textiles, railways, aircraft plants and the rubber industry now feel the full cruelty of layoffs most."

Mr. Bengough said that never before in Canadian history has unemployment been so high at this time of year. The federal government should inaugurate a public works program and do all possible to encourage re-employment in private industry.

The TLC president renewed the congress' demands for extension of unemployment insurance benefits and a national scheme of health insurance.

President Mosher said that while Canadians are concerned with the economic outlook, he believes they may look forward to the new year with optimism tempered by an intelligent study and understanding of both the domestic and the international aspects of the trade picture."

BRIGHT FUTURE

"Canada has become one of the great industrial nations of the world," he said, "and, even so-called as the immediate future is concerned, there is no reason for undue apprehension.

"There is widespread agreement that the long-range future for Canada is extremely bright, and I believe that our people have the ability to meet any situation and solve any problem which they may have to face."

Month of Canada's economy depended on international trade, but this was a matter which "we have not the power to control," he said. However effective and satisfactory manner.

Grandfather First Freezes To Visit Russian Children But His Gifts Are Shoddy

By RICHARD EASSICKSKI

MOSCOW (AP) — Old Grandfather Frost is getting some pretty strict orders in Russia these days. He's finding out that it's not enough that really say mama and boys' games that he wear a beard. He makes his gift-bearing rounds on New Year's Day.

Grandfather Frost is the Soviet version of Santa Claus. He arrives in a week loaded with gifts for Soviet Union, which is observed Jan. 7 in accord with the Julian calendar used by the Russian orthodox church.

Friday, dozens of Soviet children will gather around fir trees to receive gifts and sweets. The grown-ups exchange gifts, too, and this year the cry is for quality goods.

Premier Malenkov's government has promised more and better consumer goods. Letter columns of Soviet newspapers disclose that the Russian consumer wants to see this reflected in better-made gifts new Year's Day and in the full swing.

A correspondent who bought a doll for his daughter had this indignant complaint:

"The instructions said that his doll could walk, roll its eyes and say 'mama.' The doll looks very nice—if you ignore the fact that the wig is made of rags and cotton waste glued to the head, instead of hair. Besides, the doesn't say or walk. She could make the doll walk.

DOLL PARALYZED

"On the second day the doll was completely paralyzed. Despite careful handling the right arm fell off, while trying to make the doll work, something broke inside it and it stopped 'mama' and it only made hoarse sounds. Why do they make such bad toys."

Other letters complained about flimsy table games whose parts break easily, and about skates that fall apart when exposed to the rainy weather.

Moscow newspapers complained about the worst of the toys.

A doll's chair cost 22 rubles, as much as a chair for grown-ups. A toy automobile was priced at 75 toys came up with a toy kitchen for $250 a real stove, water in the sink, washing machine, meat grinder, pots and pans. But the cost was $1,250 nearly as much as a real kitchen for a real family of four.

(The ruble is quoted officially at 4 to the U.S. dollar, although not 1,500 rubles would amount to more than two months' salary for an ordinary factory worker.)

Queen Visits King Korok To Heal 80-Year-Old Breach

HAMILTON, N.Z. (AP)—Queen Elizabeth today healed an 80-year-old breach between the tribe, and the crown by calling on "king" Korokl, head of the 250,000-strong Waikato tribe, at his pa (village), about 18 miles south of here.

The dispute concerns ownership of land claimed by the tribe, and a controversy raged among the Maoris for years. Korokl refused the royal visit on whether the Queen should call on Korokl or not.

Korokl claimed that according to Maori custom a visiting "chief-tainess" should call on him to convey should visit him on his own marae (meeting ground). He refused to allow his tribe to attend the official Maori welcome to the Queen scheduled for Rotorua Saturday unless the Queen called at his village on the way to Hamilton today.

The fact that the Queen did so was hailed by Korokl as the final burial of the dispute.

Inside his pa Korokl reigns supreme. He has his own police, Maori laws and courts. He has his own police, blue trousers and brown shoes, and even his own police car.

The Queen was met with scenes of tremendous enthusiasm as soon as she stepped from her car, and excited Maoris thronged about her.

There was the customary challenge by a Maori warrior as she approached, followed by the powhiri (Maori welcome), in which 100 women, dressed in black and wearing ferns in their hair and holding fern branches, chanted.

As the Queen drove across a bridge spanning the Waikato River, on the banks of which Korokl's

Ury Says Shoulders ...ed About Money

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A federal jury says Louis Shoulders, veteran police officer who pleaded guilty to embezzlement, lied in his testimony about the disappearance of $300,000 ransom money in the case of the kidnapping of Carl Cassell.

The jury Tuesday indicted him in charge of perjury, and a federal judge issued his arrest. Herbert C. Greenlease, millionaire Kansas City automobile dealer whose six-year-old son, Bobby, was kidnapped and killed last October, paid a record $600,000 ransom.

Approximately $300,000 was recovered when Shoulders and Carl Austin Hall and his alcoholic paramour, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, were arrested shortly after the Missouri state prison gas chamber claimed Cassell. However other half of the ransom is ll missing.

Shoulders, aided by Patrolman ner Dolan, arrested Hall in a Los Angeles hotel Oct. 6. The ers that the suitcases containing ransom had been promptly the police station.

Shoulders, a member of the force 27 years, resigned in anger after a Kansas City federal grand ...n investigation into the handling of the ransom money.

Both Hall and Mrs. Heady ...ntained they knew nothing about the missing ransom money and Hall said he had more than $500,000 in the hotel room when arrested.

Shoulders, in testifying before the grand jury, said he used precaution in bringing the suitcases into the police station because he knew he was on an important case.

'Money Sickness' May Be Real Cause Of Your Headache or Flutter Heart

By FRANK CAREY

BOSTON (AP)—Your stomach trouble, headache, backache or even an irregular heart might actually be a case of "money sickness" caused by a virus familiarly known as the dollar.

This new malady—said Dr. William Kaufman, is "the most common mental disease of our times"—and yet one that is often missed by doctors in seeking the underlying cause of a physical or emotional symptom.

Anyone from a miser to a gambler and from chronic bargain hunter to industrial and executives who are cozy with their own "expense account and charge account" are candidates for the malady, Kaufman told the AAAS' 120th meeting.

And, in addition "a physical symptoms like headache, muscle and joint pains or stomach trouble, it can take the form of serious mental disturbances like hysterical paralysis, depression, anxiety states or reactions of "panic."

Dr. Kaufman, a specialist of internal medicine, explained some what like this:

The trouble doesn't necessarily come from how much money you have or haven't. It comes from the particular "meaning" you have given to money, and how much you have learned to use it. And it comes from "learned" ideas about need more money when actually you don't. Some of these ideas go back in your childhood.

"One of life's major disappointments which almost every child experiences," said Kaufman, "is that his parents cannot provide him with limitless money. . . .

The manner in which a child resolves his early conflicts about money will determine some of his later personality and character traits, aspirations and behavior patterns."

Police Question Passenger After Pembroke Blaze

Woman Smashes Window To Lead Eighteen to Safety

By ART GALLAGHER
Canadian Press Correspondent

PEMBROKE (CP) — One man was burned to death early today when the tall-sided sleeper of a Canadian National Railways westbound transcontinental train caught fire after leaving the station here.

Eighteen other passengers in the pullman escaped through a window smashed by a woman with a tree cling case. Some were cut and bruised as they plunged in night clothes into the below-zero weather.

PASSENGER QUIZZED

Police held one of the passengers for questioning. He was believed to have occupied a compartment in the sleeper.

Name of the fire victim was not immediately known. Neither was the cause of the fire, which broke out shortly after 2:02 a. m. EST on the train No. 1 from Montreal to Vancouver. The train was halted one mile west of the station here. All passengers in the sleeper were bound for northern Ontario points.

It is believed the victim boarded the train at Ottawa and was travelling to Haileybury, Ont.

With persons pressing escape into the car ahead, those trapped in the burning coach fought their way to the rear, where a woman used a travelling case to smash a window, through which the 8 struggled.

The body of the dead man, burned beyond recognition, was found in the rear vestibule of the coach, where he apparently had suffocated while waiting his turn at the window.

BURNED TWO HOURS

Pembroke firemen fought the blaze for more than two hours before it was extinguished. When the train reached the fire, the 10-car train was brought to a jolting stop and the burning coach was uncoupled. It was then pushed by the Pembroke station was dispatched to pull the ill-fated coach, by then a flaming inferno, back along the main line to the Pembroke fire department was waiting with a hose hooked to a hydrant.

Police officers Huntly Munro and R. W. Hitchin were among the first to spot the blaze. They assisted the train crew in summoning aid.

Investigation is being conducted by Larry Gaudet and Gerard Gravelles J. J. Doney and E. N. Rhodes of the Ottawa detective force of the Ontario provincial police.

Dr. J. H. Joyner of Pembroke treated the injured, who were moved into the edjoining car. Only a few suffered cuts, and all were allayed to continue on North Bay after a three-hour delay.

EXPECT INQUEST

Coroner J. E. Bradley of Pembroke was called. It is expected an inquest will be held.

Those who escaped included: Mrs. Helen Bowman, Kirkland Lake; Bill Vance, Montreal; Mrs. Greta Hoyt, Ottawa; Dale Hoyt, Ottawa; Miss Cecile Maille, Montreal; Miss Joyce Wilson, Timmins; Mrs. A. Martin, Timmins; F. W. Wilkinson, Schumacher; C. A. Nugent, North Bay; J. C. Dukeshire, Ottawa; R. C. Squires, Chicago; Joseph Belair, Montreal.

Vietminh Forces Tighten Pressure On French Fort

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Vietminh rebels tightened their pressure today on Dien Bien Phu, the last French fortress in northwest China, where Communist gunners declared that it is the major objective in the current Communist winter campaign, perhaps in preparation for another push into the north of Thailand or Laos.

The Red-led invaders who foiled across southern Laos of Thakhek and the Thailand border last week, cutting the peninsula in two, have been by-passed there in four days. But at Dien Bien Phu, 300 airline miles to the northwest, troops of the Vietminh "iron division" today drew within four miles of the fortressed plain bristling with French Union troops and U.S. supplied armor.

CONTACT MADE

A French army spokesman said the strong French Union patrols clashed twice with Vietminh troops northwest and southeast of Dien Bien Phu. There was a strong indication that the Vietminh might be trying to move artillery pieces into encircling positions before launching an attack.

The rebels were reported within four to six miles of the fortress, which was taken by the French last Nov. 20 and steadily reinforced by airlift since then.

French fighters made heavy strafing attacks on the Vietminh as they drew closer to the fortress 180 miles west of Hanoi, in the hinterland of the Red River bowl area of the Thai mountain country.

Canada's Top Labor Leaders Stress Unemployment Issues, Social Security Demands

OTTAWA (CP) — Problems of Canadian unemployment and demands for wider social security measures were submitted to the cabinet by two labor leaders in their annual New Year messages.

However, they classified 1953 as a year of advance for labor and expressed optimism for 1954.

The messages, released today, came from Percy E. Bengough, president of the 380,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and A. R. Mosher, president of the 375,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor. The organizations are the largest of Canada's central labor bodies.

"The year now closing," Mr. Bengough said, "had its share of difficulties but there have also been gains. In the main it has been a year of progress."

"On the other hand," he said, "there have been the dark spots. And the most disturbing one—increasing rather than lessening as the year closed—

UNEMPLOYMENT SERIOUS

"Unemployment and underemployment in Canada have arisen in some industries and are on the increase throughout the whole of Canada, these normally employed in textiles-railways, aircraft plants and the mines, smelters and those in the cruelty of layoffs most."

Mr. Bengough said that never before in Canadian history has unemployment been so high at time of year. The federal government should inaugurate a policy of economic stimulation in order to encourage re-employment in the industry.

The TLC president renewed congress' demands for extended unemployment insurance benefits and a national scheme of health insurance.

President Mosher said that while Canadians are concerned with the economic outlook, he believes there may look forward to the new year with optimism tempered by intelligent study and understanding of the pessimistic and the international aspects of the picture."

PRICES BRIGHT FUTURE

"Canada has become one of the great industrial nations of the world," he said, even so there are as the immediate future is concerned, there is no reason for pessimism.

"There is widespread agreement that the long-range future for Canada is extremely bright, and I believe that we have also the ability to meet any situation as it arises any problem which may have to face."

Much of Canada's economy depends on international trade, he said, this was a matter which "we have not yet learned to handle in an effective and satisfactory manner."

Grandfather Frost Prepares To Visit Russian Children But His Gifts Are Shoddy

By RICHARD KABISCHEK

MOSCOW (AP) — Old Grandfather Frost is getting some practice in district orders in Russia these days. He's being told by Communist officials that really say mama and boys games that won't fall apart when he makes his gift-bearing rounds on New Year's Day.

Grandfather Frost is the Soviet version of Santa Claus. He arrives a week after Christmas in the Soviet Union, which is observed Jan. 7 in accord with the old Julian calendar still used by Russian orthodox church.

Friday, visitors of Soviet children will gather around fir trees to receive gifts sent over-seas. grown-up exchange gifts, too, and this year the cry is...for quality goods.

Premier Malenkov's government has promised more and better consumer goods. Letter columnists of Soviet newspapers disclose that the Russian consumer wants to see this reflected in better-made gifts and more of them, not to a full swing.

One parent who bought a doll for his daughter had this indignant comment:

"Those instructions said that his doll could walk, roll its eyes and say 'mama.' The doll looks very nice—if you ignore the fact that its hands and legs and stomach waste glued to the head, itsteashone calls it a beauty, but our children could make the doll walk.

DOLL PARALYZED

"Within an hour by the doll was completely paralyzed. Despite careful handling the right arm fell off. Then, while trying to repair the doll work, something broke inside and the doll began to squeak. Now it only made hoarse sounds. Why do they put out such bad toys?" Many parents complained about flimsy table games whose parts did not stand up to normal use and that fell apart when exposed to rainy weather.

Moscow newspapers complain also about the cost of the toys. A doll's dress costs 2 rubles, as much as a chair for grown-up Where, while trying to make toys came up with a toy kitchen for girls, a miniature iron to the washing machine, meat grinder pots and pans. But the cost was 250 rubles, nearly as much as a real kitchen for a real family budget.

(The ruble is quoted officially at four to the United States dollar, but 1,200 rubles would amount more than two months' salary for an ordinary factory worker.)

He had lived for the past 15 years at Ivanovo.

He was predeceased by his wife, the former Fanny Ellis, two months ago.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. J. (May) Dryadale, Toronto; and four sons, Samuel of Madoc, John of Belleville, Walter of Springbrook.

Also surviving him are two sisters, Misses Sphronie and Tillie of Madoc.

The deceased, who had been a farmer, lived in Madoc township at the time of his death.

He was a member of the Pentecostal Church.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Space Stations For TV Seen As Possibility

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Four television relay stations that circle the earth's surface could blanket the world with TV waves, eliminating the need for present-day stations, a noted rocket expert and astronomer believes.

Dr. H. R. J. Grosch of Cincinnati, president of the American Rocket Society and a General Electric Corp. scientist, told the American Astronomical Society Tuesday that space relay stations in motion might justify the astronomical cost necessary to build them.

The space stations, once placed in motion in an orbit at about 18,600 miles an hour several hundred miles above the earth, would revolve without power forever, he said.

Travelling in the orbit at the same speed as the earth, the stations would constantly blanket the world with the TV waves.

C of C Christmas Decorations Cost $1,000

The secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce has estimated the cost of the Chamber Christmas activities at approximately $1,000, D. W. Kingdon said the activities were made possible by contributions from local merchants, the amount of each donation depending upon the number of employees at each business.

Mr. Kingdon revealed today only $630 has been raised. He said this represents approximately 30 per cent of the merchants. A reminder letter is being sent out today to the membership urging them to submit their contribution.

The secretary-manager estimated the cost of sending school children to the movies was $200; the Christmas Tree on the Bridge Street armouries lawn was $75 including light and installation; rental of costumes for carollers was $125, and colored lights above Bridge and Coleman shopping area cost an estimated $350.

Although he was successful as was expected, the evergreen boughs placed on the parking meters could not placemgnt and advertising and other operating costs Mr. Kingdon pointed out that some contributions are still outstanding but he said the quantity was extremely small. He urged merchants to make their donations to the Chamber as soon as possible.

Cars Splashing People Reported From Foxboro

Provincial Police at Belleville are receiving numerous complaints of motorists speeding through the village of Foxboro and also of cars splashing people walking on the sidewalks.

It was learned today that a close check would be kept in the village, which would be controlled more frequently in an effort to curb the speeders. They warned that motorists must keep within the 30 miles per hour speed limit while driving through the village.

Also they stated that motorists as inconsiderate as to splash pedestrians could be charged under the Highway Traffic Act, with careless driving.

Checker Taxi Now Established In New Location

Checker Radio Taxi is now established in a new location at Coleman and Bridge Streets, according to Gordon Proctor, manager. A new office has been added, bringing their total to seven.

The new location for Checker Radio Taxi is in a new building addition, constructed expressly for use as a taxi stand and its modern one-storey design is a handsome addition to the Coleman and Bridge Streets corner. An added feature is the office, from where operators may keep in constant radio contact with cabs, accommodation is provided for minor repairs and the washing of vehicles.

With the purchase of the corner building as a taxi stand, the Checker Radio Taxi has become a partnership. Partners in the business are Clarence Wright and Alfred Lew, who some years ago was associated with the taxi business.

The latest firm is the local agency for Tilden Rent-a-Car units, with two drive-yourself cars available.

Checker Radio Taxi was the only taxi firm in Belleville operating on Christmas Day and as a result were swamped with calls. The travelling public was considerate, however, according to Mr. Wright, who expressed his appreciation to employees and to the public for the co-operation received.

Social Centres At Air Station To Hold Parties

Trenton (Special)—New Year's newcomers can expect about the same value for their money this year. They can also look for plenty of fun and a good time as long as they remember to make the drink for the road black coffee with lots of sugar as a mixer.

Social centres at both Trenton Air Stations have planned gala parties for service personnel and their public. There will be celebrations in officers, sergeants, corporals and airmens messes.

In Trenton the Golf and Country club offers turkey and a turkey buffet at $10 a couple.

The old idea of having a boxing card has been revived on a larger scale than other years.

Young Woman Is Attacked On Dufferin Ave.

City police were unsuccessful last night in their search for a tall man said to have attacked a young woman on Dufferin Ave. as she walked home after shifting from a bus. Police and friends of the young woman searched the area, where the man disappeared, between a row of houses but he had made good his getaway.

Miss Harrington Huntley said she was grabbed from behind by a man who put his hand over her mouth and told her he had a knife in her hand. She was able to break away and ran home while the man disappeared in the opposite direction.

The frightened girl was unable to give a complete description of the man other than that he was tall and was wearing a station wagon coat with a coal collar.

Consolidation Of Gains Seen As Task in 1954

MONTREAL (CP)—The sealing of international relations will probably bring about a readjustment in Canada's economy during 1954, W. J. Borrie, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said today.

In a year-end message, Mr. Borrie said the major task for Canadians in 1954 may be the consolidation of gains made during the post-war period "prior to a further upward climb from this plateau."

Aussies Waging War on Flies

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Australian government has called full alim with flies today and launched an all-out attack against Woeflies in preparation for Queen Elizabeth's visit next month.

War also has been declared on the smaller domestic flies.

The bluebottle is bigger than the house fly, resembling somewhat the North American horse fly.

The department of the interior will spray streets and parkways along the royal route and a rubbish dump where the Queen will pass will be covered with soil and sand as an anti-fly measure. Troops will have their uniforms fly-proofed before ceremonial parades.

In the past, swarms of flies from the sheep-carcass dump around the city have played hob with distinguished persons and guards of honor had to keep waving the National Anthem at formal ceremonies outside Parliament.

Receives Letter From Guy Burgess

A new chapter was added to the mystery of missing British diplomat Guy Burgess, above, when his mother received a letter from him postmarked in South-east London. What puzzles the officials is that the letter was in Burgess' handwriting, but the envelope was not. More than two years ago, Burgess and a fellow-diplomat, Donald Maclean, vanished. They were presumed to have fled behind the Iron Curtain. The immediate conclusion is that the letter was smuggled in. — Central Press Canadian.

Critics Left Cold After Viewing 'The French Line'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The critics were left cold and the customers weren't talking after Tuesday night's world premiere showing of "The French Line" — a 3-D movie starring curvaceous Jane Russell which failed to win approval from Hollywood's self-censor, the Breen office.

Members of the St. Louis morality squad attended the opening, which Miss Russell herself passed up, and said they would report to their superiors today. Police chief Jerrold O'Connell said the theatre management will be asked to discontinue the movie if the squad members declare it obscene.

Miss Russell was critical of her controversial dance sequence in the movie and decided not to make a personal appearance at the premiere.

Francis Catholics of the St. Louis area were advised in churches Sunday not to attend the movie. A letter condemning the movie and issued by two Roman Catholic lay groups was read in 125 congregations.

Local John Doherty, one of the morality squad members assigned to the theatre, said the movie contained only nine time getting to their seats because of the crowd. Doherty quipped: "I'm no prude, I'm no angel as saying it was the largest crowd in six years."

CRITICS UNHAPPY

Movie critics were much more free with their comments in today's edition of the two St. Louis newspapers.

Dorothy Standish of the Post-Dispatch wrote:

"The French Line is, the song and dance in question which crudely exploits Miss Russell's curves and the lack of same in immoral—though certainly in bad taste—but the picture is not. The producers and I myself would never have stayed through it if we had suspected that it weren't for the publicity.

"The police, of course, would not investigate the fraud being committed—that of continuing to exploit Miss Russell as a sex actress. Her talent is so meagre, after 10 years in films, as still to be amateurish."

The Globe-Democrat's Herbert Cohn wrote:

"The plot . . . is largely for the purpose of Miss Russell's display. It seems to have been to permit Miss Russell to display her voluptuous figure which in her stock-in-trade and for which she is more noted perhaps than for her acting. In otherwise there is little that is likely to make many an unduly risque, fewer still as vulgar."

German Device Catches Fish By Electrocution

HAMBURG (Reuters)—A secret German invention for the mass electrocution of salt water fish will undergo extensive tests soon in the United States.

Dr. Paul Friedrich Meyer-Waarden, head of the federal fish research institute here, said Tuesday night a converted German minesweeper, the R-96, has left for two years of tests in American waters under the auspices of unidentified U. S. interests.

He said the "revolutionary development" will permit huge catches of fish, and he served it at the dinner table by merely twisting the knobs of a radio. he said, such methods could be used only in fresh water.

Details of the equipment are being kept a secret, at least for the present, Meyer-Waarden said.

The patent holders are two German engineers, Dr. Heinrich Brenner and engineer Herbert Peglow, and the German electrical firm of Siemens-Schuckert.

In Britain, the weekly Fishing News said the German invention calls for the use of live electrical eels fitted to the lines of a trawler's gear. The poles would emit a high voltage charge which would stun the fish and sends them tumbling helplessly into the nets.

Bets His Boss He Will Eat Car Within 6 Months

PALERMO, Sicily (Reuters)—Sicilian zone-mason Gaetano Pirilla, 21, has bet his boss that he will eat a car.

He formally declared before a public notary on Tuesday that within six months the boss's small Fiat car will have disappeared completely, except for the tires.

The boss has promised to give Pirilla a car for himself if he wins the bet.

Pirilla's hands the last year been examined by several Sicilian doctors, who declared that the young stone-mason has an exceptionally tough stomach and could easily digest metal, nails, glass—and probably, such things as a steering wheel, a gearbox and a windscreen—if you ignore the fact that its wig is made of rags and cotton and that he has to dye his curly head of hair. Neither we nor our child could make the doll walk.

DOLLS FAKERS

"On the second day the doll was completely paralyzed. A spring in the left forehand in the right arm fell off. Then, while trying to make the doll walk, something broke inside and instead of saying 'mama' it only made hoarse sounds. Why do they put out such bad toys..."

Other letters complained about flimsy skin dresses, that parts did not match and children's shoes that fell apart when exposed to rainy weather.

Moscow newspapers complained also about the cost of the toys. A doll's chair cost 22 rubles, as much as a chair for grown-ups. The Moscow research institute on toys came up with a toy kitchen with a real sink, water in the tap, washing machine, meat grinder, and pots and pans. But the cost was 1,500 rubles, nearly as much as a real kitchen for a real family would cost.

The ruble is quoted officially at four to the United States dollar, but 1,500 rubles would amount to more than two months' salary for an ordinary factory worker.

Col. Oldfield Given New Job In United States

LONDON (CP) — Col. Barney Oldfield, "travelling salesman" of Canada's Atomic Energy Organization, has gone home to a new job in the United States after three years in Europe.

Col. Oldfield was one of the first men picked for Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe, and since then has been chief liaison relations officer at Allied Air Forces Central Europe, stationed at Fontainebleau.

Brig.-Gen. Rebraska - born Barney Oldfield—no relation to the late automobile speed king of the same name—is to be the chief liaison officer in NATO to have visited all 14 nict countries during a year, he said since the U. S. Atomic Energy Law was amended to permit such discussions.

He declined, however, to describe the general nature of the information exchanged.

Canada's Top Labor Leaders Stress Unemployment Issues, Social Security Demands

OTTAWA (CP) — Problems of Canadian unemployment and demands for broader social security measures were underlined by Canada's two top labor leaders in their annual New Year messages.

However, they labelled 1953 as a year of advance for labor and expressed optimism for 1954.

The message, issued today, came from Percy R. Bengough, president of the 480,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and A. R. Mosher, president of the 375,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor. The organizations are the largest of Canada's central labor bodies.

"The year now closing," Mr. Bengough said, "has had its share of difficulties, but there have also been gains. It has been a year of a year of progress."

"On the other hand," he said, "there have been the dark spots. And for many these troubles are increasing in their intensities as the year ends.

UNEMPLOYMENT SERIOUS

"Unemployment and underemployment are already serious in some industries and are on the increase throughout the whole of Canada. Those normally employed at textiles, railways, shipbuilding and the rubber industry have felt the pinch in many areas."

Mr. Bengough said that never before in Canadian history has unemployment been so high at this time of year. The federal government should inaugurate a public works program and do all possible to relieve unemployment in private industry.

The TLC president renewed the congress' demands for extension of unemployment insurance benefits and a national scheme of health insurance.

President Mosher said that while Canadians are concerned with the economic outlook, he believes they may look forward to the new year "with optimism tempered by an intelligent study and understanding of both the domestic and the international aspects of the trade union movement."

SEES BRIGHTER FUTURE

"Canada has enjoyed much of the great industrial nations of the world," he said, "and, even so far as the immediate future is concerned, there is no reason for undue apprehension.

"There is widespread agreement that the long-range future for Canada is extremely bright, and I believe that our people have the ability to meet the challenge and solve any problem which they may have to face."

Mr. Mosher said Canada's economy depended on international trade, but only in the matter which "we have not yet learned to handle in an effective and satisfactory manner."

Grandfather Frost Prepares To Visit Russian Children But His Gifts Are Shoddy

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP) — Old Grandfather Frost is getting some pretty strict orders in Russian toy shops. He's being told to pack mama dolly that really say mama and papa dolly that won't fall apart when he makes his gift-bearing rounds on New Year's Eve.

Grandfather Frost is the Soviet version of Santa Claus. He arrives a week before Christmas in the Soviet Union, which is observed Jan. 7 according to the Julian calendar used by the Russian orthodox church.

Friday, millions of Soviet children will gather around fir trees to receive gifts and sweets. The grown-ups exchange gifts, too, and this year there will be far more goods.

Premier Malenkov's government has promised more and better consumer goods. Latter evidence in Soviet newspapers discloses that the Russian consumer wants to see that promise fulfilled—especially gifts now that holiday buying is in full swing.

A parent who bought a doll for his daughter had this indignant comment:

"The instructions said that his doll could walk, roll its eyes and say 'mama.' The doll looks very nice—if you ignore the fact that its wig is made of rags and cotton and that it has to dye her curly head of hair. Neither we nor our child could make the doll walk.

DOLLS FAKERS

"On the second day the doll was completely paralyzed. A spring in the left forehand in the right arm fell off. Then, while trying to make the doll walk, something broke inside and instead of saying 'mama' it only made hoarse sounds. Why do they put out such bad toys..."

Other letters complained about flimsy skin dresses, that parts did not match and children's shoes that fell apart when exposed to rainy weather.

Moscow newspapers complained also about the cost of the toys. A doll's chair cost 22 rubles, as much as a chair for grown-ups. The Moscow research institute on toys came up with a toy kitchen with a real sink, water in the tap, washing machine, meat grinder, and pots and pans. But the cost was 1,500 rubles, nearly as much as a real kitchen for a real family would cost.

The ruble is quoted officially at four to the United States dollar, but 1,500 rubles would amount to more than two months' salary for an ordinary factory worker.

Canada and U.S. Have Exchanged Secrets for Years

CHALK RIVER (CP)—Canada and the United States have been exchanging atomic information and processing isotopes for some time, an official of Canadas atomic energy plant said Tuesday night.

The official was commenting on a Washington report quoting Senator Bourke Hickenlooper as saying the U. S. is exchanging such information with friendly countries. The Senator is a member of the joint congressional atomic committee.

The Canadian official at this atomic energy plant said he was "reading news" in the Senator's statement.

Exchange of information on atomic "processes" had been going on for about a year, he said, since the U. S. Atomic Energy Law was amended to permit such discussions.

He declined, however, to describe the general nature of the information exchanged.

Catch Fleeing Girl

HAMILTON (CP)—A 15-year-old girl who police say is an escapee from the Galt training school is being held in the detention home here today after being picked up by provincial police Tuesday.

Constable J. J. Puddy of the Cayuga detachment said the girl was her sleeping in the front seat of a late-model car on the side of Highway 6 near Mount Hope. She told him she had run out of gas.

The car was registered in Hamilton, had reported the car stolen.

3 Missionaries Arrive Home From Manchuria

MONTREAL (CP)—A priest and two Roman Catholic brothers, the last Canadian missionaries expelled from Communist China, were greeted by relatives and friends when they arrived here Tuesday.

Rev. Laurent Pilon, 41, of Montreal, Brother Gustave Pineault, 62, of Montreal, and Brother Emile Bourgault, 52, of Lauzon, Que., were ordered out of Manchuria in mid-November for opposing the establishment of a national Chinese church and for being "anti-revolutionar es." All are members of the Order of the Priest, St. Viateur.

Father Pilon, who was in China 13 years before being expelled, told reporters he wasn't mistreated physically by the Communists but though his mission at Szepingkai was watched constantly, "there was no attempt to submit to Red interrogation," he said. "We were treated as decent people, even during the night."

Other Christians in China haven't been so fortunate, however, Father Pilon said.

Two Canadians Request Dewey To Spare Lives

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Counsel for two young Canadians doomed to die in the electric chair for murder Tuesday asked Governor Thomas Dewey to commute the sentences to life imprisonment.

The governor gave no indication of whether he would act on the pleas of Maurice Odell, 26, and Walter Griffen, 27, both of Windsor, Ont., before the next week for the holdup murder of a Buffalo jeweler.

Dewey customarily does not announce his decisions on clemency appeal until unless he commutes the sentence.

The Court of Appeals has set next week for the execution of O'Dell and Griffen for shooting Donald F. Hurd during a holdup at Hurd's jewelry store in downtown Buffalo Nov. 9, 1952.

O'Dell and Griffen are in the death house at Sing Sing prison. Police still are searching for a third man, Ralph Galbraith, 26, of Windsor, Ont., wanted in connection with the holdup and slaying.

Ottawa Planning To Train Sailors For New Trades

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is planning measures to provide new trades for deep-sea sailors displaced by the transfer of some Canadian ships to the flag of convenience.

Informants said Tuesday no final decision has been reached but it is probable the government will meet the cost of training these sailors in new jobs and pay a living allowance while they are studying.

The 24-hour shipping week, Monday, are being permitted to allow Canadian-owned vessels operators to take advantage of lower running costs under British registry. They include the running of ships with British crews, wig-wag wages considerably lower than Canadian seamen.

Such transfers have been approved so far by the Canadian and United Kingdom governments, and others from other countries are under consideration. About 40 ships of the Canadian flag deep-sea fleet of 62 are regarded as in financial difficulties, though a good proportion of these will be retained under the Canadian flag.

Construction Record Is Set

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's construction industry in 1953 handled $4,000,000,000 worth of business an all-time record.

John N. Flood, of Saint John, N.B., president of the Canadian Construction Association, announced this figure Tuesday and added that the outlook for 1954 was at least as favorable.

Mr. Flood, whose organization represents about 1,500 contracting firms from coast to coast, said the industry had employed 468,000 on-site workers this year.

Four Considered As Canadian Envoy to Moscow

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada soon will nominate an ambassador to Moscow, it was learned. The nomination will be made when Mr. Heeney before he can assume his post, probably for seven years.

Speculation about the nominee has centred around four veterans of the external affairs department, all of whom have served in some capacity in Moscow.

The four are John B. C. Watkins, Canadian ambassador to Norway, Leon Mayrand, Canadian ambassador to Chile, and H. Marcel Dowell and Jean Chapdelaine, assistant undersecretaries of state for external affairs.

FIRST SINCE 1946

Canada has not been represented at Moscow by an ambassador since 1946. The previous year, Russia withdrew Ambassador Georgi Zarubin, now Russian ambassador to Washington, from Ottawa, both countries withdrawing their missions.

The couple lived together on the story of the shooting" which happened Christmas Day. They had lived together. Also there were five small children by Miss Hazel, a 15-year-old daughter by Nina, and Schwenger said the sisters told him that Harrell ignored their demands that he quit drinking Christmas Day, and threatened to kill the whole family. They accused him of firing two shots at them and Lorraine, the 15-year-old daughter.

The two women told the prosecutor they and the older daughter struggled with him. Nina grabbed his arm, which went off, killing him.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—City firemen Tuesday demanded danger pay for all ranks, starting in 1954.

The police received what is known as service pay. This ranges $25 a year for men with five years service and more, $50 after 10 years, $75 after 15 and $100 after 20.

USEFUL "CHRISTMAS CARD"

The City of Belleville Police Department deserves commendation for its Christmas cards.

Beyond the fact that the cards were printed in the traditional Christmas colors of red and green, there was little "Christmasy" about them. Yet we suspect that they may very well have been instrumental in making Christmas a merry one for several people who otherwise would have spent it in pain, in grief or in jail.

The cards listed six ways in which the police asked motorists "to assist us in preventing accidents resulting in injury and property damage."

The rules were simple ones. The police department thinks that accidents can be reduced by motorists: 1—watching pedestrians, especially children, crossing streets; 2—observing all "stop" and traffic signals; 3—parking properly near curb; 4—avoiding double parking; 5—driving carefully; 6—reducing speed.

All this advice has been given motorists before, but not by police, on printed cards. It was not so much the nature of the request as the manner in which it was made which tended to make the appeal effective.

Significantly enough, the card did not say "Merry Christmas" but "Season's Greetings." The request was evidently meant to apply not only to Christmas but also to the New Year's week-end, too.

Come to think of it, although this is a season of the year when traffic and other conditions make such precautions doubly necessary, there is really no "season" on safety, is there? Or rather it would be more correct to say that safety is always in season—and that motorists should throughout the whole year remember this courteous request from the police who serve them and the community as a whole.

LAKE SHIPPING PROBLEM

Before the first yard of dirt has been removed from the St. Lawrence, before there is even any certainty when the last obstacles to the long-awaited seaway will be hurdled, Senator Charles E. Potter, of Michigan, is concerned about the seaway's effect on Lake shipping.

Such concern may appear premature, but the point raised by Senator Potter is so important that it is certainly desirable that it receive the most careful consideration.

Senator Potter asserts, and we think rightly, that maintenance of the U.S. and Canadian merchant fleets on the Great Lakes is essential to the national defence and internal security of both nations."

He sees a threat to the continued existence of these fleets if foreign vessels are permitted to engage in the transportation of goods between U.S. and Canadian ports.

Senator Potter wants such Canadian-U.S. trade restricted to Canadian and U.S. vessels.

Many countries have regulations governing coastal trade, which require that all cargoes between ports in the same country be carried in boats of that nation's registry.

What the Senator is in effect proposing is that coastal trade regulations generally accepted in many parts of the world should be extended so that, on the lakes, U.S. and Canadian ports should be regarded as if they were situated in the same country.

The economies of the cities lining both shores of the Lakes are so intricately interwoven that Senator Potter's suggestion has its unreasonable—indeed it would perhaps be permissible to consider it as the only realistic approach to the problem.

Such features as the Michigan senator advocates will not be without their penalties. They will mean that we will forego the opportunity of moving cargoes a little cheaper and perhaps quicker than we can with our own. But to allow unrestricted competition to deplete the lake fleets of our two countries would be to jeopardize our ability to defend ourselves for the sake of a few paltry pence.

NOTHING MIRACULOUS HERE

A news report from Clinton, Ontario, tells of the birth of a son to a Dutch mother in a manger in that community on Christmas morning. The report continues by stating that "Doctors said it was a 'miracle' both mother and child came through the ordeal in satisfactory condition."

We object to the use of the word 'miracle' not only because it is an improper use of the word under the circumstances, but also because it is contrary to fact.

Nothing miraculous has come through the ordeal in satisfactory condition than otherwise. Therefore the birth of a baby in a manger in Clinton is definitely not a miracle.

Rather it is unusual. And it could be unusual, and worthy of newspaper mention, only in Canada and a few other fortunate countries where wealth, training, scientific technique, and hospital facilities have made births commoner in hospitals than in mangers.

RESOLUTION

Here's a new year's resolution
Make each trivial faults to mend:
One—or group—or institution
Freedom bravely to defend.

Let no traitorous voice be heeded.
Tyrants always rise to fall.
This by liberty is needed:
Vigilance from one and all.

Let us cast out hate be blighted.
Let us vow the new year united
All our country asks to do.
Let's resolve lest right shall perish,
Truth be crushed and might succeed,
God and brotherhood to cherish
'Til world-wide mankind is freed.

PATRIOTISM

Rebecca Motte owned a splendid southern home during the Revolutionary War. It was seized by Cornwallis after the Seige of Charleston, and he called it Fort Motte. Gerdard Marion, an American officer, informed Mrs. Motte that her home would have to be destroyed in order to compel the British to surrender. She quickly collected a number of arrows, wrapped them with inflammable material, handed the bow and arrows to the General. One of these arrows shot into the roof of the mansion started the building to burn.

Internationalism is a fine ideal. We need more and more to feel that the world is one family. But we should never come to the place where we fail to appreciate the fact that our country also is a family and our first allegiance must always be to our national family.

This is called patriotism, and if of course today with lofty talk would like to deride and berate the concept, but we might, as well try to deride and berate patriotism. It has come to the place where we love everybody and everything by learning first of all to love our own people and things in particular.

The first love we can ever have for the world at large is a love which is based on a love of country first, resolutely put first and first.

An Irish Martyr

BY RICHARD L. THOMAS,
Writing from Belfast in the Windsor Daily Star.

Have you ever heard of Liam Kelly? He is a Republican Irishman, bitter ruthless and irreconcilable who believes in the forceful overthrow of the Northern Ireland Government and has just elected to go to jail for 12 months for saying so. He also says bravely, that he would stay naked all the time he was in prison and the latest reports are that he is refusing blankets.

Well, Mr. Kelly was elected by the citizens of Mid-Tyrone as their member of the Northern Ireland Parliament. He has a very simple policy — that if he were elected he would not take his seat. He called himself an "abstentionist" — and the method is the nadcrest is that if all the seats in Northern Ireland were occupied by abstentionists then the Government would obviously cease to exist, which seems fair enough.

So Mr. Kelly, fighting a perfectly constitutional election battle by last October won winning his seat, never became an M.P. because he refused to take the oath to his seat. He seemed quite satisfied to leave his electors unrepresented and in many ways seems to be a more desirable person than the handful of others who have a conscience elastic enough to take the oath and draw the salary for doing everything in their power to put a spanner in the works.

Mr. Kelly has the virtue of a certain sincerity in his conviction. True he takes English money in the form of the Government's society walks on United Kingdom soil when a few miles away outside Belfast he refuses to take an oath and accepts the protection of British rule — but he has certainly every reason to doubt that he does not like England. In fact he is fighting the illegitimate nation (with some historical justification) and declares that he believes in the use of force to create a united Ireland. He has served time for it on a previous time. He was not charged under the Treason Act but was sentenced to 12 months' jail instead of being hanged, drawn and quartered as he would be released any time he accepted the first opportunity. Mr. Kelly then said he would not wear prison garb and that they would only keep him in his cell naked. He has also refused to recognize on the sentence of a court he refused to recognize.

So far so good. Now Mr. Kelly is very well known in Ireland—and Mr. Kelly likes to share space in the English newspapers and generally to get his name and face to the wider world and Mr. Kelly is slowly but surely succeeding. He is also very thin. A Kelly legend is growing up. Little paragraphs are circulating about his wearing a blanket, that a group of his supporters had been to prison with him to wear prison clothes because they do not want him to catch a cold.

In fact, Mr. Kelly is becoming quite an institution in Belfast. He is looked after, preserved and kept publicity alive by his friends.

One or two people are beginning to ask who the people were who authorized his prosecution. It transpires that it was a Cabinet decision and that is one of the reasons why Kelly was not arrested for a month or two. Certainly the New Nationalists Republicans and anti-Partitionists have been saying the same and similar things for years without getting into jail and the Northern Government generally showed a sensible restraint in not making martyrs for the opposition cause.

It was the late David Lloyd George who declared that there was nothing more exasperating for a would-be political martyr than a crown. And I will guarantee that many would-be martyrs have been sleepless at Hyde Park Corner in London during anything Mr. Kelly said. The British tradition of letting people blow off steam has put a lot of wind over again. The steam runs out and usually when the person realizes that no matter what he says he will not be prosecuted and that given the satisfaction of going to jail for his convictions he shuts up.

Now the Northern Ireland government finds itself in a very complicated mess. It has created a martyr and the opposition are very busily capitalizing the fact. The government has an elected Member of Parliament languishing in jail for sedition — trying to get over the hurdle of preventing a by-election which should obviously be held and would result in someone sitting instead of the late of the chagrin of the government. Legal brains are now trying to argue that Mr. Kelly was elected as an abstentionist and is, therefore, justified in taking his seat therefore a by-election is not necessary. But it is not quite as much must be the first time that a candidate's policy has been approved subsequent to law of the land—so important, in fact, that it can override the law of the land.

The fun is just beginning. The misguided zealots who decided to imprison Mr. Kelly in Belfast Jail are finding themselves in a witches' cauldron of difficulties. Whichever way there seems to be a cleavage inside the government. Some think that the best way out is to kick Mr. Kelly out of jail and claim that justice has been done by the conviction and those who think that to release Mr. Kelly would be a sign of weakness. In either case there would have to be a by-election and a pity he was prosecuted. Both sides, regardless of what happens, have got over the legal hurdle of the by-election.

Certainly Northern Ireland Government has done itself no good. In a way Mr. Kelly's behaviour there is little point in making martyrs of the intolerable. But there is a danger in a dangerous doctrine, the fact remains that it is better to have some reasonable presumption that real violence is being planned before prosecuting a person for election.

The Lord Chief Justice did his best to repair the damage — but no one expected Mr. Kelly to refuse the opportunity of martyrdom. He took it like a duck to water and now the opposition have all the ammunition they need. Mr. Kelly is going to be the instigators of the prosecution and not the victim.

Canada Leads In Jet Planes

(Windsor Star).

It war were to break out in Europe tomorrow Canada has the biggest jet fighter force immediately available to throw into the battle. It is the only country the enemy. Our 12 squadrons overseas would be able to take on 192 of the latest planes into European skies at one time, more than any other nation of the free world.

Canada has met all her commitments to NATO. The first country to do so, and our six fighter forces is an important component of our contributions. Indeed, for some time the Canadian fighter squadrons have had the only jet fighters in Europe capable of coping with the Soviet "Migs".

There can be no question but that our aircraft overseas are well-manned. Crews for jet planes aren't selected in a haphazard manner. They must meet exceptionally high standards mentally and physically. And experience of the two World Wars proves there are no better airmen than Canadians.

The reputation is not an intangible asset. That is true of nations as of individuals. The manner in which we have done our duty in Nato makes Canada a popular and respected name in Western Europe.

ease.

But that's the way it is. I hope you don't expect me to scramble aboard the band wagon and shake note sales for the newest drug manufacturers just because so many eminent members of the medical profession do so.

Who knows? Certainly I don't, but for all I know some day I may find a case of gout or even a case of rabies in a human being. But until I do, or until some one produces scientific evidence that there is such a disease as gout and/or such a disease of rabies (ray-bi-ez) in man, the arbitrary assertions of all the big specialists and well known health boards of physicians in Yankeeland will not change my mind.

Then there's digitalis. Frankly the apparent unanimity of most good doctors I know, in favor of the therapeutic value of digitalis, has worried me a good deal. When I so skeptical about this, I kept asking myself, while all the good doctors I have questioned about it are convinced that the drug is beneficial in one or another kind of heart trouble. This worry kept me reading the literature and reviewing what recognized authorities say about digitalis. It did, that is, until about a year ago when, reading the chapter on digitalis in Sanford's Materia Medica, Pharmacology and Therapeutics, I

Capitalist Baldonia

(New York Herald Tribune)

Somehow, a writer in the Moscow "Literary Gazette" got wind about the "principality" of Outer Baldonia and denounced it as an example - of capitalist "savagery" because the entire principality is owned by one man.

Baldonia is a tiny island off the Nova Scotia coast which was bought in 1920 by Lord Arundel for $750. He proclaimed its "independence," and hoped that it is "legation" number 1492 in the Washington, D.C. telephone book. It is his office.

During the tuna season, the island is a popular resort for fishermen. Otherwise, its population consists of a few sheep and birds. Lord Arundel has invited his Soviet critic to visit Outer Baldonia during the tuna tournament next September.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Having lately come into possession of a television set, I find I have become a far more avid broadcasts than was my case when radio ruled the roost. On radio, you could avoid sports news merely by twisting a button until you hit some music. You could do that without even looking. As easy as turning a page. But television business is different. We have only the two channels. If you turn one off and go from the other, you are liable, in your clumsy fashion, to bring on one of those hectic bouts that may take two or three minutes, scrunching down in your chair and trying to find the knobs to focus. And as like as not, all you get is another commercial—by which I mean a gentleman facing you with a grave expression and a funny looking mouth, carrying on one of all sorts of things you don't want to know about whose chances of what, and the latest scores between teams you never heard of, and you don't even know what they are playing. Maybe I'll get better as I grow more accustomed to the knobs.

But the point about sport broadcasts I want to make has to do with sport voice. Both on radio and television, the sport voice is used by both sports announcers and the numerous experts, practicians of the various games, hockey, rugby, baseball, who are interlarded into the talk so that all sides of their heads back towards the mike. I refer, I speak, down to their throats. They also pull the sides of their mouths back towards their ears. I refer to the fashion of Edward G. Robinson or a gentleman from Brooklyn, creating an affect of flatness and toughness.

Then they gargle away, making certain no vocal sound escapes through their noses. The sport voice is nearest in the vocal spectrum, if one may use such an expression, to the voice used by movie villains and gangsters and created as an illusion in the minds of innocent and uninformed people like me that it is the way to complimentary to the performers on the stage of sport.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

"TOYS" THAT GREW GREAT.

In a small Brochure called "Management Briefs" gotten out by Rogers, Slade & Hill, Business Men on Management problems, I came upon this interesting story. Thomas Alva Edison, of Menlo Park, Street, Boston, on March 10th, 1876, when Theodore A. Vail, then superintendent in his employer say over a wire circuit: "Watson, come here; I want you." Those were the first spoken words ever carried over wires!

The one who uttered that command was none other than Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, which many at that time merely referred to as "Bell's toy!" What a toy it grew up to be! At this moment a million and a half people are waiting for their telephones, several millions more others are adding to their pleasure and profit through the aid of this invaluable invention.

As a New York small mid-western town, I recall how a druggist there had a telephone, and people looked on it as a miracle. Today the humans can go around the earth by telephone in a very few minutes. I have talked on the phone as a miracle.

The late Henry Ford once took me in a small brick building in his Greenfield Village at Dearborn, Michigan, and showed me with pride his first automobile, tiny in comparison with the cars of the day. People called Ford's invention a "toy," but it has grown to be over a billion dollar one!

I once visited the grave of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell. It is marked by a natural boulder with the two names cut into the stone, on a high hill just outside Washington, D.C. Surely Bell's invention is significant of the intensity, faith, vision, and enterprise that characterize the mammoth telephone giant of today.

It's one of Athens secretary hazards to see a group of TV technicians prepare a wrestling program for sound effects, they'd probably join the groans on and claim they'd found one long lost brothers. Take the making of snow, rain and fog for example.

Snow is the simplest to make and involves fewer complexities than the others. It usually consists of powdered styrofoam, flour or soap flakes. Artificial ice is the grandest of them all, being a mixture of cornflakes falling over by blowing ipso's never heard. Nonbelievers flake over the scene. The same effect is achieved by specially made snow with confetti.

When light rain is desired, water from a watering can is sprinkled down across the path of the lens. For a heavy downpour is called for, then things get complicated. Then it's time for the sprinkler system. Light-reflecting metal is woven through it, which is directed across the path of the light in front of the camera lens. The negatives from this shot are superimposed on those made by the watering can and presto—you have a rainstorm.

There are machines to make fog, though simply blowing steam dry ice produces an excellent facsimile. Incidentally, when you're next in the market for a washing machine, before deciding on a new TV set have you somewhat in a fog, then come and talk over with us. We charge nothing for reliable information and long standing we'd rather talk about them between customers. Come and see us at the HITCHON RADIO AND TELEVISION — and you'll find it stands for reliability in service and the greatest value for your expenses going! Now Known as "Cover-up" Girl

This is it, the costume that launched a thousand headlines. Actress Terry Moore calls the ermine garment her "winter sun suit," and judging from the smiles of these soldiers in Korea, it's just the thing to brighten up the landscape. Authorities disagree. They've ordered Terry to cover up — or they'll send her back to Hollywood. From all accounts, she's now following orders.—Central Press Canadian.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THEY SAY THEY WERE "MAN-HATERS"—WERE THEY REALLY?

I wonder if there really is such a thing as a feminine "man-hater"?

There are, of course, those disillusioned and bitter women who declare that they "hate men because one individual man has betrayed their trust. As a matter of actual fact, however, whatever they may say or even believe, its not really that they hate men, they are simply so full of hatred for one individual man that the emotion spills over and splashes indiscriminately around, spattering everyone in the vicinity.

Then there are the younger members of the sex who assert somewhat defiantly, I think that they are "man-haters, and the motive here, I believe, is almost always self-defence. That is, no boys have "called them out for dates, and so to defend their egos, they want to give the impression that the reason they dont go out every night is because they just don't like boys.

I'm inclined to suspect this is the trouble with the two girls, 16 and 17 years old respectively, who write me that "Until recently we were pretty much what people called 'man-haters', although this year we had quite a few opportunities for dates and even proms, but we refused—simply because we weren't interested.

"This year, however, the letter continues, "we began to realize that, as teen-agers, we desired some fun. We got to know quite a few boys and saw that they weren't so bad after all. As a matter of fact, we began to get interested in them.

"But the reputation of being man-haters" still hangs over us, and the result is that we have no dates. The boys actually seem afraid of us, and we can't blame them. If the positions were reversed, we'd act the same way. It's not that we're unpopular — we're not. Boys, as well as girls, seem to like us as people. But as girl friends, that's another matter.

"Is there something we can do about this, or should we get a hobby to keep us busy over weekends? What is the most interesting hobby two fairly attractive, ex-man-hating girls can take up? Stamp collecting?

Now the last paragraph here shows that these two girls, however much they may lack boy friends at present, certainly do not lack a sense of humor. And any girl with a sense of humor can be popular, if she is always careful not to get humorous at the expense of anyone else, or at the wrong time.

What may have been, and may still be, the trouble with these girls is that they are shy, and find it hard to let themselves go and just be friendly, natural and good fun to be with.

How about it, girls? Was that the true state of affairs? Were you dateless because you didn't feel at home with boys, and they didn't feel at home with you because you were self-conscious and didn't know what to do about it?

If this is the real secret of your defensive 'man-hating,' then what you should take up is, not stamp collecting, but learning to be at ease with people. And the way to do this is to become active in as many as possible of the things that go on around school and around town, so that you will build up interests in common with both boys and girls of your age. Shared interests give people things to talk about when they are together, and your present difficulty is probably due in large part to the fact that you can't think of anything to say when you're around boys. So, get interested in, and thoroughly familiar with, sports, teen-age clubs and group hobbies; learn to be expert dancers; keep up with what's new in records and anything else dear to the teen-age heart; always be good sports, and the first thing you know you won't be dateless any longer.

Incidentally, if you care to send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I'll not only send you my suggestions on how to be popular, but also a list of books helpful for young people your age, dealing with all angles of the same subject.

You can have dates just like the other girls, kids. Honest you can Give my plan a try and see.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A PATTERN FOR CHRISTMAS THANK-YOU NOTES

Have a good time writing your Christmas thank-you notes . . . if you will, if you write them promptly! For fresh and bringt in your thoughts is the giver's delight and kindness to you and your joy in receiving the thought and the present.

So let's get pens going now. Now, with hearty words of appreciation. Let's go! Chat with your friends as informally on paper as you would face-to-face.

Here's a simple pattern for your thank-you notes . . . 3 easy steps!

First step: Thank for the Thought Behind The Present. Give your note a charming send-off by bowing your appreciation for the thought that prompted the present. Then, in your opening sentence, or paragraph, begin to build with the blah, "Thank you for the lovely handkerchief you sent me, or "I love the book you gave me for Christmas." Here's too much enthusiasm for your words, the more your friends will welcome them cherish them. Mention the present by name, . . . don't vague-ly and maddeningly, to the giver, "write about your present. Best way is to have the present in front of you as you write . . . then chat with your words. Just writing how "beautiful" or "lovely" or "interesting" you think it is won't quite do. Do better than that. You can! Chat enthusiastically about special features of the gift. Have you always longed for even that kind of compact, . . your friend will be enchanted to be told this happy fact. Is the present of charming color . . . perhaps, happily, your favorite flavor? . . . your friend will be thrilled to be told this. Will it have a special usefulness in your life? . . . Is it certainly a comforting fact to tell the giver. Or smartly show your appreciation by saying something about the interesting, clever, or handsome material . . . or perhaps the exquisite, or dramatic, marking or monogramming. A few suggestions, these, to help you to make your present happy, proud that you or she had the good taste to choose just that gift.

Third step: Your Closing Bow. A few appropriate words of greeting for your friend . . . a bright smile and good wishes for the New Year, and a forward love to you, Joan, and again my thanks for your Christmas gift, Grace, to me. And here's every good wish to you for your happiness in the N EW Year. It's have a date soon!

Is Your Goose Hung High for New Year's?

By Mary Moore

Who said that I never give you a recipe for roasting a goose! A reader did, She was right too, but I'm going to remedy that fault herewith in our New Year's Dinner Menu:

Cranberry Juice Cocktail with Anchovy Canapes
Roast Goose Bread and Onion Stuffing—Brown Gravy
Apple Jelly or Cranberry Molds
Potato Puff Brussels Sprouts
Lettuce Hearts with Roquefort Mayonnaise
Carrot Pudding—Hard Sauce
Nutmeg Brown Sugar Sauce
Mixed Nuts Coffee

DIRECTIONS:

All instructions will be very short but specific enough to carry you through.

CRANBERRY JUICE COCKTAIL

Boil together 2 cups each washed cranberries and water until soft. Strain. Add 1-4 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon lemon juice to juice; Chill.

ROAST GOOSE

Do not cover, do not cover with cloth, do not baste, do not turn, do not add water, Roast a 7 or 8-lb. goose (dress weight) at 325 deg. Fah. for thirty minutes to the lb.—approximately 2 1-2 to 4 hours; an 11-lb. goose (drawn weight) as, 325 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes to the lb. approximately 4 1-2 hours.

BREAD AND ONION STUFFING

(For 7 or 8-lb. goose)

Peel and parboil onions just long enough to make them tender enough to chop. To them add 4 cups well-packed soft bread-crumbs, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 or 2 teaspoons sage, 1-4 cup very finely chopped celery and 2 or 4 tablespoons melted butter.

POTATO PUFF

Make very fluffy mashed potatoes, using 8 medium potatoes and 3-3 cup hot milk and at least 2 tablespoons butter and plenty of salt. Beat in 2 well-beaten egg yolks, then fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pile in greased casserole, brush top with butter, sprinkle with fine old cheese and paprika and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until puffed and brown.

ROBY MAYONNAISE

To 1-2 cup mayonnaise (genuine), add 1 1-2 tablespoons very thick chili sauce or catsup, 6 drops onion juice and 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

CARROT PUDDING

In a large mixing bowl mix together 1 cup brown sugar, 3-4 cup very finely chopped suet and 2 tablespoons sour milk. Into this put 1 cup each grated carrot and potato and immediately stir to prevent potatoes browning. Add 1 1-4 cups breadcrumbs, 1 cup each raisins and currants, 1-2 teaspoon baking soda, 1-2 cup unsifted flour, 1 teaspoon each salt and cinnamon, 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg, and 1-2 teaspoon allspice if desired. Mix very well. Turn into well-greased moulds, tightly covering steam—individual moulds 1 hr., boiling, large mould 3 hours. If you do not have moulds for this purpose use vacuum-pack coffee cans, filled 2-3 full. It will hold this. Cover tightly and steam 3 hours. Serve with

NUTMEG BROWN SUGAR SAUCE

In top of double boiler mix together 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, shake of salt and when well mixed stir in 1 cup boiling water. Cook stirring over boiling water until thick, then cover and cook 20 minutes, stirring twice. Remove from heat and add 1-3 of a freshly grated nutmeg, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon lemon juice or finely grated rind or 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

I did not know whether I would run out of space before I had mentioned everything — so left out the anchovy canapes, but I still have a few or so: Spread circles of toast with buttered and seasoned anchovy paste, garnish with crescents of green pepper on each side of a sliced stuffed olive in the centre. Ed derived three tiny pearl onions may be placed at centre, and stirred with a thin strip of canned pimento.

I'll say my special Happy New Year to you tomorrow.

Fashion Flashes

High-lighting late afternoon costumes are bright hats with a fair share of glitter. A draped gold lame pillbox is small and dressy. It has a slight profile tilt, which is accented by an upthrust rose and leaf cluster in golded kidskin.

Twin attraction might well be the name of a new handbag that is really two big purses linked together as one bag. The strap handle is the top link between the two sections, which are joined at the base. Bag is of antelope outlined with calf piping.

HECTIC HOLIDAYS

Busy days, these! Such excitement! The kids; home from school, rushing pellmell from one social rumpus to another; having a field day. The wife and mother, doesn't know whether she is standing on her head or heels. The mah of the family decidedly remembers almost forgotten relatives to whom he must send gifts. And who is to buy them? Dad guess!

It's a merry, merry season, lots of fun, doorbell ringing, the postman bringing packages. Dad says he'll trim the Christmas tree, but Mother knows what it will look like if he does, so she gets the stepladder and goes to it. Not for long. She has to stop to answer the telephone, or mark the milk card, or order more groceries or get luncheon for the children. Somehow the tree trimming job drags through the hours. And in the meantime Mother's nerves are getting more and more frazzled. She looks ten years older and feels 100.

Next Christmas she's going to try to catch a virus so she'll be dragged to a hospital, tucked in a nice little bed, have her meals brought to her and rest like everything. That is what she says every year. Actually, however, Mother needn't do anything so drastic.

Let us suggest, instead that the ship every duty that can possibly be postponed. That is the time to put up clean curtains. For, as sure as she starts on the project daughter will come shrieking in saying her new party frock is yards too long and "will you please, Mom, hem it up for me!"

Take it easy, Mother. It is only by piling into bed early that you can face tomorrow's activities. And put aside your Christmas cheques! Choose the New Year and you're going to spend every last dollar getting rejuvenated at the beauty shop. That much is coming to you.

Trenton's Warm Welcome Praised in British Paper

TRENTON (Special) — The name Trenton is getting around a great deal these days.

In fact the other day a newspaper at Stroud, England mentioned Trenton and the grand welcome one hometown couple received when as international organization called Welcome Wagon dropped in to greet them on arriving here. The people in the story are new residents of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Peter Aitchison, formerly of England. Mr. Aitchison is the manager of a furniture store on Dundas Street.

The Aitchisons think Canada is wonderful. They praised the Trenton Welcome Wagon representative in a letter back home to Mr. Aitchison's family. In turn the letter was handed in to the local newspaper which printed the piece received in a letter of appreciation to Mayor R. E. Whitley.

Dated December 11, 1952, the following article appeared in the "Benham Journal":

"Mr. J. Petey Aitchison and his wife Muriel think the Canadians are wonderful people. They have good reason."

Eleven years ago Mr. Aitchison, then Sgt. Aitchison of the R.N.F., was captured along with many other local men at Knightsbridge. When Italy capitulated he escaped from his prison camp and after four months with the German lines he regained safety on Christmas Eve.

Many people he saw on reaching the Allied line were Canadians. "They treated us in no small way.

Last year Mr. and Mrs. Aitchison emigrated to the land of Mr. Aitchison's war time friends.

They went to live in Toronto but recently moved to a small town—in Mr. Aitchison's words—"the Benham Brothers of Trenton in Ontario where he is managing a furniture store.

In a letter to Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Anderson of "Sister", Cade Hill Road, Stockbridge, Mr. Aitchison's mother and stepfather, Mrs. Aitchison tells what happened the day after their arrival.

Mrs. Aitchison writes: "A lady called with a flower decorated basket. It contained numerous gifts from different stores. There were electric light bulbs, a wall thermometer, clothes hangers, soap, a screw driver and many other small articles.

"She then presented me with a letter of welcome from the Mayor and cards to be presented at other shops for free gifts. There was a card for nylons at the gown shop, another for more light bulbs, one for free lubrication for the car, and a dry cleaning ticket.

"Then I got three loaves of bread, three quarts of milk from one of the town's dairies and two quarts from the other.

"They call it the "Welcome Wagon" and it is a very nice idea."

Trenton must be a school child's paradise too. The children have a cinema show every Friday afternoon.

Mr. Aitchison was in the Territorial Army and joined the local battalion of the R.N.F. on the outbreak of war. He served in France and was evacuated from Dunkirk.

He was later mentioned in dispatches."

Calvin Lee Named Wing Commander In New List

TRENTON (Special) — Wing Commander Calvin Lee was one of the six Squadron Leaders in Canada to be promoted recently. Yesterday his family heard the good word, described by his wife, Norma Lee, as "the best Christmas present of all."

Wing Commander Lee is American born. He spent three years with the RAF before transferring to the RCAF. In all he served five years overseas with Coastal Command.

Since the war Mr. Lee was stationed at Edmonton as air cadet liaison officer, two and a half years at Sea Island, Vancouver, and two years at Trenton. He offered splendid advice while a member of the Trenton Centennial Committee this year.

However Wing Commander Lee is not going to get all the credit as a flier in the Lee family. A brother and a twin at that — Melvin Lee—flies an airliner for Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Presently the Wing Commander is Chief Standards Officer at Flying Instructors' School here at Trenton. He is a skilled pilot with more than 6,000 flying hours already logged.

His wife, Norma Lee, is The Ontario Intelligencer's Middleton Park correspondent, waiting to enter hospital in Toronto to undergo a serious operation.

Days of White Operating Rooms Are Numbered

TORONTO (CP)—The days of shiny white operating-rooms, medical surgeons and attendants and patients shrouded in white covers may be numbered. Green is favored as a possible replacement.

Officials at Toronto General Hospital said Tuesday they plan to swing to less reflecting materials in all operating-rooms.

The neurosurgical department has been using green in its operating-rooms for several years.

It was found intense lights directed on the patient were reflected into the surgeons' eyes, causing the pupils to contract and thus reduce their ability to see.

When green was tried, doctors said, the effect was as if the light had been doubled in intensity but was not as hard on the eyes.

Decide Evan John Took Own Life

HENLEY, England (Reuters)—Capt. Evan John Simpson—novelist Evan John—committed suicide, the coroner decided here Tuesday.

Simpson, 38, who was to have officiated as regional adjudicator for the 1954 Dominion Drama Festival in Canada, was found shot in a wood near his home Sunday.

U.S. Boat Rescues Swede Shipwreck Survivors

Tragedy was averted on the stormy Atlantic when 43 seamen — survivors of a wrecked Swedish freighter — were rescued from their pitching lifeboats. Hero of the rescue operation was this ship, the U.S. navy cargo vessel, the Bluejacket, which picked up 14 seamen within a short time. But the other three lifeboats drifted drifted away in the dark. Fighting heavy seas, the Bluejacket started a search for them in the area. A few hours later, a welcome message came from the navy vessel that the entire crew, 42 men and a woman, had been rescued. Their ship, the Swedish freighter Oklahoma, broke in two in heavy seas, 300 miles off the Newfoundland coast. — Central Press Canadian.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

RETROSPECT!!

Softball topped the list of sports achievements in the city in the year just past with baseball recording the best team effort.

It was a good all-round year despite the fact baseball fans were deprived of the senior brand of baseball. The city had a well-balanced team ready for action but events proved there was no league to play in.

Hockey, softball, soccer, tennis and minor sports enjoyed a good season.

Softball topped the list of collective achievements in one of its finest years. Four teams representing the city and district won eastern Ontario championships with all going to the provincial playdowns. The sad note is that all were "bridesmaids" with nary a bauble-winning bride.

Leo Calihane's Booth's TV pee-wee softballers reached the Ontario semi-finals. Don McNevin's Glen Roy Juniors were ousted by Toronto in the quarter finals. Herbie Hems's Northern Electrics won an intermediate eastern title with Mike Whalen's strong Point Anne intermediate "A" team going to the semi-finals.

Perhaps the best team achievement of the year was that of Bryson Reid's Regents Junior "A" baseballers. Untried in organized baseball at the beginning of the season, Coach "Red" Carson and Alderman Reid whipped the team into a powerful whole that swept through Eastern Ontario opposition to the Oshawa finals, bowing to the powerful Hamilton Crawfords for the championship.

The Belleville Lawn Bowling Club enjoyed another successful season, and was blessed with perfect weather for its famous Carsbie Gold Trophy Tournament on Civic Holiday. A Kingston rink won the handsome new trophy with Brockville taking the Lord Calvert Trophy, Cobourg the Dollar Trophy and a Belleville rink, skipped by Austen Watkins, winning the Belleville Label Proprietors' award.

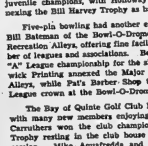
District tennis attracted an unusually large number of players with the Bay of Quinte Tennis League having four playing clubs: Belleville's Quinte "A" and "B" Tennis and Point Anne. The Trenton club won the league title and the Canada Cement trophy. Point Anne won the playoff competition and the Corby Trophy. Two open tournaments, the Coronation and the League Open were played. Gerald Ireland, Trenton, and Thorold Horwood, Point Anne, won the Coronation men's doubles, with Elizabeth Pitney, and Don Woodley, Point "A", taking the mixed doubles. Ken and Tom Woodley, Point Anne, were men's doubles winners in the league open with Anne Armstrong and Don Hannah, Trenton, taking the mixed honors.

Some sixty-two curlers of the city and district enjoyed a three-weeks' session of play following the hockey activities in Memorial Arena. President Bill Gault, of the Belleville Curling Club, and his members held their first bonspiel, which proved an unqualified success.

Hockey had a successful season, although no championships were brought to the city. The Glen Roy Senior "B's" were ousted in the sectional playoffs after giving the ultimate Ontario champions from Kingston a terrific seven-game series before bowing out.

The junior Black Hawks won their group title after eliminating the Kingston Vics, but were defeated in provincial playdowns by their "arch-enemies," the Weston Dukes. Minor hockey saw some 400 kiddies in action in juvenile, midget, bantam and pee-wee leagues.

"Pete" Beach's Albert College senior gridders went through an undefeated schedule only to meet elimination at the hands and feet of the powerful Grimsby C.I. team.



Yachting marked the greatest expansion of any sport in the city calendar. The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club now owns a handsome club house, thanks to member activities while several new boats and members were added to the club's fleet and personnel. The season saw the advent of the club's new small-craft boats, the Y Flyers, which proved a success. The "sailors" are looking forward to the best year in yachting history in 1954.

The Belawa Football Club marked a trophy "hat-trick" in the season of 1953, winning the league championship, the Trenton Challenge Cup, and the Belleville Charity Cup. The Frank Follwell Trophy went to the Wellington Consolidated School Juvenile champions, with Bellevue Street United Church announcing the Bill Holloway Trophy as bantam titlists.

Five-pin bowling had another excellent season with Messrs Bill Bateman of the Bowl-O-Drome, and Tom Pappas, of the Recreation Alleys, offering fine facilities for a record number of leagues and associations. Belleville Golf won the Major "A" League championship for the sixth successive year. Hardwick Printing annexed the Major "B" title at the Recreation Alleys, while Pat's Barber Shop took the Men's Commercial League crown at the Bowl-O-Drome.

The Bay of Quinte Golf Club had a very successful season with many new members enjoying the links facilities. T. A. Carruthers won the club championship with the Branscombe Trophy resting in the club house for the second year in succession. Mike Aquafredda and Val Smith did the honors, thrusting off the challenge of the Napanee club.

Minor sports had an exceptionally good year with the Belleville Minor Baseball Association, the Belleville Hockey Association, the Belleville District Softball Association and the city fire department doing outstanding jobs in promoting recreation among the youngsters.

Spike-Shod Players Compete 3 Hours on Rain-Soaked Turf; Rosewall, Seixas Play Thurs.

By Will Grimsley

MELBOURNE (AP) — Lewis Hoad, one of Australia's 19-year-old wonder boys, today defeated the American ace, Tony Trabert, 13-11, 6-3, 3-6, 3-6, 7-5 in a miserable, steady rain to tie the Davis Cup challenge round 2-2.

The condition of the Kooyong court was so bad after the match, which went 62 games and lasted just five minutes short of three hours, that officials decided to postpone the deciding singles test until Thursday.

How the optimism that was rampant in the United States camp has subsided somewhat. For the Americans' slumping star, Vic Seixas, will go into action against Ken Rosewall, the other Australian 19-year-old, who has licked Seixas six times in a row.

The only real ray of sunshine that U.S. captain Billy Talbert can see is that in a way Rosewall has been as bad as Seixas. Ken was in the doubles Tuesday after six poor showing in the opening singles matches. Today the pressure will be on both players.

RESULT DISAPPOINTMENT

Still, today's match was the one that everybody figured Australia was winning. They thought Trabert would clinch the cup for the U.S. for the first time since it went to Australia in 1950, and Tony's failure to accomplish the task added a disappointment.

Trabert, the University of Cincinnati basketball player didn't [illegible] wretched condition [illegible] Tuesday, but that certainly was not why he lost. Young Hoad played the ball of his career, court. Perhaps Trabert was annoyed a bit more because he is a bigger fellow than Hoad and had more trouble balancing himself on the slippery turf.

Trabert slipped three times in the early going and referee Cliff Sproule came onto the court after the fourth game of the second set and looked at the grass. He returned to his position without comment.

But two games later it became obvious that something would have to be done, and he told both players that they could wear rubber soles. Trabert accepted the offer but Hoad elected to go on with his tennis shoes since he was "used to" wet grass. He refused to change his mind, however, and went right on winning.

He changed his mind, though, in the third set when Trabert began to move in front and before it was over both were wearing rubbers. The turf was a mess when the match was over.

Oshawa Truckers Here Tonight

Determined to break their five-game losing streak, the Belleville Mems[illegible] meet the pace-setting Oshawa Truckmen in Memorial Arena tonight, the game getting under way at 8:30.

The Truckmen lead the group by three points by virtue of their successive victories, two over the second-place Kingston Goodyears.

The Memos have been deprived of the services of Keith MacDonald and Jackie Wardbaugh in their last two starts, MacDonald having a leg injury and will probably not see service until January 9 when the Mems tangle with the Goodyears in Kingston.

Coach "Pete" Donnelly will not don uniform until that date due to a leg injury that he kept him out of action for the past three games. However the rest of the crew are carrying the mail, and hope to hang the Oshawans a setback in what should be a senior "B" thriller.

Incidentally the Truckmen extended their win streak to four and their group lead to five points over Kingston when they defeated the Orillia Pontiacs 6-5 last night in Bowmanville.

Charles Seeks Berry's Berries, Plenty of 'Em

EDMONTON (CP) — Fight promoter Jack Berry said Tuesday night heavyweight boxing challenger Ezzard Charles is willing to fight Earl Walls, Canada's heavyweight champion, in Edmonton for a $35,000 guarantee or 25 per cent of the gate.

Berry said he received a telegram from Jake Mintz, Charles' co-manager, outlining the terms. The guarantee or the gate was optional.

Berry offered $10,000 last week to any one of five leading world heavyweight title contenders to fight Walls. In addition to Charles, the others were Nino Valdez, Roland Lastarza, Don Bucceroni and Don Cockell.

Berry said he hasn't given much thought to the Charles offer.

"It was scored at Maple Leaf Gardens, March 4, 1933, by Newmarket Redmen and it eliminated Toronto Nationals 3-2 in overtime in the fifth and deciding game of the OHA Junior semi-finals for the Memorial Cup. Newmarket's Don Wilson fired a long shot that hit the wire screen behind Nationals' goal. The puck landed on top of the net and slowly rolled forward. While the crowd roared warning, goalie Ginger Hall peered from side to side as the puck slowly toppled, stuck his back, and bounded into goal. Newmarket went on from there to win the Canadian Championship".

Tommy Burlington Sparks Mercurys To 10-6 Win Over Stratford Indians

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tommy Burlington's age might indicate he's over the hill as far as hockey players but the sharpshooting statistics prove otherwise.

At 33 he's the second oldest player with Barrie Mercurys and is one of the few players in Senior "B" ranks in his eighth year. Despite this handicap he's nearly always been one of the top marksmen in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A group.

Tuesday night he took over the individual scoring leadership in the league as he led the Mercurys to a 10-8 win over Stratford Indians at Owen Sound with two goals and four assists. His scoring spree gave him 12 goals and 25 assists for 36 points, four more than Jack Taylor of Hamilton Tigers.

MERCS MOVE UP

The win moved the Mercurys into sole possession of second place two points behind the leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and two points ahead of Windsor Bulldogs, and the Tigers.

Windsor Bulldogs advanced into a tie for third place with the Tigers by edging Niagara Falls Cataracts 5-4.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, North Bay Trappers downed the second-place Espanola Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds 5-1 at North Bay as two unanswered third-period goals gave the Trappers the decision.

The Indians held a 4-3 lead going into the third period but they broke the game wide open in with a three-goal splurge in the first 2½ minutes of the frame.

LECKIE GETS THREE

Bob Leckie's contribution with two goals and four assists was the top point getter but Roy Lashley was the leading goal scorer with three, all of them in the final period. Gerry Heid and Buck Fredrickson each counted twice for the Mercurys with Erwin Morris getting the other.

The Indians' goals were shared by Ralph Tolton, Lee Brodo, Mike Delich, Johnny Murelich, Ron Ingram and Dinny Flanaghan.

Windsor got both their goals in the first period and held on for the victory margin. A closing rally by the Cataracts, which saw Ed Marineau get a goal with Buck Boucher a shutout with a goal with less than two minutes to play, Bob Hayes and Frank Battaglia counted the Windsor goals. The loss was the third straight for the Cataracts.

Bill Dwyer scored North Bay's winning goal against the Greyhounds after the teams ended the second period deadlocked 1-1 with Ed Marineau of the Trappers and Ron Ingram of the Greyhounds getting goals in that period. The Trappers' third goal by Chet Kozmersky in the dying seconds came with Sault goalie Tom Dodson on the ice for an extra attacker.

Tuesday's Niagara Falls visit Hamilton and Owen Sound travels to Stratford. No games are scheduled in the NOHA.

World Series Motion Picture Film Will Renew Cracker-Barrel Debates

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — The only movie producer in the world who is in the happy position of knowing he has a hit on his hands before he takes the cans to Lew Feldesca, the former Chicago White Sox infielder and manager, who for 30 years has recorded the imperishable moments of the annual world series.

Even before the house lights have been turned for the American premiere of his 1953 production here he was able to forecast with some accuracy that it will be shown 73,000 times in the coming year, always to packed houses.

It will make no money, for there is no charge for the use of the 700 prints of the 37-minute film, but the American and National Leagues and baseball under-writes the project feel the eventual benefits are incalculable in terms of good will and future patronage.

MAKE 23,000 FEET

In recording the most recent series, in which the Yankees again knocked the Dodgers four games to two, Fonseca's camera crew ground out 23,000 feet of film. This has been snipped down to a handier 2,500 feet.

Some of the skeptics have suggested in the past that certain controversial plays which might have reflected upon umpires or players were given a quick shuffle or cut out entirely. Fans have heard of hits, for he sees to it this time that there can be no such complaints.

For example, just about the biggest debate of the '53 series revolved about a play at third base in the opening game. The Dodgers, staging a spirited rally, tied the score at 5-5 and, with none out, had runners on first and second. Manager Charley Dressen ordered Billy Cox to bunt.

BUNT THROWN OUT

Billy laid down a good one. Hodges slid in hard, and to many thousands it looked as though Cox scored a clear decision over Yogi Berra's snap throw to Gil McDougald. Umpire Artie Gore called it the other way. When the next Dodger, pitcher Carl Labine, also bunted and was thrown out by a wide margin, the Brooklyn rally was chilled.

Well, the official film appears to show Hodges in there while McDougald still reaches for a ball not yet in sight. Whether it will be given a chance to argue the play all over again.

In justice to umpire Gore, the film commentator might point out that Hodges made a book slide—for a second run inasmuch as it was a force play—and that the ball beat him while he was coming back.

JACKIE LOOKS BAD

There also was considerable debate about whether Jackie Robinson, the Brooklyn Flash, should have rounded a home run by Billy Martin that just dropped into the seats in the second game. The film shows the play all too clearly, we fear, to please Jackie's more ardent admirers.

But Jackie isn't the only one. Martin is shown being tagged out by a mile at the plate in the second game and his teammate, Hank Bauer, is displayed nearly getting beaned when he "lost" Bill Gilliam's high fly. It all evens up.

Oklahoma, Maryland May Steal Show From Glamorous Rose Bowl Classic

NEW YORK (CP) — Michigan State will clash with UCLA in the traditionally glamorous Rose Bowl setting at Pasadena, Calif., but the major New Year's Day football interest will be centred 2,500 miles east.

While the Michigan State Spartans, ranked third nationally, and the fifth-ranking Pasabers are expected to draw the usual 100,200 sellout crowd, the holiday plum promises to be the Oklahoma-Maryland clash at Miami's Orange Bowl.

Maryland's Terrapins, a disputed choice over Duke and Navy as the college team of the year, are looking for a convincing victory to justify their ratings. They have met their 10-game schedule, the Terrapins were criticized by some experts for establishing their record against comparatively weak opponents.

Oklahoma, picked as the country's No. 4 team, won eight games, tied one and lost to Notre Dame in what many described as the toughest game on the Irish schedule. Notre Dame is following its usual policy of shunning post-season activity.

GAMES ON TV

Crowds of 414,000 expected for the nine bowl games will be swelled by millions who will hear broadcasts or watch the games on television. The CBC will carry the telecast of the Rose Bowl from Toronto and Ottawa.

Both Rose Bowl contenders have 9-1 records, Michigan State, champions of the midwestern big 10, are making their first Pasadena appearance and are favored by six points over the Pacific Coast title holders.

Favorites of the day are Georgia Tech's eight-starring Engineers, picked by 13 points over West Virginia in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

In the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Texas (8-2) is a 7½-point favorite over Alabama (6-2-3).

Other New Year's Day games: Easter Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Auburn vs Texas Tech.

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., Mississippi Southern vs Texas Western.

Cigar Bowl at Tampa, Fla., Lavercrosse State, Wis., vs Missouri Valley.

Salad Bowl, Phoenix, Ariz., Great Lakes Navy vs Fort Ord.

Marmora Meets Wellington In Series Final

MARMORA—Trent Valley League pre-season play-offs took place on Marmora rink on Tuesday evening with Wellington taking southern Ontario honors when they defeated Trenton 6-5 and-Marmora winning their play-off with Madoc in the northern section by 3-1. The former game went into ten minutes of overtime without the tie being broken. Then, playing for the first goal to decide the issue Day received the plaudits of his teammates in registering for Wellington on the tryout's pass. He and Rose each got a pair of goals. Graham and Garrison scored the other goals. At first 10 M. Jones, Schmidt and Demille scored for Trenton with the exception of the first period, Trenton were very aggressive and were unfortunate in missing on a few occasions in the third. It was a fine tussle to watch.

The second game between Marmora and Madoc was of a rougher nature with Madoc fouls from the start. In the third period, Lavender and Marmora was injured and had to be assisted off the ice, Shadbolt being the offending player. Each team had three penalties in the second frame for high sticking and tripping infringements.

The first goal was scored for Marmora after about nine minutes of play by Jones on Trumble's assist.

Sherry equalized on T. Nickle's assist before the period had gone much further.

The second period was scoreless, but third Whittemore baffled Bates on a pass from Nayler. Trumble got Marmora's third goal on an assist from Maynes. Marmora and Wellington now wind up six.

Rugger Visit 'Not a Hoax'

TORONTO (CP)—There was "no hoax implied or intended" in a visit to London by the Toronto and Montreal rugby football touring team, Wally Williams, publicity director of the Ontario Rugger Union said Tuesday.

Williams was commenting on a report in the London Star which credited the touring team with the "gayest rugby football hoax of the century." The team from Canada was beaten 46-0 Monday by a London rugby football picked up squad.

Williams said about 40 made the trip by chartered plane to London. The players were drawn from the Ontario union—which has 22 teams in Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Brantford and Guelph—and from the "Quebec union which has two or three teams.

"It wasn't our best team," said Williams. "You might say it was a representative goodwill side."

The Ontario union, which is affiliated with the English Rugger Union, gave the team permission to play in England "as a goodwill gesture, not as a hoax."

The travellers were all Britons who now live in Canada. Williams said they paid their own way on the trip.

Soviets to Lift Iron Sports Curtain In Effort to Impress Western Nations

Sport in Brief

EXPENSIVE SUSPENSIONS

MONTREAL (CP)—The wallop Montreal Canadiens' Bernie Geoffrion will take in the pocketbook as the result of his stick-swinging duel with Ron Murphy of New York Rangers may reach an estimated $1,000.

The figure is guess-work but appears reasonable. Neither the National Hockey League nor clubs makes public the salaries paid players. On the same basis of estimation, Murphy's set-back financially may be about $600.

In the disciplinary action announced by Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL, Geoffrion's suspension was eight games, all against Rangers. Murphy was suspended for five games, all against Canadiens. The players lose pay for games while they are under suspension.

Geoffrion's salary is believed to be about $8,000. He will miss about one-ninth of the season, for a financial loss of $1,000. On top of that he incurred an automatic $100 fine for his match penalty at the time of the ruckus, Dec. 20 in New York.

Murphy's salary probably is between $6,000 and $7,000. Figuring it at $6,500 and his suspension about one-twelfth of the season, he loses $500 in salary. He also incurred a match-penalty $100 fine.

NEW SPECS HELPFUL

CLEVELAND (AP)—A pair of plastic discs, smaller than a dime, are responsible for one of the most successful comebacks in professional baseball history.

The discs—contact lenses—belong to defenseman Fred Sharo of the American Hockey League's Cleveland Barons. With them he has scored nine goals and 15 assists for 24 points and a tie with Pittsburgh Hornets' Frankie Mathers as the league's top scoring defence player.

Sharo, 28, came to the Barons three years ago from New York Rangers. Because of poor vision he didn't do well. After being sent to Seattle Sharo bought contact lenses.

Barons manager Jim Hendy gave him a chance to try them out in action. "He's been a star ever since."

Says Sharo:

"I can't wait to know you can see as good as the next guy."

GETS EUROPE INVITATION

EDMONTON (CP)—Pat Undershill, 25-year-old Edmonton speed skater who placed second in the women's division of the North American championships here last March, has been invited to compete in world, international and regional speed-skating meets in Europe during February.

Transportation overseas will cost her some $850. Edmonton speed-skating officials are seeking a sponsor.

Ed. Sandford Sparks Bruins To 6-2 Victory Over Rangers; Edgar Laprade Back in Action

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Six years ago Ed Sandford came into the National Hockey League touted as one of the game's most promising centres. Until this season, he never quite lived up to the advance billing.

There was nothing automatic about Sandford Tuesday night as he led Boston Bruins to a 6-2 victory over the fifth-place New York Rangers with two goals and two assists.

It was the only game of the night and Sandford showed 12,682 fans at New York's Madison Square Garden that he probably is beginning for his best season in the big time. The 25-year-old centre put the Bruins ahead 3-2 in the second period and scored in the third to put his goal total this season to five.

Sandford never has scored more than 16 goals in a season. He got 16 in the 1948-49 campaign.

The victory gave Boston a strong hold on fourth spot in the league standings. The New Yorkers remained in fifth spot, nine points behind the Bruins.

SCORES IN SECOND

Sandford scored his first goal at 16:03 of the second period when he took a pass from defenseman Warren Godfrey and slapped the puck past goaltender Gump Worsley.

He scored again in the third period on a pass from Dave Creighton. Then he assisted on Bob Armstrong's goal less than two minutes later to give Boston a 5-2 edge. The other Boston goals were scored by Godfrey, defenseman Hal Laycoe and Johnny Peirson.

Veteran centre Max Bentley and Nick Mickoski scored for the New Yorkers.

Boston went in front 1-0 in the opening period on Laycoe's goal at 5:32. Fleming Mackell and Milt Schmidt got assists.

The Rangers drew even up in the second session, scoring twice within 22 seconds to go ahead 2-1. Bentley's Dave Creighton Jim Henry at 13:10 and Mickoski tallied at 13:32.

The Bruins went on the rampage minutes later.

The game marked the return to action of 23-year-old Edgar Laprade, New York centre who tortured two years ago. Laprade didn't figure in the scoring but he nurses in a good performance.

Only one game is scheduled for tonight when second-place Montreal Canadiens meet third-place Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto.

Canuck Goalie Sparks Team

BOSTON (AP)—Boston College's hockey squad credits Bill Sloan, St. Lawrence's sophomore goalie from Cornwall, for snapping its seven-game winning streak, Sloan made 32 stops Tuesday night while St. Lawrence defeated the Eagles 4-1.

In an intercollegiate game that drew a 6,000 crowd, St. Lawrence, which lost only to Michigan State in its five previous starts, struck for three goals during the third period to break a 1-1 tie.

Will Decide On Baseball Entry

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Shareholders of the St. Thomas Senior International Baseball League team will meet Jan. 24 to decide if the club will be represented in the league in the 1954 season.

Tommy White will be playing manager of the club if the decision is favorable.

The shareholders' meeting is being held a week prior to the league's annual meeting here.

Club officials said Tuesday the executive has joined with London Majors in voting against the re-entry of Oshawa unless this club is prepared to reimburse the other teams for the trips there.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, DEC. 31, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Some unattractive vibrations for those of you who will not fight back, or who have a defeatist attitude. Remember, some of the greatest men have gained their spurs despite incredible obstacles.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Some gains indicated in work, artistic and professional matters, social service and friendship. Be your gay and persuasive self, maintaining that certain reserve that intrigues.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Day is responsive for those affairs that tend to improve one's personal manner, home and social life. Maintain a cheerful outlook. Your 1954 could be a year of great satisfaction.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Gains in the making through others' kindly and unsolicited generosity. Especially favored now: real estate, banking, sound investment, manufacturing, organizing.

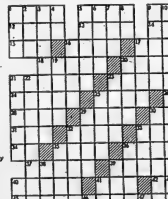
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Both personal and business matters have a slightly upward trend. Be alert, get an early start, work hard for just rewards. 1954 holds many hidden benefits for the worthy.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—By noon you should be rolling along to a fine finish. Just what, you'd wish for. Relax tight reins. There are good times ahead.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—Inspirational, exciting and friendly rays for the willing and energetic today. Full stream ahead, now—but with caution as watchword. Watch a tendency to overspend or take on more than can handle.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Mildly stimulating. This should be enough for Scorpio natives. That old "root of all evil"—money—isn't on the favored-list but routine and family interests are.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—You can be right up front and contributing heavily from your resourceful mind. Top effort will bring fine rewards and personal satisfaction.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Business and professional achievement possible now if you double efforts. General interests, including romance, social affairs favored. News will contribute interest.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Evenly balanced influences suggest careful survey now to attain full benefits. Be undisturbed at petty annoyances; live above them; you must be of higher mind.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Plenty on the fire today. Keep cool, calm and collected. Big point: differentiate well between the essential and the non-essential. Concentrate on the former.

YOU BORN TODAY are most practical and self-reliant; at times self-conscious, backward in putting forward your ideas, particularly if you cannot follow through or haven't the knowledge. You have no fear or ridicule, comparison. A deep thinker, sometimes impulsive, you can achieve much if you will maintain a steady pace and cultivate your talents. You have fine organizing ability and, on the road to success, you move past obstacles quickly. Genial, often witty, you could be a great speaker, lawyer, entertainer. Avoid overwork, questionable associates. Birthdate of: Charles Edward Stuart, the "Young Pretender."

Quebec Studying Proposals To Pipe Western Gas

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Duplessis announced Tuesday the Quebec hydro electric commission will study proposals for bringing Alberta natural gas into eastern Canada.

Mr. Duplessis made the announcement following a two-hour meeting with Attorney-General Porter of Ontario and A. R. Crozier both members of a committee set up by the Ontario cabinet to report on the potential market in Ontario for western gas.

The report, now in the hands of Trade Minister Howe, is believed to express the opinion that needs in Ontario would warrant construction of a 36-inch pipeline from Alberta into Ontario.

Mr Porter and Mr. Crozier came here by car. Quebec officials are interested in getting the western gas. In that case a 36-inch pipeline might be warranted.

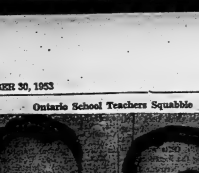
TECHNICAL PROBLEM

"Talks dealt with the distribution of gas from Alberta into eastern Canada," Mr. Duplessis said.

"It is a technical problem and it is hoped the report of members of the Quebec hydro commission who will report their opinion. Then government will then act accordingly."

Mr. Duplessis said proposals to pipe in natural gas from Alberta would involve much expenditure.

"The potential market for the gas must be assessed and we must find out if the project is good because it would be a good idea in Quebec.



"We are not interested in the gas in hydro-electric power and in that respect we are headed off that in Ontario.

"There is no doubt on the other hand that natural gas offers advantages which we must consider.

"For instance, natural gas could well replace coal, the price of which rises from year to year. Moreover, most coal is imported from the United States, whereas natural gas could be found in Quebec province. . . .

It has been reported that if the Ontario hydro-electric commission is given the go-ahead to send the natural gas into Ontario, the commission will take over distribution of it to the industrial centres and build the necessary liner from there to central Quebec.

It appeared evident in Quebec that the Quebec hydro commission would be charged with the job of organizing piping of gas if and when Ottawa decides it wants to import it.

Ontario School Teachers Squabble

With possibility of a mass resignation of Ontario Secondary school teachers on May 31, in protest against the "single" salary schedule, public school teachers through their federation have signified their intention of taking over the positions in high schools if "recalcitrant" secondary school teachers call that attitude "job snatching." At the meeting of the Secondary Teachers' Federation in Toronto, Frank D. Sawyer was elected president. Retiring president is Miss Claire Coughlin, right. — Central Press Canadian.

IT MAY BE YOUR LIVER

If Life's not worth living

It may be your liver!

It's a fact! It takes up to two pints of liver bile a day to keep your digestion working properly. If your liver isn't pouring enough bile into your intestines . . . you know all too well the sour, gassy discomfort of constipation and the sad look of the future that it can bring.

Then, doctors say, you may need a laxative to help your liver flow more freely. Soon you'll feel that happy days are here again! Don't accept substitutes for Dr. Miles Laxative Liver Pills or tonic. All at your drug store.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board has authorized Trans-Canada Air Lines to stop at Tampa, Fla., on flights between Montreal and Mexico City.

The CAB also granted Trans-Canada permission to use Kansas City Field, Mo., as the airport serving Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

The board said Trans-Canada could operate through Tampa for a six-month period, and said that if International Airport is an alternate field when Tampa is "closed in" by weather, Miami, Fort Myers or Vera Cruz, Mexico, may be used as another alternate between Mexico City.

The permit sends Trans-Canada may carry passengers between Tampa and Mexico City only such passengers, property and mail as are or may be taken on either at Montreal or Moncton City and destined for Mexico City or Montreal.

The authorization may be extended for six months at a time.

LACKS AIRPORT

Trans-Canada said it plans to use Kinross Field, Mich., on a new all-Canadian route to Montreal, Ottawa, North Bay, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie. It said there is no airport in Canadian territory to serve Sault Ste. Marie.

Under the new authority the Canadian airline must carry all passengers landing at Kinross across the international boundary by booked automobile to the Canadian city. An arrangement already is being used on the airline's Toronto-Detroit-Chicago-Winnipeg service. It permits international travellers to avoid double customs inspection and immigration formalities.

The authorization was for a trial period of six months.

MADOC

SERVICE AT TRINITY UNITED

MADOC—The Christmas story in song was the special service at Trinity United Church, Madoc, on Sunday morning, December 20th, when the combined senior choir and junior choir of 50 voices rendered the sacred cantata, "The Nativity" under the direction of Mr. Ivor Hughes.

Soloists were Messrs. Jr. Wigle and Ivor Hughes, Miss Anne Nickle and Mrs. A. Adams; Mrs. B. McCoy assisted in the junior choir and choir. A lighted cross and decorated evergreens added to the Christmas atmosphere that prevailed throughout the service. The pastor, Rev. J. F. Lane read the Nativity, and passed along to the children a short Christmas story. The large congregation was in attendance and joined with the choirs in singing several of the Christmas carols.

The annual Christmas party of Trinity United Church Sunday School held in the school room of the church with a full house in attendance. A fine program was given by the scholars in song, recitations, exercises, instrumental numbers and Santa Claus visited the party and presented gifts and candy to all the scholars; concluding with refreshments for all in attendance.

Good, the rector, gave an inspiring message to the congregation leaving much food for thought and challenge for us to live a better and better life in the year ahead.

During the singing of the hymns lights were turned out and the colored lights and Christmas trees added for the effect which added much to atmosphere of the approaching Christmas season.

Following the church service, the members of the choir and friends met in the church hall for a social hour. Miss Marion Robertson and during the hour Mr. Ivan Sine and Mr. Good were presented with a mahogeny end table and an electric table lamp, although a token of appreciation for their gift.

Communist Steel Production Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Behind the iron Curtain, steel production is growing faster than it is in the free world; but tonnage output of the democracies is still nearly four times higher than in the Communist lands, Iron Age, the metal-working weekly says.

A study of world steel production completed by the American publication shows that the combined production of Russia and her satellites was 14 per cent greater in 1953 than in 1952; and put in the free world was only 10 per cent higher in 1953 than in 1952.

But the free world produced more than 200,000,000 net tons of raw steel in 1953 while the output of the Communist bloc was only a bit over 54,000,000 tons.

Communist Education Comes First in Life of Soviet Youth

William L. Ryan, in a three-month stay in the Soviet Union, talked to scores of Russians without benefit of interpreters. He travelled 6,000 miles without guide or tie of the "escorted tours" arranged for most foreigners visiting the Soviet Union. Here, in another of his unscheduled stories, he gives an insight into communism's hold on youth.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Foreign News Analyst

"What do a Russian girl and boy talk about when they go out for an evening?

Mystification prompted this question to a young Communist-reared woman. I had noted Russians in a restaurant attempting to have a good time and making a pretty glum affair of it. They just seemed to sit and stare at each other.

"Oh," she said, "there are lots of things to talk about."

"What, for example? You are married. Your husband must have courted you. What did you talk about?"

"Oh," she repeated. "There are many things. There's socialist competition, for example."

This is partly nonsense, of course. Basically young men and women in Russia discuss many of the same things that couples everywhere talk about. Nevertheless, their attitude toward life shows the effects of sealed off, effective training.

ACCENT ON YOUTH

The Soviet Communist party puts the accent on youth, though the party is interested principally in talented youngsters who will be indoctrinated and trained to form a hard core from which party leaders of tomorrow will be selected and trained.

Every Soviet town has its house or "palace" of Young Pioneers. Theoretically, all Soviet children are members of the Young Pioneers...But those who frequent the Pioneer palaces are the ones who get special attention until they resemble little robots, responding automatically to commands.

During a trip to a half-dozen Soviet republics, I visited some of these Pioneer palaces. The one in Tashkent, capital of the Uzbek S.S.R., seems fairly typical. I went there on Sunday unannounced, and after some argument with the guard at the gate and showing my impressive Red Army pass was allowed to go in.

It was a problem to the woman in charge, but she took me in tow for a guided tour. Fortunately for her, things had been arranged in anticipation of visits from a number of "delegations" including Brazilians, Indonesians and Mongolians.

SPIRIT LACKING

There were no more than 50 children in the building, with an equal number in the yard outside. Those in the palace were the cream of the talent the pioneers could boast in various fields. Obediently, they awaited quietly the guests' arrival. They were all done up in their Sunday best.

I was shown the "kabinet," where children ranging in age from 9 to 14 years old discuss young Communist business gravely—like a little government," the guide said.

In other rooms I was shown children's handicraft, painting and sculpture, some of it remarkably good, and their biological and zoological collections.

The children were extremely shy with me, and later, with the delegations. There were no bubbling, rambunctious kids such as one might expect to find in that age bracket in any large group. Somehow they ignored initiative and talent was there, beyond question, and the training was there, but the childhood was not.

BEGINS IN NURSERY

The process begins in the nursery. Since most Soviet mothers work, children of three or four are sent to "detskasyat"—nurseries—to be cared for and trained during the working day by Russian nurses and teachers.

Shielded from information from the outside world which does not fit into the Communist pattern, the children become obedient servants of a Communist society.

Many escape the rigid pattern, however. As the Soviet middle class continues to grow, more and more mothers are attempting to give up working so they may rear their children themselves.

A tremendous amount of attention is given to children by the Communist party and Soviet government. The education network is growing constantly because no highly industrialized nation can hope to survive in today's world without a broad base of education.

But Communist education comes first.

Churchill Showed Gourmet's Interest in Alberta Game Served at Bermuda Parley

CALGARY (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill has a healthy appetite. At the Big Three conference in Bermuda he ate more heartily than the other delegates and showed a gourmet's interest in the varied dishes served.

Henry Goldsmith, maitre d'hotel of the Calgary Petroleum Club who was in charge of catering at the conference, said the British prime minister particularly liked wild game sent from Alberta.

A young man who went to Calgary in July after serving in some of Europe's exclusive clubs, Goldsmith was requested by the management of the Mid Ocean Club in Bermuda to cater for the conference.

PRESIDENT LIGHT EATER

He noted that President Eisenhower dined lightly on salmon steak while Premier Joseph Laniel of France, saying food was overcooked, could eat only what his doctor permitted.

Mr. Goldsmith recalled one incident:

"Churchill, after much persuasion, got President Eisenhower to try and eat a large steak, but not the prime minister's favorite dessert.

"The offer of a Churchill cigar, however, was refused by the President who doesn't drink or smoke."

Goldsmith brought back one of Sir Winston's cigars, a half-smoked butt and autographed photographs of the British prime minister and of Anthony Eden, Britain's foreign minister.

Goldsmith got the butt as a result of the daily coffee break when Sir Winston went through a ritual that kept the maitre d'hotel and his staff on their toes.

CIGARS ON THE RIGHT

"We would set the table with the coffee service and a box of the famous cigars, always on the right, along with Sir Winston's special cigar clipper," Goldsmith reported.

"Each day Churchill would first clip his coffee, then ceremoniously pass the cigars to his guests, take one himself, smoke half of it and neatly butt it in the ash tray."

It was after one of these rituals that Goldsmith obtained his souvenir.

The Alberta game birds which included pheasant, grouse and wild duck, were sent especially to the conference by Harold Siebens of Calgary.

"Sir Winston had these delicacies on several occasions," Goldsmith said.

The Calgary maitre d'hotel said the American, British and French groups each had its own dining rooms with their own specially-prepared menus. Occasionally, the French would entertain the British...the British the Americans and so on...but never during the conference did they all dine together.

Russian Merchandising System More Fantastic Than the Prices

How do people live in the Soviet Union? Russian-speaking William L. Ryan, back from a three-month story assignment in the Soviet Union, provides an insight in this report on the shopping problem.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press
Foreign News Analyst

A Soviet department store is a good place to go to tick on ice cream cone and rob—but it's not a good place to go to buy anything.

The system of merchandising, more fantastic than the prices, makes shopping often a nightmare.

Soviet stores—both the big gastronomes which sell food stuffs and the universmags which are the Russian version of a department store—are perpetually clogged with people.

Many go about the stores looking at goods, but not buying, and just licking on valley swaffles with ice cream at 1.95 rubles each.

(At equivalent Tuesday, the ruble has no exact equivalent in dollars. Only its purchasing power means anything to the Russian, any way. The working man in a factory is likely to receive 700 rubles for a month of four 48-hour weeks; thus the price of the ice cream cone is equivalent to about a half hour's pay.)

SERIES OF QUEUES

Those who must buy go through a dizzying series of queues so frustrating that the system has led to a peculiarly Soviet racket.

Millitiamen are posted in many a Soviet department store to guard against children who prey on the frustration of shoppers. The children patiently waits to get to counters and buy up items in demand. He then circulates through the store and on the spot sells the items at a profit to shoppers who would rather pay the extra than go through the agony of the system.

For meats and vegetables the housewife may avoid the jam of the state stores by going to the peasant markets. The prices may be a bit higher, but she is sure of getting what she sets out to get. The state stores have limited supplies and often the items listed on the price lists are not on hand. Moreover, in the peasant market, the housewife has the pleasure of arguing and bargaining with the seller. In the state stores prices are fixed by the government.

For clothing, household utensils and almost anything besides food, the shopper goes to the universmag.

THEY QUEUE AT DOOR

When mama gets to the store she usually finds a long line at the doors waiting to get inside. Once inside there are other queues. Mama decides what she wants to buy first. She gets in line at the counter. When she gets to the counter, she picks out the item. The saleswoman behind the counter then tells her what to pay at the cashier's cage. After a long wait, she pays for the item she selected. She then gets back into line for the first line to wait her turn to surrender the receipt and receive the item she purchased.

If six items on her shopping list appear at different store counters, that means six lines she has to get in. If there are six items to pick up in the store, six times to pay the cashier, six times to pick up the items.

Even the Soviet management is beginning to see the futility of this. Signs over some counters in the big stores announce that a saleswoman may be paid directly for the item. But this is the exception. To buy an ordinary comb in a universmag took me 25 minutes. A week later, all the teeth were out of it.

RUDE, JOSTLING CROWDS

There are endless queues in Moscow's department stores for such systems. People are jammed together for hours in the stores. I have been in about 30 countries; the crowds in Soviet stores are among the rudest, most jostling and inconsiderate I have seen. But they must be, in self-defence.

The lines for milk, of which there is a severe shortage in the Soviet Union, are even more heartbreaking. Housewives try to surmount the stores or the outlets in the peasant markets, try to judge the best times, but it's pure guesswork and it's difficult to win.

People form lines, carrying empty bottles. The milk is ladled out of big containers. Sometimes, long before the end of the line is reached, the milk is gone. The housewives must either give up or take her chances in another line, where the same thing may happen.

Turn your front wheels in the direction of the skid.

- Don't turn wheels too far in direction of skid. This may throw rear end into dangerous reverse skid.
- Keep your foot lightly on the accelerator to keep rear wheels rolling, and maintain traction.
- Keep your foot off the brake. Jamming on the brakes locks your wheels so that they act like sled runners.
- When you have car straightened out, pump the brakes gently to bring the car to a stop.

Both St. Laurent And Churchill Say Peace Hope Grows

Free World's Strength Leads Sir Winston to Be Optimistic

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill says the free world's growing strength and peace aims have reduced the possibility of a third world war.

The 79-year-old prime minister made the statement in a New Year's message to the Primrose League, a Conservative party organization.

"During the past 12 months," he said, "Her Majesty's government has dedicated itself to its proclaimed tasks of winning peace abroad and rebuilding the foundations of our national life at home.

"The growing strength of the free world, coupled with the desire to reach just and honorable agreements, has reduced the possibility of international conflict. .

"During 1954, we intend to build further upon the good foundations already laid. We shall continue to strive for peace by every means in our power."

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday the international scene "is not devoid of signs of hope for the fulfilment of our ideals of peace and prosperity for all mankind that is our continual prayer."

He made the statement in a written New Year's message to fellow Canadians.

"Canada, as a growing nation, is playing an ever-increasing role in the struggle for world security. Her voice is being listened to with more and more respect in the councils of the world," he said.

"Soon I shall be leaving on a tour around the world. I am confident that I shall be speaking for all of you in bringing greetings from Canada to the countries I shall visit, and in affirming that we are united with them in the cause of peace."

See Fierce Battle Sign Vietminh Plan Offensive

Crack Communist Division Attacks Mountain Fortress

SENO, Indo-China (Reuters)—A crack mountain division of Indo-Chinese rebels today fought a small but violent battle with French Union defenders of Dien Bien Phu, key mountain fortress on the main supply road from Communist China to Laos.

An official announcement said 53 rebels were killed. French losses were "much lighter."

The news renewed speculation here that the Communist-led rebels, camped around Dien Bien Phu, may launch a major New Year offensive against this rice bowl in the northern Tonkin hills and its strongly fortified airfield, to cap the spectacular results of their Christmas drive through central Indo-China.

Some military observers believed the Christmas drive may have been a feint to draw French defenses from the rice area.

REBELS STALLED?

The French field commander in central Laos believes the Communists have stalled, which made the Christmas advance now is incapable of going much further.

Gen. Auber French today said he would like nothing more than for the rebels to launch a full attack the French "and break their teeth on us."

He told reporters at his headquarters at fortified Seno airfield that the Vietminh rebels face two possible moves, retreat to Annam, the way they came, or stay in the hostile, thinly-populated jungle and seek food and recruits.

The rebels drove across the narrowest part of Indo-China—from the coast to the Mekong River on the border of Thailand — over Christmas.

Duke Is Present As Train Crash Victims Buried

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh today visited Karori Cemetery, in the hills on the outskirts of Wellington, where 21 unidentified victims of the Christmas Eve railway disaster were buried this morning.

The duke flew 300 miles from Hamilton with Prime Minister Sidney Holland in a special Dakota. After the flight, the duke drove along a silent route to the cemetery where he placed a wreath of deep red roses, hydrangas and arum lilies with a card inscribed "Elizabeth R and the Duke of Edinburgh."

Crossing to the other side of the main grave after the service, the duke spent 10 minutes talking to relatives of the victims.

More than 1,000 persons had gathered in the cemetery.

The 30-minute service was broadcast to all New Zealand.

Afterwards, the duke returned to the parliament-buildings, where a small crowd was waiting, and had lunch with Holland. Later he flew to Waitomo to rejoin the Queen. The Queen and the duke are celebrating New Year's Eve 12,000 miles from home. Tonight they will stay at a government hostel at the famous Waitomo Caves.

MILLIONS OF LIGHTS

Their visit to Arasul Cave this afternoon was to be limited to only an hour and a half to await the duke's return from Wellington.

Arasul Cave is noted for the delicate tracery of stalagmites and stalactites, and particularly for its vast "crystal palace" where transparent stalactites form huge chandeliers.

Tonight the royal party will also visit the glow-worm grotto by boat on an underground river. A boatman will pull the boat into the cave by a rope. Both the Queen and the duke will be asked not to speak as they enter the glow-worms are easily disturbed.

Tomorrow the Queen will see one of the world's rarest sights—millions of tiny lights twinkling in a canopy of fantastic beauty.

Friday the royal party moves on to the Rotoru region.

Rash of Layoffs Attributed To Many Factors

NEW YORK (AP)—A rash of layoffs in U.S. industry has been attributed to cancelled government contracts, inventory cutting by business firms, or slackening consumer buying. Here are some recent examples:

Loss of government orders for tanks is given as the cause for the dropping of about half of the production force by the General Steel Castings Corporation of Granite City, Ill. Similarly, the "stretch-outs" get much of the blame in Akron, Ohio, for the layingoff of about 4,000 workers in rubber factories.

Inventory adjustments are blamed for the cutback of operations at the Fairless works of the U.S. Steel Corp. in Morrisville, Pa., to about 75 per cent of capacity. Bethlehem Steel has tapered off its Lackwanna, N.Y., operations to a similar degree.

Consumer sales slowdown is blamed for recent layoffs in the textile and home appliance industries. The drop in farm incomes, and hence in farmers' buying, caused International Harvester to drop around 14,000 workers in the last several months.

The general business slowdown is blamed by railroads and railequipment makers for their layoffs. Baltimore and Ohio is laying off about 11 per cent of its workforce "as the Pennsylvania will drop some 7,000 by the middle of next month; Erie has cut back about its payroll; New York Central has teamed up some furlough because business is slack; American Locomotive plans to drop about 100.

LAYOFFS REVERSED

Seasonal or short-term layoffs also are being reported. Auto makers have laid off employees during model change-overs, usual at this time of year. Republic Aviation laid off 3,000 while repairing some mills to do a job that so fast that the workers are being called back ahead of time.

The weather can play bob with industries. Drought caused a drop in demand for record players and refrigerators and affected jobs in those industries. Rain washed out a big tobacco crop and that cut job totals in some tobacco-producing plants.

J. B. Rubber laid off workers in its footwear plant at Naugatuck, Conn. One reason, but little else so far this year, hence too little demand for overshoes and rubbers.

However, these layoffs scarcely show in the over-all figures of employment. Usually, the communities affected and to the families without pay checks, statistics about continuing high employment are ironically bitter.

Five Men Dead, Four Missing After Collision

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Two tankers bound from Texas to Philadelphia collided in the fog bound Delaware river Wednesday, killing five of 11 seamen who either jumped or were pitched overboard.

The bodies, four of only 3 aborts and life preservers, were recovered. Coroner C. Everett Kelley said the men died from exposure.

Four men were listed as missing and presumed dead. The collision occurred about 6½ miles south of Wilmington and 25 miles south of Philadelphia. The area for 80 miles from Philadelphia to the Atlantic ocean is one of the world's busiest waterways.

The Atlantic Refining Company, owner of both tankers, said its 19,000-ton ship, Atlantic Dealer, inbound from Port Arthur, Tex., crashed into the 19,000-ton Atlantic Engineer, outward bound from Sabine Neck Castle, Del. The Atlantic Dealer also was a welder a safe anchorage to wait out the dense fog.

One Wife Unable To Supply Water, Several Needed

FEROZEPORE, India (AP)—There is a practical reason for the popularity of polygamy in the Chandigarh area of the Punjab, Education Minister Jugat Narain told a school conference here.

"We live in an area where in some villages water is available only from a distance eight or nine miles," he explained. "In one day one wife can make only one trip and back to the well. One bucket of water is not sufficient for a husband's needs.

"The solution therefore lies in having more wives."

51 PASSENGERS HAVE MIRACULOUS ESCAPE IN CRASH

Plane Flips Over In Emergency Landing

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — A giant four-engined RCAF transport plane with one engine out, crashed during an emergency landing here Wednesday. None of the 51 persons aboard was severely injured.

The RCAF officers were mystified about what caused the huge North Star to flip over, and cause the first major crash at Vancouver's International airport in 24 years.

After turning back from a regular flight from Vancouver to Montreal via Edmonton when one engine failed and icing conditions were met, the plane let down through light rain and mist.

Cpl. R. H. Beach of Montreal, crash truck crew chief, gave this account of the crash:

"We was coming in like a big bird, uneasy about where she was going to set down.

"One wing whipped into the air, snapped off, and tossed the ship upside down.

"It hung there, one wing ripped from the side, and all the doors, for what seemed to be a full minute. Then she settled."

HANG FROM BELTS

It came to rest upside down. Passengers and crew hung from safety belts and the plane slid to a stop in a pool of gasoline.

The 43 passengers, including 10 children and two babies, and eight crew members scrambled through broken windows and a gaping hole in the fuselage.

Meteorites Rarely Hit Humans This Time Man With Tin Hat Got It

By FRANK CAREY

BOSTON (AP)—Meteorites bean someone on earth only "once every 200 years on the average—and even it seems one has struck someone wearing a tin hat.

This indication of how times are getting ever tougher for meteorites came out in a talk before the American Association for the Advancement of Science meeting at 12th meeting ends today.

Dr. H. H. Nininger of the American meteorite museum in Arizona reported that a tiny object having all the external earmarks of a meteorite struck a construction worker "on his tin hat" after first richocheting off a drilling rig.

At least, said Nininger, that's what the man told him. The "beaning" happened several years ago, but Nininger made it public today.

Nininger said he tested the object in his laboratory—and he think it was a meteorite.

Meteorites, believed to be fragments of exploded planets, exist in the millions and are of all sizes, from fine specks to huge masses of iron and still fewer are recovered. Some 10,000,000 a day are consumed in the atmosphere.

He says you're worried about getting hit, Dr. Fred L. Whipple of Harvard, an expert on the subject of meteorites, told a reporter.

"Meteorites that reach the earth are mostly very small, some as small as dust particles, but a couple have hit the earth that were big as apartment houses. Fortunately all the large ones have fallen in uninhabited places.

"Only one person out of all the people on earth is struck by a meteorite, every 350 years on the average. There's one unconfirmed report that a monk was killed by one back in the 15th century. Injuries, even they have occurred, have been slight."

Peace Hopes Spark Gay Celebrations for New Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The gayest and biggest New Year's Eve celebrations since the end of the Second World War were in prospect in many of the great cities of the world tonight—sparked by the hope that peace will have a better chance in 1954.

In Moscow, the sales of champagne tripled in comparison to last year's holiday period. In North America, theatres and night clubs expected the greatest crowds of the postwar years.

And many planned to gather in churches for watchnight services bidding farewell to the old year and praying for a new decade of peace and prosperity that 1953 did not assure.

Only 900 miles from the north pole, at Thule, Greenland, the men at the most isolated United States base will be entertained by Arthur Godfrey and 11 of his entourage. Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott, Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commander of the strategic air command, and their wives flew there Wednesday night with the Godfrey group to greet 1954 with the airmen so remote from homestyle holiday festivities.

Despite estimates that it would cost most of the $100 bill at New York's swankier night spots to see the old year out, most managers expected to hang out the standing-room-only sign early. The city's eight clubs, taverns and hotels took out 3,402 special "all night" permits to let guests tipple past the regulation 4 a.m. deadline. It was the greatest number ever issued.

TIMES SQUARE CROWDS

Police prepared for the traditional midnight turnout in Times Square. Last year the crowd was estimated at 200,000 people, one of the smallest in years, perhaps due to its television coverage.

Elsewhere in the United States traditional parades were in the offing. Miami, Fla., prepared for one tonight, the 20th annual orange jamboree down palm-studded boulevards.

Philadelphia mummers are also busy getting ready for their annual march in comic dress Friday. Across the continent, fashionable throngs put on 59 flower-decked floats for the annual New Year's Day tournament of roses review.

Some 412,000 U.S. sports fans already have paid an estimated $1,722,000 to watch nine football New Year games on New Year's Day. The daddy of them all, Pasadena's Rose Bowl, will draw the biggest crowd, just over 100,000 fans to see Michigan State meet UCLA.

Vodka and champagne will flow freely tonight in Moscow. There will be countless parties in hotels, "palaces of culture" and workers' clubs. Big restaurants, like Moscow Hotel Metropole, have been booked out for months at 140 rubles (roughly $35) per person. That includes dinner and champagne.

TRAIN PASSENGER HELD FOR MENTAL EXAMINATION

PEMBROKE (CP)—A man who said his burning cigaret started the railway sleeper fire that took one life early Wednesday is being held here for mental examination.

Police said that Charles Faucault of Noranda, Que., told them: "The devil started when I went to sleep with a cigaret." He kept repeating it as he was questioned.

Faucault and 17 others escaped into sub-zero darkness from the blazing Pullman at the rear of the Canadian National Railways' westbound transcontinental flyer, braked to a stop one mile west of this town 100 miles northwest of Ottawa.

The burned body of Dr. H. A. Collins, 61-year-old Ottawa physician, was found huddled in the end of the car after it had been towed back to Pembroke and the flames extinguished by local firemen.

Faucault, held for questioning by police, was charged under a section of the Mental Hospitals Act. appeared in court and was remanded for mental examination.

HEARD SCREAMING

Conductor Frank Pink of Halleybury, and Montreal porter Joseph Henry Butler, who broke into Faucault's sleeping compartment at the front of the car after hearing noises. They found him screaming beside his burning mattress.

It was 2:05 a. m. and the train had just pulled out of the Pembroke station.

The fire spread from the compartment down the green nigh curtains towards the rear of the car as the conductor and porter hastened the sleeping occupants. They crowded to the rear of the

Barbara Hutton Weds Diplomat But Retains Control of Millions

NEW YORK (AP)—Heiress Barbara Hutton and international playboy Porfirio Rubirosa exchanged marriage vows, but the bride apparently intends to retain firm possession of her five-and-a-half-billion-dollar millions.

Miss Hutton and the Dominican Republic diplomat were wed Wednesday in a 10-minute civil ceremony, making it the fifth marriage for Miss Hutton and the fourth for Rubirosa.

The slim, pale, 41-year-old bride was all smiles as the wedding rites began, but toward the end she became visibly nervous. Rubirosa, 51, was handsome and composed, put a comforting arm around her.

SON IS ATTENDANT

The marriage was performed by Dr. Joaquin Salazar, Dominican consul general, in his Park Avenue apartment. The bride, a black taffeta dress contrasting with her blonde hair, was attended by her 17-year-old son, Lance Reventlow, her only child.

Rubirosa previously was married to Flor Trujillo, daughter of the Dominican Republic's first family; French actress Danielle Darrieux; and Doris Duke, heiress to a tobacco fortune.

Miss Hutton formerly was married to the late Prince Alexis Mdivani; Count Kurt von Haugwitz-Reventlow; actor Cary Grant, and Prince Igor Troubetzkoy.

Rubirosa became a citizen of the Dominican Republic to go through the ceremony under Dominican law. A New York official said, however, that without a New York divorce decree Miss Hutton's marriage ceremony is open to legal question as far as state records are concerned.

KEEPS OWN MONEY

At a hectic press conference in her Hotel Pierre suite prior to the wedding, Miss Hutton answered, "certainly," to a query if her considerable fortune would remain in her own hands.

During the interview Miss Hutton appeared distraught at times. Once she burst into tears.

"Do you think anyone will give him credit for loving me because I'm myself?"

Rubirosa said Miss Hutton brought into his life "something grand."

Statements by actress Zsa Zsa Gabor that Rubirosa asked her to marry him within the last week brought this retort from Rubirosa: "It's a publicity stunt."

Asked to comment on Miss Gabor's assertions, Miss Hutton replied:

"I'm terribly sorry, I don't know her. I happen to be a lady."

Did she expect her fifth marriage to last?

"I wouldn't try if I didn't think so."

Napanee Truck Driver Burns To Death in Cab

KINGSTON (CP) — A Smith Transport truck, Jacobs-E. White-Napanee, was burned to death this morning when his careering transport left the road, overturned into the ditch and caught fire. The accident occurred on Highway 2 west of Kingston on Highway 2.

Henry Butler, who was forced to take the ditch to avoid being struck, said that the left wheel broke on the tractor-trailer outfit seemed to go out of control as it swung around a bend. After veering down the road toward him, the vehicle finally ended up in the north ditch.

Neither Butler or a passenger in his car were injured. They were taken to Kingston.

It is thought that the transport driver was rendered unconscious in the crash, and so was unable to save himself.

Three Girls Saw Silvery Object In The Sky

Three public school girls playing in a backyard late this morning saw something in the sky they believed to be "a flying saucer." Gail Clapp, 14, Sherrill Beeby, 11, and Margaret Pugh 12, were playing behind Margaret's home, 37 Dunbar Street, just before noon when they saw the object high in the sky over what they guessed to be Oak Hills.

According to Margaret, first discovered they had of the "silver disk" were extremely hazy due to its height. She said it dropped lower and the girls were able to get a better look. Margaret described the object as being silver and circular in shape. Finally it arose straight up into the air again, sweat making a sound, and disappeared from view.

Squadron Leader Wood, Command Public Relations officer at R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, said the object was, "probably another one of those flying saucers." The Air Force had no report of any aircraft overdue or in that area.

Two Americans Tell of Ordeal In Red Prisons

BERLIN (AP)—Two Americans released by the Russians after years of forced labor in Siberian coal mines said today that Soviet detention camps are filled with soldiers and civilians and violent death are commonplace.

Leland Towers, 38, a merchant seaman from San Francisco, told a press conference he had been a card-carrying Communist "but never again."

Homer Cox, of Oklahoma City said he was blown off the aircraft carrier Yorktown before the Japanese sank her in 1942 "and that was a picnic" compared to the Russian work camps.

The two men were turned over to the Americans in Berlin two days ago following negotiations.

VISIT NOT APPRECIATED

Towers said he had tried to get the Soviet Union to see what the mainspring of communism was like, and had been refused a visa. He crossed into Russia over the Finnish border in 1951 and was arrested, convicted and sentenced to three years "for breaking in."

Ex-sailor Cox, a military policeman in West Berlin, said he was apparently "drugged" in a cafe the night of Sept. 5, 1949. When he awoke he was in Russian hands. He said they gave him 53 years after a quick trial on charges of being part of an "intelligence" organization, and suspicion of having stolen a Russian officer.

MANY FOREIGN CAPTIVES

Both men said they saw many foreigners in various work camps in the Soviet Union. Cox said these included two American soldiers once stationed in Germany and six other soldiers from the Austrian occupation forces.

Cox said he worked in a coal mine at the infamous Vorkuta camp.

"Every day somebody died," he said. Some were machine-gunned by Soviet troops for lagging. Others were victims of accident. Fights broke out constantly and some resulted in fatalities.

Farm, Woodland Life Depicted In Color Film

"Missouri Story" an exquisite color film portraying the farm and woodland life in the foothills of the Missouri Ozarks will be presented personally by the photographer, Dr. Alfred G. Etter at the Belleville Collegiate Auditorium early January under the sponsorship of the Quinte Field Naturalists Club.

Throughout this magnificent film with its rural charm and all the quaintness of a Currier and Ives print, the relations of living animals and plants of the woodland and farm tell of the dramas that fills the lives of all wild creatures.

Dr. Etter, an officer in a photographic unit in the U.S. Army Air Corps, further enriched his photographic experience when he joined the Conservation Service, Inc. to the Gold Coast and Eritrea. Then he was transferred to Missouri, his birthplace, where he began his color motion picture which culminated in the beautiful film, "A Missouri Story."

He holds a degree in geology and his Ph.D. degree in botany, both from Washington University in St. Louis. He is now Resident Director of Research on the Washington University Farm at Clarksville, Missouri. Having served as a consultant biologist on the Missouri Water Resources Policy Commission and in a Ford Foundation study in ecology in a New Mexican valley, he has a scientific experience that makes him a highly popular Audubon Screen Tour lecturer.

Fire Destroys Farm Dwelling Near Deseronto

Believed to have started from a chimney fire, the large brick and frame farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Clement, 3½ miles east of Deseronto on No. 2 highway, was completely destroyed by fire Wednesday evening. Flames from the spectacular blaze could be seen for miles and attracted a large crowd.

The blaze was discovered about 10.30 and had gained a considerable start before it was noticed. Napanee and Deseronto fire departments answered the alarm but were too late to save the farm dwelling.

Neighbors and passing motorists were able to save practically all the Clement household possessions but could do nothing to control the flames. The Clement barn and the residence of the Maddens family, next neighbor, were nearby but were not endangered by the flames as the wind was in the opposite direction.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement have three children, a 14-year-old boy and two younger girls.

No estimate of the fire loss was obtained.

Central Mortgage Moving Office To Belleville

TRENTON (Special)—Mayor R. E. Whitley said last night, that he was sorry to hear that Central Mortgage had moved their office from the Weaver building at 71½ Dundas Street to a location in Belleville. He suggested writing a letter asking them to stay in Trenton. One of his councillors told him that they had already vacated the premises. Another councillor felt that there would be no sense in trying to get them to return since the matter was in the hands of the Federal government and too late for any approach. Trentonians now seeking information from Central Mortgage will have to take their business to Belleville. Incidentally the mayor said that Belleville would have had a Central Mortgage office before.

Mayor Whitley received on behalf of the town a Centennial year gift from local artist Arnold Morgan to be present in the form of a local rural farm scene was in the form of a setting in the Frankford area. Mr. Meyers asked that the piece hang in the council chamber until a place has been secured.

Bell Telephone company has suggested that the town bear half the cost of moving a pole across a road in obstruction at the Henry Street and McColl intersection. The obstruction to the ratepayers would be $30.

MAYOR-ELECT ATTENDS

Mayor-elect Ross Burt attended the meeting. It was the only outsider present excepting two members of the press. Mayor Whitley invited Mr. Burt to a chair at his right hand. Mr. Burt was called upon from time to time to voice his views on varied questions.

Mayor Whitley suggesting mayor should drive three extra blocks everytime he wants to go home. He remarked it is doubtful if the authorities will be that obliging with new chief magistrate. Police have the jurisdiction over traffic control at the intersection of Queen Street since the part known as Burtt's Hill was made a one-way street. The town engineer Reid Clark explains that the sign could be placed halfway up the hill as an accommodation to Mr. Burtt but trouble with the drivers entering the thoroughfare and those that had to travel around after travelling part way along the incline.

The inaugural meeting for the mayor and council elected will be held in the town hall on the market square at 11.00 a.m., Monday, Jan. 4th at 9.30 a.m., there will be a caucus meeting to organize.

Firemen Played Santa Claus To 225 Children

Belleville city firemen played Santa Claus to 225 children at Christmas time, it was reported today by Fire Chief Gerald Vance. Each of the children whose name Santa may not have otherwise been visited by Santa received treat bags of candy, soft drinks and oranges and in addition many of the children received hockey skates and boots, hockey sticks, mitts, sleighs or toboggans, while the girls came in for their share of dolls and doll carriages.

Throughout the fall season firemen accepted donations of toys, then just prior to the Christmas season other toys were collected as admission at a special children's show at the McCarthy Theatre and turned over to firemen.

"The 225 kiddies were well looked after," Fire Chief Vance said. "In many cases they were better looked after than they would have been had their families made the presentations."

Lists of children to receive gifts from the toys obtained from various city organizations and then the families were investigated by firemen to determine if the children were to be forgotten by Santa at Christmas time.

Babson's Forecast for U.S.

First Half of 1954 Will Be Fairly Good Says Economist

By Roger W. Babson

I do not now believe in the theory of most economists —that business will fall off 10% in 1954, with a greater decline in net earnings. My feeling is that everyone will unite forces to hold up business, at least during the first half, to its approximate 1953 average. This can be done by expanding research, increasing advertising appropriations, extending further credits, and obtaining labor's co-operation.

But, I say something much more important than the above; namely, if business should slump 10%, the decline would probably not stop at 10%. Too many business concerns and individuals are working on a very narrow and slim margin. The decline in employment, with resulting business losses which a 10% decline in gross would cause, could result in millions of families being unable to pay their bills and installment obligations. This could set off a chain reaction, which could send business down 10% to 30% more, with a correspondingly decline in the stock market, commodity prices, and real estate. In this latter case, the Eisenhower Administration would suffer as did the Hoover Administration.

In view of this possible serious alternative, I have contacted the leading newspaper publishers as to the attitude of their respective communities. Of these, over 97% have replied that their communities are prosperous and want to liquidate; 297 communities are discouraged and want to buy and invest more; 643 are now optimistic and want to buy and invest more; and 1,000 are content and in a strong position, but are waiting until they see how 1954 develops. Due to the results of this survey, I believe the chances are ten to one that at least the first half of 1954 WILL BE FAIRLY GOOD.

Below are 25 definite possibilities which, in any case, should prove correct for the first six months of 1954. My second 25 and my second six months will appear in this paper next June.

1. There will be no world war in the first half of 1954.

2. The Dow-Jones Industrial Stock Average will be less on June 30, 1954, than on January 1, 1954.

3. Taxes will be lowered by expiring laws.

4. The price of most commodities will be lower on June 30, 1954.

5. The Eisenhower "Honeymoon" is fast ending and he will have a hard time controlling Congress during the next six months.

6. Retail sales can be kept up by manufacturers and merchants spending more money on advertising, selling, and developing new products.

7. The U.S. population will continue its present growth and the best prospects for sales in 1954 will be the "teen-agers."

8. Interest rates during the first six months of 1954 should average about as at present, except on the renewal of low-rate loans.

9. Farm lands, except near cities, will sell for less during the first half of 1954, when farmers' profits will begin to decline.

10. The Central and Southwest will not suffer drought as in 1953.

11. There will be more fear of World War III as years go by. People will gradually move out of certain large cities. Nearby farm land will be split up. A rise in the price of such fringe farms land is certain.

12. The U.S. Government will give less money to the European and other nations direct; but will help them through the United Nations.

13. There will be fewer employed next June —the total take-home-pay will be less—during June. This, however, may be a good thing for the morale of the nation.

14. The present administration will suffer much opposition to attempts to reduce tariffs if profits decline or unemployment increases.

15. The administration and the labor leaders will try to have the Taft-Hartley Bill during 1954; but bad strikes are coming.

16. I am no weather prophet, but experts expect a warmer winter for the eastern portion of the U.S. and a colder Florida.

17. Canada will continue to boom during the first half of 1954, but this may be a good time to take profits on Canadian investments.

18. The above may also apply to Southern California and its airplane and movie industries. Both may have reached their peaks for the present.

19. Automobiles will be harder to sell and easier to buy during the first half of 1954. Both the automobile stocks and the cars will be in less demand. There will be more bargain cars, discounts on new cars, especially cars of the "independent" manufacturers.

20. Florida may have killing frosts during the next few months. This will cheer up California, Arizona, and Texas.

21. The Korean situation will remain as is —as the Chinaman says, "much talkie, no shootie."

22. There will be one or two resignations from the Eisenhower "businessmen's Cabinet," replaced by "politicians." All is not going too well. The President is not used to being pressured by jobbies.

23. The first half of 1954 should be your best time to get out of debt or at least reduce your debt. Remember that most bankers are in the business of "lending the umbrella when the sun is shining, and calling them in when it rains." Moreover, you cannot blame them because the umbrellas really belong to the depositors, who also will want them on rainy days! Operate so you can clean up bank loans once during 1954.

24. The companies which will prosper most are those which have inaugurated effective labor-saving programs. Most manufacturers are learning that they cannot beat labor through mere strikes. They are winning only as they purchase new labor-saving machinery, spend more money on research and on well-directed advertising.

25. There may be some further inflation in 1954; but percentage-wise to the total national output it should not help the stock market.

Licence Plates Go on Sale January 2nd

TORONTO (CP)—J. P. Bickell, registrar of the Ontario motor vehicles branch, says 1954 motor vehicle licence plates will go on sale Jan. 2 in branch offices and Jan. 4 at the Parliament Buildings.

The numbers will be blue on a white background, the reverse of the Coronation year's white numbers on a blue background.

There will be no change in the numbering system, he said. Some low numbers will be issued.

The Quebec government announced that numbers on plates in that province will start at 2,001 to eliminate criticism that "low numbers" are a sign of political favoritism.

Nine Driven Out Of Sarnia Home In Cold Weather

SARNIA (CP)—Three adults and six children were driven out into the cold of the early morning of the New Year Wednesday night when fire destroyed their partially completed home in the Bright's Grove section of Sarnia.

Gesele Lacasse, 22, was rescued by her fiance from the fire. Edgar Crowley, owner of the house, passed his six children, ranging in age from one to six, out a window to neighbors.

Furniture and clothing, including Miss Lacasse's wedding dress, were destroyed and damage was estimated at $15,000. Firemen said the wedding, set for Saturday, would have to be postponed.

Miss Lacasse worked as a housekeeper for Mrs. Chevalier.

The fire believed to have started around wiring in one bedroom.

51 PASSENGERS

Firemen and crash truck members, alerted when the pilot radioed from Penticton, B.C. that he was turning back, doused flames from a sheared-off engine before they could spread to the pool of gasoline. . .

The pilot of the big 426 transport squadron plane at Dorval, Que., Flt. Lt. John Ross of New Westminster, B.C., and Dorval was one of the most seriously injured.

Pulled from a hole in the nose by crash crews, he suffered a cut head and abrasions.

Most severely hurt was airwoman Pat McHugh of Hamilton, Ont. She suffered abrasions and shock but was reported in good condition.

ENDING HOLIDAYS

Most of the passengers were returning to Eastern Canada after spending Christmas at the Coast. Some were Italians from Hamilton.

The crash, which wrecked the giant plane when it slid to a stop from a landing speed of 100 miles an hour, was the first crash of an RCAF North Star in three days.

A sister ship crashed Sunday while landing at an Aleutians airfield while ferrying troops home to MacDord Field, Wash. Eight persons aboard also escaped injury.

Wing commander D. C. Edwards of 435 transport squadron in Edmonton, special investigator in the cause of Wednesday's crash.

Five-year-old Linda Taylor, daughter of Cpl. and Mrs. Harry Taylor of Edmonton, escaped unscathed by the passengers felt.

"It came down and all fell to pieces but I wasn't frightened."

Her three-year-old brother, Rod, rode out the crash in the tight grip of his mother's arms.

Threat of Severe Cold In Southeastern Ontario Eases

TORONTO (CP) — That threatened polar bear weather is going to stay out of southern Ontario after all.

The word from the weather man today was that a flow of warm air, moving east and south from the Minneapolis - Duluth region, promises moderating temperatures, followed by a comparatively mild spell tonight. Another low pressure area headed east should send the thermometer up again New Year's Day.

FEARED THE WORST

The forecast found southern Ontario residents bracing themselves for what they had expected would be perhaps the coldest weather in years.

They knew Armstrong in northwestern Ontario had reported 37 below zero. Lows Wednesday elsewhere in the north ranged from 48 below at White River, 43 below at Kapuskasing, 15 below at Sault Ste. Marie, 19 below at Timmins, 14 below at North Bay to two below at Muskoka airport.

The authorities feared the arctic air would roll down to freeze the marrow of such areas as the Toronto district where the normal temperature at this time of the year is a low of 20 degrees above zero and a high of 32 above.

CRITICIZE PREPARE

In Toronto and other cities along the lower lakes, residents anxiously awaited the subway cars, fuel oil radiators, dug out engine block heaters, took a look at the coal bin and the fuel oil tank, hunted up their heavy overcoats and mufflers and waited for the invasion of the piercing cold.

The forecast called for an overnight low of zero in Toronto and about five degrees lower in the suburbs. In Toronto, zero feels a good deal colder than 20 below in Sudbury or 30 below in Muskoka Lake.

But the temperature didn't plummet. At 9:30 p. m. the weather office at suburban Malton said in a bulletin:

"Southern Ontario's clear cold weather will be interrupted by some cloudiness and occasional snow on Thursday as a weak disturbance moves through central Ontario tonight and Thursday."

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotary Club Hears Detailed Report On 'Variety Clubs of The World'

CAMPBELLFORD — The Rotary Club was privileged to hear Gordon Lewis, Davidson, barrister of Toronto, and one of the executive members of the Variety Variety Club, as their guest speaker, this week.

Mr. Davidson gave an interesting speech on "The Variety Clubs of the World." He told how the "Variety Club" originated in Pittsburg, Penn., on 14th January, 1927, and how it has grown from 11 men in different cities in America to a world wide organization of over ten thousand, with "Tents" in 13 major cities.

EARLY WORK.

For the first year, they were just an organization, dedicated to helping their less fortunate brethren in the sheet metal trade, but their first banquet on Armistice Day, 1928, they rented the only available space to be found, the grand ball room of the William Penn Hotel. Here they staged a huge indoor circus, complete with big top, circus acts, side-shows and all the accessories. Their program cover was a sketch depicting a typical circus barker with a big body clad in frock-coat, vivid vest, slacks, spats, silk hat and sporting an enormous stud on his shirt front. This became the club's trade mark, lapel piece and standard bearer of Variety Clubs of the World representing its strength. His diamond told the world that the reputation of organization, he was doing well, and his great bulk of a body was necessary to hold the heart of show business.

VARIETY SUCCESSES.

Following are some of the various successes obtained since Variety first started 25 years ago:

1931 number of Washington, D.C., established ten preumatic tube stations for Children's Hospital, Washington, resulting in a reduction of the death rate of prematurely born babies from 60 per cent to 30 per cent.

1932 Variety in Philadelphia, established the care of all child victims of their infantile and "spastic" paralysis within the city.

1933 Variety in Dallas, Texas, have undertaken three worthy projects. A boys' ranch for underprivileged boys, a baby home for foundling babies, and the Freedman memorial clinic for the Dental Clinic, children of any color, race or creed, receive medical aid and treatment, never refused.

1934

The erection of the Heart Hospital on the grounds of the University of Minnesota was founded by Tent 12 of Minneapolis.

The colorful and capable Variety Club of Cincinnati, Ohio, renames high in the hearts of the American people with their Variety Children's Cancer Research Foundation. They established treatment, care and diagnosis of children with cancer on such a high and thorough plain that their work is recognized throughout the nation.

VARIETY VILLAGE.

In the vosten of variety no tent has done an outstanding a job as Tent number 28 of Toronto and the only one in Canada. Their Variety Club of Toronto was incorporated in 1946, and they completed upon it's formation endeavored to find a useful place in which they could devote their time, energy and money.

After considering a number of projects) they decided that the only project that would be covered by Variety Clubs International was one that gave the underprivileged children an opportunity to be self-subsisting, self-supporting and self-respecting by teaching him to take his place in society.

The club built Variety Village at the intersection of Danforth Avenue and Victoria Park, just outside the city of Toronto. This village is unique in Canada and is valued at over half a million dollars. It is now operated about $60,000 annually to maintain it.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Ted Miller and was thanked by Rotarian Fred Rutherford.

Hope to Clear Up Huge Backlog Of Canned Salmon

VANCOUVER (CP)—A two-year-old headache, a huge backlog of canned salmon, is going to almost a memory to the British Columbia salmon canning industry.

When the 1954 canning season begins, packers expect to have a carryover from the 1952 pack of only 100,000 cases of the fine Sockeye, compared to 700,000 surplus cases piled up in 1951.

Easing the headache are increased prices in the British market and the sale of possibly 200,000 cases during market-developing in western Europe; a shortage of pink salmon in the United States and Alaska catches this fall; and combined lower prices and higher consumption in the Canadian market.

Most of the backlog piled up because it was a particularly good year for fishing and there was no shortage of fish faced with a dollar shortage.

Prices on one-lb. cans of sockeye, prospects for selling a good deal of the remainder of the possible 100,000-case carryover, a poor good, packers believe.

Packers are hoping for selling 200,000 cases on the U. S. market this year. The consumption of Alaska-U. S. pack is estimated at only 1,500,000 cases this year, compared with a high of as many as 10,000,000 cases.

B. C. canners' biggest problem is the boosevelt's delicate.

Prices are down from a wholesale price of $33 a case in 1951 the price has fallen to $30 a case, with some companies reported selling at even lower levels.

MARMORA

Wellington Wins Valley Pre-Season Hockey Title

MARMORA — Pre-season Trent Valley hockey was wound up at Marmora on Wednesday evening with the final battle being between Wellington and Marmora, victory going to the visitors by the score of 8-6, after 10 minutes overtime. The result came as a surprise to the fans since at the end of the second the homesters were leading 5-1 as they went into the third, they seemed to lose their effectiveness and Wellington made up their arrears in five minutes. Bone and Graham scored twice for the winners, Cousins, Bryant, Day and Sharpe each getting a goal. Jones led the scoring for Marmora, getting two goals and an assist, Jones, Smith, Hall, also and Brooks and Parsault the other marks.

The game was handled by T. Cousins and F. Stewart of Belleville and was viewed by approximately three hundred fans.

At the close of the game, Joseph Scott of Wellington presented the cup to Roy Wellington, which was donated for the competition by Bruce Smith of Belleville.

Charges Sultan Had Her Husband Whipped to Death

MEKNES, Morocco (Reuters)—A woman has accused the former sultan of Morocco of having her husband whipped to death because he made love to the sultan's favorite harem girl.

She named Sidi Mohammed, recently deposed by French authorities, as her husband's slayer.

Police opened an investigation. They received a letter from the body of a man whom the woman identified as her husband. The body bore marks of a severe whipping.

The man, named Belkhir, was a servant at the sultan's imperial palace here. He disappeared in August, 1943.

WIFE HAD SUSPICIONS

His wife, one of the sultan's children, was long suspicious but reported the matter to the police only after the sultan had deposed and banished to Corsica last August.

Police found that Belkhir fell in love with the harem girl while he was repairing the palace, and reconstruct the affair this way:

Though the sultan had only the four wives allowed him under Moslem law, he had many concubines and entertained "wives" by the hundreds.

One day he discovered that one of the girls in his harem was expecting a baby. He ordered an investigation in the harem and the servant was implicated.

LASHED DAILY

The major-domo of the palace was ordered to carry out the punishment. Belkhir received 11 lashes a day for 10 successive days until he died.

The sultan was accompanied into exile by two wives and two sons. He had about 20 concubines flown to Corsica.

Eight dusky-eyed concubines refused to board this special plane and went home to their families; others left their families and children; families and older, unmarried members of the harem stayed at the royal palace at Rabat-Sale-Salam, now the property of the new sultan.

A TIME FOR CAUTION

If you drive, don't drink; if you drink, don't drive.
Gasoline and alcohol do not mix.
The life you save may be your own.

All are excellent slogans for motorists to keep in mind at any time of the year, but they are especially appropriate during this holiday season. Because today, tomorrow or the day after tomorrow, somebody's relatives will be mourning funeral arrangements for an ex-motorist who didn't heed good advice.

The senseless slaughter of the highways is all the more appalling when it is realized that care, courtesy and attention are all that is needed to reduce this killing to the vanishing point.

The real tragedy of motor vehicle fatalities is that every effort, innocent people are the victims of someone else's careless, thoughtless actions. Another, cautious motorist, in complete control of himself and his vehicle, is nothing more than a target to the intoxicated driver. There is little protection a man can provide for himself when someone else at the wheel of an automobile at him at 30 miles per hour or more per hour. And all the regrets in the world never succeed in bringing a corpse back to life.

Pedestrians, too, are among the victims of that last ounce of alcohol, grimly labelled "one for the road."

There is little anyone can accomplish by giving advice to people who refuse to take it. Nevertheless, at this time, there may be some individuals reading this who will resolve that this year they will take all necessary precautions to keep themselves and their fellow citizens out of the morgue.

CANADA'S CONTRIBUTION IS LARGE

What is the North Atlantic Treaty Organization? Well, one definition could be, "$145 million a day question for every man, woman, and child in Canada's 15,000,000 population."

To be exact, NATO means $2,171,000,000 to Canadians, $1,000,000 more than the estimated price, the equivalent of the Kitimat and Ungava developments, the Ontario Hydro power works at Niagara Falls, the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, the trans-mountain pipeline, and $40 in change for everyone in the country.

Exactly how much aid is can be gauged from the fact that it is more than the amounts being spent by eight other "partners" combined—Belgium, Denmark, Greece, Italy, Luxembourg The Netherlands, Norway and Portugal. These nearly 65 billions spent to date the United States has contributed almost 52 billions, with Britain almost five billions and France slightly more than four billions leaving Canada fourth in the list of world contributors by a whopping margin.

However, one fact superimposed on these figures makes Canada's contribution second only to that of the United States. And it is this. Both France and Britain have received from the United States in aid under the Marshall Plan and the European Recovery Program more in direct assistance than they have contributed to NATO. Indeed, assistance than they have contributed to NATO. Indeed, so generous have been United States grants to France that that country's budgets for the past few years have been balanced only by gifts.

When it is considered that no one has been paying Canada's bills for the present share of NATO expenses can be recognized for the tremendous exceptional progress that is underway and plan of the future to future it is. When Canadians also reflect on the fact that have been operating at a profit on their own in the past 10 years that included an outright gift to Great Britain of one billion dollars, as well as lowered export prices to Colombo Plan, it and donations to UNRRA, they can see why it has become more and more apparent that Canada is a first becomes more and more apparent that Canada is a first rate world power, whose true strength is perhaps matched only by her generosity and the modesty with which she dispenses her bounty.

ACCIDENT STATISTICS FOR TWO COUNTIES

A summary of statistics of motor vehicle accidents for the first nine months of 1953 does not make pleasant reading. Insofar as the accidents occurring within the borders of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties were the responsibility of residents of these counties, those citizens who operate motor vehicles have little cause to congratulate themselves.

The Motor Vehicles Branch of the Department of Highways reports that the number of accidents in Ontario for the period January to September of this year totalled 46,636, an increase of 13.7 per cent over 1952, the accidents reported during the same period in 1952. The five-year average for the period from 1948 to 1952 was 30,172.

Hastings accidents increased during the nine-month period, but not by as much as the provincial average. There were 664 accidents this year, compared to 598 in 1952, an increase of just over 11 per cent. Considering the fact that these heavily-travelled highways, No. 2 and No. 7, traverse the county, the record is not a bad one.

Prince Edward County, on the other hand, had a shockingly high percentage increase. This year there were 135 accidents reported, an increase of 66 per cent over last year's figure of 81. But it should be noted that the 1952 toll in Prince Edward was the second lowest for any county in Ontario, being bettered only by Manitoulin Island.

As far as fatal accidents are concerned, the province's record provides some reason for satisfaction. There was an increase, from 610 to 623, but this increase was one of only 2.1 per cent compared to the increase of 13.7 per cent in the total number of accidents reported.

It is with regard to fatal accidents that the record for Hastings is so poor. In the first nine months of this year 37 persons lost their lives, compared to 10 in the same period last year, an increase of 70 per cent. It is worthy of note that the number of persons injured decreased, from 251 last year to 217 this year.

Prince Edward County, in spite of the large increase in the number of accidents, held the fatalities to the same number as last year, two, but reported an increase of 25 per cent in the number of people injured, 40 this year compared to 32 in the first nine months of 1952.

A learned investigation in the United States reveals that both bacteria and food are necessary to bring about tooth decay, and not just food as was previously supposed. To the satisfied it would appear from that maybe the tooth itself is rather necessary for tooth decay.

Dream-Club

(Memphis Commercial Appeal)

A young business man's disorder has taken the form of a shocking but prosperously planned scheme. What he proposes, bluntly, is an anti-social luncheon club.

In his defence, friends say he is only 23. And he has been an active member of the club, the other, of a high school fraternity, a college fraternity, a college alumni group, the Jaycees, a service luncheon club, the Junior Legion, a sales managers' club, an advertising fraternity, an advertising club, several Chamber of Commerce committees and the men's club of a church.

His unfortunate condition was noted only recently when he requested to put on his name badges at his luncheon club. He has grown steadily worse.

The organization he now is bent on forming would be known as the secret signals, handshakes or the Alona club, a group without other signs of membership. He explains members would be identified only by their general air of unintelligibility.

This pathetic dream-club does not even have a motto. But as a rule of thumb for getting the spirit of Alona, he suggests: "Remember a luncheon club would — don't!"

Here are excerpts from the remarkable list of so-called "general duties" he has drawn up for his club:

Lunch will be served daily in the club dining room from 11.30 a.m. to 2.30 p.m., except at 12.15, Friyrich's hour, when it is enveloped in unreasoning hatred of 12.15 as a time of day.)

Each member will be seated at a table for one. A newspaper will be on each table. Each member will read his newspaper and hate his mouth shut.

There are no first names in Alona. If speech is imperative, members will address one another formally.

There will be no officers, no by-laws, no dues, no notices of meetings, no attendance records. In fact, a record of even 99 per cent of perfect attendance would be ignored, if not frowned upon.

There will be no way to start meetings, no way to end them, no lapel buttons, badges or name tags, and positively no handshaking. Backslapping will result in expulsion.

There will be no group singing, no projects, no committees, and, no speakers. No one will say it is a distinct privilege and pleasure to introduce anyone, for no one will be introduced.

There will be no slogans, no regional, state or national conventions, no awarding of plaques for anything, no father-and-Son days and no photographs or anyone kissing the gavel at any luncheon. There will, in fact, be no gavel.

These excerpts offer only a hint of the terrible confusion which has entered this unhappy young man's mind. They are presented here, despite their deeply sad nature, as a public service and a warning.

As for the young man himself, the future is hopeful. Two of the clubs have formed committees to study his condition and a third has adopted him as its winter project.

Why Subsidize Urge to Learn?

(Saint John, N.B., Telegraph-Journal)

A school in Penkridge, England, has started a refresher course for parents who can't figure out junior's arithmetic problems.

So far, says a dispatch, 30 parents are enrolled.

But it doesn't go on to explain how the children and mothers are so serious to go back to school.

Are they merely concerned over how much junior's allowance should grow each school days and eager to brush up on arithmetic to help them live life's problems of practical questions?

Are they puzzled over why the British colonies in their household budget always strangely add-up to more than their income in Germany?

Or is Junior driving them to distraction with homework problems that he can't do and they can't either?

It is the latter case, then it's not easy to say whether the real source of interest in refresher courses is basically such a good thing as it appears.

If they are prompted by a desire to be more helpful to Junior, then called upon, it's fine.

But if they are prompted by a desire to show him just to keep him quiet, because he can't do his homework, then we are doing him no favor.

All too often the complaint is heard that these are days of indulgent schools and indulgent parents, when children finally go out into the world with only a superficial knowledge of the most elementary subjects.

Not only do they fail to learn what they are lightly studied, according to these critics, but they fail to learn how to think, how to apply their thoughts, how to concentrate, how to work hard.

And in some cases it may be partly the fault of loving parents who were only trying too hard to help.

Vital Links In Industrial Chain

(Vancouver News-Hs aid)

It's a long way from Kitimat, B.C., to Belleville, Ont. Still farther is the distance in miles from Belleville to Georgetown, British Guiana. Yet all three form vital links in a chain of industry which holds great promise for the future of the West Indies. Perhaps the most important word that links all three inseparably is

"British Guiana," writes The Ontario Intelligencer of Belleville, "is a great source of bauxite, the raw material from which aluminum is extracted, and the chief source of supply for giant Arvida works of the Aluminum Company of Canada."

The tiny British colony weded to South America's Atlantic coast will soon, too, be the major supply source for the Atlantic ocean dollar Aluminum Company's Kitimat works in northern British Columbia. The company in Belleville installed the bauxite crushing plant for the aluminum Company's British Guiana works in 1948.

The combined Communist coup in British Guiana could well have repercussions as far as British Columbia's industrial future. It could conceivably threaten the free world of the means to produce what is undoubtedly the key metal in modern defence. It could jeopardize Canadian investments of aluminum's contribution to a rising standard of living in the Dominion.

All such objectives might be furthered if Cheddi Jagan, Reds-in-Ilin's sinister purpose in encouraging Communist activity in Guiana. For, as the Ontario Intelligencer properly points out, British Guiana "is of profound significance to the prosperity of British Columbia and Canada in general."

It is, therefore, difficult to understand why Canadians should do other than murmur, albeit somewhat belatedly, a British lioned phrase "Thank God for the British Navy."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOU CAN!

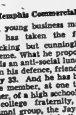
What a little it gives to say of us to have some one else tell us that we have within us that can work wonders simply by putting them to the test. Few people are without some salutory encouragement. Within us all is there plenty of hope for it, and it gets nourishment merely by someone telling us we can.

I came across this paragraph in the writings of Marcus Aurelius. He said "Because your own strength is invisible, do not take for granted that it is beyond the powers of man but if anything is within the powers and province of man, believe that it is within your own compass also."

I like that line someone has said: "He can who thinks he can." That is the reason why so many worthwhile things have been done in this world—people have believed that they could be done and so went ahead and did them. Sometimes we plan to imagine that some power whispered to us that we might learn to pass Failure done!

Each member will be required to attend at least one luncheon club meeting a month. But as a rule of thumb for getting the spirit of Alona, he suggests: "Remember a luncheon club would — don't!"

Here are excerpts from the remarkable list of so-called "general duties" he has drawn up for his club:



Lunch will be served daily in the club dining room from 11.30 a.m. to 2.30 p.m., except at 12.15, Friyrich's hour, when it is enveloped in unreasoning hatred of 12.15 as a time of day.)

Pattern Simple, Purger Purged

(Christian Science Monitor)

Only the intoxication of power could make any man wish to be head of the Soviet Union's secret police. Lavrenti P. Beria has only followed the unvarying course of his predecessors. Any one of his predecessors, if he would give his successor a policy, for the police state pattern is already there. Beria is purged.

Yet any forecast about the Soviet today should be made with caution; too much is unknown. We must about the system draw two tentative conclusions from the latest news.

One is that the struggle for succession probably is not between the purging of Beria and his six sides; can set off a whole series of purges reaching to every branch and twig of the network Beria controlled. No one seems safe with him will be free from suspicion.

A second conclusion holding more import for the outside world, is that since the army was publicly associated with the arrest, Beria had backing — and probably controlling— Malenkov. Behind this power in the Soviet Union would have taken a big step toward the conventional type of military dictatorship. This should mean a shift of emphasis from Communist doctrine to Russian nationalism. It would not necessarily be any less aggressive.

One interesting feature of the Beria trial was the charge that he had been a capitalist stooge for the West. If that were true it would mean that a man engaged in treason for all time had in treason for all time had in reality been a second place in the regime. What a picture of the Soviet today would be made with that statement! How ineffectual! How powerful the Western world treachery! How fearful of subversion!

We doubt if the men who made the charge believe it. But they do not dare to risk another shadow of treachery by rivals for power. That course is inseparable from the system and is bound to weaken it. The lesson for free men is that of the seeker of suspicion in their own society.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When I gave the customary New Year's hail and greeting to one of the waitresses yesterday, she responded so sourly and looked so dejected I took him by the arm and led him into a self-service restaurant for a cup of coffee, (Make mine tea, please.)

Faced with my enquiry she burst into tears and confessed that he was heartbroken.

"They've given me to another department," he said. "Instead of giving me a raise they've moved me. I've served a stranger in my head and stuffed me with it over my head and stuffed me with it over my head and stuffed me with it and have no interest in whatever. I'm not getting anything in return."

"Imagine! Practically on New Year's Eve. I've left my self-respect behind me. The news was broken to me in a letter. Here, look!" He reached inside his coat and handed me a letter. In the envelope was another, sealed envelope.

"Oh, my pay check!" said my friend, taking the smaller envelope from me, and opening it absently as he walked on. He read the brief communication regarding his transfer.

I was still reading it when I observed my friend rising with a look of fear in his face. His face was that of a man who had been hit in the stomach. He sank back into his seat. His face was fire.

flushed. There were tears in his eyes.

"Read that !" he gasped, handing me a small note, written in pen and ink, which had been enclosed in his envelope.

"Dear Bill." it said, "You will notice we have raised your salary another grand by way of a bonus to make a little something up for the new department. You are the worst-tempered man we have on the staff. Please see if you can improve."

"Is that all?" I asked.

"That's all," said Bill, still staring grimly at the check in his hand. "There is always need of grumpy old scorebeds like me."

And he gulped a mouthful of coffee and rushed from the place.

JUST FOLKS

NEW YEAR'S EVE

Never mind the paper cap,
Never mind the baby's rattle,
I don't want a thing to clap
Or a bell designed for cattle.
All I want to greet the new year's
Just a kiss or two from you dears.

I don't want a horn to blow
Or any noisy squeaky things that stretch out.
I can let the old year go Without gadgets some folk fetch out.

Never mind the baby's rattle,
New Year's eve I'll be on hand
When the mingled bells are ringing,
Quietly with you I'll stand
Hoping good for all it's bringing.
My one wish throughout the new year's:
Time will gently deal with you
dears.

All I ask to greet the new year's
Just a hug or two from you dears.

Queen Mary's Death Marred Otherwise Busy, Happy Year For Britain's Royal Family

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The death of Queen Mary tempered British rejoicing in Coronation year.

"Grandmother England," the dignified unchanging woman with the flowered toques, wing-sleeved cape coats and parasol, died March 24 in her 86th year. Death came only a few months before the Coronation ceremony it had been her last wish to see.

Queen Mary had outlived all the queens and kings of English history. Her lifetime encompassed two world wars, six reigns and three epochs, the Victorian, Edwardian and second Georgian periods. Her closest rival in longevity was Queen Eleanor of Aquitaine, wife of Henry III, who died at 82.

The body of the dead queen was borne through the streets of London late in March to lie in state in Westminster hall. A private burial service took place March 31 in St. George's private chapel.

GENERALLY HAPPY YEAR

It was a sad beginning to what was on balance a happy year for Britain's Royal Family. The highlight was the Coronation ceremony in Westminster abbey June 2, a three-hour ritual built around the crowning of young Queen Elizabeth. The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh then embarked on a 2,500-mile tour of the British Isles.

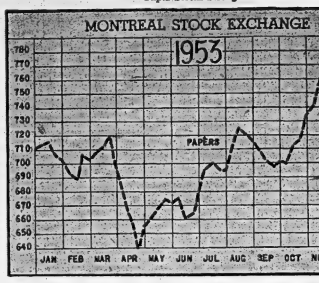
They went first to Scotland, then to Northern Ireland and finally to Wales in a triumphal tour linked to the Coronation celebrations. Happy crowds thronged wherever they went. In the month after the Coronation, it was estimated that the royal couple kept more than 200 public engagements. And there was an even larger travel program ahead.

In November, the Queen and her husband boarded the aircraft Canopus at London airport to start a six-month, round-the-world Commonwealth tour touching at Bermuda, Jamaica, the Panama Canal Zone, Fiji, the Friendly Isles and New Zealand.

The royal couple is scheduled to leave New Zealand for Australia Jan. 30. Other countries on the itinerary included the Cocos islands, Ceylon, Aden, Uganda, Tobruk, Malta and Gibraltar. The tour is to end in London May 15. Shortly after the Duke of Edinburgh is to leave for Canada to attend the Empire Games in Vancouver and visit industrial developments in the north.

It was a quiet year for Princess Margaret. The fun-loving younger sister of the Royal Family seemed more subdued and newspapers spoke of a "new Margaret," saddened by the death of her father George VI in 1952 and that of Queen Mary in 1953. But the spotlight remained on the princess with midsummer reports that she wanted to marry Group Capt. Peter Townsend, a former court equerry and a divorced person. The reports were not confirmed by Buckingham palace.

VISITED NORWAY



During the year Princess Margaret went to Norway to attend a royal wedding and in July, accompanied by the Queen Mother, went to Southern Rhodesia for a 16-day Rhodes centenary tour.

Apart from a visit to Greece, the Duchess of Kent was not often in the public eye. Her eldest son, the Duke of Kent, celebrated his 18th birthday as a member of the British Army, which he joined during the year. His sister Princess Alexandra, 17 on Christmas Day, made her first official tour—a rain-soaked visit to Lancashire mills—Oct. 13, and later went to live in Paris for her final months of grooming before being launched in high society.

The princess, cousin of the Queen, stayed at the country estate of the Count of Paris, pretender to the French throne. Fashion writers predicted that the tall grave-eyed princess may become royalty's new glamor girl when she makes her official debut.

Lady Patricia Ramsay, granddaughter of Queen Victoria who gave her name to Canada's Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, visited Canada in September to renew personal links with the regiment. Lady Patricia's connection with the famous Canadian fighting unit goes back to the early days of the First World War, when she lived in Ottawa as daughter of the governor-general, the Duke of Connaught. The PPCLI was raised in 16 days in August, 1914, under A. Hamilton Gault of Montreal.

Paper Stocks Strongest

Paper stocks were the strongest performers in trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange in 1953. They suffered a sharp decline in March-April but then started a climb which continued with only relatively minor interruptions. — (CP Photo.)

Toronto Stocks Lower

All groups were down on the year in Toronto Stock Exchange indices as compiled from representative stocks. Industrials were showing recovery power at year-end but other groups still had not shaken off the depressing influences that carried them steadily lower during the year. — (CP Photo.)

Canadian Stock Exchanges Go From Spectacular to Dull in '53

By BOB JOHNSTONE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Spectacular and dull, hopeful and discouraging, describe the fluctuating action of Canadian stock exchanges in 1953.

Spectacular refers to the high links of the early year when discovery of base metal and uranium bodie, in New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and Ontario sent thousands of persons on a two-month chase after easy money.

In February, Toronto stock exchange's normal daily turnover of 2,500,000 shares, jumped to above 12,000,000; high-speed ticker tapes five minutes behind the market; and brokerage houses doubled their staffs to handle the flood of orders.

PENNIES SOAR

Penny issues jumped into the dollar class and various speculative stocks added $2, $3 and even $4 in a single session. Some of the amateur traders won, some lost. Some still aren't sure what happened as they hang onto their holdings.

Outside of those early months, market followers spent their time hoping for something to start the market off on a new splurge, and for the most part were disappointed.

Industrials stocks, however, after sinking tendencies for most of the year, did pick up faith in the state of the economy and in October started a slow climb which was continuing to the year-end, with occasional dips.

Papers were a strong feature and, after early-year weakness, climbed steadily until early December, with only one slight falling off since. Textiles hailed a bug decline with announcement of legislation to plug loopholes in anti-dumping regulations.

While on the whole the industrial picture might be considered satisfactory, base metals, western oils and golds took a beating.

CHILE'S COPPER

Stock piles of base metals in various countries kept most metal prices lower. Only late in the last quarter did the United States reach an agreement with Chile about the disposition of that country's copper reserves—estimated at more than 100,000 tons—and some investors remained fearful that the general market would be depressed by this volume, although the agreement aims at restricting its flow onto the market.

Western oils were strong at the beginning of the year, but fell off with delay in plans for the delivery of western natural gas to the east.

Golds were at their lowest level in 11 years as northern Ontario mines were gripped by prolonged strike, and the price of gold declined on world free markets.

In Toronto industrials started the year in the exchange's index at 223.03 and ended around 211, base metals at 184.02, ending around 138; western oils at 124.42, ending around 83; golds at 85.31, ending around 67.

In the Montreal averages, banks started the year at 32.32 and ended around 36; utilities at 91.5, ending around 92; industrials at 208.6, ending around 184; corporations at 169.3, ending around 152; papers at 710.23, ending around 768; golds at 64.02, ending around 49.

Mayor and Golfer Selected Jointly Women of Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A mayor and a golfer have been selected jointly to represent Canada's "woman-of-the-year."

Mayor Charlotte Whitton, 57, of Ottawa and golfer Marlene Stewart, 19, of Penhill, have been named 1953 Hill of outstanding women chosen in a Canadian Press poll by women editors of Canada's daily newspapers. It is the third year in a row that Miss Whitton has been woman-of-the-year.

Others high in the voting include Dr. Hilda Neatby, professor of history at the University of Saskatchewan, and Lois Marshall, Toronto soprano.

CP asked women's editors to choose the year's outstanding women—on a basis of news interest—in sport; literature and art; stage, screen and radio; music; civic affairs and in addition to choose a woman-of-the-year.

DOUBLE SELECTIONS

Miss Whitton and Miss Stewart, selected woman-of-the-year, topped their respective divisions of public affairs and sport.

Other class leaders: Literature and art, Dr. Neatby; music, Miss Marshall; stage, screen and radio, Gisela MacKenzie, Winnipeg-born singer.

Mayor Whitton, executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council for 15 years, has had a distinguished career as a social worker but it wasn't until she was elected to civic office three years ago that she began to win newspaper headlines regularly. She has been given more space in Ottawa newspapers than any other six mayors.

She drew notice in the past year by garbing herself in ceremonial finery—a trimmer hat and a red silk robe with fur facings and cuffs, black satin and gold lace trim and a lace neckpiece—as Ottawa's representative at the Coronation. She also appeared before a parliamentary committee of the Ontario legislature and delivered a 90-minute scathing attack on land speculators and exploiters.

Miss Stewart's major achievement of the year was winning the British women's amateur golf tournament, only Canadian to do it in the 50-year history of the championship. In a year-end CP sports poll, she was acclaimed Canada's outstanding woman athlete in 1953. It is the third year-in succession that she has topped this poll.

She also won the Canadian women's golf championship for the United States amateur golf championship.

BOOK GIVES LEAD

Dr. Neatby led the literature and art class on the basis of her historical and educational book, "So Little for the Mind." She maintains progressive education has failed to meet the needs of our "mental, dangerous, but stimulating age." Dr. Neatby, only woman member of Massey royal commission on arts, letters and sciences, charges progressive education is antiintellectual, anti-cultural and amoral.

Miss Marshall, who also topped the music section last year, added new laurels in 1953 by singing the leading opera parts in Beethoven's Miss Solemnis conducted by Arturo Toscanini over the New York Carnegie Hall. Critics lauded her performance as a brilliant triumph. She was chosen by Leopold Stokowski for the one vocal selection which he conducted from the major concert of contemporary music in Canada since the United States Oct. 16 at Carnegie Hall.

Miss MacKenzie, who headed the stage, screen and radio class, had one of the best years in a career which included when the French-Canadian violinist - turned singer came to Toronto as a scholarship violin student to the Royal Conservatory of Music.

Radio and records have made hers one of the best-known voices in the entertainment field. Not only has she recorded song hits and sung at some of the top supper clubs on the continent but she has become a U.S. television star as featured singer on "Your Hit Parade."

B.C. Working Women to Receive Equal Pay for Equal Work

VICTORIA (CP) —Although a new law says they must, it's up to British Columbia's working women to see that they get the same pay for doing the same work as men.

Under the B. C. Social Credit government's new equal pay act, which becomes effective today, employers may not discriminate against women by paying them less than the amount paid men for doing the same work in the same establishment.

But it's up to the woman to complain if she thinks her pay is less. Complaint is the basis for the new act.

If the female employee feels she is underpaid, she complains to the department of labor, who sends one of 25 inspectors to the plant to check the type of complaint, plant records and also ask employers to adjust the pay scale.

The board of industrial relations and finally the minister of labor are the final authorities if an adjustment is disputed.

ONTARIO LAW SIMILAR

Described as almost identical to a similar act now in effect in Ontario, the law was passed at the last session of the provincial legislature.

The labor department said it has no way of telling how many of the more than 75,000 firms who employ about 63,000 female workers will be affected by the legislation.

Labor department spokesmen said they hope the new law will go into effect without too much controversy, as the Ontario act did. The law does not provide "too much" protection for female employees who complain, identity of the employee would be revealed.

Short on Faults—Long on Virtues

By Mary Moore

Out of the earth, the rose,
Out of the night, the dawn;
Out of my heart, with all its woes,
High courage to press on.

Laura Lee Randall.

Folks are so much better than they are worse that an interesting game could be played perpetually hunting—virtues—instead of the old dismal pastime of ripping people to pieces to find their faults.

Sometimes faults are called short comings. In a short article I ran across last night I found the writer emphasizing what she called "longcomings."

I appealed to me immensely for all of us are eagerly trying to make a go of it. Some of us reluctantly because we hate work. Some doggedly because we have no choice. But by sheer majority the have "longcomings" and carry on because they love people and life.

May I tell you a story?

It is about a woman who was my Sunday School teacher a quarter of a century ago. I seldom if ever mention her in this column for she is too precious—almost too precious to me to share.

But that's not her attitude. The very reverse is true of her. She shares everything.

When she was married her whole Sunday School class was invited to her wedding. For many of them, it was the first time they were wedding guests and I was one of those. An awkward kid in a borrowed wedding suit, but thrilled and brimming to the eyes.

While her husband was still a university student, working his own way through college, she made us all welcome in her new home. One Saturday I dropped in at noon with the obvious excuse of delivering some church papers, but hoping I'd be invited for lunch. I was. We had one big baked potato, and a meat pie complete, served on the simple little platter with hot water compartment underneath that my sister and I had given them. (To this day she never forgets to use, when you are in her home, any little gift you have given her past the years.)

Although I see her only about once a year, she has been the same over the years and now is taking my youngsters on because they are in her city.

This fall we were there for dinner. There were ten people at the table. Dinner was a many-splendorate than the omelette and baked potato lunch of a former year, for her husband is a highly paid executive, and she is an imaginative cook. But they live in the same 7-room house. The dining-room is too small to hold more than ten.

But their surplus money is not spent on fine furnishings. It's spent on food—food to feed the hundreds of friends that years for their companionship.

I believe they could easily afford a $25,000 home and a Cadillac, if their standards of friendly living were not so urgent.

I doubt that she is naive but this conversation makes her sound so. We had asked how (the husband is a junior member of her husband's firm). She said "Getting along! They have a house twice the size of this. I've never seen it because we weren't invited but they say it's beautiful and in perfect order. How other people keep their homes so beautiful and orderly I don't know."

I do. Nobody moves in them. Nobody waits to visit their owners. Order and meticulous cleanliness are more important than friendly — and hungry — visitors. This woman not only gives you good food to satisfy your hunger but she gives you food for thought to satisfy your hungry spirit.

As the old year closes and I momentarily yearn to have the chesterfield recovered, or ache to buy Marianne a mouton coat or Pete a Leica camera, I know I can't afford any of them. But these material possessions lose their glamor, for my friends' smiling faces and the love of my family fill my life to overflowing —all because I think of my constant source of strength that changes folk like Irene. Long on "longcomings" is she.

A choir of heavenly voices will burst their lungs with rejoicing when she comes to heaven's portal.

May your new year be filled with rejoicing and happiness.

GOOD MANNERS

"EXTEND" YOUR NEW YEAR'S GREETINGS

Here . . . there. . . everywhere . . . you'll be meeting your friends these days and saying "Happy New Year!" Don't stop there—remember, there's a charming grace to "extending" your greetings to your friend's family. For example: "Please say 'Happy New Year' to your mother and father for me." Or: "New Year's greeting to Tom, too, from Bob and me."

A LETTER FROM HIS FAMILY ALSO

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter has just become engaged to a young man who lives in Vancouver. I have never met him, and I don't expect to meet him until the week of the wedding here. I know he will be expecting a letter from me soon, for my daughter has told me that she told him that I will write him soon. I find it difficult to know what to write him. Would you please help me word a nice letter to him?

Mother

Your letter to your daughter's fiance might well be something like this (re-worded, of course, to fit the circumstances):

Dear Kenneth:

Elizabeth has just told us the news of the engagement, and her father and I want to tell you how happy we are. Elizabeth has written us such enthusiastic things about you (we almost feel we know you!) your fine character and your charming personality, and of course all of us here are eager to meet you and to welcome you most heartily into our family. We are looking forward to sharing the plans for the wedding, and we want to extend hospitality to you and your family. We'll all make plans for that when the wedding plans are more definite.

My husband and I send you our warmest welcome and our cordial wishes for your and Elizabeth's happiness now during the engagement, and always.

Sincerely,

Mary Robinson

(I do hope that your daughter has received a welcome-into-the-family letter from her fiance's mother and father . . . for actually the first 'social moves' should come from the fiance's family. But when she promised him a letter from you, it was most important that he promise her a letter from his family.)

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THIS IS NOT EVEN "PUPPY LOVE,' BUT A SCHOOLGIRL CRUSH

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 15 years old, a sophomore in high school and have fallen in love with my English teacher. I try to forget about him, but the harder I try, the deeper my love gets.

In class, he is always calling my name, so one time I asked him why, and he said he likes to call my name, and laughed. He also picks on me a lot saying such things as "You wore your new dress and shoes today so I could see how good you can look."

I know you are going to say it's "puppy love," and for me to wait until I get older before taking love so seriously, but it is only "puppy love" how can that kind of love last such a long time? You see, it started way back last year when I first came to high school.

Please tell me whether I should give him up or let him know that I really love him.

D.H.

Dear D.H.:

It's so so-called "puppy love" such as what is known as a crush that you have on this teacher and this is something, as I think you probably know, quite normal for girls in school.

Don't you think it would make you look pretty silly to tell this man that you "really love him?" Just what do you imagine would come of it? You don't really believe, do you, that he's going to fall in love with you and eventually marry you?

What you say of his attitude towards you sound to me as though he were already trying to show you, in a rather crude way I would say, that he is apparently aware of your hero worship and is teasing you about it, possibly with the idea of kidding you out of it.

You ask whether you should "give him up" or tell him how you feel. I've already advised you against anything foolish as telling him—especially when he knows already—and how can you give up anyone you haven't got?

Build this schoolgirl infatuation up as a big thing, if you want to, and call it as long as you like, since it's all a part of being a teen-ager. But keep your emotions within bounds so you'll neither make a foolish exhibition of them now, nor feel upset when your attachment peters out and disappears as it certainly will before too long.

DON'T "COUNT YOUR CHICKENS BEFORE THEY'RE HATCHED"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is a certain boy who likes me very much, but I'm not particularly fond about him.

I do like his friend though, but I don't know whether this friend likes me or not. I want him to, though. I don't want to tell the first boy this for fear I might hurt his feelings.

I would appreciate your advice.

M.R.

Dear M.R.:

I certainly wouldn't dream of telling one boy that you like his friend better than you like him. Not only would his feelings certainly be hurt, but you would also be making a fool of yourself.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

GROOMING THE HAIR

Before the day of bobbed hair and the permanent wave, brushing the hair was a regular beauty practice. One hundred strokes every night—no matter how tired you were!

Since women have been trekking to beauty shops for waves and, however, brushing seems to have gone out of fashion. There is the everpresent fear that too much grooming will weaken the waves that must last from one shampoo to the next. This is a mistaken idea. If the permanent is strong, if the wave is wide and fluid, the daily grooming will give a soft, more natural effect.

The home shampooer, often finding her thatch a tangled mess, must learn to treat the growth gently. A strand at a time should be treated with the coarse teeth of the comb. It is best to start low at one side, go along the base line, up the other. If you start on the crown where the hair is thicker and longer, you are likely to break the delicate shafts.

Comb first at the ends of the strands, not at the scalp. If you have had professional attention you will have noticed that that is the method used by expert operators. With the combing, the brush can be used.

When arranging pin curls form circles of the same size, and see that the ends of the hair are tucked in the center of the circles. If you don't you may have some little sprouty ends here and there which will give your hair-do a scrambled appearance.

When combing the ringlets don't be in a hurry. Hair responds to considerate care. If it is never brushed it will lack lustre. Brushing, if done close to the scalp, tugs at the roots of the hair and aids circulation. Considering the importance of a luxuriant growth, and the appeal that arises the feminine heart when hair starts to thin at the temples, it seems a pity that women do not realize that proper grooming is as important to their health as it is to beauty.

If your conscience is hurting you because you have been negligent along these lines, hunt up that neglected hair brush—if you still have it—and make it a rule to put your pressure to bed every night hereafter in order.

GRECIAN DRAPE — This Grecian-draped white jersey evening dress with golden-bronze cloak, designed by Scots-born Ronald Paterson, newest member of London's "inner circle" of haute couture, was one of the British designs chosen for display in Australia during the Queen's tour. Paterson's Canadian-born wife is a former Canadian newspaper woman, Steven Stevenson. She is working partner in his business and he credits her with much of his success.—(CP Photo.)

Toronto-Born Wife Spurs Fashion Designer to Success

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The newest member of London's "inner circle" of haute couture, Scots-born Ronald Paterson, gallantly gives credit for much of his success to his Toronto-born wife, Stevie.

Mrs. Paterson says she even had to talk her husband into starting his own fashion business.

"Without someone to handle the financial side he would not have done it," says Mrs. Paterson with a laugh. "He refuses even to bother about the prices charged for the clothes he designs."

BIG SUCCESS

Now, in less than five years, this husband-and-wife fashion team has built up a large business. Paterson's name has just been added to the select few who make up the Incorporated Society of London Fashion Designers.

The society, now known as the "Big Twelve," started after the Second World War as a group of such members as Norman Hartnell, Hardy Amies and Victor Stiebel, all three serving the Royal Family. Membership has become the beacon light for all upcoming designers, a coveted seal of recognition.

The Patersons married in 1948 and started the salon in February, 1949. That month it was an uphill fight, and sometimes wondered whether it was worth it.

Mrs. Paterson, who wrote under such names as Myrtle, Barbara and Steven Stevenson, has one nostalgic regret. As the working wife of a foremost couturier she has little time for writing and sometimes recalls with regret days when she wrote for Canadian publications such as Saturday Night. She hopes it won't be long now before she can show Toronto to her husband and four-year-old daughter Candice.

IMPORTANT YEAR

This year will be one of the most important in Paterson's designing career. His spring collection will be the first shown as a member of the "Big Twelve."

The partnership started business with a staff of eight on one floor of a house in London's Belgravia. They now employ 30 persons and occupy four floors. Clients include the young and beautiful Countess of Dalkeith. The clothes they sell are priced from 45 to 200 guineas.

On the designing side, Mrs. Paterson helps her husband with the choice of materials. After wartime service with the Canadian Army in Britain and Europe, she spent her rehabilitation grant studying fabric and the fashion markets in Paris.

Mrs. Paterson joined the army in 1942 and spent some time in Ottawa writing durational precis for army lectures. She later came to Britain and Europe to interview war brides bound for Canada and arrange shipping space for returning troops. In all she interviewed 15,000 brides.

The Patersons strike a Canadian note at home. Their four-roomed mews flat in Knightsbridge west end is hung with five paintings by Canadian artist Pierre de Ligny Boudrion, now in Ottawa.

RAWDON

36 Hymaries, Nylon Union Jack Presented Church

RAWDON—Happy New Year to everybody! A unknown author once penned a card as New Year's message: "I asked the New Year for some message great, some rule of life with which to guide my feet; I asked and pondered, he passed on and low, 'God's will to know'."

On Sunday morning about 70 persons attended the morning service at Mount Pleasant United Church, Mr. Arthur Adam, president of the Two-by-Two Club, spoke briefly. Mrs. Raymond McConnell made the presentation of three dozen United Church hymnaries and Mr. Herbert Smith carried up the nice a nylon Union Jack complete with standard, which was accepted from the club as their gift to the church by the pastor, Rev. R. B. Bonisteel.

Mr. McAdam explained that the hymnaries contained the word of God in song and the flag depicted the love and loyalty of loyalty to Queen and country. The club was pleased to make this contribution to the church in 1953, during his term of office. In receiving these gifts, referred to the spirit of song found in the books and noted that the flag represented traditions that have been cherished by us for many years, standing as it does for freedom, justice and service in a Christian country. The gifts were dedicated with prayer and all sang the National Anthem and "Our Loved Dominion Bless".

Mr. Bonisteel took as a New Year's message on the theme "The New Year Call to Christian unity Downton's hymn of thanks for mercy and grace was sung.

Holy Communion was observed and three elders, Messrs. Ernest Wilson, Harold Crosby and Orra Sharp, and the Sunday School superintendent, Mr. Lindsay McGuire, assisted the pastor in serving the elements.

Almost invariably, the doctors said, one twin outweighs the other.

When kidneys fail to remove excess acids and poisons from the blood, doctors usually call it kidney failure. Don't neglect backache, rheumatic pains, leg cramps, loss of pep, nervousness, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, if these show your kidneys may be at fault and due for quick help. "NEW YEAR"

BY JOHN F. MOMENT

How burn the stars unchanging in midnight skies,
As on the earth the old year dies!
Like leaves before the storms haste our lives away;
Eternal God, to Thee we pray.

For all Thy mercies past we lift our hearts in praise,
Thy care through all our fleeting days;
Our follies and our sins, O Lord, remember not,
Lost hours when we Thy love forgot.

From age to age Thy love endures; Thou art our God
Send now Thy Spirit's quickening flood.
That with the New Year's dawning right may conquer wrong,
Grief yield to joy, and tears to song!

May we take this opportunity of wishing you and yours, health and happiness in 1954 and to thank one and all for your valued past patronage. We look forward to serving you again throughout the coming year.

Rosewall Defeats Seixas To Retain Coveted Davis Cup For Australia

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

AT LONG LAST!

Good hockey performances, like murder, "will out." And that's what happened in Memorial Arena last night when a win-hungry Memos' club, playing one of its best games of the season, once more assumed the role of giant-killer and stopped the surprising Oshawa Truckmen cold in their tracks. The win enabled the Men of the Maize to creep two points closer to the fourth-place Orillia Pontiacs.

Meantime the red-hots from Peterborough handed the fall-ering Kingston Goodyears a 7-5 shellacking down Roddenville way and shoved the Goodies plumb into third place. The Petes are now but four points behind the pace-setting Truckmen.

There was no denying the Memos last night. To give the devil his due "Knee" Deeks's crew were every inch worthy of their victory and the score just about indicates the play. They grabbed a two-goal lead in the first chuckash and went on to win in a marching fashion. They checked like fiends going both ways and seldom gave the vaunted Truckmen front-line shock troops time to get organized. Ted DeCary was one of the best and there and came up with an outstanding effort as did Kelly Sarrault, who was back in the Memo nets. In fact every man on the team played fine hockey and contributed his share to a well-deserved victory.

The victory stopped the Truckmen's four-game winning splurge and incidentally put a sudden halt to a five-game losing string for our side. If the Memos have hit their stride they stand a good chance to hop back up there with the pack since after playing Kingston Canadians away on January 8 they entertain Orillia, Kingston and Peterborough in a row.

"POP" CONCERT

'Twas the day after Christmas — and all through the house,
The noise was terrific — and even the mouse
That daily gives battle to Old Ginger the cat
Thumbed its nose at the Tabby, and boy, that was that.
For the key old Persian, which lives, so it seems,
In feline Utopia (just eats, sleeps and dreams)
Tore in and tangled through kitchen and hall
In respite from what seemed a boiler-room brawl
A riot, a battle, an "Auld Ireland" spree,
Six shiploads of sailors fresh home from the sea.
There were pirates, eye-patched, and Indians drawn,
Cowboys and Injuns, the Kidd's and the spawn
Of Cecil's proud buccaneers, pistols aware
Shooting "stand and deliver, or the sea is your grave";
Then clutching their loot with piratical glee
They tore from the bedroom in unholy spree
And Old Man Alarm Clock at rest on a sill
Wished Edison had murmured, "Go sleep, if you will."
We'd scarce closed an eye then there came a new clatter,
The heelbeats of horses, the "forty-five" chatter,
As we crouched 'neath the blankets, we heard a voice say:
"There is the varmint, he came skimmin'
By "sky-cart" powered somewhere with a "bang",
We opened both eyes and beheld stood the "gang".
There was "Autry" and "Rogers" and Two-Gun Carew,
Hichok and Cisco and Hopalong, too!
King of the Mounted, Lone Ranger and Tonto,
We sat up in bed and we "whisted" the pronto.
Grim "slo-shooter" muzzles stared straight in our eye
As they looked back our feet, then our hands they did tie,
Then with wild shrilling laughter, they climbed on their "mounts"
And with cap pistolads from the room did they bounce,
From the till the alarm clock looked down with a grin,
Seemed to say, "You'll appreciate now what I'VE been."
We sank 'neath the covers both weary and worn,
And dropped off to slumber this fine Boxing morn,
Slumber? don't laugh, for in less than a minute
A bugle rang out, there was dynamite in it!
Then a trombone, a sax, plus an horn and a rattle
And ye gods, a tin drum with a bone-shaking prattle
Surged into the room with an ear-splitting roar
And our rest-hungry bones promptly spilled on the floor.
Rolled under the bed, came to rest near the wall,
And the "band promptly swung into "Marsh in Semi".
Quite feebly we felt for a gun, club or bole
As the John Phillip Sousas each offered a solo,
And when it was ended, they went through the door,
We painfully picked ourself up from the floor
Climbed wearily, dolefully into some duds,
Went down to the cellar and slept with the spuds.

We found it's the least of the Boxing Day joys
When Junior brings in "the gang" with their toys.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Pint-Sized Teen-Ager Crushes 'Nervous' American Challenger To Win 3-2 for 'Down Under'

By Will Grimsley

MELBOURNE (AP)—Ken Rosewall, 19-year-old pint-sized ribbon man, earned the coveted Davis Cup for Australia today by mowing down the depressed Tony Wimbledon champion, Vic Seixas, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the climactic fifth match of the challenge round with the United States.

Nervous as a kitten at first but inhaling confidence as the American fell into the simplest errors, the dark-haired Sydney youngster swept past his opponent in 93 minutes to give the Aussies a 3-2 victory and their 11th triumph since the series started in 1900.

This was the fourth straight year the Australians have beaten off the U.S. in the challenge round. The Aussie victory string spans the post-war competition at four each. The Americans won from 1946 through 1949.

Although neither Rosewall nor Seixas played above-average tennis in the technical sense of the word, it was a good match from a competitive standpoint and for the crowd of 17,500 that filled every seat in Kooyong Stadium.

Right down to the final point there was doubt about the winner. In the 10th game of the final set Seixas whipped into a 40-15 lead on Rosewall's service and seemed about to break Ken's delivery for the second time in a row.

WENT DOWN FIGHTING

But the Australian had the weapons to run it out, although Seixas fought off three match points. He went down fighting, but simply hadn't the stuff to stroke to win.

Spectators gave Rosewall a standing cheer and showered the centre court with cushions. Officials appealed for order but the fans in the Davis Cup mood lutz into wild frenzy and ignored the appeals.

Rosewall deserved everything. The youngster came back from a 2-1 covery and won the Cup litter which forced captain Harry Hopman to bench Mervyn Rose, double. He lost his first singles match to Tony Trabert and was so unlinpressive that he was replaced by Rex Hartwig for the doubles, which the U.S. won.

Ken had one big psychological advantage, and that was that he had beaten Seixas in all their previous half-dozen meetings.

With Rosewall and his fellow 19-year-old, Lewis Hoad, ready to fight off the challenge for years to come, the Aussies are betting it will be a long time before they relinquish the trophy.

This marked the third time in the history of cup competition that a team was able to come back from a 1-2 deficit to win—and on all three occasions the victim was the U.S. The first time was 1928 when France turned the trick. The second time was in 1939 when Adrian Quist and John Bromwich pulled through for Australia.

Yanks Football Illegal Play OK in Canada

By The Canadian Press

The disallowed touchdown play in the United States National Football League final at Detroit last Sunday is legal in the Canadian game, Referee Sam Eckman of Toronto said today.

A confusing situation existed when Detroit Lions' quarter Bobby Layne, operating from the T-formation, handed off to Doak Walker who ran wide and passed back to Layne who went over for a touchdown from deep in Cleveland Browns' territory. Officials said yes, then no, ruling Layne out as an ineligible receiver.

U.S. rules say that in order for a backfield player to be eligible to catch a pass, he must be a yard behind the line of scrimmage when the ball is snapped. Since Layne, a T-formation quarter, was but a yard behind the line of scrimmage, he was ineligible to catch the pass. What is the situation in Canada?

The Canadian Press polled Canadian Rugby Union rules committee members Wednesday and they said the play was legal this side of the border. Here's the consensus:

PLAY LEGAL

Bert Warwick of Winnipeg: "A T-formation man like Layne is definitely a backfielder and therefore eligible to receive a forward pass." He added that sometimes, even coaches, confuse "the line of scrimmage" and the "scrimmage line." The first refers to the "most forward point of the ball" and the scrimmage line the backfield must be at least one yard back of the "line of scrimmage." The quarter is probably two yards back.

Dave Dunlop, Ottawa, chairman of the rules committee: "There is nothing in the rules to prevent a quarter as such from being arcoverer. . . We've always assumed that the quarter is a yard back of scrimmage, anyway." Jack Harvey of London: "CRU rules consider quarters as backfielders and any backfielder may receive a forward."

Billy Foulds, Toronto: "The play is strictly legal by the T-formation quarter, but it is legal."

Hec Creighton, Toronto: "Our rules cover the play thoroughly. It would be a touchdown in Canada."

K. H. Platt of Montreal: "The quarter in the T-formation is eligible to receive a forward. Although the rule book refers to plays as clearly one yard back, this is aimed at those who might be considered as backfielders. He can fade back and throw a lateral, then cross the line or not and take a pass from the man who received the lateral."

Willie Shoemaker Regains Stride

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Shoemaker rode the first four races, jockey champion Willie Shoemaker hit the winner's circle in the last three times at Santa Anita park Wednesday to bring his record total of 388 victories.

The silent sloe sandwiched his first triumph of the day in the day's feature, the $25,000 Breeders Trial Stakes for California-foaled two-year-olds, aboard H. L. Lewis' Lucky Martin at seven furlongs. Shoemaker took Lucky Martin in by a length over the betting favorite, Jimmy Lee James Sealon, with Eddie Arcaro aboard.

Shoemaker won with Horsetrader in the sixth and Concentration in the eighth.

Seven Touchdowns May Decide Five New Year's Bowl Games

NEW YORK (AP)—Close observers figured today that seven touchdowns should decide the five major New Year's Day football games.

Three of Friday's contests, the Rose, the Orange and the Gator, appear close enough that the winning margin in each might be a touchdown or less. The Sugar and the Cotton bowls appear a little more one-sided, although not by more than a couple of touchdowns apiece.

Maryland continues to rate a slight nod over Oklahoma in the Miami Orange Bowl clash between what on paper are the two top-ranking clubs. The Sooners won the Big Seven No. 1 rating in The Associated Press poll. Oklahoma lost its opener by a touchdown to Notre Dame and was tied by Pittsburgh but won No. 1.

Michigan State figures to start in new big 10 winning streak in the Rose Bowl at the expense of UCLA but it isn't nearly as strong a favorite as the midwest club rivals are in California.

The 'Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., finds Texas Tech, highest-scoring major team in the United States, rated over Auburn, another explosive outfit from the southeastern conference.

MAY EXTEND RECORD

Georgia Tech's Engineers should extend coach Bobby Dodd's winning bowl record to five games in their Sugar Bowl meeting with West Virginia at New Orleans.

Injuries have plagued the Cotton Bowl foes, Alabama and favored Rice. Alabama hardest hit for the Dallas meeting.

All five of these games will be broadcast nationally. NBC will carry both the Cotton and Rose Bowls on radio and television. CBS will carry the Orange Bowl on radio and television. ABC will have the Sugar Bowl on radio and television and Mutual will carry a radio version of the 'Gator Bowl. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will televise the Rose Bowl game in Toronto and Ottawa.

The Orange, Sugar, Cotton and 'Gator games start at 2 p.m. EST, the Rose Bowl at 5 p.m. EST.

Junior Goalie Stars In Hamilton Win

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton's 5-1 win over Niagara Falls Cataracts, Wednesday night's Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game was especially important to Bill Riggin.

Because to Denny Riggin, goalkeeper for Hamilton's junior hockey team, it was his chance to show he could hold his own in senior play—and he did.

Showered with a rain of rubber, Riggin held the Cataracts scoreless for 2½ periods, and it was only a lucky shot between his legs by Player lying on the ice that sneaked past him in the last frame.

Riggin was called in when Bost Hurley, regular goalkeeper, reported ill.

In the last period Riggin made a sensational save on Cataracts' Ed Litzenberger, who dove in but in the scramble around the net, Air managed to squeeze puck past Riggin, chalking up the only counter for Niagara Falls.

The win moved Hamilton to within two points of the league-leading Kitchener Dutchmen.

Marksmen for Hamilton were Murray Costello, Billy Hammond, Sam Kennedy, Lloyd Ferguson and Jim Logan.

Hamilton's 5-3 win over Stratford Indians, veteran Tommy Burlington paced his teammates by scoring three goals. Burlington collected two goals and four assists Tuesday night in the Mercury's 10-6 win over the Indians.

Other scorers for Owen Sound were Jaydee McArthur and Jerry Lind. Stratford's goals were scored by Mickey Roth with two, and Herve Dejordy.

The next scheduled games in the OHA race include one when Chatham plays at Kitchener and Hamilton at Stratford, Pembroke visits Sault Ste. Marie, tonight in Northern Ontario Hockey Association action.

Memos Break 5-Game Loss Streak With Impressive 4-2 Win Over Oshawa

Score Twice in First Period And Never Look Backward To Earn Well-Deserved Win

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

For the third time this season, the Belleville Memos dipped deeply into their hockey war-bags, came up with a "Giant-Killer" role and nipped decisively in the bud what threatened to become a lengthy winning streak.

On the second time they halted the pace-setting Oshawa Truckmen on their tracks and they did it in a decisive 4-3 manner. The Memos were full value for their victory at the way and they did it with strength, that separates them from the fourth-slot Orillia Combine.

They climbed on the Truckmen's current victory string at four games and it definitely halted their own loss streak at five. And they demonstrated that somewhere in their collective systems is a brand of hockey as good as that of any team in this sizzling Senior "A" group.

RUGGED BUT CLEAN

The Memos were almost back in full strength with playing coach "Red "Doran and Keith MacDonald still being sidelined with injuries. Eddy Bateman came back in the spot between the pipes after a layoff of two games and came up with a fine exhibition.

It was a rugged hard-checking but clean game with Referees Maurice Walsh and "Moon" Flanagan handling their assignments all of them schoors with five going to the Truckmen.

The Memos stepped into action at a fast clip and maintained the hot pace throughout the entire sixty minutes. They travelled at top speed going both ways and their checking was one of the main factor in their victory. They seldom allowed the Truckmen to organize their defensive system and every man on the team came up with a fine exhibition.

The Doran crew fired home two goals in the opening period while holding the Truckmen scoreless sheet. They maintained their hard checking and darting offensive plays in the second heat and outscored the visitors two to one. Oshawa got the only marker of the third period when they went all out in an effort to whittle the margin.

Ted DeGray scored one of the goals and was one of the best players on the ice. The ex-Oshawan delighted in thwarting play against his former home-towners and his effort was the best the youngster has given this season.

The Duncan twins back again with Dale Doran again turned in a fine collective effort with Erwin scoring two goals and brother Ed drawing an assist. Doug Holden got the other Memo marker on a fine early first-period drive with Vern Goyer and Peter Jones.

The Memos signed to the attack at the opening whistle and lasted Colvin in the Truckmen nets with two hard shots but the Oshawa aware were organized. They maintained the pressure at top speed and nearly Truckmen minutes had filled when Dougie Hull smashed in Peter Jones' pass to open the scoring with Vern Goyer in on the play.

McBeth drew a hooking penalty two minutes later and the Truckmen take advantage of the best defence tore in around the Memos nets with Saturday-Shopping scoring drives. Three minutes later Tommy Schreider and Hopper started a slight breakaway but Bateman was the gate. It was the only instance of roughness in the opening game.

BROKEN UP DRIVE

Just after the halfway mark Jake Wade broke up a Truckmen power drive and his long pass sent Erwin Duncan in alone on goal. The big forward raced in alone on Colvin and his hard drive flashed past the light. Davey Jones drew an interference penalty two minutes later but the Oshawa hard-checking threats.

Playing coach Ernie Dickens of the Truckmen engineered several drives in the second period but the hard bob-way checking of the Memos frustrated and the stubborn defensive work of Wade, Taylor, Schreider and Hopper broke them out until the five-minute mark when Holden blasted the rubber into the net from the coach's pass.

On a return drive Warthaugh missed with a shot in and a minute later Sarrault cleverly thwarted an incoming attacker's drive. Ted DeGray who had been in and out and down the ice at top flight all evening picked up a Bob Taylor pass and rifled the puck past Colvin to give the Memos a 3-1 lead. And with seven ticks to go in the period, Erwin Duncan flung home his second goal of the night on a near relay from brother Edwin.

The Memos continued their terrific pace in the third period and appeared to be out to make the score as high as possible. However the Truckmen played their best hockey of the night in this heat and gave Sarrault and the Memo defence some bad moments. Stoughenke and Samanski came close and at the twelve minute mark he took Dickens pass to reduce the count to four two.

TED DEGRAY
. . .Showed 'Em How!

Doug Hull and DeGray went in alone together on Colvin but each time the Truckmen netminder outguessed them. The Truckers had Sinden in the boxorgar at the moment.

Vern Goyer drew a hooking penalty with five minutes to play on the clock and the Truckmen surged to the attack with the manpower advantage. The Memos defence and stiff backchecking by penalty-killing forwards paid off and time eventually ran out for the Oshawans to leave the hometiers a well-deserved victory.

Bisons Defeat Cleveland Barons To Extend Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons defeated their nearest rivals Wednesday and lengthened their American Hockey League lead to four points.

The Bisons didn't have much trouble disposing of Cleveland Barons 5-3 while, in the other league game, Syracuse Warriors edged Pittsburgh 4-3.

At Buffalo, Bison Steve Wochy paced Buffalo with a pair of tallies. Gord Pennell, Gaye Stewart and Harry Taylor were the other Buffalo goal-getters. Fred Glover, Cal Stearns and Ray Ceresino scored for Barons.

Playing at home, Pittsburgh jumped in their lone tally early in the third period as they went down to defeat. George Ford scored the two Syracuse goals, Andy Barbe tallying for the losers.

Braves Nip Royals To Hold Lead In Quebec Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Valleyfield Braves are still in first place, two points ahead of Ottawa Senators, after a full slate of games Wednesday in the Quebec Hockey League.

The Braves downed Montreal Royals 4-1 while Ottawa whipped last-place Springfield Indians 2-0. Quebec Aces outscored Chicoutimi Saguenens 4-2.

Two goals by Gordie Haworth turned the trick for the Braves. Larry Kwong and Andre Corriveau also scored for the victors. Lorne Davis' tally saved Montreal from a shutout.

In Ottawa, Bill Johnson and Jerry Foley were the Senator counts.

At Quebec, veteran Ray Powell's pair of goals gave the sub-plodders Aces to their victory over Chicoutimi. Jean Guy Gendron and Normie Dussault of Chicoutimi picked up singletons.

Sets Canadian Track Record

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doug Kyle, 21-year-old university student, ran against a cold wind and a steady drizzle Wednesday to set a Canadian six-mile track record of 31 minutes 4.10 seconds.

Officials of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, which sanctioned the event, said Kyle's performance was the fastest run in North America this year. The old Canadian mark of 31:18.1 was the time which was set by Selwyn Jones of Montreal in 1950.

Kyle ran second for six laps, then took the lead and steadily pulled away from the field. His final mile, timed at five minutes, 14.40 seconds, was the fastest of the six.

Kyle's chosen all-Canadian for the two-mile position on the AAU 1953 all-Canadian track team.

Name Canadian Swim Coach

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Swimming Association said Wednesday it has chosen Percy Norman of Vancouver as coach of Canada's swimming team for the 1954 British Empire Games here.

Norman, coach of the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club, coached Canada's team at the 1938 Olympics in Berlin.

R. H. Kirkpatrick of the British Columbia branch of the CASA said Roy Ashworth of Montreal, past president of the CASA, has been named team manager. Mrs. Edna K. Worth of Toronto was chosen chaperone.

Jean Beliveau Marks Return With Goal Against Toronto

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jean Beliveau scored a goal Wednesday night. He looked somewhat terrific in doing it.

Le Gros Bill was ushered into the National Hockey League this year with perhaps more publicity than ever before attended a rookie. He had the biggest contract ever paid a freshman by Montreal Canadiens. He was the new Maurice Richard.

But he spent most of this season in hospital. Beliveau played his 10th game with Canadiens Wednesday night when the Montrealers battled to a 3-3 tie against third-place Maple Leafs in Toronto.

The 22-year-old Quebecer scored against goaltender Harry Lumley at 16:31 of the second period. The goal had Richard, Montreal's great rightwinger, written all over it—and the 13,511 fans knew it.

It was Beliveau's third goal of the season and the Montreal Canadiens into a 2-0 edge, a lead they frittered away before the end of the game.

The game, the only one Wednesday night, was the fourteenth of the season.

BELLEVILLE (AP)—Gen. William Bridgeford, chief executive officer of the 1956 Melbourne Olympics, said today that if the games are taken from Australia now the move might wreck the entire world Olympic structure.

At the same time he expressed confidence that Melbourne would retain the events despite a movement to shift them because of Australia's determination not to relax animal quarantine laws.

Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the International Olympic Committee, said in London Wednesday that unless these laws are relaxed to permit the holding of equestrian competitions the site of the games may be changed.

Brundage said the Olympic rules state that all Olympic events except the winter games must be held in the same city.

NO PROBABLE CHANGE

"We are sure that international Olympic Committee will be meeting in Athens May 11 will uphold the decision made in Mexico City that the games shall not be moved," Brundage," said Bridgeford.

"We have no intention of giving up the games and I don't think we are going to lose them."

Bridgeford said there has been agitation among a small group of Olympic officials for the games from Melbourne because of the expense involved in bringing teams to Australia.

"If the job is done I'm sure there will be international repercussions, and I fear the whole world-wide Olympic movement will be endangered."

Bridgeford said he is certain there would be no easing in the laws which demand six months' quarantine for horses being brought into Australia.

"This is a law of long standing to protect the health of Australian livestock which is now disease-free. I'm certain on old law like this they will be obliged just for Olympic expediency."

Olympic Games Might Be Wrecked If Taken from Australian Setting

Mr. Zatopek Does Not Choose to Run

NEW YORK (AP)—Emil Zatopek Czechoslovakia's triple Olympic champion, was invited today to run in indoor track meets in the United States this winter.

After learning that Zatopek, winner of the 5,000-, 10,000-metre and marathon titles at the Helsinki games, would compete in the New York Athletic Club's Sao Paulo, Brazil, the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union asked him to return via the United States and run here.

A reply was received Wednesday from the organization governing track and field athletics in Czechoslovakia, which said:

"Thanks but regret invitation not acceptable. Zatopek not competing on indoor tracks."

Fair conditions are reported at Kitchener; fair to good at North Bay and poor to fair at Dagmar, Ont., other points reported no skiing due to lack of snow.

Barrie Flyers Win 5-4 Over Dutchies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barrie Flyers, former cellar-dwellers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, have chalked up almost a perfect score in their last three outings.

Barrie's 5-4 win Wednesday night over the Kitchener Greenshirts advanced them to sixth place and gave them five out of a possible six points in three starts. Bottom place on the ladder now belongs to Galt, two points behind Barrie.

The Flyers were leading 1-0 in the middle frame and were up front 4-1 before the Greenshirts rallied to outscore the Flyers 3-1 in the third.

Barrie goals were scored by Johnny Marsden, with two, Bob White, Don Cherry and Jimmy Robertson. Scorers for Kitchener were Greig Hicks with two, Gary Collins, and Lou Jankowski.

Sport in Brief

LONDON (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, announced Wednesday that a collision of Australian law and Olympic rules still may force the 1956 games out of Melbourne and into a European or Asian city.

However, Otto Mayer, chancellor of the IOC, said today that he didn't believe the majority of the committee will agree to a demand to have the games moved from Melbourne. Mayer, of Lausanne, Switzerland, is a former Minister of France. Angelo Bolaski of Greece and Prince Peter Simeon of Bulgaria have asked for the shift because of Australia's quarantine laws. Avery Brundage, en route from Chicago to Europe for a meeting of executives of the IOC at Lausanne, Jan. 16, said at London airport: "The problem of difficulties making ready for the 1956 games, 18 cities, including Rome, Budapest and Lausanne, have offered sites for the games.

"Seven American cities already have offered. I do not want to say which cities are out of the list, as it is yet undecided."

Brundage, while discussing an earlier interest included Los Angeles, spoke of the other games, Philadelphia, Chicago and New York.

DETROIT (AP)—Who is the best goalie in the National Hockey League?

Jack Adams' answer was direct, surprising and definite. "Harry Rollins of the Chicago Black Hawks."

Adams, general manager of Detroit Red Wings, explained his answer:

"Rollins is more valuable to his club than any other player in the league. Without him they probably would have dropped out of the league."

OXFORD, O. (AP) — Walter (Smokey) Alston, new manager of Brooklyn Dodgers, said Wednesday baseball players are better than the old ones and also are gentlemen.

"They are not the rough characters they used to be, Alston said he," he told the Oxford Kiwanis Club. "They have three years of high schools and colleges and are gentlemen from the start."

Former skipper of Montreal Royals in the International League, Alston was appointed Brooklyn manager several weeks ago after Charley Dressen was fired to make a new contract which covered only the 1954 season.

CHICAGO (AP)—Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League Wednesday announced the purchase of Bobby Hull, Hillsbrad brand from New York Rangers. Terms of the deal could be paid $7,500 for Hildebrand's contract.

Hildebrand started with the New York Rangers in New Westminster, B.C., where he was also a lacrosse star.

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said Wednesday the International Weight Lifting Federation has recognized lightweight Nikselai Kosylev's lift of 118.5 kilograms as a world record.

The radio said Kostylev, 22, set the record in Moscow during a special snatch in Poland last autumn and in the 181b official weight record held by Soviet weightlifters.

NEW YORK (AP)—Maj. Sammy Lee, two-time Olympic platform diving champion, was awarded the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy as the outstanding United States amateur athlete of 1953.

Lee, born of Korean parents in California, is attached to an army evacuation hospital at Seoul, Korea as an earcone-throat specialist.

The award is presented to "the amateur athlete who, by performance, example and good influence, did the most during the year to the good of sport sommanship during the year."

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

FOR FRIDAY, JAN. 1, 1954

MAY YOU HAVE A BLESSED AND BOUNTIFUL NEW YEAR!

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Quickly but thoroughly scan the pages of this past year. Find where you erred; resolve firmly to do better. Criticize others less; show a willingness to assume responsibilities.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — New Year's Day should not be taken lightly or new resolutions made without a responsible attitude. We should start with a clean slate, seriously, prayerfully and, with stout heart, build anew.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — There should be a new spirit born within you now. Keep hopes high, purpose strengthened by faith in God.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may have been taxed throughout the past year with heavy problems, much work; but your own fair and humorous nature will come to the fore again. Plan and work for fine results in 1954.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Outlook for 1954 has promise but also urges alertness and steadfast application of your talents and capabilities. Pray for guidance.

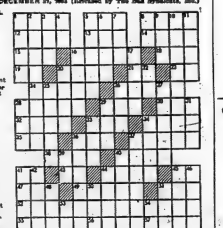
August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—What you do, you usually do thoroughly. Don't be too set in your ways. Try modern and improved methods, materials, new ideas, etc. Forward!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Read Taurus and Virgo. The same advice is applicable to you. At this beginning of a new year erase the blunders of the past and, asking God's help, start afresh toward new goals.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Enjoy today sanely, wisely, and think of the year ahead as a new chapter in which you can add fresh laurels, make progress of real value. Correct faults; cultivate your finer qualities.

November 24 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—We all must have drive and incentive to advance in these highly competitive times, but we must also have consideration for our health and others' rights, feelings. Tact important.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Humor and commonsense are good helpmates. This year it will be beneficial to keep them with you always. Blessings!



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You can concentrate on essential issues and yet not neglect personal charm. Kindly attentions to family and those to whom you are indebted. Outlook good but you must help.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Read Capricorn, please. You have inborn humility, a valuable asset, and you have talent and capability beyond your own beliefs. This year ahead can be a prosperous one—if you will it so.

YOU BORN TODAY re sturdy, dependable; may have unusual talent for mechanics, invention, machinery generally. Many noted surgeons and soldiers were born in Capricorn. Occasionally too serious, you should allow your humorous side to have a chance. Self-reliance, persistence and industry are yours and often propel you to success ahead of others. Do not be too exacting. Remember, none of us likes being dominated. Never permit moodiness to take hold; it can hinder progress, injure happiness.

Birthdate: Paul Revere, Amer. patriot and engraver; Anthony Wayne, famous Amer. soldier.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 2, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Your first business look at the New Year! No reason why it should not be a big and better year. The determination is useless, however, unless followed through consistently with faith.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your planet is in generous aspect for a successful new day and year. Benefic rays can brighten your way but you alone can make them count. Be careful to avoid extremes.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — The year is but one day old, but have you been resolute in your intentions and efforts? Your life is what you make it. Spend some time doing good for others. Keep the New Year's spirit.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Enjoy these days and help those around you to enjoy it also; you'll feel the better for it. Stars in benefic aspect; keep pace with events, conditions to benefit.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Like Gemini, you can do yourself and others good today by harboring kind thoughts, keeping the New Year's spirit. If your mind is free and honest acts prevail, you'll win.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Generous outlook for you. Press your cause; be alert to good openings and you will reap just reward. Personal affairs can bring much happiness.

September 23 to October 23 (Libra)—A propitious day for most endeavors, for trade and sovereignty matters. Say earnestly that others may obtain what you have of God's blessings. Take time to smile, have some fun.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You be the one to advocate a more friendly attitude during this New Year. Let's thank God first for His grace to us, for our freedom, our countless blessings.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Stimulating rays today. Don't let outside influences sway you from your fine resolutions for 1954. It should, can be a benefic year.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Though you have worldly goods and are blessed with to be humble and contribute. Only loved ones you cherish, don't forget good can come from appreciation and consideration.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Have a planned schedule, take time to study and know what you are about. Time is of the essence now; it must not be brought back. Use it judiciously—always.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Your outlook improves now. Prepare, study, use natural instincts and broadenities well. Your chart indicates excellent aspects for business and personal matters.

IF YOU WORN TODAY are systematic, thrifty; seldom go overboard in financial matters; make excellent managers, buyers, brokers; are artistic, musical, usually conscientious educational activities. You dislike routine, like directing. You show interest in others' work. Don't resent others' interest in your affairs. If plans do not suit you, do not become moody or depressed; this does no good, only spreads gloom. You can make friends and keep them; are sensitive to criticism, are very practical. Cultivate your best traits, and success will be yours. Birthdate of: James Wolfe, soldier, victor of Quebec.

Eight Nominated For Premiership Boys' Parliament

LONDON, Ont. (CP) —Eight nominations for premier of next year's 44th Ontario Older Boys' Parliament were received. Election of the government leader will be held today.

Nominated were John Hilborn, Burwash, this year's minister of publications; Ian Coulter, Toronto, provincial secretary; Cameron Hall, Waterloo, minister of finance; Elly Bradley, Toronto, minister of devotional affairs; Stuart Howard, Kingsville, minister of national affairs; Darwell Welsh, Barrie, deputy speaker; Douglas Hammer, Kitchener, minister without portfolio; and Eric Snider, Stratford, leader of the opposition.

The position of premier for Ontario in the parliament, which represents 6,000 boys organized in Protestant church groups in Ontario, is considered one of the highest honors that can be conferred on any representative of a church group in the province.

Must Complete Course

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A memorandum from the Ontario department of education said that student teachers will not be given permission to teach until they have completed their courses.

Dr. F. C. Cannon, deputy minister of education, said in a letter to all school boards in Ontario that grade 12 students taking a special two-year course will not be allowed to teach at the end of their first year. He said many school boards had enquired about hiring student teachers.

The two-year course for grade 12 students was announced a year ago to help fill the need for elementary school teachers in Ontario.

Canada Exports New Record Of Nearly 600,000,000 Bushels

By A. R. GARRETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada exported an all-time record of nearly 600,000,000 bushels of grain in the 1953-54 crop year through her complex marketing system which involves government, private and co-operative agencies.

But there are huge stocks still on hand at the year end after the third successive bumper crop, and there are important new factors in the world market.

High-grade milling wheat is Canada's major grain export, but there has been no trading in wheat futures on the exchange since September 1943. The Canadian wheat board makes all wheat purchases and controls all wheat sales.

Since 1941 it also has handled oats and barley purchases but sells these grains through the World open futures market. Flax and rye trade in cents.

DAILY ANNOUNCEMENT

The board announces daily its prices for wheat sold under the International Wheat Agreement, outside the agreement (class two), and in the open market. It says either sells the wheat itself or approves sales through exporters and shippers.

Stanley Jones, president of the Winnipeg grain exchange, says this pricing system "artificial" and "monopolistic." He says it has failed to move abundant production into use. History recorded other attempts to control prices artificially and the paucity of future unsold stocks unsalable in surplus.

At the end of the 1952-53 crop year the four major exporting countries had a carryover of 1,261,000,000 bushels of wheat—about 80% amount of the previous year. Mr. Jones said the carryover next July could be 1,400,000,000.

He called for restoration of an open market in Canada and urged the government indicated no intention of changing.

LIVERPOOL TRADING

In Britain, trading in wheat futures was resumed on the Liverpool exchange Dec. 1 after a lapse of 14 years. Prior to 1939, the pool was the barometer of world wheat prices and Winnipeg trade sources said the move is more than an attempt to regain that role. Exchange officials said that two or three large surpluses were held by government agencies reduced the market's effectiveness in early sessions.

Another major factor in the world market was the swing from a situation favoring the seller to one favoring the buyer.

The wheat board, facilitating sales to the United Kingdom, announced a deferred price system. In some quarters this was regarded as a partial substitute for a Canadian wheat futures market.

Late in the year, the United States announced it would sell limited amounts of subsidized wheat to countries outside the U.S.S.R. Some observers thought this would be a heavy blow to Canada. Trade Minister Gardiner said it would mean competition—"no more than we had expected."

In January the board set export record for 1952-53 the board of grain commissioners which handles Canada's deliveries has 77,000,000 bushels above the previous record set in 1951-52.

The board said prices for IWA and class two wheat, oats, rye and flax averaged lower in the 1953-53 crop year than during the previous year, but barley prices were higher.

AVERAGE QUOTATIONS

The board gave the following average quotations for the year ended July 31 (cents per bushel):

Wheat (No. 1 northern) 194.81.75% (1.81¾); class two—2.16⅛ (2.23⅛).

Barley (2 CW) wheat board—80% (91⅛); grain exchange .79⅞ (.90¾).

Oats (2 CW 6-row) wheat board —1.39⅛ (1.35⅝); grain exchange 1.33⅝ (1.33⅝).

Rye (2 CW) grain exchange— 1.34⅝ (1.34⅝).

Flax (1 CW) grain exchange— 1.39⅛ (1.39⅛).

All prices are basis in store Fort William-Port Arthur.

One Passenger Dead as Sleeping Car Catches Fire on Speeding Train

Flames consume a transcontinental sleeping car at Pembroke, Ont., after 18 passengers had leaped through windows and doors to safety. One body was found in the aisle of the blazing car, one foot from the exit. The others, terrified by the smoke and flames which wakened them as the train sped through the night, jumped in their night attire into the freezing pre-dawn air as soon as the train was stopped. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

135 PoW of 4,385 Checked Asked Return to Red China

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Indian troops today made a near-record head count of Chinese war prisoners in their custody, and 135 of the 4,385 checked asked to return to Communist China.

An Indian spokesman emphasized that the count was not a screening and did not substitute for interviews which begin Jan. 23. However, Indian guards gave prisoners wishing to return home every chance to ask for repatriation.

There was no indication when the count would be extended to the pro-Communist north camp which holds 28 Americans, one Briton and a large group of South Koreans.

The 135 Chinese returnees comprised 3.1 per cent of today's total, approximately the same as for the 16 days when prisoners attended explanations.

Officially the count was made to give the Indian command an opportunity to check its prisoner rosters and to find out exactly how many captives it holds.

The Indian spokesman said "any requests for repatriation must be regarded as entirely incidental to the head count." But observers said the method used approached a de facto screening.

PRISONERS COUNTED

Prisoners walked one at a time into the wire-enclosed corridor where the spokesman read and handed a piece of paper on which each wrote his name and serial number.

The prisoners were kept several feet apart as they moved past the "chicken run" to a gate where they handed the slip of paper to an Indian officer for checking against a master roster.

Each prisoner was alone with the officer for several seconds, long enough to ask to go back to China if he wished.

Approximately 20,000 anti-Communist prisoners and 100 pro-Communists, including the American and British, will be interviewed during the 30 day period provided by the Indian screening team.

The Communists interviewed 3,173 of 22,400 Chinese and Korean captives during a 30 day period and won back 138. Allied explainers talked to 250 South Koreans, and all elected to remain with the Communists.

Life Among The Date Palms

(By B. HEFFNER in The Recorder Weekly, Lacombe).

Before reaching Marbelles, I first visited the oasis towns of Algeria and Tunisia, where I saw some of the date-palm gardens reputed to be the finest in North Africa.

I travelled down by native bus from Algiers which, if one ignores the appalling squalor of the Casbah, the notorious native quarter, is a town of bright, modern buildings and shops, not unlike some of the less ostentatious resort towns in the South of France.

My destination was Biskra, a fair-sized little south, and my daily bus starts its fourteen-hour journey at the hotel door in the morning. It was pitch dark, and raining, when I reached the assembly point, a dingy little house facing the quay from a depressing, if little terrace at the bottom of a long flight of steps. Very few passengers, I was told use this method of transport—and is I ever do the journey again, I for one, will certainly go by rail.

ARAB QUEUE

I was hemmed in a somewhat clandestinely queue of Arab travellers. Fine-looking men they were, some of them, and most impressive looking in their burnooses and turbans. The women, looking in the half-light like fantastic wraiths or members of the Ku Klux Klan, covered, except for a little opening at the eyes.

We started our journey as dawn was breaking. So far so good, I thought, but what I didn't realize was that the bus stops at villages en route and picks up more passengers but depositis none. In less than two hours the boat was almost unbearable.

Built for forty passengers, the bus was already carrying sixty—to say nothing of the miscellaneous items of luggage; personal belongings done up in huge sacks or crudely-knotted white sheets; pappy and string. Chickens . . . goats . . .

SCATTERED.

With a penetrating "honk-honk" we scattered the villagers who milled about the streets in great crowds. We also saw the usual sights of native poverty. As we drove deeper into the country, we noticed that the French architecture, so prevalent in Algiers, was giving way to the purely native style; little cubic, dice-like structures made of mud and straw. Here and there a tall and lanky agineny devil fish on the floor of the ocean, and pop said to ma. Do

That Arab nomads have crossed the desert on a handful of dates is not surprising. For modern analysts have established that this fruit has the highest content in natural sugar, magnesia salt, phosphate and vitamins A and B.

FOOTHOLD.

The tree has no branches, only leaves, some of which may stretch to a grassful semicircle of 20 ft. or more. And the trunk is nothing but a series of pruned leaf stems which provide a excellent foothold for the agile native date-catherers, who make the steep vertical climb with less trepidation than you and I when negotiating the horizontal thoroughfare of Piccadilly Circus.

Every part of the date-palm is used — the midribs of the leaves for the crates and furniture, the leaflets for basketry, the leaf bases for fuel, and the stalks for rope. The fibres are used for cordage and packing material.

The date is really a berry, for the "stone" is the seed itself, not a protective covering as in the cherry or coconut. The embryo is embedded in this horny endosperm which is a store of carbohydrate food in the form of cellulose. The seed-coat which we enjoy is nature's means of dispersal of the seed.

Either the date is carried off, or lowered to the ground, and eaten, the "stone" being discarded, or if the whole is swallowed, the "stone" will pass through the animal or bird's body undamaged.

ARTESIAN WELL.

Few people seem to be aware that just as the greatest opportunity in France is devoted on largely to the grape, little North African town owes its fame to the vineyard and Tozeur and Suzeur have sprung up round the date industry, which has gran flourishing after the first artesian well was bored in 1856.

When they have been picked, the dates are stacked in wooden boxes, 30 lbs to the box, and have been sent over from Marseilles. These are conveyed by camel and mule to the forwarding stations and are driven from there by lorry to the port of Biskra, from where they are carefully inspected and shipped to Marseilles.

Back in Marseilles, the boxes are unloaded by the native dock, nut-brown contents, sawn up and sent to feed the giant boilers which provide the steam for the sterilization and humidity processes by which the dates are subjected. Pretty local Marseilles girls, with powder on their noses, sit at long benches, sorting, grading and packing the fruit and, to satisfy the Muslim trade, inspected to get a crisp, new hand-towel every fifteen minutes throughout the day.

Slaying Suspect Now Believed To Be Innocent

GREEN RIVER, Wyo. (AP)—A fingerprint check apparently was all that saved Raymond Wes Rapps, 26, and freedom today as officers pushed their search for a slayer elsewhere.

Burns, an unemployed railroad fireman, has been held here for investigation in connection with the Dec. 8, 1952, slaying of a Buffalo, N. Y., jeweler. But sheriff Mike Maher said Burns gave "satisfactory" answers Wednesday to questions provided by Buffalo police.

He said Burns apparently is cleared of suspicion, but will remain in the county jail pending receipt of fingerprints submitted to Washington.

Maher said Burns answered the description of Ralph Grubbich, 30, of Windsor, Ont., named by two companions convicted at Buffalo of first-degree murder as the bandit-slaying of Jeweler Donald F. Hurd. The companions, Maurice Dell and William Griffes of Windsor, Ont., are awaiting execution at Sing Sing.

Province-Wide Potato Board Is Advocated

SHELBURNE (CP)—Importance of a province-wide potato marketing organization was stressed to 60 Ontario potato producers attending a short course at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Ralph Davison, secretary of the Shelburne association, said "only through a well-knit setup following a definite quality-marketing programme can Ontario potato producers hope to establish their product in firm competition with outside suppliers, particularly the Maritimes."

Ernest Krauss of Timmins said that due to preferential freight rates and the seaboard floor price of 60 cents a 75-pound bag, the Maritimers could sell their potatoes on the northern market for less cheaper than home producers.

The growers Wednesday toured the processing plant at the Dufferin Co-Operative Potato Growers Association in Shelburne.

New Form Municipal Govt. Comes Into Being on Friday

TORONTO (CP)—A new form of municipal government, first of its kind in Canada, comes into being Friday in the Toronto area. It will govern one-tenth of Canada's population.

Officially called the Municipality of Metropolitan Toronto, it will plan and carry out the development of essential services for 1,000,000 persons who live in 240 square miles of one of Canada's fastest-growing areas.

The thousands of new residents and scores of industries have invaded Toronto and its 12 surrounding municipalities since the war. The population, now more than 1,000,000 strong, brought on common problems that the new administration hopes to solve.

Known as the metropolitan council, as the new government is known, will be represented by the 13 municipalities for arterial roads, hospitals, finance, transportation, sewage, water and parks. It will administer these services rather than the combined populations of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Previously each municipality was surrounded with boards with two representatives on the metropolitan council and will retain its own elected government to look after purely local matters.

MAN HEAD ORGANIZING

Heading it is Fred Gardiner, 58-year-old Toronto lawyer who was chosen elected chairman on a platform wholly opposed to the municipal co - operation on which the new system is based.

"The council expects to spend more than $200,000,000 in 1954," he says, "this will grow to an annual budget of more than $300,000,000.

Plans for the next few years include $24,000,000 to be spent on education, $60,000,000 on sewers and water, and an unestimated amount, probably upwards of $50,000,000 on arterial roads.

In 1957 and 1958, Mr. Gardiner won election as reeve of Forest Hill on a platform of opposition to any form of metropolitan government in the Toronto area.

Now he lives in this suburbs grew, his views changed. In 1954, as warden of York county in which all the municipalities are located, he was advocating co-operation to solve the mounting problems of new problems.

In 1949 he refused to stand for re-election in Forest Hill. He had reversed his bolshie stand and took to the public platform to plump four out-and-out amalgamation.

SET UP THIS YEAR

A workable solution to Metropolitan Toronto's problems didn't appear until early this year. In January the Ontario municipal board rejected an application from suburban Mimico for joint administration with Long Branch. It proposed instead a metropolitan council of all 13 municipalities.

The Ontario government acted on the municipal board's recommendation and made it the basis of the Toronto Metropolitan Act, passed by the legislature in April.

Premier Frost picked Mr. Gardiner, $15,000-a-year chairman's post, and he immediately began a nine - month program of meetings with the help of his new leagues—Toronto's mayor, two controllers, the reeves of suburbs, four mayors and eight reeves of the 13 surrounding municipalities.

Funds for the council's projects, which include a multi-million-dollar expressway along the Toronto waterfront, will be provided jointly by the municipalities and the Ontario government.

Little Benny's Note Book

I got a deef sea diving outfit for Christmas, but I wasn't allowed to wear it at dinner tonite, but I put it on rite afterwards, and I was crawling around under the living room furniture looking for some agineny devil fish on the floor of the ocean, and pop said to ma, Do you remember the old saying that presents that children got in the old days? A good stout pair of storm shoes used to brighten the whole holiday season for me, he said.

My yes, I thought there was nuthing grander than a nice warm woolen muffler, but nowadays nuthing much does the trick except a deefsea outfit, he said, and I said, Well heck, ma, I'll bet there's some useful present this year. Three of them got plastic space patrol helmets just like the ones now we can get up a space patrol club. What's more useful than a helmet that keeps on meeting and never wears out as long as the members stay alive? I said.

Very practical indeed, pop said, and I said, I wonder what I'll get a bullet proof vest and us fellows can have a secret agent hun all our mite. How's that for useful, in case we have to throw hand grenades some time? I said.

Oh, wonderful, ma said. and I said, And how about Puds Sinkit's Clyde Kelly death ray gun? You can't say that's not useful for anybody that ever expects to get in an atomic war, I said.

That chicken for, we've won your case, pop said, and ma said, For goodness sakes yes, you can stop rite there.

I wouldn't forget to dubble bolt the door and lock all the windows well tonite, pop said. We mite as well all enjoy a useful good sleep, he said.

Being the end of the subject.

Bill Boss Finds Even Haircut Is Affair of State in Moscow

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP)—Even a haircut is an affair of state in Moscow.

The barbers in the Metropole and other hotels accommodating foreigners are under the strict authority of foreign trade. Elsewhere, they work for the Moscow Soviet, somewhat in the manner of Canadian police and firemen who are on city payrolls.

I wanted a neck clean-up and a little off the sides. I can't spare a millimetre off the top.

So when my turn came in the barber shop I let the perpetual chess game which waiting customers keep going at the table in the centre of the floor, and took my chair.

I said "nyem-sogo" which literally means "just a little." I thought the word was the diplomatic way of saying "just a trim."

THIN WOMAN'S FOOD

He apparently thought I wanted just a little and never got the word to a barber again.

There were eight chairs, four in a row, two rows. Each has newly leather armchairs in the middle beneath the chrome fittings. Mirrors, including the comb, were of steel, but they were hardly operated. The appointments suggested 1910.

Barbers work a 10-hour day, including two hours for meals, and have a day off every two days' work.

My haircut cost one rouble and 90 kopecks—about a dime at the official rate of exchange.

COLD PERMANENTS

Additional men's services included:

Cold permanent wave, 2.50 rubles; tinting beard and moustache, 1.25 rubles; manicuring, 1.25 rubles; drying, 1.25 rubles.

Most women here have long hair. Tinting with chemical dyes costs 25 rubles for long, 18 for short hair. Shampoo for the same costs 10 rubles.

Manicures for men and women alike are 2.50 rubles and popular. Hairdressers and beauty parlor 'operators' salaries are governed by the amount of work they do, which is controlled by comparison with the state of 500 rubles ($125) a month. The manager of the barber and hairator earns 2,500 rubles ($625) a month and the rest average 1,000 rubles ($250).

Canadian Farm Cash Income $1,901,500,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian farm cash income totalled $1,901,500,000 for the first nine months this year, a record for the period, the bureau of statistics reported.

The figure includes income from sale of farm products and from participation payments on pre-1953 Nova Scotia's crops. It does not include Newfoundland.

The amount for the January-September period is four per cent above the corresponding 1952 figure of $1,827,800,000 and nearly two per cent above the 1951 figure.

The bureau said the record level of farm cash income was the attributed primarily to the "unusually large" level of wheat delivered by producers during the January-September period this year at weighted average initial prices higher than a year ago.

GRADING AWAY UP

Net result was that total income from grains, seeds and hay rose to an estimated $713,900,000, about 16 per cent above the $614,200,000 figure for the first nine months of last year.

Smaller receipts from other field crops such as tobacco, vegetables and potatoes provided a major offset to the total increased returns from grain crops. The great decline was in income from potatoes, which dropped about 56 per cent as a result of lower prices.

Returns from livestock and poultry were placed at $542,600,000, about one per cent below the 1952 level. Returns from cattle and calves rose to $250,300,000 from $237,900,000, increased marketings more than compensating for lower prices.

Poultry income was about five per cent higher at $75,900,000. But returns from sale of hogs fell from $232,900,000 to $211,200,000. Sheep and lambs brought slightly lower returns.

DAIRY PRODUCTS GAIN

Receipts from dairy products rose to $304,500,000 from $292,300,000 in the first nine months last year due to higher production. Egg income rose from $70,750,000 to $80,900,000.

Farm cash income rose in only three provinces—Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Cash income for the nine months in Ontario was down $13,213,000. The 1953 figure was $335,884,000.

The Question Is Answered

By ROY L. THOMAS.

From the first day that man became conscious of his own existence and began searching for the meaning of life he has been asking "What is truth?" In Jesus of Nazareth the Christians offer the answer.

The Gospel of John in the New Testament was written by one of the first disciples, and in the personal records, earned the title "the beloved disciple." In his work pel together and published in the ancient city of Ephesus which was a city second only to Athens as a center of learning in that ancient day.

On the streets of Ephesus and in its great lecture forum one might have met and heard the foremost scholars and philosophers of the time. It was a century during which a wide variety of religions were striving for acceptance, some of which were fantastic and others of which had a high degree of piety and scholarship to commend them.

A SUPERIOR FAITH.

The pastor of the little Christian church in Ephesus was under the necessity of meeting the competition of the "mystery religions" and pagan cults. He had to prove to the cultured and learned citizens of Ephesus that the faith he preached was somehow superior. It had answers and explanations were to the age-old questions of life which men ask. In doing so he developed as his theme the central thought of which appears in this week's Golden School lesson. "The Word become flesh and dwelt among us."

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for January 3: "God revealed in Christ," John 1:29, 30-31.

A highly philosophical proposition, widely accepted by the learned and the thoughtful that day, had been put forward by a Jewish philosopher named Philo who deserves to take rank with the greatest thinkers of the ancient world. It declared that an "emanation" came from God and moved about among men bestowing, persuading, affecting, guiding and controlling. That emanation proper noun upon this idea and, appropriating the name which had been given to the "emanation" the "Word" — declared that was what Jesus Christ actually was.

DECLARED JESUS' PEER.

No other writing produced by the Christians has so completely dominated their thinking, and no other work of the New Testament has been so influential in shaping Christian doctrine, as the Fourth Gospel. It has done more to shape Christian theology than all other sources combined, perhaps. This author was one of the most unique and profound minds the field of religion has known. His proposition that Jesus of Nazareth was "the Word" made flesh — God taking the form of a man — is the clearest declaration of the deity of Jesus we have.

The implications are profound. It means that when Jesus spoke, God was speaking. As he lived, judged, God was judging. When Jesus loved, God was loving. For these reasons Christians declare, "If you want to know what God is like, look at Jesus."

FIX EYES ON JESUS.

It sometimes happens that men become confused on the subject of God because they fix their eyes on the Church which is a purely human institution, divinely commissioned, perhaps, but human nevertheless. There need not be any confusion if we will keep our thoughts fixed on Jesus of Nazareth. It is to him the Church said to his students, one day, pointing to a picture of the crucifixion, "There's my God."

From that position no Christian need ever fear he will be compelled to retreat.

Soviet Communists Have Explanation for Everything

This is the fourth of a series of documented and revealing articles by William L. Ryan, a former specialist in Soviet affairs returned from three months in the Soviet Union. A fifth article, summing up his impressions, will appear Saturday.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Soviet Communists have a ready explanation for almost anything.

Are women doing the heaviest of hod? It's because they have "equal rights."

Are a surprising number of people going to the churches? Only old people really attend any more, and besides there is "freedom of religion."

But for the many beggars seen in the capitals of the Soviet Union, there is a unique explanation. They are all "professionals."

Some of these "professional" beggars looked miserable. A young mother in Stalinabad, capital of the Tadjik republic, sat on a curb, nursing her baby. There was agony in her face as she cried for alms.

Another young mother she couldn't have been more than 18 sat on a landing in the big department store on Lenin street in Kiev, capital of the Ukraine. She, too, clutched her baby in her arms and begged for kopeks. Most of the crowd of shoppers passed her by without a glance.

MANY BEGGARS

I walked extensively through a half dozen Soviet cities and found many beggars of all ages. I asked about them and each time was told they were professionals. Often that seemed quite possible since they were congregated near the few churches still in operation, their hats on the ground beside them, seeming quite sure that the church's law of charity would work in their favor.

It seemed impossible to get any accurate information on why these people do this in a society where it is law outlawed poverty. Beggars in Moscow often live in streets and alleyways. Police try to find shelter at times in the metro (subway) stations. Police in Moscow frequently are seen turning them out in the small hours of the morning. Some live in cellars near or next to a church, or in tumbledown shacks outside city limits.

I found beggars in every city I visited. In Alma Ata, the snow-bound capital of Kazakhstan, many congregated at the end of Kalinin street near the still-operating Russian orthodox church.

MANY IN TASHKENT

In Tashkent, capital of the Uzbek republic, some of the crippled beggars on Lenin street had homemade means of transportation on skateboards on wheels. I counted 18 beggars on one afternoon in a single half hour's walk along Pushkin street, where there are many new apartments. I saw hundreds of men working together. I saw one ancient bearded man holding a little girl to his arms, apparently as a decoy, shouting for help from the child looked half starved.

In Tbilisi, capital of Georgia, a land where beggars rarely congregated at a big Georgian orthodox church just off the main street, in Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, beggars were in evidence in a single half hour's walk along Pushkin street, where there are many new apartments. I saw hundreds of men working together. I saw one ancient bearded man holding a little girl to his arms, apparently as a decoy, shouting for help from the child looked half starved.

In Tbilisi, capital of Georgia, a land where beggars rarely congregated at a big Georgian orthodox church just off the main street, in Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, beggars were in evidence in a single about the entrance to Andreevsky Cathedral, still in operation as a place of worship. They bunched by Lavra, the ancient Ukrainian seminary in the heart of Kiev. A lame tottering old beggars along Shevchenko street and Lenin street, two of Kiev's main thoroughfares.

In Moscow there are beggars to be found in many places, but once again particularly around places of worship. They are found at the main Jewish synagogue, on Arbat street, still in the operation, and about the 20 or so churches still in operation.

Communists insist all this represents only the remnants of the old Russia. They talk much about 30 years ago. The churches, too, are placed in that category.

Heir to Earldom Has New Job In Circus Side Show

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Glenorchy, 34-year-old heir to an earldom who has just been released from jail, settled down today to a new job—assistant to a clairvoyant in a circus side show.

"It's a dear chap," the six-foot peer said, "it last life seems to be working out for me. It's good to be on top of the world again, especially after serving nine months in prison for a week."

Glenorchy, former major in the Black Watch infantry regiment, was imprisoned for failure to pay £100 maintenance allowance due his wife under an official separation order.

"A benefactor paid for me," Glenorchy said. He added that it was not his first term in jail—a Swedish and Holland.

The aristocrat starts work at the circus tonight. In the past he has been a tailor, a baggage-porter and a Christmas pantomime and a bartender.

His new boss is blonde Valerie Sinclaire, 37. "She has given me something to hope for," Glenorchy said. "I'll announce all her acts, play the bagpipes, wear my kilts and generally stand around, acting like a gentleman."

The thing that pleases the nobleman most is the fact that his bagpipes are out of pawn. "Got 'em back," he said with a big grin. "Delightful feeling, old boy."

Beavers Taken To New Quarters At Chester Zoo

CHESTER, Eng. (CP) — Four Canadian beavers today explored colder and healthier quarters in the Zoo here where they won't be in danger of catching pneumonia.

The Canadian expatriates were moved by a splashy, three-hour operation involving the Chester fire department, zoo keepers, a dozen citizens and a large crowd of prebeaver spectators.

The dam-building animals had borrowed quarters under the adjacent and tropically-heated reptile house during their six-year stay at the zoo. When they were outside in zero they were in danger of catching pneumonia. Two youngsters have died of the infection and a third was saved only by penicillin shots.

At one point during Tuesday's chase—part of which was pressed by perplexing firemen among onlookers—the beavers fused the lights and plunged the zoo into darkness.

However, the firemen pumped out their pool and the fugitives were flushed from their 90-degree, log-lined retreat into cages for transport.
